MC Relinquishes Honor Code

Editor's note: Contrary to usual procedure, the Honor Council has submitted the following minutes of their last business meeting.

The meeting of the Honor Council was called to order December 15, at 6:30 p.m. by Pat Torrence, President. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Since there was no old business, Pat Torrence brought to Council's attention the current apathetic attitude of the student body toward the Honor Code. After some discussion, Council agreed that the cited situation did indicate a lack of student interest. Working on the assumption, that the Honor Council no longer represented the feelings of the student body, it was moved and seconded that the Honor Code be temporarily declared null and void until the end of the present semester. During discussion, the following was suggested:

- 1) Each student will be responsible only to himself for his actions.
- 2) Each student will be solely responsible for his possessions both in his room and elsewhere on campus.

Changes in Procedure:

- 1) It is no longer necessary for any student who has lied, cheated, or stolen to report himself.
  - 2) A student is no longer expected to report any observance of the above.
- The question was raised concerning students not wishing to participate in the above experiment. It was proposed that each student
- 1) Avoid sitting closer than two seats to another person during an examination.

- 2) Beware of those who attempt to discuss study habits.
- 3) Bring coats to your table, as coat racks and umbrella stands have been removed from the Dining Hall.
- 4) Take advantage of the bank's extended hours to accommodate those who will daily deposit change.
- 5) Note the following items now in stock at the Book Store:
  - A) Keys for dormitory rooms.
  - B) Cover sheets for exam papers.
  - C) Sturdy, metal file cabinets with locks.
  - D) Infra-red laundry tape (available with portable fluorescent lamps).
  - E) Super-sealed refrigerator bags.

There was a call for the question. The motion did not carry. The meeting was adjourned at 8:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Honor Council

College Possesses Versatile Library

by Carlotta Hampson

Editor's Note: Since exam time is approaching rapidly and students will be spending many long hours in Madison Memorial Library, it seems appropriate to take a look at the Library in operation.

Over a hundred books are delivered to Madison's library each week. The library receives between five and six thousand books a year.

Most of the books that are ordered have been requested by Madison's faculty. The faculty members fill out a card for each book they would like the library to order.

The library compiles the requests into one list. This list is sent to a dealer who in turn orders the books from the different publishing companies. The library has only one invoice which lessens the amount of bookkeeping.

If a book is out of print the library can put a want ad in American Antiquarian Booksellers, a magazine for booksellers. Or, the library may add the names of the books they need to an exchange list, which circulates among 75 colleges and universities in this area. Included in this list are periodicals and government documents.

The library also buys private libraries. Because of the expanding geology department, the library has bought the private library of a retiring Smithsonian Institution geologist.

There is no set amount of money allotted to each professor or department. A few years ago when the Social Science Department added Geography of Africa and History of Africa to the curriculum the library had only a few books on this subject. At that time a large amount of money went for books on Africa to complement the two new courses.

The library has a collection of rare books. These books, which are available for inspection, are shelved on the fifth stack level in a locked, caged area. Two rare items that the library received two months ago are Vogel Gesang and Das Guldene ABC. Both of these papers were published in the 1700's by Ephrata Press and both are broadside, large single sheets of paper the size of newspaper. Both

Faculty Entertains

The Madison College Faculty Recital Series will present Jon Woods and William-Leland in concert on January 9, 1966 at 4 P.M. in Anthony-Seeger Auditorium.

Mr. Woods, a baritone, has chosen for his program Dichterliebe, Opus 48, by Shumann, L'Invitation du Voyage and Extase by Duparc, and Poulenc's Le Bal Masque. Mr. Woods will be accompanied by William Leland on the piano.

Mr. Leland, Assistant Professor of Music at Madison College, received his Bachelor's Degree from the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and his Master's at the Col-are written in German and were brought to this area by migrating Pennsylvania Dutch.

Vogel Gesang is the only one of its kind known in the world. Mr. Palmer, a geographer at Madison College, said Vogel Gesang is significant because it gives an "excellent example of material used by the early settlers of the Shenandoah Valley."

