I. R. C. Lends 54 Books
On World Situation; A.C.E.
Gives Classics Volumes

A loan by International Relations club of fifty-four books and thirty-eight pamphlets on the world political situation received recently is the latest of a number of gifts and loans to Madison Memorial library, according to an announcement by Richard H. Logsdon, librarian. These will be catalogued as library-owned books and will remain indefinitely on a special shelf in the Browsing room. They will be regarded as are ordinary volumes in the stacks, circulating on a two-week basis.

The local organization of Association for Childhood Education has donated two volumes of children's classics with excellent illustrations, namely Skazki by Ida Zeitlin and Theodore Nadejen, and Jessie Wilcox Smith's Mother Goose. These are memorials to deceased former members, Dorothy Newman and Margaret Hastings. They will probably be in circulation at the beginning of the winter quarter.

Of historical interest and value are the minutes of the meetings of the Harrisonburg chapter of the Marshall Division Number 3, of the Sons of Temperance for the year 1844. The volume, in the original script, was a recent gift to the Madison collection by Dr. John W. Wayland, who is on leave of absence from the social science faculty. Dr. Wayland has been custodian of the book for Miss Nina Randolph of Harrisonburg, who donated it in 1910 for college use as soon as there should be set up a college museum.

Dr. Wayland has also added to the collection a set of Maury geographies, printed between 1891 and 1921 and written by Matthew Fontaine Maury, the Virginia geographer. A Journal of American History containing an article on Maury and a review of his (See Library, page 3)

According To The Breeze Files From 1922 Till—, These Are Facts, But Did You Know:

By Jo Anderson

That Jackson hall was the first dormitory to be built and that for some time after its construction it was known as the First Dormitory?

That chapel was first held in what is now the chemistry laboratory in Maury science hall? Later it was held successively in the Bluestone dining hall, Sheldon hall, and the big gym. The present auditorium in Wilson hall was dedicated May 15, 1930.

That Spotswood hall was named for General Spotswood, who was the first white man to see the beautiful valley of Shenandoah?

That the limestone rock on Bluestone campus is thought by geologists to be over seven hundred million years old?

That the first dining room was in the basement of Jackson? In those days they could never have pie because there wasn't room enough to spread them to cool in the cramped kitchen.

That Walter Reed hall was named for the discoverer of the cause of yellow fever, who lived in Harrisonburg in his boyhood?

That for years the motto of the Glee club was "We just opens our mous and hollers"?

That the original name of Stratford Dramatic club was Stratford Literary society?

That in 1917 there were only seven girls in the freshman class?

Cleveland Presents Items Of Madisonia To Library Today

Miss Elizabeth P. Cleveland presented to the Madison Memorial library in assembly on Friday three items of Madisonia which had been obtained through the Culpeper Alumnae chapter and Miss Corrie B. Macon Hill, great-great niece of President Madison. Mr. Raymond Dingledine, who conducted devotionals, presented a lancet which had been used in the Madison family.

The Alumnae chapter had obtained a photograph of Montpelier as it looked in Madison's time, before he had the wings added on each side. A spy glass which belonged to Madison's brother-in-law was received by Miss Cleveland from Miss Hill, through the contribution of Mrs. William Birney, for the library.

Miss Hill, who is much interested in preserving things which belonged to James Madison and his sister, is the person from whom the penknife which the Granddaughters club gave to the library last year and from whom the oldest document now owned by the library, a letter written by James Madison's father, were obtained. Miss Hill, now 97 years old, plans to visit the Madison Memorial library next spring.

A photograph of her was taken for the Alumnae chapter in Culpeper several weeks ago and a print of it will be hung in the library.

With Gene Bodine portraying the madonna, the annual Y. W. C. A. Christmas pageant, The Day Has Come, was presented in Wilson auditorium last night.

The pageant, which was compiled and directed by Marjorie Proffitt, president, retold the Christmas story in a naturalistic setting. Margaret Bixler was the narrator while Barbara Tillson was heard as an off-stage voice.

