Players Feature Collectors Items, Glamor In Up Coming Performance

by Mary Barnes

"Stratford Players has the potential to be one of the well known dramatic groups among the college and community. At this attitude begins Horace Burr's "role" as sponsor and director of Stratford, as director of "Death Takes A Holiday," a twelfth century French work which will be performed in the collection of Countess Mariska, a Hungarian princess now living in America. A unique portrait of Marie Antoinette, painted by an unknown artist when the Princess arrived in France, will be seen. Among the various environmental settings there will be a fifteenth century carved cabinet, a high Prelat of northern Italy, a sixteenth century audience chair from Versailles gardens, and a carved mahogany Madame Recanier sofa.

The Corinthian columns open to the garden will help to carry the play from Death to the entire world is open.

The cast, consisting of aristocratic characters dressed in full costume with the richness of silk, ermine, and expensive perfume. Burr feels that the future of Stratford "teaches the stars." As part of the drive for national recognition, numerous personal performances have been composed for their upcoming performance, Carol Channing, "Dolly," in reply, wished the Players the best of luck and said that "nothing is too good on the stage." The"Glass Bottom Boot." The Federal script was written by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for distribution to theaters.

Students who are members of this committee reported on conditions in the dining rooms which appear to not contribute to the desired goals of providing training in various aspects of food service operation, and the facilities by which our graduates may encounter the dramatist. It is my opinion that it is advisable to establish a special committee of faculty members who will staff and students to conduct a careful study of the food service operation at Madison, and to submit a report with recommendations for improvement of the service to our students.

In conducting this study, it is necessary to mention the idea of the idea and views expressed by them. Nevertheless, it is my duty to state that the committee should meet more satisfactorily the needs of the students who use this facility.

Graduate Returns For Singspiration

Diane Miller, a Madison Alumna, will again present her talents to the student body at the pre-movie sing along this Saturday night. During her four years at Madison, from 1962 to 1966, Miss Miller had a "fire in the belly" and was "outstanding senior," and was listed in "WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES.

Last year, students from 36 colleges in 21 states contacted the University about the upcoming performance. From the Office of the President

I have recently received a report from the Student-Faculty Relations Committee and another report from a special committee of the Women's Student Government Association. These reports made several recommendations, none of which are vitally important to our facilities. Nevertheless, it is my duty to state that the committee should meet more satisfactorily the needs of the students who use this facility.

President Appeals to Junior Class

Juniors—Our class banner has been taken. What do we intend to do about it?

The spray of our class is entirely too widespread. A few people do a lot of work. In our opinion, this is to be expected. Since our resolution year, we have gone separate ways—separates and campus organizations have captured interested juniors.

But does this mean that we have absolutely 100% gone alone? Not even one hour a month to attend a class meeting where voting on important issues is necessary and effects you as an individual as well as a class?

In your interest, the officers placed a class picnic in the hope that a get-together would arouse class spirit. 75 out of 300 juniors attended.

Madison Girls Make Television Debut

by Susan McCrary

"Good evening ... would you like to ask Mr. Holton a question?"

This is how four Madison girls answered the calls to screen their television debuts on WSVA-TV on Friday, October 22, from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. Was it the big event?

Live shot, Holton, Republican candidate for Governor, was in Harrisonburg to make a television appearance and to answer questions concerning his platform which were phoned in by anxious viewers: Pamela Whitecraft, Sue Harvey, Jane Merefield, and Joal Newcomb, Kay Harrington, Linda Nye, Doug Early and Cecilia Richards, Tassie Moore, Klopfenstein, Marilyn Oppenheim, Gardner, Linda Garrison, Abbie Boulware, Peggy Burton, Anne Alford, Linda Ball, Joal Newcomb, Kay Harrington, Mary Jane Heaper. The students who wish to walk, trot, canter and jumping.

The evening was particularly fascinating for we Madison representatives, not only because of the interest in behind-the-scenes activity and the thrill of meeting a prominent politician, but also because of the amusing calls that came in. One irate father insisted that the regularly scheduled program, "Klub Kels," was of much more value to his family and that precious time was being wasted, and an elderly man just thanked the number to let us know that he was a Democrat and to chat for a while. Other callers phoned two or three times, bewildered because their questions were not answered instantly. The whole experience was one that we will long remember.

All of us who took part in the program owe a special thanks to Olen Miller, City Chairman of the Republican Party, who took time out of his very crowded schedule to drive us to the station and give us much-needed moral support. We are also grateful to Barry Kean, a U.Va. student who is Vice President for the Young Republican Club in his spare time; he was kind enough to take all of us out for a snack after the show.

Football is not the only MAA sponsored activity that is attracting the interest of men students on campus. Other activities which are current favorites of Madison men are the tennis intramurals, in which many professors are participat- ing, and the Hearts Tournament, which it was recently decided will not be sponsored by the MAA. All three of these activities have been successful in the past with good participation by men students.

Future MAA activities will be intramural, volleyball and basketball. Both of these sports have been past favorites, but it will take a 100% effort on the part of students' part to make this year's program as successful as past years.

Madison Exhibits Equitation Talents

There will be an Open-House Riding exhibit given by the Madison equitation classes at Oak Manor Riding Stable Sunday, from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m.

The elementary riders performing are: Anne Alder, Linda Ball, Florence Boutein, Peggy Burton, Sue Carroll, Marilyn Carter, Anse Gardner, Linda Garrison, Abbie Kiolplatsen, Marilyn Ophenens, Carol Ritter, Joan Paullin, Cecilia Richards, Tassie Moore, and Mary Jo Hooper. The students will be exhibiting the walk and trot in a type of program ride.

Intermediate riders will exhibit the walk, trot and canter with variations. These demonstrating will be Gail Dymond, Linda Riggs, and Charlotte Reynolds.

Joel Newcomb, Kay Harrington, Linda Ball, Frances Shutter, and Carlotta Hampson will be performing individual program rides of walk, trot, canter and jumping.

Linda Nye, Doug Early and Ann King will be leaving Harrison Arch at 2:30 p.m. and arriving in the car pool at 4:00 p.m.

A tip-up sheet is Keese for the spectators who wish to travel in the car pool.

Let Halloween Go To Your Head

Attention all costume-conscious students: this year's Halloween parties. If you're newly married, or if you've thought about it, or if you've never thought about it at all, here are the essentials for putting together a costume. And yes, there's a costume for everyone.

1. Ears: If you have a weak heart, don't go there Sunday night; but, on the other hand, if you like horror stories, then this is the party for you.

2. Costumes: If you have a weak heart, don't go there Sunday night; but, on the other hand, if you like horror stories, then this is the party for you.

Madison Defeats MB Hockey Team

Madison's hockey teams played Mary Baldwin last Tuesday. The first team was victorious. Captain Sharon Gaunt and left halfback Barbara Beecham scored one goal each in the first half of the game. Mary Baldwin was rare, in Madison's starting team, with Madison goalkeeper Elizabeth Choby touching the ball only twice.
