Senior Gail Aydelotte will reign as Queen during May weekend. The Queen and her court will be presented in ceremonies on May 4.

Sandy Leathers sheds tears after being tapped Maid of Honor by Sandy Ritter.

Dorm Rule Approved

President G. Tyler Miller approved a change in dormitory regulations at the request of the President of Student Government, Connie Bass.

The following rule will be put into effect immediately:

The Dormitory council may give call-downs or other suitable penalties for violations. Penalties are administered to students who are late returning to dormitories (less than 30 minutes by House Council; over 30 minutes by Student Council). Students will be given a total of 30 minutes grace period per semester with no more than 10 minutes at a time.

Before the rule change was submitted to President Miller it was approved by the Student-Faculty Relations Committee.

Master Of Arts To Be Offered

The State Council of Higher Education in Richmond, Virginia, has authorized Madison College to offer the degree of Master of Arts with a major in history, effective September, 1968. However, students may begin work in this new program in the summer of 1968. The program was proposed by the History Department and approved by the Graduate Council of MC and the Board of Visitors of MC prior to being submitted to Richmond.

The degree is offered in four fields of History: United States History prior to 1877, United States History since 1877, Modern European History (since 1815), and Medieval and Early Modern European (1500-1815) History. A listing of courses is given in the 1968-69 Graduate Catalogue. A limited number of graduate assistantships in History with stipends of $2,400 per academic session are available.

To receive a degree of Master of Arts in History, the student must have completed thirty semester hours, which may include not more than two appropriate graduate courses (six semester hours) in allied Social Science fields. The thirty semester hours requirement shall also include the writing of a thesis, for six semester hours credit, or the writing of a Masters essay in partial satisfaction of the requirements of a selected 600 level course. There is a minimum residence requirement of one winter session or two summer sessions. The student must have completed the third year of a college modern foreign language with a grade of "C" or above, or have passed a reading examination in one modern foreign language. The student must also pass on oral comprehensive examination on two of the four fields in History offered by the department.

In order to be admitted to participate in the program, the student must have completed twenty-four semester hours of undergraduate work in History, or their equivalent, with approximately a "B" average or higher. Satisfactory scores will have to be made on the Graduate Record Aptitude Test and Advanced Test in History.

Persons desiring further information are invited to see Dr. Raymond C. Dingleline, Head of the Department of History, Madison College. Application forms may be obtained from Dr. Daniel R. Hall, Dean of Madison College, and should be submitted to him.

Concerned Students To Establish Free College At Williamsburg

Students from the College of William and Mary who are concerned about the intellectual environment in Williamsburg, which is often considered to be inadequate, have decided to improve the situation by establishing a "free college." Tim Walton, a leader in the project, said that the "Free College at Williamsburg" is an educational system, which students themselves administer and teach, and is independent from the administration.

Regular college faculty members, informed students, and experts from the community at large have volunteered to participate as instructors, and classroom space has been made available by several local churches.

Sixteen courses, determined by what students want to learn and teach, comprise the "free college" curriculum which include discussion groups on modern world problems and creative art classes. For the esoteric, courses on "Designing a Utopia," black magic, Ayn Rand and objectivism, and youth and humanity will be offered.

More than 250 people registered for classes on Saturday, February 17, with motivation and interest being the only "entrance requirements." Students will work for knowledge rather than grades or credits, and will measure their own progress toward their own goals.

Walton said the "free college", modeled after the Stanford University project, is the first experiment in Virginia and that the goal is aimed at extending, rather than replacing, the existing liberal arts program.

Science Lectures To Be Presented

A series of scientific lectures will be presented to six colleges in Virginia: Lynchburg, Virginia Military Institute, Mary Washington, Medical College of Va., and Madison College.

Rene Dubos, Professor, of The Rockefeller University, will lecture to interested students on the subject "Biological Remembrance" on March 5 at 3:00 p.m. in Burruss 114.

Professor Dubos received his Ph.D. from Rutgers University and has held the position as Professor of Comparative Pathology at Harvard University Medical School.

