Rose Leads Freshman Class

by Ann Elmore

Amid the crowd in Alumni lobby last Tuesday night, history was made as Tom Rose was announced as Freshman Class president.

This announcement ended two weeks of anticipation and excitement for the freshmen. For the first time in Madison history, six boys and one girl were elected to the various seven offices.

Tom Rose, President

"I plan on fulfilling all responsibilities and expanding the freshman class day," said Rose, a speech and drama major. He said he would also like to see more social activities and he hopes to make them bigger by inviting men from University of Virginia, Bridgewater, and VPI. Rose also stated that he might take an interest survey concerning the social regulations of the freshmen girls.

Ray Stopper, Vice-President

Ray Stopper, a management economics major, was elected class vice-president. Stopper stated that one of his goals is to "keep the lines of communication open by way of student mail." He says he will make an effort to see that anything planned is notified to all freshmen.

Julia Guill, Secretary

"The only girl on the group, Julia "Gilly" Guill, is majoring in special education. She says that when she was elected, one boy behind hit her on the shoulder and said, "Well, Gilly, how does it feel to be one of the boys?" And she replied, "It's gonna be a challenge!" Gilly says she is looking forward to some very interesting and exciting executive meetings.

Dennis Rider, Treasurer

A sociology major, Dennis Rider, was elected to the post of treasurer where he says his aim is "to make a lot of money." Seriously, Rider says he is always open to suggestions on how to raise money.

Steve Smith, Parliamentarian

"Working out ways to improve elections," is Steve Smith's main goal as class parliamentarian. A history major, Smith says he wants to make up the plans and then present them to the class. "If the class doesn't like the plans, then it's back to the drawing board."

Steve Greer, Reporter

The newly elected reporter, Steve Greer, hopes to help the class by reporting for The Breeze and working on the department.

Seniors To Celebrate Class Day

The class of 1968 will hold their class day this coming Tuesday—Halloween. Special events will begin at 5:30 p.m., with the traditional class banquet and the class program will provide entertainment beginning at 8:15 p.m. Members of all classes are invited to the program; however, the party which is to follow will be attended by seniors only.

Theme

The theme of the program deals with the 60 years of Madison's history, 1906-1966. Madison and her students as they progressed through the past six decades will be viewed. Dr. Dingledine will narrate the program and Dr. McFarland will present a special tribute. Professors as they appeared both then and now will be presented on stage. Among the participating faculty are Dean Rice, Dr. Blair, Dr. Wood, and Dr. McFarland, along with other participating members which include a "cast of thousands."

The theme of the program was divided into eight ten minute periods. A group commitment was responsible for dramatizing ten years of Madison's past. The committees' made their own costumes (used sheets) and received help from the Swap Shop and other members of the community.

Committees

Other committees were organized to plan the party (chairman — Cheryl Parkin), the program (Ruth Gries), and the banquet (Connie Dempsey). The invitations and flowers were handled by Sueanne Gambill while Gayle Godfrey headed the committee for the class mirror. Props for the skit were made by Pat Workman and her committee. Ruth Gries was in charge of the banquet: program committee. While Andy Lipacomi and Gail Slaby were in charge of place cards.

Lone female class officer, Julia "Gilly" Guill, secretary, is congratulated by junior class secretary, Sue Harvey.

Cornell Scholar To Lecture

This month's visiting scholar, Dr. Donald G. Grout, will speak on "Opera in the Twentieth Century," Wednesday, November 8, at 8:00 p.m. in Burruss Hall.

Dr. Grout, who was the former chairman of the Music Department at Cornell University, is now the Professor of Music and the Germanic Professor in the Humanities at Cornell University.
EDITORIAL COMMENT

ACP Conference Beneficial

Returning from the three day ACP Conference in Chicago, the Editor and Associate Editor of THE BREEZE have brought back with them ideas for improvement of Madison's weekly newspaper. They found the program to be very well organized and the speakers' topics extremely beneficial to their journalistic endeavors.

The various ideas obtained from the Conference included ways to improve the general make-up of the paper, basic knowledge concerning in-depth reporting, methods by which to bring the campus into contact with the outside world, and ways to overcome the issue of campus censorship. The topics discussed by various leading journalists and college editors enforced many beliefs that have long been held by the editorial staff of THE BREEZE. It is our hope that the supports found in Chicago will enable us to put these beliefs into practice.

Although THE BREEZE did not win any major awards, it was recognized as having merit. It is our ultimate hope that with the continued cooperation of students, faculty, and administration we will improve, and Madison's paper will be worthy of national awards.

Madison Needs Philosophy

Wisdom, in a time when the wise man starves, seems to be a quality that all like to profess, but none are willing to pursue. The smart man surives, the wise man starves. Yet isn't the purpose of a liberal education to produce a wise man? After all, isn't the purpose of a liberal education to produce a wise man? It is not the purpose of a liberal education to produce a wise man; it is the purpose of a liberal education to produce a wise man. We must want to be a quality that all like to profess, but none are willing to pursue because he loves wisdom. He must want to be a wise man. He must want to be a wise man and the eventual monetary value plays a poor role in his life. Here lies the basic altruism in Education. Here a student...

by Ann Elmore

What is your opinion of six boys being elected as freshmen class officers?

Gary Flavin, Junior, English

"The girls seem to get the idea that the boys are not going to work for them, but the boys will work for them. It's great that the boys did get office. They won't forget the girls."

Sherry Davidson, Freshman, Home Economics

"It's nice to recognize that the school is now co-ed, but at the same time, I wish that women in don't like to such a rapid change, and it's about time, I wish that girls." boys being elected as freshman positions of authority."

Ben Brennan, Freshman, Psychology

"I think it's great. I believe in masculine superiority. I don't like to see women in positions of authority."

Rosie Baretta, Junior, Health and Physical Education

"I think it's too radical. The school is not ready for such a rapid change, and it's not adequate representation for all the freshmen."

Bobby Wright, Sophomore, Special Education

"It is a coeducational school and if boys are going to come here, they should take a more active part in the school. At it is, it is completely biased. It is still thought of as a girls' school."

Tom Agner, Sophomore, Special Education

"I think the boys had better watch themselves and, prove themselves to be capable leaders."

Sharon Orling, Junior, Health and Physical Education

"It is too big a change, too fast, and if the freshmen girls think they can get in good with the guys this way, they are sadly mistaken."

J. J. Camden, Freshman, Health and Physical Education

"I think we might get something done."
