

Harrelson Announces Bond Drive Total

Tommy Harrelson, president of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority, which is sponsoring the second War Loan drive on campus, has announced that $415.50 has been collected to date.

Secretary Morgenthau urges that more individual investors participate in the drive.

"The Treasury Drive provides an opportunity for an emphatic demonstration by the American people of their grim determination to wage total war until the unconditional surrender of the Axis marks the end of the fighting," said Mr. Morgenthau.

"The securities in the Treasury basket are suitable for every type of investor, whether large or small, and in the remaining days of the Drive those who have not yet purchased should do so, and those who have should increase their subscriptions if at all possible.

"Everyone who loves freedom and appreciates decency can share in this answer to Japanese atrocities."

The drive will terminate on Saturday, May 1.

College Alumna Wins Honor

Dr. Walter J. Gifford has received a letter from Mrs. Harriet C. Pusey, an alumna of Madison. Mrs. Pusey is a war relocation authority in a Japanese center in Manzanar, California. Upon her arrival at Manzanar she was asked to make a special study of the curriculum and is held in high esteem by the authorities there.

In her letter Mrs. Pusey stated that the Japanese were very happy in the jobs they now hold and were receiving higher salaries than they had ever received before. The center at which Mrs. Pusey is located has been proclaimed one of the best in the country.

Rev. Dugger To Preach In Richmond Sunday Jane Moody To Be Guest Soloist There

Maxine Dugger will leave Friday evening for Richmond where she will speak at the Westhampton Methodist Church on May 2.

For the morning service her subject will be "Light In a World of Darkness."

At the five o'clock vesper service, held for the young people of the congregation, she will speak on "Youth Rebels The World."

It is interesting to note that Dugger's father spoke to the same congregation several years ago.

Dugger, who is majoring in secondary education, received her license to preach on September 17, 1941, and is the youngest woman preacher in the State of Virginia.

The present pastor of the Westhampton Methodist Church is the Reverend James Roy Smith.

Jane Moody, sophomore, whose home is in Richmond, will sing at the morning services. She is a member of the college orchestra and of the choral club.

Cothran, Wade Present Recital

Tonight at 8:00 p. m. in Wilson auditorium Catherine Cothran, student of Miss Edythe Schneider and Jennette Wade, student of Mr. C. T. Marshall, will present the first senior recital of the spring quarter.

This will be the only organ and voice recital to be given by seniors this year. These two music majors have combined their talents to give a varied and interesting program.

Claire Doyle, sophomore and a student of Miss Gladys Michaels, will be the accompanist.

The program is as follows: Gia II Sole Dal Gange, Scarlatti; Kennst du das Land, Beethoven; Who Is Sylvia?, Schubert; Ave Maria, Schubert; by Cothran.

Prelude in C Minor, Bach; Andante Cantabile, Tschalkowsky (from Quartet in D major); by Wade.

Aria—"Jewel Song" from Faust, Gounod; by Cothran.

Suite in B minor, Ernest Douglas, 1. Legende, 2. Allegra; Up the Saguway, Alexander Russel (from the St. (See Recital, Page 3)

Byers Visits Here

Reverend Paul E. Byers, Methodist missionary to Brazil for 30 years, has been visiting his nieces, Emily Lewis and Frances Mathews, on campus this week.

Reverend Byers is dean of the Methodist seminary of Brazil near Juic de Slora. He has been in Charlottesville on furlough for a year. While here, he has been especially interested in teaching methods in the United States' colleges and universities.

Reverend Byers has written a History of Methodism in Portugese. This is the first book on Methodism written in the Portugese language.

CLOTHING DRIVE

Beginning Monday, May 3rd, The Y.W. will sponsor a clothing drive. Boxes will be placed in each dormitory and the clothes will be turned over to the local Red Cross office.

Students are urged to do their part in seeing that this drive is a successful one.

Choral Club To Sing

The Choral club, directed by Miss Gladys Michaels, and accompanied by Nancy Rowe, will sing at the Lutheran church in Harrisonburg, May 2, 1943, at 8 o'clock.

Soloists for the occasion will be Beverly Woolley, Doris Tignor, and Florence Tiller.

This concludes the series of church programs for this year given by the Choral club.

Those who have completed successful tryouts and have become members of the Choral club this quarter are: Marie Bauserman, Marie Van Lear, Edna Warwick, Katie McGee, Bess Burfort, Glada Jarvis, and Dotty Leache.

