

Lyceum Course Includes Plays After Vacation

Hedgerow Players Will Give Two Performances

'Twelfth Night' Is Matinee Attraction

The Hedgerow players of Rose Valley, Pa., will present Twelfth Night by Shakespeare as a matinee performance and Beyond the Horizon by Eugene O'Neill as an evening attraction in Woodrow Wilson Auditorium early in the winter quarter, according to an announcement made by the Lyceum committee.

The performances to be given here are two of the most attractive numbers of the touring repertory of nine plays, the first being an ever popular romantic comedy and the second a Pulitzer prize winner, and a play carried over from the 1934 touring repertory.

The Hedgerow group of actors was organized in 1923 by Jasper Deeter, who launched the enterprise in an effort to combat the weariness of the commercial stage by establishing a co-operative theatre that would have a large enough repertory to keep actors stimulated and audiences awake.

In the past fiscal year the theatre gave 330 performances from its repertory, the largest in America. The performances have delighted capacity audiences time after time with their inherent love of acting and undercurrent of feeling in the interpretation of every role.

The Hedgerow Theatre, opened in an old building which had once been a mill, has sent forth several outstanding stage and screen stars such as, Ann Harding, Alexander Kirkland, and Libby Holman.

The troupe, with 16 actors on its roster, having been on the road since October will end its tour this March in New York.

Red Cross Holds Successful Drive

The annual Red Cross Roll Call on H. S. T. C. campus ended this past week after a very successful drive led by Eleanor MacKnight. Eighty dollars was the total amount collected on the drive from the student body.

Jackson Hall, a freshman dormitory, led in the contributions and the number of members enrolled.

This drive was sponsored by the local chapter of the Red Cross of Harrisonburg of which Mrs. W. J. Gifford is president. The local chapter said this year's drive on H. T. C. campus was one of the most successful in sometime, as more girls seemed willing to co-operate and contribute.

New Office Built For Miss Turner

A new office is being built for Miss Clara G. Turner, head dietitian at H. T. C. It is to be back of Miss Turner's old office, where the cold storage system used to be.

The office will be furnished with a desk, chairs, bookshelves and pictures. The walls are to be ivory. A small adjoining cloak closet is being made. The office may be entered by coming through Miss Turner's old office, or by way of the corridor. The new office gives Miss Turner more space and privacy. Miss Margaret Rucker will carry on the business side of that department in Miss Turner's old office.

Students Choose Campus Beauties

In accordance with a plan launched by the 1936 Bugle staff at V. P. I., the local yearbook staff recently held an election to determine the six most beautiful girls on campus.

Frances Wells, Suffolk; Elizabeth Gilley, Axton; Louise Garniss, Bloomfield, N. J.; Margaret Newcomb, Formosa; Melva Burnette, Leesville; and Mary Bryant Cox, Independence; were the entrants selected by popular vote.

Pictures of these girls will be sent to the Bugle staff to be judged by a nationally known authority. The winner will be featured as "Miss H. T. C." along with representatives from other leading women's colleges in the state.

Y.W.C.A. To Give Annual Pageant Thursday Night

"The Shepherd's Visions" Is Under Director Of Mary Cox

Plans are being completed for the annual Y. W. C. A. pageant, "The Shepherd's Vision," which will be given Thursday night, December 12, in Wilson Hall. Under the direction of Mary Cox, rehearsals began this week with the promise of an impressive Christmas program.

The opening scene is laid in the pastures while the shepherds are watching their flocks. Suddenly they see the Star of the East and they leave immediately to follow it. The little shepherd boy is left behind to tend the sheep, but he falls asleep to have a wonderful vision.

This vision takes the form of the manger scene with the Madonna and the Christ-child the center of interest. A procession representing every walk of life comes to worship the baby and to bring their gifts. Soft music and choruses will be furnished by a concealed choir throughout the entire pageant.

The identity of the Madonna, elected by a student body vote, will be kept secret until her appearance on the stage that night.

Those taking part are: Joseph, Catherine Warner; Shepherd boy, Nell Cox; 5 shepherds, Doris Bubb, Myra Pittman, Louise Faulconer, Nell Williams, and Lucy Clarke; Angels, Helen Shutters and Belle Kreiger; 3 Wise men, Anne Van Landingham, Margaret Turner and Mae Woodson, Rich man, Virginia Oakey; Laborer, Anne Wood; Princess, Eleanor Taylor; Sage, Helen Madjeski; Child, Agnes Dingleline; Youth, Sue Quinn; Maid, Aileen Cox; Group of Pilgrims, Elizabeth Rawls, Elizabeth Gilley, Margaret Hottle, Hazel Koontz, Elizabeth Schumacher, Beth Cosby, and Anita Wise.

