"We are all here to enjoy, to know, to create, and to share our happiness with all others around us."

Maharishi Mahesh Yogi

SOCIAL WORK AND WESTERN STATE HOSPITAL

For any social work student considering employment with Western State Hospital (in Staunton), the following should be considered: caseloads ranging in some instances up to several hundred; the director of Social Service is over 65; you may be subordinate to a Jr. physician with less formal background in psychology than yourself; your department will have no in-service training; your starting pay will be less than that of R.N.'s without the B.S. degree; and you may be distressed to learn that the primary method of treatment is by drugs—no, not psychoanalysis, group therapy or behavior modification, although some electro-shock therapy is still used. However, if you feel that you can fight excessive red tape, inadequate number of supporting mental health professionals (psychologists, psychiatrists, etc.), rigid status quoin and disorganization, maybe you should give Western State a try. If, you think of yourself as an agent of social change (constructive) you will find either site (there are 2 locations—2 miles apart) a considerable challenge. Once employed, ask questions, challenge the answers, find out if alternatives have been tried, openly challenge, in staff conferences the opinions of staff members with seniority and even send (or better yet, carry) formal suggestions to the "powers that be" which will with relative promptness be rationalized away.

Right on, social workers!

For Peace and Justice,

Carl H. Hanbury

"The most beautiful thing in the world is freedom of speech."

Diogenes

The male chauvinists who called women on Madison's campus last week claiming to be conducting a poll for The Fixer on premarital sexual relations were in NO way connected with the paper. Tapes of the interviews have False with all those powers,
False is sanity. Individual
False is sanity
False What this country needs
True With all those sidhis,
True Once you see that the False rope is not a snake, you
False ing you know in order to
False be on the inside; to un-
False be on the inside; to un-
False Real wealth can only in-
True You have to give up know-
True Not to understand is to False shit the ocean, It's not
False and let the rest go by.
True Love kills.
False You can only love life
False when you can love death-
False The fear of death is the false mind, what one believes
False to be true either is
False to be true either is
False John Lilly 1970
True Take what you can use,
False and let the rest go by.
True Love kills.
False Roy Sebern 1968
True You can only love life
False when you can love death-
False The fear of death is the prime motivating force
in this country at this moment.
False There are no secrets at
False all.
False We don't want a commune.
False We want a community.
Ken Babbs 1969
True If you want something
False for nothing, go jerk
False off.
Bob Weir 1970
True Nobody guaranteed you it
True it all.
Baba Ram Dass 1970
True There are no secrets at
False all.
Baba Ram Dass 1970
True Lies, all lies.
False Ken Kesey 1965
True In the province of the
False mind, what one believes
False to be true either is
False or becomes true.
John Lilly 1970
True Take what you can use,
False and let the rest go by.
True Love kills.
False Roy Sebern 1968
True You can only love life
False when you can love death-
False The fear of death is the
prime motivating force
in this country at this moment.
Baba Ram Dass 1970

FOOD?
To find out what our wonderful dining hall has dreamed up to tempt our taste buds, just dial
MENU(6368) and a sweet, sexy, young voice will inform you what your next few meals will consist of.

MEDITATION LECTURE
There will be an introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation on November 17th, (Wed.),
at 8:00P.M. in Jackson Hall
Room 1. All faculty, students, and interested persons are invited to attend. This will be the begin-ning of another course.

Student articles Needed!! Send to Fixer box 4255 or call 4275 or 434-9153.
FOOD: PART IV
Dieting

We're supposed to be Virginia slim in Amerika. And so we diet. It's hard though.

The food-makers and food-sellers always tempting us. Candies and cookies are deliberately placed near the check-out counter so we'll grab at them when waiting. Canada Dry "tastes like love" they tell us, and we'll "come alive on Pepsi!" They offer us bottled and packaged replacements for the real thing, and in one way or another, most of us get sucked in without knowing it.

People often overeat and eat sweet stuff when anxious or frustrated. Amerika creates bad jobs, bad vibes, bad wars, bad schools, and bad rules about how people should relate to each other, and then Amerika offers to relieve some of our tension with tranquilizers, aspirin, make-up, "escape machines," A.V. dinners, nibbles, festivities, and drink. But Amerika never offers to quit doing what it is doing to us. We're not treated like people; we're treated like consumers. If we had a better life, many of us wouldn't consume our way into it, and we wouldn't overeat.

Infants get sugar in formulas and in bottled baby foods. Kids get it when they're good. By the time we're adults we NEED sweets, and we hook kids on them in turn. Kids get told, "Clean up your plates," and are praised for eating. Eating becomes a way of being good. In these ways many of us were brought up to be overweight. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.

