

Edwin Rowlands Noted Hobby Expert To Speak Here

Sponsored by Sigma Phi Lambda, a campus honorary society, the assembly on March 25 will feature Edwin A. Rowlands, the world's foremost hobby expert and autograph collector. His presentation is entitled "My Business is Hobbies."

Mr. Rowland will explain the various classifications of hobbies, avocations which have turned into vocations, and hobbies of famous personalities. In relating some of his experiences the speaker will deliver many anecdotes on outstanding people including Henry Ford, Albert Einstein, Helen Keller, Lily Pons, Thomas Dewey, Grandma Moses, Charles Evans Hughes and "Babe" Ruth. To climax the program Mr. Rowland will display several unique hobbies that he has encountered throughout the nation plus a photographic enlargement of stellar autographs.

Registration For Next Year Begins Shortly

Every student will receive a notice from his advisor about his registration conference. It is important that the student report to his advisor at the time designated. Resident students must present the receipt for ten dollars to the advisor.

Every sophomore and junior in Curricula II, III, VII, and VIII will report to the Department Head of his major field for his conference. Every freshman will report first to his Curriculum Chairman.

A student who expects to change from one curriculum to another should make the change before the registration period begins. The student will call at the Registrar's office for the Change of Curriculum blank.

Each student should call at the Registrar's Office on or after April 8 for:

1. Registration instructions, including the hours the Registrar's Office is open for filling in Class Cards.
2. Class Schedules for 1953-54.

Two 'Fresh' Become Orchestra Members

Two freshmen, Elizabeth Hill and "Skip" Michael, were formally initiated into the membership of the college orchestra. They successfully passed auditions on percussions and the bass violin respectively and were accepted for regular performers on March 12.

The total size of the orchestra has now been enlarged to twenty-six players. The spring concert season begins on March 27 at North River and, in addition to other concerts, the orchestra will journey to northeastern Virginia for its annual tour in April.

VHEA Conference Held In Roanoke

Holding its forty-second annual convention at the Hotel Roanoke in Roanoke from March 19-21 is the Virginia Home Economics Association. Mrs. Bernice R. Varner is president of the association, Miss Anne Hardesty is editor of the News Letter, and Miss Martha D. Sieg is alternate advisor of college home economics clubs.

The theme is "Homemaking, a Noteworthy Profession". The program includes many outstanding speakers. Dr. Sylvanus M. Duvall, George Williams College, Chicago, Illinois, is Professor of Social Science and Religion and has written a number of college text books on social and family relationships.

Magazine Editor Speaks

Miss Iris Davenport of Nashville, one of the South's most outstanding women, is editor of the Woman's Department of Farm and Ranch Magazine. She is a member of the Gallery of Greats in Contemporary Journalism. Miss Davenport, a native of North Carolina, a graduate of the University of Georgia, earned her Master's Degree at Columbia University and continued her studies in Paris and Louisiana State University.

Miss Mildred Horton, a native of Dallas, Texas, is the executive secretary of the American Home Economics Association and has served as president of the Texas Home Economics Association and vice-president of the American Home Economics Association. Miss Horton has been named reporter-general for a sectional meeting of the eighth International Congress on Home Economics to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, August 12-18, 1953.

New business manager of The Schoolma'am is Joyce Coiner from Gordonsville. Joyce is a Curriculum V major. She is president of Pi Omega Pi.

New SGA Officers Installed In Assembly

In assembly Wednesday, new Student Government Association officers and the chairman of the Honor Council were installed. Martha S. Grafton, dean of Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, was speaker for the occasion.

Assembly was opened by convocation given by Rev. Ward McCabe. Mrs. Grafton, a graduate of Agnes Scott, spoke on priorities in our nation and schools.

Grace Matz then gave her farewell address and installed the new president, Johnnie Lou Thompson. Incoming minor officers of the SGA were then given their oaths of office.

Out-going chairman of the Honor Council, Nancy Turley, turned over the reins of her office to Suzanne Roberts after a few farewell words to the student body. Both Johnnie Lou Thompson and Suzanne Roberts addressed the assembly.

The singing of the alma mater brought the meeting to a close.

Spring Lethargy - -

Although this editorial appeared in The Breeze issue of January 16, 1948, we, of the editorial staff feel that since spring has come along with the general lethargy of the students that this story is very pertinent to the times.

