Of the many recent busts for possession and sale of drugs in and around Harrisonburg, practically all have been for sales made to narcotics. Many of the unfortunate defendants were not dealers, but brothers and sisters sharing their stash with their new "friend," the narc. Some of the defendants were entirely unknown to the police as drug users or sellers prior to an isolated "sale"—sharing with an undercover agent. A sale is a sale, however, and it is a FELONY to sell in Virginia—whether grass, acid, buttons, or anything else.

Liberalized (?) laws on possession of a few joints of grass (it is now a misdemeanor) have misled many to think that laws on sale of all dope, and possession of drugs outside of grass, have also been liberalized. NOT SO! It is still a FELONY, IF YOU ARE CAUGHT TO PRISON. It is far better to remain a free human being and work for community pressure to change the law.

Until the law is changed, remember that the police, prosecutors, judges, and juries all say DOPE IS CRIMINAL. You may substantially reduce your chance of getting busted, without seriously altering your life style, if you keep in mind a few common sense suggestions:

1. Don't carry dope on your person or in the car if possible. Police may legally make a thorough search of your person and car as part of a valid arrest for ANY violation—even a broken taillight. If they find anything suspicious it will be too bad for you.

2. Don't keep your stash among your personal things. Possession is harbor for them to prove if the stuff is hidden in a semi-public place not directly under your control.

3. Don't sell or give away dope to anyone other than close, trusted friends of long standing. Do not sell or give away dope to people introduced to you through a friend, your friend may be trustworthy, but not careful enough.

Heroin use this technique with great success. Just because you have come someone turn on does not mean they are not a narc, and just because they may have served some time in prison does not mean they are not a narc now.

4. Remember that if you give or sell dope to a friend, and he gets busted, he may be forced to testify against you. The fight against self-incrimination—pleading the 5th Amendment—does not protect anyone except the witness him or herself.

5. Participating in any way in a sale may make you guilty, as an aider and abettor. Even if you just saw the deal, and the prosecution can prove you withheld information, you may be charged as an accessory.

6. Giving away or transferring dope is just as illegal as selling it for money. In sale cases, the quantity has NO legal significance. Except for grass, in possession cases, the quantity has NO legal significance.

7. Don't discuss anything in public which you do not want used against you in court someday. Indiscreet damaging statements may be used as evidence, even though hearsay.

8. Don't take hitchhikers across state borders or international borders if they are carrying. If dope turns up, the police may really hassle you and your auto, even though you personally are not guilty of anything.

Take care of yourself and stay free. It is hard on you, a bummer for your friends and loved ones, and a liability to your community if you are busted.

IF YOU GET BUSTED

2. Be observant. Take note of anything the police do. If you are required to give only your name and address, except for that, say nothing. Anything you say which is damaging will be used against you. Anything you say which is favorable will probably be forgotten. SAY NOTHING!

3. Request the right to call a lawyer immediately. Do not adopt the "wait and see" attitude. If you don't have a lawyer, call ACLU lawyer, John Lowe or Chief Gordon (office-296-8428, home phones, 296-0749 and 296-8063 respectively.) However, the American Civil Liberties Union CAN'T handle any drug busts unless a flatly illegal situation occurs, such as illegal search and entry of a house without a search warrant, etc. (But both lawyers listed above are excellent persons to have on your case regardless of whether the case is one of ACLU's or not.)

4. After you are booked, you will be locked up until arraignment, when the charges are read. At that time, bail will be set. Ask to be released on your personal recognizance ("PR") at this time. If you can't afford a lawyer, one will be appointed at this time. Cooperate with him in all respects.

5. Don't discuss your case with ANYONE except your lawyer. Your lawyer may not be called to testify against you, but anyone else can, including cell mates.

Each weekend at Madison College the bicycle population increases. Each is an investment to the owner yet these bicycles are hardly protected, leaving an avenue for someone to acquire a couple of these machines for fun and profit. Action has to be taken now if these bikes are going to survive.

One of the most important things is storage. To my knowledge there are only three bike racks behind Wilson, at the Student Center, and in the mall of Eagle and Shorts Dorms--and these do not take care of the already numerous bikes on campus. In Eagle Dorm a room is set aside for bikes, at my last count there were 24 bikes in this room. Due to this number I have to move 3 to 4 bikes just to get mine out. Another fallacy is that the room is unlocked.

Anybody could come in and borrow any number of bikes even though the rear wheel is locked.