We demand control over our bodies. We don't want to get fat because they threaten or seduce us into eating and drinking. But we get it coming and going. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.

Women get it coming and going. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.

We demand control over our bodies. We don't want to get fat because they threaten or seduce us into eating and drinking. But we get it coming and going. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.

We demand control over our bodies. We don't want to get fat because they threaten or seduce us into eating and drinking. But we get it coming and going. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.

We demand control over our bodies. We don't want to get fat because they threaten or seduce us into eating and drinking. But we get it coming and going. If we're overweight, we are ridiculed. But we get whistled at and attacked when we're slim and "sexy." Since we're made ourselves over into their image, they think they own us. It's one reason why a lot of women sabotage their own efforts to lose weight.
The Russians have totally 'dominated' the game of chess for over 20 years. To give you an idea of their supremacy, a little over a year ago there was a USSR vs. World chess championship. The ten best players from Russia vs. the ten best players from the entire rest of the world. The only surprising thing about the tournament was that the rest of the world lost by only one game. But your should appear on the scene to challenge them, with slingshot and chessboard in hand.

Drop-Out Hakes Good
The Russians have totally 'dominated' the game of chess for over 20 years. To give you an idea of their supremacy, a little over a year ago there was a USSR vs. World chess championship. The ten best players from Russia vs. the ten best players from the entire rest of the world. The only surprising thing about the tournament was that the rest of the world lost by only one game. But your should appear on the scene to challenge them, with slingshot and chessboard in hand.
"They will dedicate their lives to law and order and justice in this great land of ours" — Richard M. Nixon

"Law and order will be preserved at whatever cost to individual liberties and rights." — William H. Rehnquist

The radical left—expert in such matters—knows the charge of repression. It is a cover for leftist-inspired violence and repression. It is also a propaganda line designed to undermine confidence in our revered institution, to brainwash the youth and ultimately overthrow our democratic system.

"It is unfortunate that so many non-radical Americans are taken in by this leftist line. They unwittingly weaken the very institutions of freedom they wish to sustain. They may hasten the day when the heel of repression is a reality—not from the sources now recklessly denounced but from what we have been trying so hard to prevent: overreaching by government." —Lewis Powell, William Rehnquist—those are the names you will remember because they will add distinction and excellence in the highest degree to the Supreme Court of the United States.

WASHINGTON (LNS)—With an air of solemnity which only he can generate—after 25 years of practice—Richard Nixon announced his all new nominations for the two vacant seats on the Supreme Court:

"Except for the contribution he may be able to make to the cause of world peace, there is probably no more important legacy that a President can leave in these times than his appointments to the Supreme Court."

Since Supreme Court Justices John Harlan and Hugo Black resigned from the bench in September, Nixon has been—as usual—hedgy and secretive about who he was going to pick to replace them.

First the word was out that it would be Richard Poff, a conservative Southern Senator.

And when it seemed like there would be too much hostility toward him, Nixon came up with six names that he was going to present to the American Bar Association (ABA) for evaluation. Those six were quite a group in themselves—they ranged from a woman who was one of the key people involved in putting together the Washington DC NO-Knock Law to a male corporate lawyer from Arkansas who spent his free time fighting desegregation of schools.

It's not clear what went on between the time the six were rejected by the ABA and Nixon's nomination of Powell and Rehnquist. In the press, Nixon and Mitchell got on their high horses about someone leaking the ABA rejections but now it seems that a Washington Post reporter had gone to the Justice Dept. and was given the information which he was supposed to have leaked.

So there is some question as to whether Nixon ever intended to really nominate two of the six or whether he was saving his two trump cards for the right time.

Nixon calculated well when he selected his two new choices. The New York Times and the Washington Post which had criticized Nixon's choices of the six on the grounds of mediocrity seemed perfectly delighted:

Said the Times:

"Mr. Powell admirably combines the fundamental requirements of legal and intellectual distinction with Mr. Nixon's insistence on political conservatism and Southern origin. Mr. Rehnquist, a Goldwater conservative, has a brilliant professional background."

Oh, but what about those politics? Up before the Senate Judiciary Committee hearing, Rehnquist said reassuringly he would "totally disregard my own personal personal beliefs" in interpreting the Constitution and laws.