In the first scene, as three shepherds, played by Nancy Bailey, Ruth Lynch, and Betsy Ross, were sitting on a hillside warming themselves at a brazier of coals and watching their sheep, an angel, played by Julia Ann Flohr, appeared to them and announced the birth of the Christ Child, after which the three wise men, Peggy Schular, Eleanor Nolte, and Margaret Moore, followed the star of Bethlehem in their search for the child.

In the final scene, the wise men presented their gifts at the manger which was watched over by Mary and Joseph, portrayed by Margaret Hedges, and the three angels, Evelyn Ford, Marguerite Hull, and Julia Ann Flohr.

The music was furnished by the Y. W. choir, the Choral club and the Freshman chorus, with Evelyn Kuhnert at the organ. Louise McNair played a violin solo.

BELOVED FROM POLE TO POLE

They were right when they told us money wouldn't buy everything even though we were doubtful then. Where, right here on our own campus, can we purchase hours and hours of undisturbed sleep? Unless we can bribe a twin sister to go to our classes—and how many of us have twin sisters?—we have to do the job ourselves. We couldn't hope to pay off the faculty to keep it quiet on an allowance like ours; and we don't know where the administration has the "Please Excuse....." from the following classes" slips printed, so we lose out there! So we must snatch those few precious moments when we can.

Classroom sleepers are very brave people, especially the girl on the front row. She may be sly and crafty, shading her eyes with her hand, intent upon the printed page before her. But, alas, if her arm weakens and slips and her head falls suddenly forward! Others around her will notice and then the professor will see, so she needs must bring herself back from her beautiful state of nothingness.

Or she may be brazen and bold, she may loll at a maximum rate of comfort on her coat or on the shoulder of the person next to her whose duty it is to raise her finger to her lips pleadingly and whisper "sh-h-h she's asleep," at which the others will giggle and make other disturbing sounds.

We conduct this most popular of extra-curricular activities with no regard to person, place, or time, although there is she who feels that is best conducted in private, but who cannot find a room unoccupied and anything nearly resembling her bed. She may resort to the Browsing room, for what is a prettier picture than a college girl worn out from a hard day's work dozing cozily over a good book?

If she feels that she must be at home to relax, she will take to her bed without much hope, and sure enough, before long, in bound her roommates from the hockey game and play a mental game for her. She will sneak-out as politely as possible and seek the other side of her suite, if she lives in a suite, and fix herself comfortably when her suite-mates come in from the movie she's going to tomorrow and begin describing the ending. So she seeks the bathtub as a final resting place, but "Dear, I did just play hockey" puts an end to that.

It is then in desperation that she sleeps quietly against the door she is opening like us who are very sleepy.

Versaile New Chemistry Prof Sees Three Corners Of The World

To tell you that he's an excellent dancer and has charming manners does seem to be a rather frivolous way of introducing our new chemistry prof, but Dr. Joseph Schneider is an exceedingly versatile man. Still wearing his long laboratory coat after a session with the girls in freshman chemistry, he lit his "after-class" cigar and settled down at his desk for an encounter.

Dr. Schneider first came to America in 1922, having been born in Praha, Bohemia. "I was carrying on some research work in the Philippines, and after reading in the newspapers about sunny California, I wanted to visit the United States." So with visions of a land bathed in sunshine he took the boat for San Francisco.

"Alas," he said with a twinkle in his eye, "I was disappointed in your America." You see, his first impression was a rather foggy one—"But, of course when the sun came out I could find no fault; the newspapers were right."

He has been in America three times since that as a tourist, professor, delegate, and now as a resident, for in 1942 he will become a citizen of the United States.

Dr. Schneider has done considerable research both at home and abroad, having been connected with several departments of Institute of Technology at Praha, with the University of Chicago, and with a number of industries. His particular field is the technology of commodities which is comparable to the study of consumer's problems in America. In Europe this subject is an integral part of the curriculum of all schools of commerce.

