Committee Plans Screning Process For Students In Teaching Curricula

Madison College reemphasizes its purpose of stressing quality rather than quantity this Monday, October 1, 1956, when Dean Warren appointed a Sub-committee of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to study the purpose of considering recommendations concerning students who should be permitted to continue to prepare for teaching.

The entire program has been under consideration since October 21, 1954, when Dean Warren appointed a Sub-committee of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to study the purpose of considering recommendations concerning students who should be permitted to continue to prepare for teaching. The entire screening process places emphasis on sophomores.

Sections 7 and 8 below apply specifically to both juniors and seniors.

Purposes of the screening are stated in the next section above, exploring the program in detail and answering all questions raised by members.

Listed below are the ten major points of the screening program:

1. All students admitted to the college who wish to examine the students in teacher preparing curricula have a dual purpose:
   a. To screen students who wish to continue in the teacher preparing curricula;
   b. To detect at an early date those deficiencies of the student which are unsuitable for teaching careers and attempt to guide them into more appropriate careers.

2. That the Counseling and Screening Committee should examine the students in teacher preparing curricula curricula have a dual purpose:
   a. To screen students who wish to continue in the teacher preparing curricula;
   b. To detect at an early date those deficiencies of the student which are unsuitable for teaching careers and attempt to guide them into more appropriate careers.

Influx At Madison Creates Selectivity

An all-time high in applications for admission to Madison College has resulted in greater selectivity among applicants, according to a recent report from the Office of Admissions.

Admissions Director William J. DeLong reported a record 701 applications for admission prior to the opening of Madison this week.

Reviewing applications by classes he found Monday, DeLong stated that from among the 701 applications 145 students were approved for entrance. Another 175, or 25%, withdrew voluntarily because of unsuitability at other colleges, he said.

Total number of approved applications was 441, or 65%, of those receiving admission.

DeLong also noted the trend of old students returning to Madison this year as in previous years. The increased enrollment will come from two sources: (a) A steady stream of students returning to Madison College, and (b) the student's curriculum; as well as other criteria as possible listed in 3 above, and initiate guidance with those individuals who seem unsuitable for the teaching profession. The Committee shall point out to such individuals before they register in the spring for their junior year those deficiencies which should be removed in order to continue in the teaching curricula. The Breeze

Founded 1922

Come on kids, let's take in a movie before those studies have us bogged down!

Summer school really isn't as bad as you make it sound. MC is now living in California. For most of this year's school year, she has been a student at U.C. Berkeley. Pat's biggest regret is that she wasn't able to stay on the Berkeley campus, but she says she's glad she did. The Berkeley campus is a great place to be. She says that the atmosphere is very relaxed and that everyone is friendly. She also mentions that the food is great, and the weather is perfect. She says she misses the East Coast, but she's glad she got to experience California.

The next issue of The Breeze will be published on September 10th. We will be featuring articles on various campus events, as well as interviews with students and faculty. We are also looking for contributions from our readers, so please submit your articles to the editor, Miss Clara Childs.

Thank you for reading The Breeze. We hope you enjoy the next issue.

"Dream Of A Lifetime" Materializes
As 'Rings And Pins' Invade Madison

Summer is a romantic time of the year according to the wedding bands, diamond rings and pins being shown around campus.

Wedding bells rang for Phyllis Walls and John Craig, who is a graduate of U. Va., Nancy Whitter and Tommy Markham, and Annalee Scott and Bob Cunningham. Glenna Orrell married Bobby Bennett, now in the army and stationed in New Mexico. Becky Combo is engaged to Billy Eye, who is serving in the army and stationed in New England. Martha Duke is wearing a V. P. I. miniature from Jim Brett; Ann Perkins a miniature from Dick Sale, and Carole McCormie is wearing a V. P. I. ring from Will Brown. Jerry Read is proudly displaying a miniature from Jack Peter, who works at Niagara Falls.

Playing like the typical junior these Kay Ballagh was feebly attempting to work her way through the numb in the dining hall lobby. In her little effort to get to Junior dining hall, she found it necessary to ask the "pardon" of and above a few by-standers.

Imagine her pathetic shame when she looked up and realized her last name was Deen Wilkins.

Madison Now Gets Female Instead Of U. S. Male At P. O.

Have you taken a peep through the post office window and been greeted by a pretty lady with a friendly smile? Well, if you expected to find a postal master, you were wrong. Madison has a new postal mistress.

Mrs. Anna Armentrout has assumed the duties of filling the mail boxes and keeping Madison's post office in order. To help with the many details and especially with those packages, you'll find Mr. Montie Armentrout beside his wife in the morning hours of the post office's day.

The Armentrouts are residents of the city of Harrisonburg. Their family consists of two children, a five year old boy and a nine year old girl. Mr. Armentrout has been a mail carrier for the city for thirty-five years of the city of Harrisonburg. Their family consists of two children, a five year old boy and a nine year old girl. Mr. Armentrout has been a mail carrier for the city for thirty-five years, thirty years by foot and six by truck. Following his retirement in October, he plans to work in Madison's post office and also to sell insurance.

Our postal mistress, Mrs. Armentrout, claims no previous experience in mail service work. In spite of this, she feels quite familiar with the type of work because of her close cooperation with the postmasters throughout the years. She enjoys the work and hopes to soon overcome the difficulties which she so far has encountered. When asked for helpful hints to Madison students, she suggested the paying of box rent in order for the students to receive the excess mail which is collecting in her office. For a second helpful hint, she suggested that students cease to slam box doors for the preservation of the glass windows.

For those of us at Madison who have wondered why Mr. Robinson, our postal master for ten and a half years, is not with us again, he has retired and moved to California to work there. Madison owns him many thanks for years of efficient and cheerful service.

Madison now claims our new postal family, Mr. and Mrs. Armentrout, and hopes that their work is pleasurable and rewarding. Each of us offers them our patience and cooperation even though we like to find a better or a package in our post office box each day.

Sports Chat

With Pat

By golly, here we are again all ready to go with another year of college. To all the freshman, howdy", it's so nice to have you around, to the old students, nice to see you back.

Intramural sports are back on the scene once again. The sports leaders have been busy running around campus putting up sign-up sheets in the dorms and making up a schedule to make their sport the best ever. So come on gals, sign up in your dorm and let's go on a roll. Intramural hockey practice started last Thursday with twenty-two girls reporting. Anyone else who still has a desire to play, come on out. Our first game is on October 6 with the "ole Arch rivals" Westhampton.

Intramural hockey began on Tuesday with just a few enthusiasts showing up. No experience is necessary, so come on out and play. Practice is held on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30. See ya' there.

Ya'll come! Tennis season is here again. Here's the date for all of you who are interested. There will be tournaments for both elementary and intermediate players in single and doubles. Private instruction will also be given to those who know little about the sport. All classes are invited to attend.

Arrows can also be seen piercing the archery targets. Instruction is being given to all who wish to attend. So gals, let's see how many will be able to make bulls eyes at the end of the season.

As customary, the junior physical education majors took the freshman physical education majors to College Camp last Saturday. Some and play. Practice is held on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30. See ya' there.