Recital Given In Music Hall

Sixteen members of Miss Michael's piano class gave a recital at the Music Building on Tuesday evening, December 3 at 8:30. The following girls took part in the program of classical and semi-classical numbers: Margaret Carrico, Alva Moyers, Juliet Shell, Lucille Whitmire, Virginia Rader, Jean Bundy, Amarylas Homan, Lorraine Luckett, Margaret Fitzgerald, Faye Icard, Lois Gear, Helen Hardy, Elizabeth Rawls, Margaret Pittman, Dorothy Belle Gibbs, and Katherine Stone.

Stratford Chooses Associate Members

Selected From Groups Which Helped Produce Recent Play

As a feature of the new movement in dramatics on campus, associate membership has been granted to those students who have proved themselves capable of carrying dramatic work in various fields. Those students who have earned associate membership in the field of staging are: Eleanor Thompson, Alice Marshall, Faye Icard, Amarylas Homan, Louise Hankla, Sue Belle Sale, Nina Hayes, Elsie Grove, Louise Ellett, Rose Duggins, Virginia Lee, Ruby Tyree.

Those who, as actresses and understudies in the recent production, Nine Till Six, received associate membership are: Elizabeth Dalke, Virginia Blain, Anne Fearnow, Mary Elizabeth Stuart, Frances Douglass, Eleanor Harrison, Mildred Garnett, Ruth Rule, Dorothy Day, Anna Bailey, Mary Clark, Mary Sampson, and Louise Garniss.

Dorothy Beach, as one of the assistant directors; Cora Mae Fitzgerald and Doris Fivecoat, as members of the properties committee; Doris Dubb, as assistant business manager; Flora Heines, member of the make-up squad; Mrs. Morrison, head of poster committee; and Mirian Rosencrans, overseer of draperies, were also elected to associate membership.

Assistant Editors Of 1936 Annual Are Announced

Margaret Newcomb Appoints Entire Business Staff

Ethel Cooper, Winchester, and Susan Quinn, Richmond, were announced this week as first and second assistant editors, respectively, of the 1936 Schoolma'am by Evelyn Pugh, Edom, editor.

Other directing members of the annual staff are: Margaret Newcomb, Formosa, business manager, and Helen Madjeski, Elizabeth, N. J., snap-shot editor. The newly announced first assistant, E. Cooper, has also served as art editor of the yearbook.

The entire business staff appointed by M. Newcomb include Frances Ream, Margaret Peak, Christine Newcomb, Goldie Cohen, Louise Ellett, Elizabeth Cosby, and Irene Collins.

The art work will be completed in a week and sent to the engraver by December 15. Members of the art staff are Irma Driver, Vergilia Pollard, Frances Grove, Sue Belle Sale, Bernice Sloop, Barbara Moody, Lucille Webber, and Linda Barnes.

Broadcast Given By Alice Thompson

Alice Thompson was presented in an organ recital over the Harrisonburg broadcasting station, W.S.V.A., on Thursday, December 5. This was one of a series of broadcasts which are given each Thursday by members of Mrs. Vera Melone Conrad's organ class. Others who have played on these programs are Emma Dunbar, June Sprinkle, and Elsie Jarvis.

Alice Thompson, who broadcast for half an hour from the console of the organ at the Harrisonburg Presbyterian Church, played six selections from the Classical Composers. Her program included:

- Grand Chorus*—Guilmant
- Lullaby*—Brahms
- Grand Mother's Knitting, Andante Cantabile, and the Love of Heart*—Tschaikowsky.
- Prelude in D.*—Bach.

Teachers Speak On Richmond V.E.A. Meeting

Optimism And Increased Appropriations Characterize Convention

Financial Status Of Va. Reviewed

The meeting of the Virginia Education Association held in Richmond last week was characterized by a spirit of optimism concerning improved courses of study as well as increased financial appropriations, members of the faculty who attended the conference of Virginia educators told the students of the college at their regular assembly Wednesday morning.