Dean Announces 12 Placements

Twelve additional placements have been announced by Dean Gifford. The following girls have been placed in teaching positions: Eleanor Bell, elementary, Norfolk city; Margaret Coleman, elementary, physical education, South Norfolk; Jane Hand, sixth grade, Front Royal, Warren county; Thomas D. Moore, elementary, Henry Clay high school, Hanover county; Rose Marie Engleman, science, Beaver Dam high school, Hanover county; Nellie Park, mathematics, Battlefield Park school, Hanover county.

Ida Richardson, secondary, Arlington; Jane Sites, seventh grade, Henry Clay high school, Hanover county; Jacqueline Turnes, physical education and social science, Waverly high school, Waverly, Virginia; and Bernice Bailey, home economics, Lively high school, Lancaster county.

McWhite Will Take Still Pictures

According to Mr. E. N. McWhite, of the Madison college physics department, it will be impossible to make a movie of this year's May Day celebration. Although efforts have been made, high government priorities render it difficult for Mr. McWhite to buy the necessary movie film. However, plans are being made to take still pictures of the festivities.

If it is desired, Mr. McWhite will be glad to show on May Day the movie, "Campus Life at Madison."

Mr. McWhite accompanied Dr. Samuel P. Duke, president of the college, to Culpeper on Thursday, April 29, where they attended an Alumnae banquet. Upon request, Mr. McWhite showed the campus movie to those present at the banquet.

Processional To Open May Day Ceremony; Bell Is Festival Queen

Queen, Court, Dancers To Wear White; Glee Club To Sing

The band, directed by Mrs. C. T. Marshall, will open the annual May Day ceremony next Saturday afternoon, playing the processional.

The queen, Jean Bell, wearing a white marquisette gown with white velvet applied flowers will be crowned by her maid-of-honor, Dot Wilkinson, who will also wear a white marquisette gown with a white peter pan collar. Both the queen and the maid of honor will carry a bouquet of red, white, and blue carnations.

Following the crowning of the queen several dances representative of the Allied Nations will be presented by various physical education classes. The dancers will wear white dresses with chest banners in the colors of the country which they are representing.

Before each dance the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Edna T. Shaeffer, will sing a selection representative of the country from which the dance is taken.

Varina Rhodes will provide the music for the dances.

Helen Crymes, senior dietetics major, will be crown bearer.

Head Announces New Regulation

The Standards Committee, headed by Helen Bishop, has announced some changes in the standards. All of the old rules, which are posted in all dormitories, will still hold except that girls may wear either hose or leg make-up for "dress-up" occasions.

Socks will be worn at all times with regular campus shoes, except when going sunbathing.

The committee wishes to restate the regulation which has been overlooked by a number of students that scarves are to be worn to breakfast turban style only.

The Standards Committee will continue to give call downs for campus cutting and dining hall misdemeanors. It is hoped that better standards will be observed in the dining hall.

The committee would like the girls to think of these as personal standards to uphold, not as rules and regulations set up and enforced by the committee.

Members of the Standards Committee include: Tommy Harrelson, Louise Lee, May Harvey, Kay Valenti, Jane Elmore, Virginia Russle, Ellen Mitchell, Madiline Fisher, Lucia Zeigler, and Peggy Winfield.

Last Call

The campus drive for war bonds and stamps ends tomorrow. Invest your allowance before the sale ends so that the total for Madison in this second home front offensive will soar to an all-high level.

Jean Bell, who will be crowned the Queen of May next Saturday afternoon by her maid-of-honor in the annual May Day program.

Orchestra Will Give Concert Next Friday

On the evening of May 7, 1943, at 8:15 p. m. in Wilson auditorium, the orchestra, conducted by Clifford T. Marshall, will present its second concert of this year.

Miss Edythe Schneider and Nelson T. Huffman will be featured as guest soloists.

The program consists of the following numbers: Tannehauser, Wagner; Elsa's Dream from Tohengler, Wagner, soloist, Edythe Schneider; Walthers Prize Song, Wagner, soloist, Nelson T. Huffman.

March from Faust, Berlioz; Espana, Waldtenfel; La Cumparsita, Matos Rodriguez; Melody in F, Rubenstein; Artists Life, Strauss.

The concluding number will be Victor Herbert favorites, with Miss Schneider and Mr. Huffman as soloists.