As an expert in his field Dr. Schneider lectured at, and later was professor in the Graduate School of Commerce at Praha, and in 1927-28 was visiting professor in the department of economics and School of Commerce and Administration at Chicago university. In 1930 he returned to Praha where in 1935 he became dean of the Graduate School of Commerce there. He has been honored by membership in a number of scientific organizations.

If you should happen to ask Dr. Schneider what he thinks of Harrisonburg, a broad smile will accompany his answer. "In all my experience, I have never been so delightfully impressed. The people have such a spirit of spontaneous friendliness and helpfulness that Mrs. Schneider and I couldn't possibly feel like strangers."

Student Opinion Surveys Of America Polls Students' Views Of New Deal Project

Austin, Texas, Dec. 6.—Early in November the voters of the nation returned President Roosevelt to the White house for a third term. The New Deal, now in power for another four years, will probably grow more and more to be a permanent component of American economy. Which of its features should be continued? Which should be discarded?

College students have an interest in the kind of nation they will live in when they enter active citizenship. Student Opinion Surveys of America has polled a representative sample of the entire U. S. enrollment in order to arrive at an accurate measurement of college sentiment on this issue. Most collegians everywhere told interviewers that what they like about the New Deal is this:

1. The opportunities it has created for youth under C. C. C. and N. Y. A.

2. The security it has brought to the unfortunate aged.

The W.P.A. and the A.A.A., the poll shows, are scored by the greatest number of students as the most unsuccessful of all the alphabetical agencies. Failure of the administration to solve unemployment is the greatest shortcoming of the New Deal, one out of seven (15 per cent) believe.

Last April, when Student Opinion Surveys first gauged sentiment on the New Deal, college students sanctioned Uncle Sam's assumption of social guardianship. But comparison of those figures with the survey published today shows increased concentration of approval on the C. C. C., N. Y. A., and social security. Following are the percentages:

As the most successful agencies that should be continued—

Today April
C. C. C. was mentioned by 25% 20%
N. Y. A. was mentioned by 23 16
Social security was mentioned by 22 8

Other agencies were mentioned by 30 56

As the most unsuccessful agencies

Twenty New Girls Coached By Mann Tussle At 7 P. M. With Seeze's Old Girls

After two weeks of strenuous training, the old and new girls will meet for their traditional basketball tussle in Reed gymnasium tonight at 7 p. m. Although the new girls turned out a hundredfold, they have been weeded down to a select group of twenty, according to Marjorie Mann, college sports leader. This group is composed of both freshmen and transfer upperclassmen.

The old girls, led by captain and first string defense man, Marie Seeze, will have fifteen players in uniform, only three of which are lettermen from last year.

The twenty new girls, whose captain for the evening is D. Schaefer, forward, are: M. Willard, F. Wade, D. Fox, V. Shelor, A. Waldron, G. Pearson, E. Meeks, H. Peck, E. England, N. Grimes, forwards; M. Powell, E. Dalton, L. Reams, J. Johnson, E. Shaw, R. Smith, M. Blakemore, M. Christian, and M. Spencer, guards.

The probable line-ups will be:

Old Girls	New Girls
D. Fleischer	F. Wade
J. Godfrey	M. Willard
C. Albright	F. Wade
J. Haynes	M. Powell
L. Schaff	E. Dalton
M. Seeze	L. Reams

Other old girls who may see service are Mann, Turnes, Wilkerson, D. Pitts, Jacob, Hand, Sanford, Wince, Coleman, and Waddell.

Varsity-Men To Get Numerals

With the awarding of numerals to sixteen varsity men, and the announcement of the captain for the next year's squad, the '40 season of intercollegiate and class hockey will come to an official end at an informal dinner next Thursday night in Junior dining hall.