Dean W. J. Gifford gave a brief summary of the finances of the state, pointing out that Virginia is not a poor Commonwealth in consideration of the $141,000,000 paid last year in taxes to the Federal government. In appropriation of funds, however, the state spends three times more money on roads than on schools, the amounts being around $23,000,000 for highways and $7,000,000 for public school support. Dr. Gifford cited as evidence that the state of Virginia is going to fulfil her plain duty of providing an efficient system of public schools the facts that some new members of the legislature had been elected who had fought their campaigns on the school issue, that gubernatorial candidates are vying on the problem of educational support, and that Dr. Sidney B. Hall's plan of a minimum salary of $720 a year for teachers has rapidly won approval.

Dr. Gifford also analyzed the position of Thomas W. Ozlin, considered the "dark horse" candidate for governor in 1937, in relation to schools and teachers. Mr. Ozlin is a backer of the Hall plan of minimum salary for instructors and proposes that the present revenues of the state be diverted into appropriations to finance the teacher salary plan. Mr. Ozlin, Dr. Gifford pointed out, is not in favor of levying new taxes but suggests that the state obtain the necessary $5,000,000 for Dr. Hall's plan from the following sources: franchise and road taxes paid by commercial highway traffic, taxes on out of state motor vehicle carriers not now taxed in Virginia, profits of the ABC board, consolidation of higher education in Virginia, beer excise taxes, additional taxes on steamboats, and from an adequate tax on the pipe line crossing northern Virginia.

Music Students Try For Scholarship

Try-outs for the Aeolian Music Club scholarship will be held Tuesday at 4:30 at the Music Conservatory. The purpose in offering this scholarship which provides for private instruction in piano, voice, or violin, is to give a talented girl who is now financially unable to study the chance to do so. The Aeolian members with the help of the music faculty will decide upon the winner.

Last year the scholarship was awarded to Luemma Phipps, Galax, in voice.

Attention

All girls interested in trying out for the BREEZE staff next quarter, meet in the staff room in the basement of Reed Hall after assembly next Wednesday.

We consider it high time something was being said through this column about the chapel singing. We don't have any chords to strike and we can't "hum" any pitch, but we do want to add our bit to the current exhortation to sing.

Now is the time when a student's fancy sadly turns to thoughts of things she hasn't done. Now is also the time to question the wisdom of taking so many week-ends "off."

What about an organization in dancing as far-reaching as the new one in dramatics? In a school the size of ours, esthetic dancing should be given a prominent place among extra-curricular activities and should certainly be recognized as one of the leading arts. Are students interested?

The response to the "favorite poll" hasn't been so good. What's the matter—have you given it up in disgust or just forgotten it?

These days it seems very, very hard to find an optimistic side to life and even the silver lining seems tarnished. Perhaps it's the weather; perhaps it's the approaching exams. Anyway, we have heard the merits of the teaching racket questioned by several students lately and we don't like it. This is a professional school, intended to train professionally-minded people. At the same time, we can't point out any definite reasons why teaching should not be questioned by prospective school-ma'ams. It just isn't the right spirit. Maybe Roosevelt has grown tired of teaching the alphabet, too!

The printer had just as well stick "Much Ado About Nothing" at the head of this column.

Seriously, we think the plan of the weekly assembly periods for this quarter has been excellent. It has been infinitely worthwhile to hear authorities in various departments of the state speak on the problems facing Virginia today. We also think the series of lectures should prove especially beneficial to those who are planning to teach in the state.

Incidentally, we must add that we have not made the same mistake in regard to the chapel programs that we did last year. The programs have been supervised and carefully planned this time!

The playing of the hockey team has been essentially negative this season. It seems that the process of holding the opponents to a scoreless tie has become a highly developed technique. Considering the loss of a number of last year's varsity players, however, we think the squad has done remarkably well to sustain only one actual defeat.

There has been the usual deluge of complaints about the Schoolma'am pictures this year. Some students are just too modest to admit their pictures are good, while others hope to increase their charms by disputing the accuracy of the camera. As is always true of work in an improvised studio, much complaint is justified, but we believe part of it would be cleared up if a general campaign for better lighted mirrors were staged on campus.

Now Playing—

By ILA ARRINGTON

Cold Weather, a Mother Nature production, has begun its third week's run at the College Campus. This play, extremely realistic in depicting life in the raw, has been received with various reactions. Some few, most of those being from the North, are very enthusiastic over it, but the Southerners are rather hesitant in pronouncing it a success. But, on the whole, in reaching more people, it has been one of the most talked of productions of the season.

The box-receipts (in forms of Kleenex and brown and white pills) have gone soaring. Judging from its bombastic beginning, it is expected to run for at least four more months.

Despite the fact that Cold Weather is only a new combination of many age old themes, and lacks a definite plot, Mother Nature has turned it into a sensational drama. The plot which, in the main, hinges on the illness of many students, is successfully carried out by the three main characters, Snow, Rain, and Wind.