Das Guldene ABC is a primer that was used by the Pennsylvania Dutch and is one of three known copies. Mr. Palmer explained that Das Guldene ABC was "useful to children learning the alphabet, using religious examples for each of the letters."

Dr. Elmer Smith and Mr. John Stewart, both Madison College faculty members, discovered these two papers. The papers were sent to Ephrata Press in Pennsylvania where they were evaluated. Dr. Smith and Mr. Stewart presented the papers to the library. The Madison College Library is the depository for Shenandoah Valley history and folklore.

The library faculty includes six professional librarians and four clerical assistants. There are thirty student assistants that help keep the library running smoothly. The library is open 82 hours each week with over 300 books being checked out each day.

An addition to the library will be included in the 1966-68 budget for Madison College. If the new addition is approved, it will double the amount of shelving space for books and will increase the seating capacity over 35 per cent.

Rejoice Lucky Ones

Blessed are the poor in health, for they may rest and sleep after exams.
 Blessed are those that fail, for there's always next semester.
 Blessed are those who do not participate in class, for their professor will not recognize them when they repeat the class next semester.
 Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for an education, for they will not have to cram the night before their exam.
 Blessed are the merciful professors, for they shall hear many sad tales.
 Blessed are those who do not cheat, for they shall get more than an A.
 Blessed are the exam-typers, for they shall have many friends.
 Blessed are those who are given a paper to do at the end of the semester, for they shall have no sleep.
 Blessed are you when you have studied all semester, when you have turned all your work in on time, when you have gone to class, and when you have not allowed everything to pile up at the last minute. Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in future life, for so worked the great scholars before you.

Letters To The Editor

Citizen Reverses Thoughtful Article

Dear Consulting Editor:

May I congratulate you on your Christmas message to the boys in Viet Nam "So Be It". Since the armed services prescribe uniformity of dress, uniformity of action and to a certain extent uniformity of thought in the name of survival I like your last line "We reverse your cause — the road to FREEDOM" particularly. We are a pluralistic people with many opinions and many beliefs and we must never forget to allow each to seek and practice the truth he finds dearest as long as this can be done by lawful and constitutional processes. We must remain a free people, with free minds, thinking honestly, speaking sincerely and not afraid to stand up tall enough in righteous principle to see the evils of the world about us — and rebuke them. Here is my $3.00 for the next 25 issues of The Breeze. I will look for more of your superb thinking.

Very truly yours
 Glenn Gildersleeve

Word of Wisdom

Dear Students,

One of the best times of the year when all work is due, term papers must be written, tests are assigned, projects are collected, and to end all this, exams begin in a few days.

The things we did not do as we intended through the semester have caught up with us now. It seems impossible to find the time and energy to complete our work during this short remaining time.

It is vitally important that each of us keep calm at this time and prevent any actions which may cause regret in the future.

As we face this task let us keep in mind that preparation, hard work and faith will enable us to reach our goal.

Honor is extremely important to each individual; to some more so than to others. Nevertheless, it creeps into some part of our daily existence.

We here at Madison are becoming increasingly interested in the problems of fair representation for the accused as well as the best democratic procedures carried out during trials and investigations. An Honor system can only be a success if it meets the needs and interests of the student body, and it is with this in mind that the council has made plans for improving its present system. However, as has been proven over and over again, one organization is absolutely unable to make the necessary progress alone. We need your cooperation, for cooperation is the key-note for successfully carrying out an improved system of Honor.

Clark Byle, Professor of Law, Law School of Harvard University, suggests that "the students be given written notice of the specific charges and grounds which, if proved would justify suspension or dismissal." A student should be represented at a hearing, if he wishes, by a person of his choice. After a decision is met, a student should be given written notice of the decision and reasons thereof.

Yes, we want to improve our system for the Honor Council is a body which is organized not to punish individuals, but to protect and serve all of us. If this is to be done, every student must uphold the system, and cooperation must exist.

After 20 years of observing Honor Emphasis weeks, Honor Council still solicits your support and cooperation.

That's what's wrong with our Honor System? What's your "number one gripe"?