Garber Presents Faculty With Certificate of Award

In assembly on Wednesday, Mr. J. A. Garber, former congressman and present chairman of the Harrisonburg-Rockingham War Bond Drive, presented to the faculty a certificate of award. This certificate, which was signed by the Secretary of the Treasury of The United States, was given as a reward for their cooperation in investing in War Bonds and Stamps during the past year.

The members of the faculty have adopted the pay-roll induction plan which calls for the investment of more than $25,000 in bonds each year. Before adopting this plan, the total expenditure for this purpose was $30,000.

Dr. Samuel P. Duke, upon accepting the gift, stated that approximately ninety-three per cent of the faculty was investing in war bonds and stamps, at present.

Maxine Dugger, Virginia's youngest woman preacher, who will preach two services at the Westhampton Methodist church in Richmond Sunday.

Should We Consider?

There probably is not an upperclassman at Madison who has not noticed a marked improvement in this year's Wednesday assembly programs over those of preceding years.

One of the initial purposes of this committee was to prepare programs which were alive and appealing to the audiences of young women who should hear them. This goal has been accomplished most effectively.

We will not soon forget the humorous and informal manner of Mrs. Rebecca Yancey Williams or of Mrs. Willie Snow Etheridge. Neither will we forget how Rabbi Kornfeld held our rapt attention when he recently spoke on the culture of a people who find happiness in the midst of dire poverty.

The fact that Wednesday assembly programs have been enjoyable has not meant that they were of less educational value. On the contrary, they have, almost without exception, been both informative and timely.

We are aware of the fact that planning a weekly program, one hour in length, to please almost a thousand students, is no small task. We commend the members of the committee upon a job well done, and we would assure them that their efforts have been deeply appreciated.

A Job Well Done

Should physical education be required in junior and senior years at Madison? Putting the question to some of the students involved, we get a variety of answers. The question can be answered from at least two different angles: from the experience of the alumnae who write telling us of their work; and from the experience of present juniors and seniors who are not required to take courses in physical education.

Girls who are now teaching say that almost invariably they are being asked to teach physical education. Many of them regret that they lack the necessary training.

Juniors and seniors say they aren't getting any exercise. Those who have never felt the urge to swim, play hockey, soft ball, basket ball, volley ball, or tennis, or who have a full schedule of activities, find it hard to get into the swing of the sports program.

Of course, there are those who feel that such a requirement would take the place of the courses they want. Some say that if more is added, something will have to be dropped from the present requirements. And there are those who think that additional physical education requirements would be asking too much.

What do you think? Write to the Editor suggesting your solution to the question. What do you think should be done to prepare graduating students to take part in the government's physical education program?

Dr. Duke Talks In Assembly On Absence From Class Work

Absence from classwork at Madison College, as well as at other colleges for women in Virginia, has gotten to be a serious problem since December 7, 1941. Much of the increase in class absence has been due at Madison to students going home because some member of their family was entering the service, was home on leave, or because of some other reason directly or indirectly connected with the war. Students have requested leaves as long as two weeks in order to be married and others have requested leaves in order to see their fiancés. At a time when we should do everything possible to cut out unnecessary travel and should concentrate our efforts on our work as never before we find ourselves confronted with greater class absence than we had before the war.

At a recent meeting of the State Board of Education in Richmond the presidents of the four Virginia State Colleges for Women discussed the above problem informally and were agreed upon two probable outcomes of this situation: first, that this increased class absence, coupled with the general anxiety over the war would result in a serious let down in the work of our students, to the extent of causing failures in the work of many of the weaker students; secondly, it was the opinion of a majority that the class absence problem would have to be handled by the individual college teacher. The latter conclusion was based upon the fact that no matter how many excuses a college administrative officer might grant to a student for leaves from class attendance, none of these excuses would affect in any way the students' knowledge of the subjects taught in their respective classes. If the lectures and other classwork done by college teachers is worth anything the absence from classes means an educational loss to students and to many students continued loss of this kind will result in lower grades and course failures.

The same quantity and the same quality of work is required of all students in order to pass a given course. Clearly the standards cannot be lowered for a student simply because she has been absent from some of her classes. The same standards prevail for the student who attends classes irregularly as for the student who attends classes regularly. And the nature of cause of the absence does not affect the loss because of class absence.

It is a recognized fact that some students can more safely take the risk of class absence than other students. They are more capable, they have better habits of study and will, by extra work, make up much of their loss but there are many students who cannot afford to be absent from their classes.