In any case Nixon has gotten the chance to sew up two nominations for the Supreme Court for William Rehnquist, an Assistant Attorney General to John Mitchell who spoke for the Justice Dept., in their statements about the Mayday demonstrations and Lewis Powell, a millionaire southerner whose recent statements on wiretapping and the now left J. Edgar Hoover liked so much he had them reprinted in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

There's always the danger of idolizing the greatness of a liberal Supreme Court without realizing how limited its influence is. The Supreme Court can make all-incomprehensible decisions on issues but can't enforce them. It takes years of hearings and trials. It can't do much in the short range and that doesn't make a black person who is trying to get into desegregated housing happier to know that they'll be able to get in five years latter, especially if they need housing now.

Yet if you think what the court could be like (one cartoonist drew each

(Cont. page 6)
Kleindienst—his boss and Mitchell's right hand man in the Justice Dep., worked. In a letter to Rehnquist "was the only major person of stature in the state who opposed the Arizona civil rights bill in 1968." Rehnquist also was asked and became what 1

Though Powell and Rehnquist represent two different kinds of images (Powell, a dignified southern gentleman and Rehnquist, a hard-driving young campaigner) they couldn't have been closer if Nixon had molded them from clay himself.

Rehnquist was born in Milwaukee, and after taking up law, he moved to Phoenix with his wife Natalie. She was employed by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) when they met and for weeks would not tell him where she worked.

Phoenix was a very comfortable place for Rehnquist. He threw his energies into Goldwater's campaign in 1964 where he worked under Richard Kleindienst—his boss and Mitchell's right hand man in the Justice Dept. (Rehnquist's friend Goldwater sat by his side at the Senate hearings on his nomination to the court.)

Though Rehnquist managed to make friends in right-wing political circles in Arizona, favorable opinion of him was hardly unanimous.

State Senator Cloves Campbell, who is black, says that Rehnquist is a "John Bircher." Rev. George B. Brooks of the Arizona NAACP said that Rehnquist "was the only major person of stature in the state who opposed the Arizona civil rights bill in 1968."

Rehnquist opposed the passing of two Phoenix laws in 1969 which would have desegregated public accommodations and schools. In a letter to the Phoenix Record he said: "The schools' job is to educate children. They should not be saddled with a task of fostering social change which may lessen their ability to perform their primary job."

When his old boss Kleindienst came to join John Mitchell in Washington after Nixon was elected, Rehnquist also was asked and became what Nixon describes as the "the President's lawyer's lawyer".

Powell was born in Suffolk, Va., went to college at Washington and Lee in Lexington, Va., and left the state only long enough to get his master's degree at Harvard Law School. Since 1937 he has been part of Virginia's oldest law firms—Hunton, Williams, Gay, Powell and Gibson. Powell (on the board of directors of 11 large corporations) with his wife and his 19 year-old son owns stock in 36 corporations including AT&T, Chesterfield, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, IBM, Phillip Morris and Xerox. All together the three won stocks worth $2,742,378.

Powell is an old member of the Country Club of Virginia and the Commonwealth Club of Richmond—neither of which find it suitable to admit blacks.

He was head of the state board of education in Virginia and in fact there is a suit right now which accuses him, among others, with doing very little to desegrate Virginia schools since 1954. At the request of the Virginia governor, Linwood Holton and the Virginia Attorney General he wrote a 28 page "friend-of-court" brief last year which was submitted to the Supreme Court when it deliberated the constitutionality of bussing kids.

"If you start talking about legislative restrictions on what information can be gathered, you have the problem that it may just become a kind of happy hunting ground for criminal defendants."

"The outcry against wiretapping is a tempest in a teapot. There are 210 million Americans. There are only a few hundred wiretaps annually, and these are directed against people who seek to subvert our democratic form of government. Law-abiding citizens have nothing to fear."

Sister Jogues Egan was subpoenaed by a grand jury which was to issue the indictments for the Berrigan case. She refused to testify on the grounds that the questions were based on illegally procured electronic surveillance. Since the government refused to admit it used illegal wiretaps to set up the case and didn't have to testify,
The government appealed it to the Court of Appeals and they again ruled in favor of her. The Supreme Court is expected to hear a case on the legality of wiretapping which will include whether she is forced to testify when she refuses, goes to jail.

John Sinclair, Pon Plamondon and Jack Forrest, all of the Rainbow People party went to DC for conspiracy to blow up a secret CIA headquarters (which they didn't even know about) in Mich. last Feb. The defense asked the judge to order the government to turn over all of their wire-tap evidence. When the judge granted that motion, the government appealed it to the US Court of Appeals in Cincinnati which also asked the government to turn it over. When the Supreme Court rules on the constitutionality of wiretapping, will you think William Rehnquist or Lewis Powell have to say about it? Or about capital punishment which goes before the court this year?