In observing our twentieth anniversary of Honor Emphasis week on January 5-8, 1966, Honor Council held a panel discussion during the regular scheduled assembly program. Participants in this program represented colleges with differing systems. Bridgewater, V.M.I., U. Va., V.P.I., and Mary Baldwin College representatives presented a variety of working Honor systems.

From Thursday's assembly program, you learned of Council's intentions to compose a system, which will provide more democratic procedures for the accused with this in mind, what is your idea of a perfect Honor System? Let us know!

The Honor Council

Future Leaders Lack Knowledge

by Art Buchwald

A recent survey revealed that at least 55 percent of all college students cheat on exams. This was a pretty shocking figure and makes you wonder what type of doctors, lawyers, and engineers we will soon have in this country.

It's 10 years from today and a patient walks into the doctor's office.

"Doctor, I have a sore throat." The doctor takes a peek at his shirt cuff and reads, "Aspirin, gargle and rest."

He pretends to examine the patient and then says, "Take aspirin, gargle and go to bed."

"But doctor, the sore throat is accompanied by nausea."

The doctor begins to perspire. He lifts up his sock, where he has several crib notes pasted against his leg with surgical tape. He reads, "Sore throat accompanied by nausea could lead to complications."

"I'm afraid you have complications," the doctor says.

"What kind of complications?" the patient wants to know.

"I'm not sure. You'll have to return tomorrow after I do some tests."

That night, after all the offices are closed, the doctor sneaks into the office of another doctor on the same floor and breaks into his file cabinet. He finally finds a folder of a patient's symptoms and he copies down what the other doctor prescribed.

The next day the patient comes back, but this time he's broken out all over with spots. He asks the doctor what it could be.

"Is this a multiple-choice question or an essay question?" the doctor wants to know.

"What do you mean?"

"Never mind." The doctor then puts on a reflecting mirror over his eye, but what the patient doesn't know is that printed in tiny letters behind the mirror are all the diseases and what they look like. Under "spots" he has (a) measles, (b) chicken pox, (c) scarlet fever, (d) pillow allergy. There is a tiny red circle under (a).

"I think you've got measles."

"What should I do?" the patient asks.

"Come back tomorrow."

That night the doctor goes over to the hospital and asks if there are any patients with measles in the ward. He stands next to the bed of a measles patient and when the patient's doctor comes in he looks over his shoulder and watches what the doctor does, and makes notes on his shirt tail while the other doctor isn't looking.

The next day the doctor treats his patient in a similar manner.

"Thank you so much, doctor," the patient says. "How much is it?"

The doctor studies the palm of his hand.

Printed so only he can see are the words: "Office calls, $5. House calls, $10."

The patient pays and then says, "There's one thing, doctor. I think I have to have a hernia operation."

The doctor looks under his sock again and the crib note says, "To operate, first sterilize both your hands."

Art Committee Promotes Fairness, Aid

A new organization on the Madison College campus has been born. It has been in operation since the beginning of the 1965 fall session and for this college is a pioneer organization in the nature of its purpose. It is the "Student-Faculty Committee on Art."

This organization is composed of two elected art majors from each class and each member of the art teaching staff.

The purposes of the "Student-Faculty Committee on Art" are:

1. To establish direct lines of communication between art faculty and art students at Madison with a view toward becoming a closer working group.
2. To attempt to better acquaint the art students with all the art professors and their fellow students.
3. To provide a basis for the exchange of constructive ideas between faculty and student with the goal of improving the present program in art.
  - a. To establish an open-ear policy on the part of the art department concerning the academic problems of art students in the individual areas of art study and the areas immediately affecting the study of art.
  - b. To provide a more effective system of guidance in the planning of the students various programs orientated toward specific careers in art.
  - c. To provide stimulus for more professional quality in students work through more varied and improved teaching and learning techniques.

4. To promote publicity for the art department and its activities.

Comments from the members of the art committee indicated that the organization has been successful thus far and hopefully will even better accomplish its purposes in the future. According to Dr. Theodore, head of the department, this committee will be useless unless the art majors co-operate and express their opinions to their class representatives. She indicated that if the organization is successful, it may lead the way to better communication and improvements which will be beneficial to both professors and students.