At the close of the dinner, numerals will be awarded to varsity players by Miss Helen Marbut, coach, while Charlotte Beville, college sports leader, will present emblems to the members of the class teams. Highlights of the evening will be the traditional ceremony of "handing over" the rabbit's foot from this season's captain, Frances Wright, to the newly elected team head, as yet unannounced.

As each varsity player receives her numeral, a suitable jungle of humor and description will be read for her. Those who are receiving these awards are: Anna Jane Pence, Eleanor Kash, Frances Wright, Dorothy Pitts, Jackie Turnes, Hannah Heath, Charlotte Beville, Johnny West, Marjorie Pitts, Dorothy Wilkinson, Emily Lewis, Margaret Moore, Virginia Dodd, and Dorothea Fleischer. Dodd, goalie, and West, half-back, are the only freshmen who will receive letters.

Approximately 75 players are expected to be given numerals.

Victorious Squad Defeats Sophomores And Juniors; Freshman Team A Loses

With two victories in their favor, the senior class team topped the hockey tournament which closed yesterday. Teams defeated by the victorious squad were the sophomores and juniors. The sophomores surrendered on Saturday afternoon while holding the seniors to the closest game of the series. Anna Jane Pence scored for the senior team in the first half.

Monday afternoon the junior and freshman Team A eleven's clashed, resulting in a victory for the junior team. The junior goal was made by Mildred Edney.

The senior-junior game was called at the half because of extreme cold. Seniors were leading with a goal by Frances Wright and one by Jeff Godfrey. By mutual consent on the part of the two teams, the seniors were awarded the game, 2-0.

The final game of the series was played yesterday afternoon between freshmen teams A and B. Ellen England scored for the B team. B won, 1-0.

Tomorrow afternoon two teams composed of members of the four classes will play in the traditional odd-even hockey game.

ACE Makes Toy Gifts For Rural Poor

With Christmas just around the corner, A. C. E. has turned its meetings over to making gifts for children, which will be distributed among the poor children of the rural schools.

Each member is working on some toy, which she is making from oil-cloth, yarn, or scraps of material. Among the things they are making are doll clothes, doll bed linen, stuffed animals, and yarn dolls.

A. C. E. will also conduct its annual Christmas drive for school supplies. Boxes will be placed in the dormitories next week into which students are asked to put any school supplies or old clothes that they wish to give away. These will be distributed among the rural and mountain schools.

Slaughter Addresses Sigma Phi Lambda

Robert E. Slaughter, head of the Business Education department, spoke to members of Sigma Phi Lambda, honorary scholastic organization, last night. Mr. Slaughter's topic was "Scholarship," its meaning and its importance to the youth of today, as well as to society as a whole.

"A scholar is a man thinking," was the classical definition given by Mr. Slaughter. He further defined a scholar as being a fusion of emotions, love, desires, and not governed entirely by intellect.

Mr. Slaughter suggested that women may be scholars as well as men, and that in being scholars, they may have also their homelife and other normal activities.

Sanders Attends SBEA Meeting

Lessenberry, Blanchard, Roemer Address 500 Teachers, Administrators

London A. Sanders, assistant professor of business education, attended the annual convention of the Southern Business Education association, held at the Andrew Jackson hotel, Nashville, Tennessee, November 28-30.

Approximately 500 business education teachers and administrators were present for the convention. Prominent speakers included Professor D. D. Lessenberry, of the University of Pittsburgh; Clyde D. Blanchard, of New York, editor of The Business World; Dr. Joseph Roemer, of Peabody college; Dr. Benjamin R. Haynes, of the University of Tennessee; Dr. Frederick G. Nichols, of Harvard university; and Dr. J. H. Dodd, of Mary Washington college.

The most thought provoking address was that of Dr. Roemer, "The Emergence of the Useful in Education."

In tracing the growth of secondary education during the past fifty years, Dr. Roemer declared that many of the students in the American schools are receiving a kind of education that they do not want and for which they are not fitted. This problem will be solved only when the old cultural, college preparatory course is redirected.