A natural question is how about solutions. One is more bicycle racks, placed at strategic spots throughout campus. Yet the main problem is storage in dorms. There should be rooms set aside, equipped with racks which the bike can be locked to. These rooms should be locked with the possibility that each owner having a key. Another way of combating bike theft is having all bikes registered. On a 3 by 5 card there should be the owner's name, box number, telephone number, dorm, room number, and serial number of his bicycle. The owner, the head resident or housemother, and the security guards should have one of these cards. These are a couple of ways of protecting your bike.

People get action through unity. If you want action, have any suggestions, etc., contact Rowland Creamer at Box Number 446 or call 5981.

FALL OFFENSIVE

Washington (D.C.)--October 25 will bring five days of demonstrations, including mass, non-violent civil disobedience in Washington, D.C. People from all over the U.S. will converge here to demand that Nixon set a date for the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Here's the schedule of capital demonstrations:

Oct. 25 (Monday): People Arm
Price-Jape Preeze. A mass demonstration of the union and civil rights movement.

An effort is underway to have labor unions address the assembly by transcontinental phone.

Oct. 26 (Tuesday): Action Memorial Service. A national service in remembrance of those murdered at Attica. In a mass march to the White House, the protestors will demand the freeing of all political prisoners. If the government tries to prevent this White House service, the marchers will be prepared to engage in massive, non-violent civil disobedience.

Oct. 27 (Wednesday): Zap DPR (Family Assistance Plan) and the Consumer Action. A mass demonstration against the DPR will follow morning rallies and lobbying at the Departments of Labor and Commerce. Demand a $5,000 guaranteed annual income for a family of four, and an end to economic repression.

Oct. 28 (Thursday): Top Genocide in Bangladesh (East Pakistan.) Marches of "International Brigades" represent liberating movements throughout the world. It will go to the State Department and demonstrate against U.S. military aid to the government of West Pakistan.

Oct. 29 (Friday): Mass Eviction Notice. In a mass non-violent action demonstration at the White House, Nixon will be served notice that if he doesn't set the date to release all political prisoners, his eviction from power is imminent.

Eight days later, Saturday, November 6, mass marches and rallies protesting the war, racism and repression will be staged nationwide, including Washington, D.C.

The United Farmworkers Organizing Committee has called a nationwide boycott of all Safeway supermarkets to protest Safeway's attempt to break the Farmworker's Union. 5% of the grapes grown in the U.S. are still picked by union workers. Safeway has just ordered a large number of these grapes from the non-union growers and is holding a sale on all its stores in order to get rid of them.

The UFWO calls that its supporters refuse to patronize Safeway stores and if possible organize pickets in their communities. For more information call (202) 337-0511 or the UFWO representative near you.

Transcendental Meditation

Develops creative intelligence and in roves clarity of perception at all levels of experience.

It is practiced a few minutes morning and evening during which time the body gains deep rest while the mind expands in awareness.

It is unique and natural, insuring full development of the individual.

It can be easily learned and enjoyed by everyone.

PHYSIOLOGIC EFFECTS

During transcendental meditation the mind experiences added depth, breadth and clarity.

Attention, thought and change occur in the body which correspond to this refined mental activity.

Scientific investigation of this phenomenon has found that it: a state develops which is physiologically unique.

During TM, oxygen consumption, carbon dioxide elimination, cardiac output, heart rate and respiratory rate significantly decrease while skin resistance greatly increases.

The metabolic rate of the body is reduced by an average of 20%.

The technique is as ancient as mankind and is universal in its application. At this time in our history it is being brought to the world by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. Everyone is invited to start transcendental meditation and enjoy full development to an evolved state of life.

There will be a lecture on TM for all interested faculty, staff and students at the following time and place: Thursday, Oct. 26—Ballroom—Warren Campus Center—7:30 P.M. COME!!!
If S.G.A. is so concerned about student apathy, especially where voting for officers is concerned, then why does the S.G.A. sanction the use of a ballot system which is not secret? For the S.G.A. presidential election 496 students voted. Many of them signed the ballot. I did but then I began to think, this is definitely not a secret ballot.

Number of students whom I have talked to said that because of this signature stimulation they did not vote.

Apathy or Concern for Basic Rights?

On Tuesday March 16, 1971, the primaries for S.G.A. vice president were held. This time, instead of signing your name, the number of your ballot slip was placed by your name after presentation of your I.D. Card. I questioned this tactic and was told that this way the students did not have to sign their names.

Again, because of the practice of placing the ballot number by each name, some students refused to vote.

Apathy or Concern for Basic Rights?

On Wednesday and Thursday I asked as many people as I could to vote—to question the tactic of placing the ballot number by their name when they presented their I.D. card—to mark thru the number—and to vote.