Students must realize that they must assume their own risks when they are absent from classes and that an administrative approval of a class-cut or (See Dr. Duke, Continued on Page 4)

Momma's Lil' Helper

By GEORGETTE CAREW

Dear Momma:

My cooking "daze" are over; at least for a while, anyway. As you know, I just finished up as dinner cook. A busy week of making rolls, pastry, cooking the available vegetables in every manner possible, and the climax of cooking the guest dinner. Little helper, you've had a busy week!

The most interesting factor that I have found in my cooking is the surprise element involved. I was never too sure of the results of my preparation. Little things such as punching down the rolls every time they got enough courage and energy to rise, and rolling and rerolling the pie dough until it looked like a good rubber substitute, all of these things kept me and my housekeeper in a constant state of amazement when they insisted upon turning out quite nicely. I never knew that food could take such good care of itself. Tell Dad that I have at last found the secret to good pastry making, treat it rough and it turns out as flaky and tender as anyone could ask.

Another thing I marvel at is how some cookbooks can be so vague all by themselves, they keep such things as the size of servings and how many they serve a kinda surprise for you. Momma, did you ever try stretching custard recipe that makes enough for six, to fill about ten servings. It really tests out one's ingenuity—and also makes dessert rather on the bland side.

Well, I cooked my guest dinner, and boy, what a time. To start things off with a bang, the housekeeper invites guests that are somewhat of connoisseurs of the culinary arts; thereby putting my feeble attempts in the rank of amateur. But since providence looks out for fools, inebriates, and worried dinner cooks, everything was fine. And so ends my cooking.

Next week I will be at nursery school, playing with the children, more fun—wonder if they have a sand-box.

Bye now.

YOUR LIL' HELPER.

Dash—Sister And You'll Make It Even On Occasion Of Blackout

By Carolyn Reese

Maybe this should be called "On Going to a Movie," but since titles aren't completely necessary let's just say, "Dash, sister—you'll make it."

After deciding to go to a movie on a night on which every one else seems to be studying, we run from dorm to dorm trying to find at least two people favorably disposed to a journey into the inner sanctum of the Virginia or the State. No one wants to go, but very determinedly we are still resolved to go. Let the matter slide for the time being, at least.

After dinner, it seems that every one you asked beforehand has decided that they'll go, anyhow, so now a mob moves movieward and startles the ushers by descending on them en masse. After a minimum of whispering (regardless of what you hear

It has been definitely decided that there will be a Lost Chord hop in the gym on Saturday night of that date, so all of you who think that you wouldn't know how it feels to be on a dance floor again, come out and prove to yourself that you still know how.

Huffman Attends Kiwanis Luncheon

Dr. C. H. Huffman, Madison College professor of English, and Lieutenant Governor of the Fifth Division of Kiwanis International, attended yesterday a luncheon at the new Statler hotel in Washington, D. C.

The luncheon was given as a part of the annual celebration of United States-Canada Good Will Week, established by Kiwanis International twenty years ago.

An elaborate program was given, after which the president of Kiwanis International presented to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a volume containing the signatures of about 40,000 Kiwanians who signed a "Declaration of War by the Unarmed Forces of the United States."

Information please! We want to meet the girl whose first name is Denivere. We have some indications that it's Genivieve—but who knows? If your name is Ann, does it have an -e? Is Jean spelled Jean, Gene or should it be Joan? If your name is Rebekah, do you spell it with a c? Is Smith—S-m-i-t-h or S-m-y-t-h-e? Is Reid spelled Reed, Read, Reade, or Reid? A girl's name is usually Marion; do you spell it Marion? No kidding, this is a serious business. Your handle should be spelled right.

The annual staff is having a time straightening out spelling difficulties. If your name is to be spelled right in the new annual, it wouldn't be a bad idea to check up on it.

TRADE POST

By Leona Bourne

Other campuses seem to enjoy the group singing as much as we do here at Madison. At Hampden-Sydney a group of students got together and decided to invite the community to gather four nights a week for a good old fashioned community sing. And to all the students went this suggestion, "If you go, other people will go, too. Remember that's the way to make any campus project a better success."

The Collegio, Kansas S.T.C. publication, announces a new discovery that should be received with enthusiasm by any girl who finds she has trouble keeping her make-up impeccable—

"To keep lipstick from coming off, eat onions."