J.P.T.

Students and faculty at Madison often forget that education today is a co-operative undertaking between the teacher and his students. No longer does the responsibility for good teaching rest entirely on the teacher. Responsibility in modern education rests jointly on the teacher and students whose participation and interest serve as an incentive and guide to the teacher.

Interest, participation, inter-student discussion, and creative work are all responsibilities which we as students should shoulder if we expect to gain the most from our college courses. Just our presence in a class is of no help to anyone; it is what we contribute to the class that counts.

If we are to receive maximum benefits from our college courses we must not stop at the bare requirements of the courses; we must "go the second mile" and bring contributions and extra information to our class for the benefit of all.

It is the teacher's responsibility to plan and direct the students in their work and this requires effort and sympathetic concern for each member of the class. Continuous lecturing day after day becomes monotonous and often the class feels that no preparation is needed since the teacher will undoubtedly talk for the entire period as usual. As a result letters are written, pictures drawn and much day-dreaming done during hours in which genuine learning could be accomplished. Students cannot be blamed for this attitude since it is the teacher's duty to provide the opportunity for student participation, discussion, and thinking in class.

Let's wake up to the fact that our education is not a one-sided responsibility. We must actively participate in our class work and our teachers should guide our class that this participation will be assured. Only in this way will we be making the most of our opportunities for an education.

Shades Of College Youth

Excerpts from The Miami Hurricane:

.....The college student who works and struggles to give himself an education has always solved his troubles with thoughts of the future, thoughts that foretell a job, marriage, a home and a reasonable measure of security. But what is the future of today's student as he fights to keep his head above the college whirlpool?

.....Youth faces uncertain terms of military service, the hell of war—and always death lies just around the corner.....Despair lies always in the background. Youth shakes off its frustrations by living with a devil-may-care frenzy, by trying to wrench happiness out every minute. The present uncertain state of affairs is forcing age upon us faster than the usual job of time. We are hurrying toward a void. The future isn't rosy.

What Changes Would You Make In Madison Policies?

by Juanita Powell

As second semester Freshmen, most students would say they valued their school and its basic policies very highly. However, just for a while your roving reporter slanted this week's question on the speculative side and inquired: "If given the opportunity what one alteration would you make in the general policies of Madison?" Here are the results from a survey of ten freshmen:

Marlene Martin: "I would like to see the fee for an overnight guest at the college done away with entirely or greatly reduced."

Mary Sue Missimer: "The one alteration I would make would be to see that freshman votes during major elections are not counted as whole votes but a half. Being a freshman, I feel that we do not know the candidates as well as we should and therefore our votes may not be cast accurately."

Carlyle Lynch, III: "I would like to see the scholastic regulation altered so that male students could graduate from Madison with an arts diploma without having to take teacher training."

Ray Caplan: "I feel that upperclassmen should think twice before accepting the position of 'big sister' as this job should be a responsibility rather than a title. I realize that big sisters are kept busy but if they realized how much their visits meant, they would find the time to come to the aid of 'needy freshmen'. On the other hand, there are many 'big sisters' who recognize their responsibility and have done a grand job of familiarizing the freshmen with Madison's policies. To them I say 'Thanks!'"

Ora Sue Umphlette: "The one alteration I feel would be most helpful is a closer fellowship between the President and students. I realize he is a busy person and cannot devote too much of his time to this phase of campus operations; but I'd like to see more of him. Maybe by attending assembly more or visiting the class rooms once in a while we could become better acquainted with him."

Jackie Yeates: "The 'big sister' should start a correspondence with her 'little sister' early in the year and remain a true friend and helper after school has started."

Kathleen Salmond: "I think Madison is a fine college. However, in one field it is definitely lacking. There should be more co-ed social activity on campus. I've discussed this matter with other students and not one of them disagreed with my opinion. It is very evident that lack of male company has caused a mental strain on the girls. It is only natural for them to want more association with boys."

I think there should be specific arrangements for such activity every week-end. Considering Madison only recently became a co-ed college, the present situation is understandable, but a definite need for progress in this direction is very noticeable."

Doug Soyars: "I would say encourage more boys to come and furnish more facilities for them."

Shirley Broadus: "In my opinion the one alteration I would like to see made would be 'unlimited lights for everyone.'"