When I went to vote Thursday I presented my I.D. Card and stated the girl found my name and began to put the number on the ballot slip name. I questioned this. I was told that it was in case of a disputed election. I asked if a student must present his I.D. card to vote and his name is marked off why they had to place the ballot number next to his name. Wouldn't a check do just as well? Wouldn't that assure that no student would be able to vote twice? I received no answer because another student was asking my original question.

I took my ballot, marked thru the number so it could not be read, and voted. Is I heard four students ask if the ballot number was being placed by their name and when they received a “Yes” answer they decided not to vote. I agree with those who felt that this tactic used by S.G.A.
CHINA NEARS U.N. VICTORY DESPITE U.S.

NEW YORK (LNS)--China in, Tai-} wan out. This in all probability-} will be the outcome in a few weeks on the historic question of seating

People's China at the United Nations.

After long years of refusing to recognize the 760 million peo-tle of China represented by the Peking government--a desperate

United States government has sought to propound the political fiction of China in Taiwan.

Washington has even proposed that the People's Republic of China replace Taiwan (the Republic of China,) in the Security Council as long as the Chiang Kai-shek regime retains a place in the U.N. General Assembly.

"China's" seat in the five-member council is presently occupied by Taiwan.

But even this latest U.S. face-saving gesture appears destined to fail.

The full admission of People's

China and an end to the fiction that Chiang's Nationalists speak for China--or even Taiwan--appears to be a reality whose recognition has come.

It has been known for some time, of course, that the U.S. would be forced this year to drop its traditional opposition to the seating of the Peking government. This was merely a concession to the fact that without or without Washington, China would probably gain admission this year.

Since the announcement of President Nixon's impending visit to China it has been clear the U.S.

would push a "two Chinas" line at this session of the U.N. The announcement made at the beginning of the 25 member Steering Committee meetings earlier this month that Washington would approve seating People's Republic of China at the Security Council was somewhat of a surprise--but not enough to offset the developing understanding among many nations that the Taiwan seat represents only

Chiang Kai-shek and his clique and that they must be ousted.

The old U.S. position of demanding that China's entry to the U.N. be made an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority, had to be discarded after a simple last year vote in favor of Peking was repeated. The old U.S.

strategy is to make the expulsion of Taiwan an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote.

The Albanian resolution links the seating of People's China with the expulsion of Taiwan. Peking has repeatedly rejected the "two-Chinas" scheme and stated it would not enter the U.N. at all as long as the Chiang delegates remained.

Thus, the U.S. proposal to save

Taiwan's seat is tantamount to a new version of the old strategy that China's admission requires a two-thirds majority.

From the outset, however, Washington's new formula was in trouble. It took a lot of scratching around just to get sufficient cosponsors to submit a "save Taiwan" resolution. By Aug. 17, when the resolution was introduced,

not a single European country supported it. Co-sponsors were Swaziland, Costa Rica, Columbia, Haiti,

Honduras, and the Philippines, with a total population less than many Chinese provinces.

Albania, on the other hand, had no problem in lining up 17 cosponsors by July 15 for its "save Peking, expel Taiwan" resolution.

The resolution calls for seating People's China "as the only legtimate representative of China to the United Nations and to expel forthwith the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek from the place which they unlawfully occupy at the United Nations and in all the organizations affiliated to it." This resolution was listed as item 101 on the agenda, meaning it would be debated before the U.S.

resolution, which was item 105.

Recognizing that if the Albanian resolution was voted on first and approved the Washington resolution would fall by the wayside,

U.S. delegate George Bush (who seven years advocated that the U.S. leave the U.N. should China ever be admitted) proposed that the two items be merged into one known simply as "The China Question," a "neutral non-partisan heading," he explained.

Under such a formula, Bush maintained, the two resolutions would then be handled as points "A" and "B" of the same item--and it was quite clear that he hoped point "A" would be the U.S resolution. The U.S. was immediately

Washington was compounded Sept., 1971, and the vote of 65-47 with 15 abstentions. Had it succeeded, it would have meant that the exclusion of Taiwan was an "important question." The Albanian resolution, thus, would have required a two-thirds majority.

At the end of the meeting, the Albanian resolution went on the agenda by the vote of 17-2 with 4 abstentions while the U.S. resolution was included by the vote of 11-9 with 4 abstentions.

This was a bad procedural defeat for the U.S. The attack on Washington was compounded Sept. 24 in the General Assembly debate on the ratification of the Steering Committee agenda recommendations.

At this meeting Albania requested that the U.S. resolution be struck from the agenda on the grounds that it was intended to delay and confuse the issue. This inspired delegate Bush to make an impassioned plea in the name of "freedom of discussion" to retain the item.