The play is odd in that the leading part is carried by a bitter and jealous lover (of chapped hands and faces), forcefully interpreted by Wind. Rain's part is that of an unwelcomed visitor who insists upon arriving at the most inopportune time, even, sometimes, accompanied by his valet, Sleet. Snow's light, airy and playful performance adds the spice of the drama.

Quinn's Column

By SUE QUINN

He was telling us what a delightfully interesting episode we might witness from the Rock of Gibraltar, should Italian warships and airships let loose on those of England. "Wouldn't it be a spectacular scene?" he asked.

I replied that an erupting volcano throwing its molten death was no less spectacular, and further added. "But who wants to stand on the brim of one?"

That's the way most of us feel about these examinations that our professors will be launching at us. They will be spectacular enough, but who really wants the judgment seat?

The only difference between Italy's attack on Ethiopia and faculty's attack on student body is that Italy is without granted rights for invasion, while the faculty have exclusive rights of investigation. But we admit also that Ethiopia couldn't prevent herself from getting into the dispute, while in our cases it was our own forethought and intention that put us in our situations.

On the other hand we can place Italy and our faculty on a parallel. How long will Italy last without territorial expansion and new undrained natural resources? How long would our faculty exist without student enrollment?

Italy is a civilized nation strengthened by the products of scientific research and manufacture. Ethiopia is a young nation composed of a primitive people who still sharpen knives at the sound of war. Our faculty is a dignified body of shrewd diplomats, each of whom is well versed in his respective art or science, and who in general may be called the "intelligentsia." The student body is yet a group of people, primitive though exposed to culture, and poor in knowledge compared to the wealth of learning it is privileged to master.

Ethiopia is fighting the civilization which doubtlessly can make her a better nation. The students subject themselves eagerly or indifferently to the knowledge for which they are paying.

Ethiopians are not barbarian nor extremely primitive, but they can use the higher type of civilization that the Italians will introduce to them. The students are not a flock of ignoramus, but certainly can use the brain food offered them here. Many of them need it!

Who of us can afford to carry the mark of poor scholarship?

Dr. Gifford deserves attention for the great interest and large amount of time he has devoted to the personal problems of students. He talked with sixteen students in his office Thursday night.

science department of the college, outlined the program adopted by the association which is to be presented at the coming session of the Virginia Legislature, and which features a minimum salary and an actuarially sound retirement law for teachers, and also includes a recodification of school law.

In speaking on the program for higher education, Dr. Williams stated that it was generally agreed at the meeting that students come to college unprepared in English, mathematics, and other fundamentals, this situation being not entirely the fault of the students but in many cases of the curricula. The product of the elementary schools could be improved, he stated, by the adoption of the minimum education program which would raise the salaries and thus bring about the employment of more capable teachers.

Dr. Williams mentioned the approval of the appointment of a science supervisor in the State Department of Education in order to get some much needed equipment in the primary and secondary schools as the main accomplishment of the meetings.

Martha Way went with her parents to Blacksburg last week-end.

Nell Williams visited Gertrude Ashenfelter at her home in Edinburg.

Mary-Clare West was the guest of Dollie Mott in Charlottesville last week-end.

Louise Hogan was the guest of Edith Hogan on campus recently.

Many of the alumnae returned to Harrisonburg to visit on campus during the Thanksgiving holidays. These were: Sirka Keto, Frances Rand, Dorothy Gillen, Catherine Mathews, Kay Carpenter, Fannie La Neave, Sue and Frances Jolly, "Mike" Buie, Louise Aldred, Nancy Turner, and Audrey Slaughter.

An informal tea was given by the Athletic Association last Saturday afternoon in Alumnae Hall after the Varsity-Alumnae hockey game.

The varsity and alumnae squads were present. Light refreshments were served.

Sirka Keto, an alumna, played and sang several piano selections.

The following girls spent Thanksgiving day off campus: Isabelle Bailey went to Staunton, Larline Barksdale to Elkton, Annie Sue Bales to Strasburg, Maria Bowman to Staunton, Ruth Brumback to Harrisonburg, Mary Cox to Roanoke, Cecil Covington to Fairfield, Francis Douglas to Grottoes, Ethel Dower to Mt. Sidney, Zena Gilkeson to Fairfield, Leona Hammon to Crabbottom, Craddock Hammersley to Elkton, Anne Hedrick to McGaheysville, Jane Lockwood to Woodstock, and Alice Richman to Fairfield.