Carmen Isern: "Madison College has wonderful policies. One change I would like to see made is for the faculty to schedule tests more frequently so as not to let too much material accumulate."

From the Intercollegiate Press bulletin is a subject of note for Madison students as well as the Wesleyan University matriculants.

Could this situation be pertinent on campus?

A survey of scholarship men at Wesleyan University indicates that the Honor Roll requirement is a 'deterrent to participation in extra-curricular affairs', as well as a cause of an over-emphasis on marks for their own sake.

Questionnaires were distributed to the scholarship men in the Classes of 1946 through 1955, in an effort to re-evaluate the scholarship awards here. The study was conducted by the joint cooperation of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships and the Alumni Council.

The honors requirement was termed too stiff and rigid by a large percentage answering the questionnaires. Many felt the requirement especially burdensome during the first two years, as a result of required courses. About 55% expressed desire to participate in more activities if the scholastic requirements were lowered. About 25% stated that the pressure of the honors average caused them to withdraw from some extra-curricular activities.

Over-emphasis on marks was repeatedly mentioned. Men from various classes wrote that their basic attitude toward studies changed from trying to understand a subject to merely achieving a good mark. In some cases the scholarship holders stated that they had altered their course of study, away from their real interests, in order to raise their averages with easier courses.

Suggestion Box:

The administration might seriously consider the recent arrangement of the University of Virginia in soliciting prospective students. Although it is still in the experimental stage, students visit their personal secondary schools in the interest of admissions.

Exemplary college students are preceded by a letter from the University, enclosing a printed statement of major admissions policies. According to the director of Student affairs at the University, "holidays provide an unusual opportunity for students to share in the contribution of many Virginia men to the continuing growth and development of the University over the years. This contribution lies in actively seeking out young men of real promise and in encouraging them to enroll here."

Dr. Penick sent us notice that Mrs. Edith Shilling underwent a spinal operation at the University of Virginia Hospital. Mrs. Shilling left the infirmary February 21, after she received a back injury.

Miss Thompson has been granted a leave of absence and Mrs. Keister replaced her in her professional duties.

Miss Elizabeth M. Patterson, Associate Professor of Home Economics, attended a Consumer Information Service meeting sponsored by Miss Jeanne Paris, home economist of the Kroger Company in Roanoke on March 10th. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the kinds of information the consumer needs to know to be a wise buyer and the ways in which the Kroger Company is prepared to provide this information. Those attending the meeting were the officials of the Kroger Company in the Roanoke area and staff members from Radford College, V. P. I., Madison College and the State Board of Education.

Dr. Walter J. Gifford will be away from the college next week visiting the Townshend State Teachers College at Townshend, Maryland. Dr. Gifford is serving on an evaluation committee which will observe all the phrases of the college program there and offer suggestions.

President Charles Martin and Dean M. Ledge Moffatt, both of Radford, will serve on the committee. Roscoe West, president of Trenton State Teachers College will serve as chairman of the group.

Miss Sara Anderson, Miss Grace Herr, and Miss Mary Margaret Brady, of the Business Education Department attended a Business Education Conference at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, on March 13 and 14. This conference was sponsored by the Business Education Department and Delta Pi Epsilon Fraternity of the Woman's College.

Porpoise Mermaids Perform Tonight

Have you noticed soft strains of music echoing through Reed Hall anytime during the past three weeks? If your curiosity was aroused enough to follow these melodies to their source, you would have found yourself in the swimming pool. Yes, there the mermaids of Madison's Porpoise Club have been diligently rehearsing their various formations and strokes to appropriate musical selections. The reason—the Porpoise Club's big water pageant which will be presented tonight, March 20th at 8:00 p.m.

This year their aquatic routines, being somewhat different from those of the past, will be built around an entirely original theme—"Season's Greetings." Numbers of various types and moods will be used to depict the four seasons of the year—summer, fall, winter and spring—through form swimming.

Several of the club's members will be making their first appearance in a water festival of this type while others will be adding to their past experience. Committees for the show are as follows: script—Jo Guyton, president of the Porpoise Club; program—Dot Harris, Emma Gene Gray; posters—Jane Longanecker, Janet Bolen, Lou Swann; props—Jo Guyton, Jane Cure, Gay Nell Arrington, De Strole, Shirley Reynolds, Sue Gallimore, Bruce Staples; backdrops—Evelyn Erdman in charge. The script will be read by Miss Betty Kinney. Miss Mary Beyer is the Porpoise Club's sponsor.

