Princess Present In "Parade Of Petals"

Convocation Initiates Semester

Second Semester Convocation was held in Wilson auditorium Wednesday, February 6, 1957 at noon with Mr. John H. Colburn as guest speaker.

Beginning the assembly program was the traditional procession, Rev. Mr. Colburn then gave the introdution and then President Miller informed the students of the progress of the fund-raising campaign, "Give a Dollar," which will not be started until early 1958.

Mr. Colburn, who attended Ohio University, worked on the Columbus Ohio Dispatch and then served as a member of the foreign staff during World War II. In 1944 he was director of the associated staff in London and then joined the Richmond Times-Dispatch where he now serves as Managing Editor. As chairman of the Journalism study commissions of the Virginia Press Association he is trying to encourage more students to train for newspaper work.

In Mr. Colburn's topic "The Press as a Community Force" he described the role of the press and the educational system in trying to bring truth to the public.

According to Mr. Colburn, the press educate, stimulate, and play on the minds of the readers. It should not be taken carelessly as there is information that would never be known if it were not for the news which break the walls around certain situations.

In the world of competition it is important for the newspaper to produce the product that interests people. The biggest challenge lies in fashioning the paper. Consumers say that people spend only 30 to 40 minutes in the paper. The way to present facts of new horizons is by visual aids.

In summary Mr. Colburn said that he has made progress in the past fifty years, which they must continue by informing, entertaining, and illustrating truth. "We can and must do a better job as the public eye in local, state, national, and international affairs. We must accept and cannot ignore criticism as the paper is the hub of the community."

Religious Emphasis Week To Present Rev. Ramkey

Next week, February 11-15, will be RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK, which is observed every year at Madison College. Reverend William H. Ramkey will be the guest speaker for this week. His topic for the Glee Club will be "Christian Marriage and Family Life."
The week will be composed of chapel at noon every day; services at 4:45 every night, followed by informal conferences with Rev. Ramkey until 9:30 p.m. From this time until 10:00 p.m., there will be bible study sessions led by Rev. Ramkey in various dormitories for those who wish to attend.

Pastor at both the Dayton and Bridgewater Presbyterian Churches, Rev. Ramkey graduated from Hampden-Sydney College, received a Bachelor of Divinity in 1949 from the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, and his Masters Degree in 1951.

Prior to becoming a minister, Rev. Ramkey taught geometry and Latin to two girls at Upper Pike, High, Upperpike, Virginia, and biology for two years at Thomas Jefferson High School in Richmond.

He also spent one year at the University of North Carolina in the Department of Sociology under Ernest Groves. He worked on the Daily Tar Heel, and served during World War II as a captain in the 11th Armored Infantry Division.

Mr. Ramkey is a member religious associations including the Council of the Director of the Intermediate Pioneer Camp, Dean of the Leadership Training School, as well as being affiliated with the Christian Home Leadership Course.

Rev. Ramkey, who once considered devoting full time to teaching and counseling, is married to the former Lois Slop. They have three children, all girls, who are "potential students of Madison."

Cupid Marks Appearance

Hearts and flowers, valentines, boxes of candy and other signs of Cupid’s arrows are again making their appearance for Valentine’s Day. Among the presents given by persons or given to thoughts of boy friends, new crushes, old flames and the latest heart throb.

Valentine’s Day is the day for love. It is the time of year when cupid really comes into his own. Everyone looks for just the right valentine to express his feelings for those he loves. There’s a valentine for everybody, from great uncle to the “one you love.”

Yes, Valentine’s Day is the day for excitement, for love, for merrymaking, for sweethearts, for romance. It is a time to think of our loved ones. But, it is also a day for us to think of our fellow men and our brothers here on earth who may not be fortunate as we.

We can hardly send valentines to everyone, but we can find ways of expressing brotherly love, as a nation as well as individually.

Valentine’s Day will truly be a day of universal love. There’s a valentine for everybody, from great uncle to the “one you love.”

This past week an unfortunate incident occurred which caused a vast amount of confusion to the majority of our students.

What makes this situation, this incident, a point of no return is the simple fact that it easily could have been avoided with the prof’s explanation of his interpretation of the HONOR CODE and the student’s willingness to abide by its standards.

It is unlikely that the word HONOR can possess one standard definition that would be acceptable to our faculty and to our student body. But once we understand our prof’s view-point regarding the HONOR CODE, we, as students, must strive toward it with an open mind.

The end result will far overcompensate the means as we will develop a stronger student-faculty relationship plus a stronger and deeper concept of HONOR in regard to your fellow-man and yourselves as an individual.

Driving Male Menaces Statistics
As Magazine Cites Problem Drivers

"Single, male, under-25; possesses automobile driving license," is a damning statistical bracket, for in it is the "worst menace you can encounter on street or highway ... the nation's most dangerous drivers," reports the January issue of POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY.

Only a small percentage of the young men in this bracket can be called "problem drivers," but they swell the accident record for their classes; they cause insurance rates to climb; and they give the category, as a whole, its alarmingly black reputation.

The basis for this reputation? Popular Science (equating the National Safety Council and Iowa State's Driving Research laboratory) says: "Only 15 percent of U. S. drivers are under 25 years old ... but this group is involved in 27 percent of fatal accidents."

Driver research laboratories and safety officials are studying means of combating this problem. And they're achieving results. But the insurance companies aren't idle either. At the present time, in most regions, car-owned or operated principally by a young man carry an insurance rate at least double that of the family car driven by the older folk. Even so, says Popular Science, "The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters is campaigning to boost this to triple the older drivers' rates."

But the worst condemnation of the "young problem driver" appears not in the rank statistics, but in the following statement (quoting the National Safety Council and Iowa State's Drivesmarts)

"You can't refuse a man insurance just because he's single and under 25, but we'd sure like to!"

IT'S FOR REAL! by Chester Field

THOUGHT

If a centaur married a mermaid fair,
What kind of children would she bear?
Would they have hide
or would they have scales?
Would they have hooves
or long fishy tails?
Would they eat seaweed
or would they eat hay?
It's one of the problems of the day.

Moral: When heavy thinking gets you down, relax and take your pleasure BIG with a Chesterfield! Packed more smoothly by Accu-Ray, it's the smoothest tasting smoke today.