Melva Burnette, Marguerite Holder, Frances and Ayleen Goalder, and Anne Parliapiano attended the football game in Charlottesville on Thanksgiving day.

Marion Townsend went to the V. M. I.-V. P. I. game in Roanoke on Thanksgiving.

Agnes Arnold was the guest of Jane Logan over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Gretchen Foskey was the guest of Mrs. B. F. McClung in Waynesboro recently.

Louise Garniss was the guest of Mrs. I. D. Wilson in Blacksburg last week-end.

Adelaide Houser visited Louise Faulconer in Unionville over the past week-end.

Josephine Miller went to her home in Woodstock last Saturday.

Dollie Mott went to her home in Charlottesville for the past week-end.

Caroline Schaler visited in Washington, D. C. last Saturday and Sunday at her home.

Linda Barnes attended the ring dance at V. M. I. in Lexington last Saturday.

Miss Julia Robertson, director of training in Home Economics at the college, described the improved status of that field in the tentative course of study now being tried throughout the state. She also described the high-spots of addresses given by Miss Frances Saunders, state director of girls' work in the National Youth Administration, and Mrs. Dora S. Lewis, representing the United States Home Economics Division, and who is now assigned to duty in the Pacific region. Miss Saunders pointed out that Virginia had played a pioneer part in the National Youth movement, state leaders feeling that there were entirely too many girls and boys between the ages of 18 and 24 who had a training too small to fit them for their places as citizens. Thus the data was collected on the interests, aptitudes, and other needs of over 100,000 youth in the state and the attention of other states was drawn to the movement in Virginia. Miss Lewis gave a challenge to the home economics teachers in informing them that the consumer problem of wise buying was an important part of education.

Miss Marie Alexander, supervisor of the first grade, Main Street School, outlined the new emphasis in art work in the schools. "Art is not taught as a subject but as a necessity in working out everyday problems. Art gives more meaning to the subjects such as history and geography.

Teachers Attend V.E.A. Meetings During Holidays

Miss Anthony Presides Over Teacher Training Section

Members Of Faculty Speak Before Group

Faculty members of the State Teachers College, the training school staff, its alumnae, and others well-known to Harrisonburg educational circles played prominent roles in the annual meeting of the Virginia Educational Association which convened at a central point in Richmond, November 26-29.

Miss Katherine M. Anthony, director of the Training School, presided over the teacher training section which met Thursday, November 28, in the club room of the Capital Hotel. She also spoke upon "Practical Suggestions for the Adaptation of the Course of Study to Primary Grades" in the meeting of the department of rural education which met in the John Marshall High School auditorium, Wednesday, November 27.

Miss Genevieve Warwick, supervisor of home economics at Bridgewater, which is a part of the teacher-training plant of S. T. C., presided over the home economics division which met Wednesday at the Hotel John Marshall.

Other college faculty members who appeared on the program of the V. E. A. as speakers are: Dean Walter J. Gifford who discussed "The 1935 Yearbook of the National Society of College Teachers of Education and Its Bearings on Teacher Education in Virginia"; Professor Conrad T. Logan who in the English teachers' section used the topic "Prevision for the Sedulous"; and Miss Marie Alexander, first grade supervisor at the Main Street School, was one of the two speakers upon "How We Use the Art Suggested in the New Curriculum in Teaching the Children in Our School." Mrs. Josephine N. Fagg, principal of the Fort Lewis School, Roanoke County, and who is an alumna of S. T. C., also discussed the latter topic.

B. L. Stanley, principal of the Harrisonburg High School, was a member

Display Of Paintings By Virginia Artists Shown In Wilson Hall

Exhibition Of Fashion Prints Also Given For Two Weeks

An exhibition of water color paintings by a group of outstanding artists of Virginia and of fashion prints of the nineteenth century, sponsored by the Virginia Art Alliance, closed last week after being given for two weeks in the art rooms on the third floor of Wilson Hall. In assembling its exhibitions, the Art Alliance which has headquarters at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond, aims to include the work of artists from all parts of the state, thereby giving those in the various localities their proper recognition.

The exhibition on fashions of the nineteenth century included fifty prints, among them the Peterson and Godey types.

Among the twenty-one water colors in this exhibition was one by Glenna Latimer, of Norfolk, entitled "Old Farm House." Miss Latimer has recently illustrated a book by Bessye B. Walton also an artist of Norfolk.