Swimming Show Portrays Holidays

by Carlotta Hampson

The Porpoise Club gave its annual Christmas Water Show Tuesday, December 14 at 8:30.

There were seven numbers given. In "Do you hear what I hear?" Connie Beall, Sharon Pease, Jill Pritchett, and Joan Garber swam. Linda Winneshiek, Mary Vick, Carole Niesz, Diana Fox, Mary Alice Fowler and Sandy Souder swam to "Rudolph, the Red Nose Reindeer." Pam Carlock and Marcia Atkinson swam to "What Child is this." Carlotta Hampson, Barbara Hand and Cathy Zazanis swam to the poem "Twas the Night After Christmas." Cathy Vastine and Pam Batstone swam to "Jingle Bells," and Kay Ellington, Barbara Gunderson, Janice Gordon swam to "I'm dreaming of a White Christmas." Zan O'Brien, Mary Harmon, Lynn Vawter and Barbara Smith swam to "O, Come All Ye Faithful."

The show ended when the Porpoise members lighted sparklers and formed a circle in the pool. The show lasted for half an hour.

The pool was decorated to depict the Christmas atmosphere and the swimmers wore colorful, Christ-massy costumes.

Dr. Caroline Sinclair of the Physical Education Department helped the Porpoise Club with the show because Dr. Patricia Bruce Gandy read the script.

Chrysalis Needs Written, Art Work

The Criterion Club is accepting manuscripts for the 1966 Chrysalis. All types of literary manuscripts are acceptable — poems, short stories, essays, critiques, short plays, foreign language work.

Manuscripts should be clean first copies, typed and double spaced. All contributions should be submitted to Maury 7. The deadline is March 1, 1966. Anyone interested in contributing art work should see Charlotte Koch in Gifford 205.

There is an award given each year by the Rhinehart Publishing Company for the best manuscript. The Rhinehart Award winner is selected by a panel of judges selected from the college faculty. In addition, Criterion Club is sponsoring a Haiku contest. All Haikus submitted to the magazine will be eligible for the contest.

Panhellenic Council has issued an invitation to all upperclass women to attend a sorority wide open house on Saturday, January 8, at 9:30 p.m. All sorority girls will be in their respective rooms in Hoffman living room. Upperclassmen interested in sororities are urged to attend.

I'VE LOST SO MUCH WEIGHT IT WILL TAKE A MONTH OF PIZZAS, FAMOUS RESTAURANT PIZZAS, THAT IS, TO GET BACK IN SHAPE. SPEAKING OF SHAPE, I HAD THREE DATES WITH LANKY LEWIS THE FAMOUS (THERE I GO AGAIN) BASKETBALL STAR FROM CATAWBA COLLEGE IN NORTH CAROLINA. THAT BOY JUST WON'T EAT — EVERY NIGHT HE WANTED TO SHOOT BASKETS, SHOOT BASKETS, SHOOT BASKETS. THEN THERE WAS DIALOGUE DON, THE FAMOUS (OH, OH) DEBATER FROM HARVARD UNIVERSITY (WHEREVER THAT IS). HE TALKED AND TALKED AND TALKED — ABOUT EVERYTHING BUT FEEDING YOURS TRULY.

MY NEXT VACATION IS GOING TO BE DIFFERENT. I'M GOING TO STUFF MY SUITCASE WITH FAMOUS RESTAURANT FOOD — PIZZAS (WITH GREEK CHEESE), FRIED CHICKEN, SPAGHETTI (WITH MEATBALLS), CHEESEBURGERS (NO ONIONS) AND FRENCH FRIES (PLENTY OF CATSUP). IT WILL BE MESSY UNPACKING, BUT ANYTHING IS BETTER THAN ANOTHER ENFORCED HUNGER STRIKE.

I JUST CAN'T STAND THIS ANY LONGER DIARY — I'VE GOT TO REESTABLISH COMMUNICATIONS WITH THE FOOD AT THE FAMOUS RESTAURANT. I HOPE THEY HAVEN'T MOVED — IF THEY HAVE NO ONE WILL BE ABLE TO FIND THE UNITED STATES POST OFFICE.