In the debate that followed, delegates who supported the Albanians pointed out the hypocrisy of Bush's "freedom of discussion" line after a 20-year history of trying to prevent the issue of China's entry even being discussed.

Japan and Saudi Arabia spoke on behalf of the U.S. resolution. The outcome was that the American item was retained by the vote of 65-47 with 15 abstentions.

Significantly, 10 nations took the rostrum after the voting to explain that they supported inclusion of the item only because of the tradition that the General Assembly always endorses the Steering Committee's proposed agenda.

Even many of America's closest allies are opposed to Washington's latest machinations. In explaining his vote, Italy's delegate made it clear his government would vote against any proposal that delayed China's admission to the U.N. and all its organizations. The French delegate, who abstained on the General Assembly agenda vote, described the U.S. proposal as "worthless," insisting it would probably "fall of its own." France and Britain—which also abstained—will both vote with Albania.

In a matter of weeks, the Albanian resolution will reach the floor and is now expected to win without too much difficulty, thus terminating two decades of U.S. obstructionism which has prevented one-quarter of humankind from representation in the assembly of nations.

All the tears I've shed,
I cried,
Have been very much in vain.
You were not worth the slightest bit
Of all my silent pain.

In those fertile, early years
We grew to know each other,
But now I only see a barren future with another.

We must depart the dark
And face the truthful right
Of God and faithful light.

"HOSPITAL" TORTURES GAY BOYS

CHICAGO (LNS) The authorities at Elgin State Hospital near Chicago, recently discovered two thirteen-year-old boys making love. As a punishment, the two boys (who had been diagnosed as mentally retarded) were stripped naked, strapped together on a bed, and displayed for 77 hours in the day room, subject to the ridicule of their peers and the staff.

The parents of the boys plan a suit against state officials, gay liberal groups in Chicago hope to join with the parents by filing a friend-of-the-court brief. Chicago gays have already filed angry protests with state officials, the National Institute of Mental Health, and the press.
CALIFORNIA HOSPITAL USES TORTURE TO "CURE" HOMOSEXUALS

VACAVILLE, Calif. (LNS)—"They attach an electrode to your dick. Then they turn on a projector and show you pornographic pictures. Everytime you get a hard on, they give you a strong electric shock," said Gay Activist Denver Roberts.

Roberts just got out of Atascadero State Hospital. For three years he endured tortures which are supposed to cure homosexuality. "It doesn't work," says Roberts, "but you have to pretend it works if you ever want to get out."

The State of California claims that homosexuality is a disease and so Atascadero is called a hospital, but inmates say it should be called a concentration camp. Inmates are involuntarily "committed" there by judges to be treated for homosexuality. Many have never been convicted of a crime but they are kept at Atascadero until the hospital staff feels they are cured.

Social workers arbitrarily decide how long to keep inmates in the hospital, said Charlie Barnes, a 60 year old homosexual who was accused of lying to an attendant. "You lied to me, so we're going to keep you here extra two years." And they did.

Dr. Paul F. Bramwell, a psychologist and associate director of Atascadero is in charge of the "treatments," Bramwell replied, "These men have no rights. If we can learn something by using them, then that is small compensation for the trouble they have caused society."

Since The Fixer needs and wants to fulfill the necessary function of keeping Madison's community informed of local activities, we would greatly appreciate any student or organization having an announcement to PLEASE send the material to us at PO Box 4255, campus mail. All campus articles and announcements will receive first consideration in forming our next paper.

The Fixer will accept and print classified ads FREE for the Madison community. If you need to find something or want to get rid of an article, let us tell others about your situation. Please send your ads to The Fixer, PO Box 4255 campus mail or hand it to any staff member.

CLEVELAND MOTHER WEARS FLAG ON SEAT OF ANTS, GETS YEAR ROBATION

CLEVELAND (LNS)—"For displaying the flag contemptuously, to wit, on the seat of her pants," Mrs. Sandra Sizemore, a Cleveland mother of six, was placed on probation for a year's time. Mrs. Sizemore, who pleaded guilty to the charge, was orginally sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $1,000, but Municipal Court Judge George Pillersdorf suspended both sentences.

Mrs. Sizemore was told by Judge Pillersdorf: "I think you ought to kiss the flag instead of wearing it on the seat of your pants."

We are in special need (still) of persons who will pass out the Fixer in their dorms, and collect what contributions persons offer. The paper will be brought to you if you cannot come to pick them up. Without this service being fulfilled, all others mean little.

If you would like to help the paper but have only a small amount of available time, this job is really well-suited. Please call 4061 or 4275, talk to any staff member or write to us at PO Box 4255 campus if you are willing to aid us in this important task.