So take heed:

MC Joins To Form A Tri-College Band

At the beginning of the second semester the Madison College Band joined forces with the Bridgewater College and Shenandoah College and Conservatory Bands to form the Tri-College Band.

The purpose of this combination is to promote good-will among the colleges and meet other band members as well as the opportunity to play in a large group under the baton of several college directors.

Its first public appearance occurred at Bridgewater on March 15 which was followed with a performance at Shenandoah College on March 17. A concert which is scheduled to be announced soon will be held on campus this semester.

The volley-ball tournament is well under way. Officials are still needed, so anyone interested, see Betty Myers.

A play day is being held Saturday afternoon from 1:30-4:30 for nearby high schools, Dayton, Bridgewater, Broadway, and Harrisonburg. The activities conducted by Ann Wiltshire and Billie Totten will include swimming, tumbling, and volley-ball.

Next Thursday is the last night for intramural water sports. Everyone come out and join in the fun!

Tennis anyone? There will be a tennis demonstration March 25 at 8:00 p.m. in Reed Gym. Professional players will be present. The student body is cordially invited.

Reservation Fees To Be Paid From March 23—April 14

The Administration of the College has set the following dates for housing of resident students and for registration for classes of all students. A payment of $10 entitles the resident boarding student to —

1. the privilege of selecting a room and
2. opportunity of registering for courses for next year. Only resident boarding students will pay the room reservation fee. The schedule is:
1. March 23—April 14—payment of $10 room reservation fee in the Office of the Business Manager.
2. April 9—April 14—room reservations for fall term to be made in the Dean of Women's Office.
3. April 14—May 2—students will register for classes. (Detailed instructions will appear in next week's Breeze).

The receipt for $10 must be presented to the Dean of Women at the time of room selection; this receipt must also be presented to the adviser for a registration conference, and then to the Registrar's Office for completing registration.

Resident students will note that the one receipt for $10 is necessary for:

1. Making room reservations
2. Having a registration conference
3. Filling in Class Cards in the Registrar's Office.

Though fencing is quite a newcomer on our campus, it is certainly coming into its own. This Saturday is the big day for our present Madison Fencers. At this time they will play hostess to teams from both William and Mary and Mary Washington Colleges. Bouts will be fenced off in the morning beginning at ten and will continue after lunch until about 4:30. Ashby gymnasium will be the scene of all the action.

Participants in the fencing group are Ann Hutcheson, Margaret Plumb, Betty Sorensen, Rusty Turner, Peggy Farmer, Mary Lebling, Carolyn Blair, Jean White, and Jo Ann Bradfield. From among these girls the first and second teams (each composed of three fencers) will be selected to represent Madison on Saturday. All have been getting in some concentrated practice this week in preparation for the matches. Margaret Plumb has been elected to captain Madison's teams on Saturday.

FBLA Meet Held Here Tomorrow

High school students in business curricula from twenty-two counties in western Virginia will be guests of the College business majors tomorrow. The visitors will be here attending a regional convention of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Host to the convention will be the recently organized Madison chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America. Eleanor Ashby, Curriculum V junior from Crozet, is the president. Miss Sara Anderson, assistant professor of business education at Madison, is the sponsor.

One of the features of the regional convention is the declamations contest which will be held in conjunction with the business meetings. Three judges, including delegate George Aldhizer, local attorney, will decide the winner. A $25 savings bond, donated by the Harrisonburg Rotary Club, will be awarded as the first prize.

Meetings will be held in Wilson Auditorium with some of the smaller groups meeting in the Faculty Room. Registration will be in the lobby of Wilson Hall. The first session will open at 9:30 a.m. with the conference concluding at 3:30 p.m. Representa-

Try Sta*Nu—it costs nothing extra!

STA*NU is the new money-saving miracle of modern drycleaning that peeps up every drycleaned article with NEW LIFE! That's because STA*NU puts back into fabrics what nature originally put into it! Vital textile oils are replaced by the exclusive STA*NU process. Important oils that are lost in ordinary cleaning and wear.