Still another issue which tends to raise the blood pressure of both pressure of both Rehnquist and Powell is the Miranda Decision—the 1966 Supreme Court decision which said that each defendant had to be told that they have the right to remain silent before they can be interrogated. The Miranda decision has been the basis for a number of cases being thrown out because supposed "confessions" have been coerced by the police or prosecutor.

Last year at a speech at the University of Arizona, Rehnquist said it would not be "at all unreasonable" for the Justice Department to ask 101 questions before a defendant can be interrogated. The Miranda decision has been the oasis for a number of cases being thrown out because supposed "confessions" have been coerced by the police or prosecutor.

As for Rehnquist, Senator John Tunney (D. Cal.) who is on the Senate Judiciary Committee pointed out that at 47, the now-Assistant Attorney General might well still be sitting on the court in the year 2,000. "At a time when slogans often substitute for rational thought, it is fashionable to charge that 'repression' of civil liberties is widespread. This charge--directed primarily against law enforcement--is standard leftist propaganda. The charge of repression is not a rifle shot at occasional aberrations. Rather, it is a sweeping shotgun blast at 'the system', which is condemned as systematically repressive of those accused of crimes, minorities, and of the right to dissent."

--Lewis Powell

"Police officials have the authority to detain individuals during the period of an emergency without being required to bring them before a committing magistrate and filing charges against them."

--William Rehnquist

"I believe the peace forces must not be denied the legal tools they need to protect the innocent from criminal elements."

--Richard Nixon

---0---

THE FIXER AND THE FACULTY

In a recent questionnaire sent to all teachers to determine if they would like to receive a copy of The Fixer each week, the following percentages of each department replied: English: History 57%; Speech and Drama 15%; Business Administration and Economics 20%; School of Education 35%; Special Education Service Department 33%; Geology 60%; Home Economics 37%; English 65%; Political Science and Geography 50%; 13% for 60%; Psychology 56%; Art 60%; Foreign Language 27%; Chemistry 15%; Biology 20%; Physical Education 33%; Physics 37%. A number of the administration also receive copies. Of 270 sent out, we had 140 replies of which only 5 were NO, some resulting from the wording of our letter. Where is your department's head at? Who is the head of your department? Does your department have a head? We give the Art and English department our 270 ratifying. ---0---

FOR SALE: Two, Sears Dynaglas snow tires, 6.50 x 13, with wheels, (Dodge Dart '66), Grand Prix Garnet still good. 370 complete, Call 4061 or leave note box 375.
Watching Muhammad Ali vanquish the dynasty, the same way I enjoyed watching Muhammad Ali vanquish the dynasty, the same way I enjoyed watching the local renegade. Morphy, Gapablacna and Botvinnik, goliath Sonny Listen or Joe Namath pin their "national pride" on their edly crumble the Russian chess that both countries should have to Czechoslovakia. It is really funny about it on the front pages of the newspapers, more than likely. If he wins, you'll get to read the match will certainly go down in chess history along with such as Morphy, Carablocna and Botvinnik. It may be the match of the century. If Fischer wins, you'll get to read about it on the front pages of the newspapers, more than likely. If he loses, I suppose all those editors will blissfully forget how to spell chess again.

Tom Harper -- the great speckled bird

The Madison College Chess Club meets every Tuesday at 7:00 PM in meeting room A of the campus center. BYOB (Bring Your Own Board)

---

IS RELIGION A CRUTCH?

Every cause has an effect and every effect has a cause. We are hungry because we need food. We are tired because we need sleep. We need God because we were made in his image. Yes, we do need him, but we did not invent him any more than we invented food because we were hungry.

Romain Rolland, in his letter to his friend Sigmund Freud, writes about a peculiar feeling which he supposed is present in many people. It's a feeling which he would like to call a sensation of "eternity", a feeling of something limitless, unbounded -- as it were "oceanic.

This feeling he adds is a purely subjective fact not an article of faith, it brings no assurance of Immortality..." Paul writes in his letter to the Romans, "For the truth is known to them by instinct. God has put this knowledge in their hearts." Real assurance of personal immortality, beyond vague sensations, comes from having a personal relationship with Christ. He affirms our feelings about life after death and by feeling his living presence in our lives, He fulfills our soullessness and lifts our spiritual blindness. Nothing comes from nothing and nothing ever will.

The Jesus people of Madison, write them at PO # 204, Maranatha!!

---

He is always here

Open Meeting
Tuesday... 6:00 PM
Athletic Basement

WITHDRAWAL Washington Park Services

THANKS! To contributors!!