Inspecting the new Dormitory are Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. (center) with President G. Tyler Miller, Russell M. Weaver, Rector of the Board of Visitors; Hubert Jones, representative of Wright, Jones, and Wilkerson architectural firm; and Peggy Latham, president of Huffman Dormitory.

The two new dormitories on east campus were officially dedicated during Founder's Day ceremonies last Tuesday. Key to the building, mailed in honor of Drs. Oliver F. Frederikson and Dr. C. Herbert Huffman, retired members of the faculty, were presented to Russell M. Weaver, Rector of the Madison Board of Visitors. Architects Hubert L. Jones, of Wright, Jones and Wilkerson, made the presentation.

Keynoteing the Founder's Day at their way was Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. In a five minute address, Dr. Miller told the large gathering of students, faculty and alumni that the senator, though only recently elected to his position, has made a name for himself in Congress by his support for fighting men in Vietnam.

In his address, a Virginia newspaper publisher (Harrisonburg Daily News-Record and the Winchester Evening-Star) paid tribute to the Secretary of Agriculture, J. Colo. Dr. Moulton's appointment is effective in September. His appointment is effective for one year, and another term will be voted on. In addition, he is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa and is past president of the Association of Teachers of America. Dr. Moulton is a member of the Percy H. Warren Honor Society.

A member of the Percy H. Warren Honor Society is shown membership, they were allowed to receive honorary robes during the tapping. When the members were tapped, they were approved by all voting members of the society.

On Founder's Day, fourteen Madison juniors were tapped into the Percy H. Warren Honor Society. All of the second semester juniors, who were tapped, have an accumulative average of 2.75 or better, and were approved by all voting members of the society.

The Percy H. Warren Honor Society was established at Madison to recognize young men who have established outstanding scholarship, leadership and service. Work on the establishment of the honor society, begins last spring. Dr. L. B. Huffman, president of the Student Government Association Committee which set up the organization, said that college enrollment in the state is now expected to triple in less than 15 years.

"Our economy and society face severe stress if we are not able to meet the challenge of our educational system. If we don't meet the challenge, we face the possibility of losing our young people," the President said.

Dr. Mace is continuing teaching as he fulfills his duties in the department of speech and drama. He is also continuing teaching as a professor of music. Since 1953, Dr. Moulton has had seven publications, the last one being the "Dynamics of Debate," published by Harcourt, Brace and Company. Prior to his present position, he taught at Carnegie College.

Dr. Mace has taught at the University of Virginia, George Washington University and the College of General Studies at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. He holds a B.S. and M.S. degree from Purdue University and a Ph.D. degree from George Washington University. In addition, he has done advanced work at the University of California.

Dr. Mace directed a nationwide tour of Frederikson and "Huffman Challenge to our educational system," the senator said. "What has been termed the "education explosion" has led to an unfortunate specialization in education, in addition, he is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa and is past president of the Association of Teachers of America.

Lack of Attendance Due to Immaturity

Three times a year seniors are asked to don black caps and gowns and attend assemblies. This means only three hours out of 32 weeks.

Certainly this isn't too great a task for a mature, responsible senior to accept. After all, the next year these same students will be expected to hold responsible positions as teachers or businessmen.

What will those "people of the world" do next year when they are asked to attend a teacher's meeting or a board meeting? Will they simply not go as they did Tuesday, March 14, when they were required to attend the Founder's Day assembly?

Rows, twelve to be exact, were left empty because some seniors couldn't put out enough effort to walk to Wilson and sit for one hour to hear Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. speak. In order to avoid this disheartening situation for the college's President, Mr. Harold G. Cassidy, I would like to suggest a way in which the students may improve attendance.

Student government members had to go around the dining halls and Cherry Corner checking for seniors and freshmen. If delinquent students were found, they were asked to go to the assembly or given one week's strict campus sanctions.

This checking system appears juvenile—it is. Juvenile action. It might work to improve attendance for seniors in particular, but to require a small number of students to check the register of seniors in time just as kindergarten children are supervised to make sure they attend their classroom or correct school bus. When the 1967 Parents' Day is held Wed. April 5, only seniors whose parents, even in four years, have not come to even one of their roommate's family on Parents' Day? There are many seniors on which parents are invited to attend class, go to meetings and listen to lectures. Many seniors couldn't put out enough effort to walk to Wilson and listen to Dr. Harold G. Cassidy, the President, give the Founder's Day address. Why would a book, any book, would a book. I'm not saying that this checking system is juvenile—it is. Juvenile action. It might work to improve attendance for seniors in particular, but to require a small number of students to check the register of seniors in time just as kindergarten children are supervised to make sure they attend their classroom or correct school bus.

One may even wonder if these seniors will bother to put on their caps and gowns and walk down the aisle to receive their diplomas?

Parents' Day Not Planned For Parents!

Go To Madam Farrel... Hear About the Future

The sign said, "Madam Farrel, Palm Reader," and I decided to stop and see what my future would be.

Walking toward the attractive stone house which was so quiet and remote, Jane, James, and fortune, I noticed two cars parked in the back yard. One was an "Uber" model,clf driving with their families. The other was a highly polished Cadillac in midnight blue. Perhaps there was a chance my life would get better.

The door was opened by a slim, pretty young woman who could easily have passed for a gossip. She was very attractive, even in the elevated front room that the house dresses the stores. Three young children were whispering behind her, while an older woman, possibly grandmother, sat nearby on a couch.

"Right this way, dear," said the girl.

She took me into a smaller room elaborately decorated with religious relics and overstuffed chairs. There were two straight-backed chairs facing each other in front of an open Bible. She motored me for some time.

"Make a wish, but don't tell me it is," After I had done so, she spread my palm twice then proceeded to read my hand as one would a book.

"Your going to have a happy life," she said with firm feeling. "You will not die of accident or disease, but of old age and from the heart."

"You will be very happy in marriage, and will have three children, Friday and Saturday are your lucky days." It was beginning to sound incredible.

She was well liked by everyone, but only a few close friends. Don't trust everyone and don't tell your secrets and trust to yourself.

"You will change jobs soon. You will be much happier in your new job."

At the age of 33 you will come into an inheritance. It will not be much, but it will make you come comfortable.

For fifteen minutes I was told of my life in dark and wonderful terms that would happen to me in my immediate future. I finally was warned to, "Keep all this to yourself and asked to, "Tell all your friends about it."

I was told what I wanted to hear, and even though she saw no future in me, and no millionaire uncle leaving me his estate, I was promised to make up for it and that but that in itself worth it all.

2 Visiting Scholars To Lecture

Dr. Harold G. Cassidy, a professor of chemistry at Yale University will give a lecture at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21, in Black-

In Planning Stage

A committee of members of the Student Personnel Staff, student officers, and other administrative persons are in the process of preparing a social calendar for next year. For the first time, it is planned that a calendar of events will be printed and distributed at the beginning of the year. Additional activities, of course, are planned during the year, but as many major social events as possible will be given specific dates and facilities on the calendar to avoid conflicts and improve the scheduling.

The next meeting of the committee will be April 27. The committee would like requests for dates as soon as possible in order to begin preparing the calendar. A form for requesting dates is being prepared and will be sent to all organizations in the near future. Any suggestions will be appreciated. They should be given to one of the Student Personnel Deans in Alumni Hall, at Combs Hall, or Lawford Gilman.
