Electoral Board Announces Rules

The following are rules and some procedures:

1. Each candidate is to write an article for the Breeze stating her qualifications and basic platform for that office. These qualifications are to only go back to the senior year in high school.

2. The bulletin boards will be divided among the candidates running for the same office.

3. Regulations for buzz sessions:
   - No food is to be given out.
   - All candidates are to be present at each buzz session to answer questions.
   - Each candidate is responsible for questions. Campaign managers and committee members are not to participate.

4. Two posters are allowed each candidate in the dorms for one night only. Posters must be put up from 8:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. the following morning.

5. There is to be a $3.00 limit on the amount of money to be spent by each candidate for the entire campaign.

6. Campaigns should feel free to invite anyone at any time.

7. All candidates are to give speeches; the time limit shall be set at five minutes.

8. Campaigns shall try to get students to the buzz sessions.

9. Candidates shall join in the conclusion of the speeches.

10. President of the class will get someone in the class to operate a booth.

The Marketplace: Offers Relaxation

by Pam Joffre

Nan Mullen, along with four Madison students—Peggy Latham, Letty and Cherry Marsh, and Pat Strother—are the directors of the Blue Stone, also known as the Blue Stone.

The Blue Stone is a volunteer worker at The Marketplace.

The Marketplace is an organization that helps people and because working there is a service to the church.

The pastry, according to Nan, is delicious. She especially recommends the blueberry muffin supreme, which is a blueberry muffin with a blueberry on top.

The Marketplace, according to its own members, is "set aside for coffee, relaxation, exchange, and action." Because of this, the students can help Nan solve her problems.

Nan, with the help of Dean Toler, secured permission from President Miller for the girls to work and to get a special late formation when they work. The Marketplace is open from Friday nights at 8:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight. The girls work one night a month, from 7:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

When asked about the coffeehouse, Nan said, "I think it's a wonderful thing." She said that she loves working there because of the experience of working with other people and because working there is a service to the church.

Students Need Reading Days

Friday, January 14, 1966, began the exam period; classes ended on Thursday for the ensuing exams. For approximately a 12 hour period students at Madison prepared for the ensuing exams. Many Freshmen group the buzz sessions with compulsory assemblies and dorm meetings. If you know the candidate, the least you can do is to go to the buzz sessions and lend visible support. Why attend if you don’t know the candidates? You can always get a second-hand opinion. Isn’t this the democratic process?

This year there is an attempt to somewhat reverse the trend. If you don’t know the candidates and their platforms, don’t vote. Don’t make a mockery of a privilege.

Technically, every student at Madison has the right to vote. Underlying this is the duty of formulating opinions. In light of school policy, convince me enough to have concrete reasons for your choice. If you don’t take the time to know the candidates and their platforms, don’t waste your time by voting—be honest with yourself and do next year’s leaders a favor.

Janitorial, Groundskeeping Crews Allow Slippery Walks, Dirty Rooms

by George Morrison

It would seem that the janitorial and groundskeeping crew are not the perpetromen of efficiency.

Obviously, janitors dare realize that furniture is not permanently affixed to the floor; it can be moved and stored. While on the subject of the day room, it is the only place men can meet and relax on campus. An integral part of this relaxation is contained in a park of cards. Janitors, it would be greatly appreciated if you are going to throw our cards away, throw them all out instead of just a few which renders the deck unusable.

Alumnas Thanks Monthly Drills

Dear Dean Garber,

It certainly has been a long time since we had an opportunity to sit down and talk, but I hope the miles of the road have not affected you in any way. The real reason I’m writing is to thank you and Madison for those monthly fire drills.

About five o’clock this morning, we were awakened by the sound of our fire bell. After I realized what it was, I used MY MADI-SON KNOWLEDGE TO GET MY HEAVY COAT AND SOME HARD-SONG SHOES, GRAB MY PURSE AND KEYS, AND WALK OUT AND DOW THE STAIRS. The snow was mostly smoke and on another floor, so there was no danger. But I had no way of knowing that when I heard the alarm.

It’s good to know that if there ever is any real danger, we will be warned in time.

Sincerely,

Barbara White

To Dear Editor:

It’s obvious that we don’t pay for food at school but after graduation. The menu announced a good dinner, which built up my dining enthusiasm for the evening. After dinner, I rather enjoy scalloped chicken. The "shush" which one of the waiters slapped on my plate didn’t affect my appreciation. I didn’t even look like chicken, since no trace of chicken was present. There wouldn’t have been so bad had it not been drowned by dirty-dish-water-colored gravy. The smell of the gravy surpassed the mound of string beans present—I can hardly say anything about the casseroles; there wasn’t enough there to taste.

Would anyone care to say that they enjoyed their plate of slop this past week?

thought that because you’re behind a desk, you must be a "dumb butt!" Well, we can only surmise whether the two admirers were needed because Irma didn’t have enough friends or because What’s His Name was in love with them! Then there’s the interesting situation of your floor stating for one of your "unmet" Operation Match buddies. With luck, you don’t cover who he is until "the other switch" and boom out "NO!" Then keep bringing new people with you. The Marketplace will definitely be a success because it will have achieved its goal of providing a relaxed atmosphere in which people can enjoy themselves.

The spokesman’s greeting went, "Hi, there, friends. You don’t know me, but according to that computer in Massachusetts ... I mean this could create a pretty weird situation! Long ago one clock, things began to slow down. You may even be forced to look at that book again. But if you’re a "speak-up" and happen to live in a dorm full of people, there is a remedy for this sad state of affairs. Just tune your intercom in on the rear room and listen to your favorite TV show. Yes, that’s right—don’t you have dates, would you?" How’s that for Irma’s floor, he said, "You wouldn’t happen to know of two beautiful girls who don’t have dates, would you?" How ‘bout that? They think that just because you’re behind a desk, you must be a "dumb butt!" Well, we can only surmise whether the two admirers were needed because Irma didn’t have enough friends or because What’s His Name was in love with them!

The formation of the department involved the recommendation of Dr. Louis Locke to President G. Tyler Miller last spring of the approval of the Board of Visitors in May, and the subsequent approval of the faculty this December.

Watkins was active in women’s intramural sports and has been a member of the Women’s Athletic Association since her freshman year.

Competition Opens For Scholarships

Reed & Barton Silvermiths have announced the opening of their thirteenth Annual Scholarship Competition. The competition, which is open now, is in Reed & Barton's means of providing worthy students with financial assistance as well as a way of compiling an up-to-date library of American taste. All you have to do is match Reed & Barton sterling silver patterns with leading fine china and crystal patterns. Your choices are then compared with those of leading women's magazine editors and the choices which most closely match those of the editors are the prize winners. There are one hundred and ten prizes in all—excluding one $500 scholarship, a $50 scholarship, a $250 scholarship, three $300 scholarships, and four $100 scholarships plus merchantable awards of sterling, china and crystal worth $50 each—all available to the women on this campus. The competition is open only until March 18. You may see the actual sterling featured in the competition and obtain your entry blank from Pat Torrence, Hoffman 112.

(Attention all history scholars who like Pizza)

The Famous Restaurant proudly announces the 2.001 anniversary (we missed last year) of the discovery of Pizza.

— YES, THE GREEKS INVENTED PIZZA —

The Facts: Pizicles, Hercules youngest son, and uncle of Herodotus on his wife's side, called a meeting of all the local swingers — strictly a white sheet affair. On the trip up to the Acropolis' Community Center (an arduous climb), after frequent refreshment stops, Chunky Calippus dropped his brown bag and a bagle rolled (ugh) out.