Other exhibits to be held at the college this year under the sponsorship of the Virginia Art Alliance will include those of paintings by Charlottesville artists entitled The Lancaster Photos. Reproductions of Mexican paintings by Riviera; examples of original oil paintings of the extension department of the University of Virginia and the works of high school pupils of four Virginia cities.

of the panel discussion of the problems of the installation of the revised curriculum which was held in the social studies group.

Other alumnae of the S. T. C. who had an active part in the meeting are: Dr. M'Ledge Moffett, dean of women at the Radford S. T. C.; Mrs. Rosa H. Loving and Miss Mary McNeil. Dr. Moffett discussed "Traffic Lights of Education," and "Creating a Favorable Parental Support of the Course of Study." She also led a discussion upon "A Valuable Asset in Promoting an Understanding and Appreciation of the Revised Curriculum" at the meeting of the Co-operative Education Association, which is the Virginia Branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and which also met on Wednesday. Mrs. Loving presided over the dinner meeting of the vocational education section which met at the Hotel John Marshall roof garden on Wednesday.

Miss McNeil of the Culpeper H. S. spoke before the department of classroom teachers upon "Problems in the Use of Materials."

Additional speakers of interest to Valley Educational Circles were: Mrs. Gertrude R. Peery, teacher of Latin in Handley High School, Winchester, and Alexander Hudgins, editor of the

German Books Are Placed On Exhibit In Harrison Hall

Collection Includes About Two Hundred Books Of All Types

A book exhibit featuring German fine printing and bookbinding is on display in the reference reading room of the library of the State Teachers College from November 25 until December 7.

The collection contains about two hundred books dealing with such varied subjects as art and literature, music, history, science and travel. Of especial interest are the children's books, encyclopedias, reproductions of famous paintings and some modern novels by typical and outstanding German writers. Works of a controversial nature are entirely excluded.

The exhibit, which is circulating among the outstanding American colleges and universities is being sponsored by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, an organization founded about five years ago by a group of generous and broadminded Americans to enrich the life and thought of the American people by acquainting them with the cultural contributions of the Germans, Austrians and German Swiss. The Foundation bears the name of Carl Schurz, who is considered the greatest American of German birth. He distinguished himself in civil service and Indian reform and held such important positions as minister to Spain, U. S. senator, and Secretary of the Interior. The book exhibit is one of a number of activities now being undertaken by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

This exhibit came to the college direct from an exhibit at Hood College, Frederick, Maryland. Last year they were exhibited at several Virginia Colleges among which were Sweet Briar and Randolph-Macon Colleges for Women.

Varsity Defeats Former Players In Annual Game

Alumnae Lose By Score Of One To Nothing

Fast Moving Game Played By Both

Winning by a score of 1 to 0, the varsity hockey team of the State Teachers College met the Alumnae team in their annual clash on the college field Saturday afternoon.

Saturday's game, the first seen here this fall by local hockey fans, was considered one of the fastest and closest contests ever held between Varsity and Alumnae. Usually the games are slow due to the lack of practice by members of the Alumnae squad after their graduation from college.

The advances were well alternated by the two teams thus affording a "good game" for the spectators. Both goals were threatened an unusually large number of times. Outstanding work in distributing the ball was done by Louise Allred, Winston, Salem, N. C., center-forward for the Alumnae and Anne Van Landingham, Petersburg, who played in the same position for the varsity eleven. The one point scored was made by Van Landingham in the last half with a swift pass beyond Frances Rand, Amelia, goal keeper of the Alumnae team.

The line-ups of the Alumnae and Varsity teams respectively were as follows: Katherine Bowen, Weyers Cave, and Nancy Darwin, New York, as right wings; Lucy Coyner, Staunton, and Rae Gerrard, N. Y., as right inners; Allred and Van Landingham as center forwards; Sirka Keto, New York City, and Sylvia Kamsky, Richmond, as left inners; Alpha Spitzer, Broadway, and Margaret Shank, Harrisonburg, as left wings; Anna Lyons Sullivan, Harrisonburg, and Margaret Poats, Charlottesville, as right halfbacks; Lucille Prediger, Tannersville, N. Y., and Marguerite Holder, Winston-Salem, N. C., as center halfbacks; Lucy Clark, Culpeper and Margaret Byer, Hagerstown, Md., as left halfbacks; Marjorie DeMott, N. Y., and Bessie Watts, Clifford, as right fullbacks; Emily Pittman, Suffolk, and Helen Mae Ellan, Harrisonburg, as left fullbacks; and Frances Rand, Amelia, and Margaret Thompson, Lexington, as goal-keepers.