With the second war loan drive under way, it might be well for us to remember that there are more important uses that we can make of our allowances than we ordinarily might. To quote from an editorial in The Bullet:

"The bonds your parents buy are not your contribution. Put yourself and your allowance on a war-time basis. There was a time when that allowance was for fun and foibles. And to that end—from now until the war is won—let your conscience, not your whims, decide your spending. To put it baldly, will you buy stomachs or submarines?"

"Remember the slogan: 'They Give Their Lives—We Lend Our Money.' Remember the theme: 'Outfit The Outfit. Back Up Your Man In The Service.'"

Juniors who are having this opportunity may accept demonstration positions for the summer for which they will be paid. The state is sending 14 pressure cookers for use in this test.

Pi Kap Initiates; Honors Members

Pi Kappa Sigma sorority initiated twenty-one girls in the Panhellenic room last Monday night.

Those initiated were: Barbara Barksdale, Ann Camden, Mary Cheatham, Annabel Chilton, Jeanne Fawley, Bonnie Jean Fillingane, Elinor Fitch, Edith Jane Foster, Edith Garland, Calais Gooch, Alice Gurley, June Johnston, Regina Kraus, Edith Layne, Jean McGee, Cornelia Maupin, Marian Mayhew, Martha Myers, Irene Rieder, Georgia Lee Strength, and Toni Willock.

Tonight Pi Kap will honor Catherine Cothran and Jennette Wade at a reception in Alumnae hall immediately after the recital. Guests will include family and friends of the two girls.

The receiving line will be composed of Tommy Harrelson, introducing, Jennette Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Wade, Catherine Cothran, Mr. and Mrs. Cothran, and Mrs. Althea Johnston.

Annual Dance Climaxes May Day Celebration Hal Thurston And His Orchestra To Play

Climaxing Madison's May day celebration on May 8, Madisettes will again don their "stagger-shoes" for the annual struggle in Reed gym. This year Hal Thurston and his orchestra from Richmond will swing high and low for the entire student body from 8:30 p. m. until the wee hours of midnight rolls around.

The gym will be gaily bedecked in pastel colors—pink, green, yellow, and aqua and the windows will be draped with the crossed flags of the allied nations.

The queen, her maids, and their escorts will come from a vine-covered arbor to form the figure.

Chaperons will observe the dancers from behind a white picket fence banked with flowers.

"I'm especially tickled because my husband's name is Robert." Need we ask why?

"I guess the most difficult thing is saying 'cawn't. It just doesn't come naturally."

"So far the only mishap is that I've driven my room-mates bats in getting them to help me."

"I like both the part and play very much. With Miss Harris as our director, it ought to be good!"

Betty Lou Vrooman has become the first girl in many years to cover varsity sports on the University of Minnesota campus. And Jim Peterson, sports editor of the Minnesota Daily, wouldn't be surprised if she wound up as editor before the present school year is up. Jim, you see, is editor No. 3 of the present year. Howie Larson started it, Don Neth took over in midyear and now Peterson is handling things—and using girl reporters. Betty Lou, 19, blond and beautiful sophomore in journalism, took up sports writing on a dare from her classmates. . . . "Teaching Is Guidance; Guidance Is Teaching" Explains Warren, Concerning New Curriculum

By Mary Nelson Ruffin

"We believe now that teaching is guidance," said Mr. Percy Warren, high school curriculum adviser. The new high school manual states that "guidance is teaching and teaching is guidance."

The new high school manual states that by 1945-46 each beginning teacher must have at least two session hours in guidance. This is equivalent to courses giving six quarter hours credit.

"The manual does not take a narrow conception of guidance, but rather the broad position that guidance in the school should be not only vocational and educational, but social and personal as well. It is to help give the teacher background in this area that the requirement has been included for accreditation."

Mr. Warren explained that there are three main differences in the new high school manual. More emphasis is placed on qualitative standards in accrediting and on implementing instruction, and the inter-relationship of school and community is stressed.

The manual also states that by 1945-46 each school must have at least one teacher who is certified to teach physical education, and that all beginning principals must have a master's degree or its equivalent. "It seems as though we'll be having more lady principals, too."

"The new high school manual is a very important bit of educational literature, and all teachers should be familiar with it," Mr. Warren concluded.

Thanks to weather man, the softball tournament has been started and is nearing completion.

So far, the juniors have been undefeated, having won three games. The sophomores have won two games and have lost one, the freshmen have one game to their credit, having dropped two, while the seniors have lost all three of their contests.

Outstanding players for the juniors so far have been Willard, Wright, Fox, Watts, and Van Landingham. Jacobs and Haislip have done the best work for the seniors. Sparking the sophomore team are Berkley and Fisher, while Libby Smith and Gayle Chewning have been outstanding in the freshman team.

Dot Fox, school softball sports leader, says on Monday at 6:45 p. m., the juniors will play the sophomores, on the upper field, while at the same time, the freshmen will play the seniors on the lower field. The freshmen will try a comeback over the juniors and the seniors will try again to beat the sophomores.

Fox announces that at the conclusion of the tournament, the ties, if any, will be played off.

Should the junior team remain undefeated, they will play a game with a team composed of the best players from the other three teams.

Clubs Post Tournament Charts on Bulletin Board

The charts with the elimination tournaments for the Pinquet and Racquet clubs have been posted on the tennis bulletin board in Reed 8.

There will be an open tournament for all who are not members of the tennis clubs. Please sign on the bulletin board in Harrison hall if interested.

Dr. Wiley Is Guest Of Baptist Students

The Baptist Student union has as its guest Dr. Hundley Wiley, representative of the Baptist Foreign Mission board. He was brought here by the Reverend William Fallis, state student secretary for the B.S.U. Dr. Wiley will deliver a sermon at the Harrisonburg Baptist church Sunday morning, May 2, and Mr. Fallis will speak there Sunday night. The service at the church Sunday night will be in charge of the B.S.U., and Marie Van Lear will be the soloist.

Dr. Wiley will be on campus Sunday afternoon for the Y. W. Vesper Service, and Monday, May 3, at 4:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. in the Y. W. room for Student Missionary conferences. He will also speak in Chapel Monday.

Dr. Wiley received his A.B. degree from the University of Richmond. He received his Theological Training from the State Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky. He was a chaplain in the Navy in the first World War, and after the war he went back to the seminary to do post graduate work. He was then appointed by the Baptist Foreign Mission board as a missionary to China. While he was in China, he was professor of sociology at Shanghai university. Dr. Wiley is now doing deputation work for the Foreign Mission board.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend all of these services, and at the conferences on Monday, Dr. Wiley will be glad to hold informal discussions with anyone who desires them.

Juniors Collar Seniors 15-3

On Thursday evening at 7 o'clock the juniors exchanged bats with the seniors and were victorious by a score of 15 to 3.

Irene Wright was high scorer with three runs, followed closely by Fox, Hottinger, Van Landingham, and Watts with two runs each.

Jacobs, Campbell, and Heath scored one run each for the seniors.

The line-up is as follows:

- Jacobs 1B Wright
- Morgan 2B Hottinger
- Bell 3B Sterrett
- Krantz SS Shelor
- Hand LF Willard
- Haislip RF Smith
- Campbell CF VanLandingham
- Partridge C Fox
- Finley Rover

Other class absence simply means that the absence is known and permitted by the college authorities but that no change has been made in the requirements which a teacher may or must demand for the satisfactory completion of a given college course.

In regard to "making up" work missed, it is manifest that when several hundred students miss classes on a single week-end, one cannot expect the college staff to help all of these students "make up" their missed work.

Such a practice would double the work of the teaching staff. The staff has very generously offered to help students make up their work if their absence has been due to illness or some other unavoidable or emergency reason. In order to identify such cases hereafter, administrative approval of leaves of this character will be marked "Emergency."

There has been no change in class-out privileges or in the granting of other leaves at Madison College. There have been no instructions to give automatically any penalty for class absence but I do wish to call to the attention of students that their work will suffer if they miss their classes and they must be prepared to assume the consequences.

The reasons for much class absence may appear to students and to their parents as good reasons and doubtless they are but we cannot escape the conclusion that class absence results in educational loss to students and that too much loss of this kind can seriously affect the work of both the student and the teacher of the class.

We do not wish to adjourn college because of the war. The importance of the education of women is greater than ever before due to the unfortunate absence from college now of many of our boys who would normally be attending college but who instead are patriotically fighting for their country. We can at least redouble our efforts to take advantage of every educational opportunity which we are permitted to enjoy at this moment and which may be denied us too if this great war should unhappily long continue.

I most earnestly request every student and every parent of a student to cooperate with the college in the elimination of all unnecessary class absence.