The Professor is editor of the Journal of Experimental Medicine and is president of several medical societies. Among Dubos's publications are: The Torch of Life, The Unseen World (Phi Beta Kappa Award, 1963) and The White Plague — Tuberculosis, Man and Society.

Three to Speak on New Morality

The implications of the sexual revolution or the changing moral attitudes of American society is the topic for a symposium being held on the New Morality, March 1-2 at Randolph-Macon College.

Anson Mount, Donald Welch, and Father Paul Durbin will offer views on America's current moral attitudes.

Anson Mount, religion editor and director of public affairs for Playboy Magazine has been described as a "frequent lecturer on the provocative 'Playboy Philosophy'."

Father Paul Durbin is a specialist in Sexual Morality and has held discussions on sexual ethics with clergy and college groups.

A minister of the Methodist Church, Donald J. Welch, has lectured to over fifty college and church groups on the New Morality.

The registration fee is $8 for accommodations and meals. Payment should be made to Chaplain C. W. Gibson, Box 705, Ashland, Virginia, 23005.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Student Aid Requested

Enthusiastic students pledge support for student organizations at the beginning of every academic year. Their enthusiasm, however, does not last for a semester. After the first semester not only is the enthusiasm gone, but so are the students. They are still on campus, but are hard to find when HELP is needed.

Not all students are deserters. Every organization has those few "devoted workers" who try to carry on for those who have quietly shirked their responsibilities.

THE BREEZE is no different than the other student organizations on campus. At the beginning of the year THE BREEZE room was almost too small to hold the large number of students who were willing to work. This number has dwindled to less than a dozen.

A paper can not operate efficiently with such a small staff. There are several positions open for the remainder of this year and next year for any students who are interested in preventing the "death" of a vital link in campus communications.

Positions are open on the circulation staff, the advertising staff and on the reporting staff, both news and feature.

If anyone is interested in working in any of these fields of newspaper work he should contact Jan Mohr or Ellen Edwards, Box 28, campus.

BREEZE BRIEFS

The Placement Office has announced that the representative from the Civilian Personnel Office of the Department of the Army will be in the Placement Office on February 26 from 10-4. On the same date, the Washington County Public Schools will send their representative to the Placement Office from 9-3.

February 27 the Newport News and Shenandoah County Public Schools will hold interviews for interested students in the Placement Office.

A representative from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company will be in the Placement Office from 10-4 on February 28. Also on this date, the representative from the Danville Public Schools will hold interviews from 9-4:30.

Madison will host the representative from the Brevard

County, Florida, and the Baltimore County Public Schools on February 29 from 9-3.

The Madison, New Jersey, Public Schools will send their representative to the Placement Office on March 1 from 9-12. On the same date, the Milford, Delaware, Public Schools will conduct interviews from 1-4.

The Shenandoah Valley Gem and Mineral Society, organized in 1962, meets once monthly, the third Monday, at 7:30 p.m. at the Waynesboro Church of the Brethren. It includes members from Staunton, Harrisonburg, Craigsville and Waynesboro. F. Howard Campbell, instructor of geology, invites interested students to contact him if they desire transportation to these meetings.

Presence of Men in Dormitories Unannounced

Dear Editor:

The problem I am presenting in this letter is one which I am sure is familiar to most students on campus. I am writing to protest the unannounced presence of men in women's dormitories. Three times this week, in my dorm alone, men have been wandering through the halls and no one knew of their presence until they were seen. Once, a man who had come into the recreation room to refill a Coke machine, walked out into the hall and out a side door—going down the complete hall first. Another time, a man—no connection with the college—simply walked out of the elevator in the basement and started talking with the girls on the hall.

Class Actions Questioned

Dear Editor,

We would like to know what Freshman is willing (or we might add, able) to pay $1.25 to attend a mixer? Why are all Freshman mixers planned for a weekend at a time when a majority of the student body will be away for a big weekend at another school? Why is the freshman class planning on spending $2,000 for a band for Freshman Weekend when we can get as good a band for not over $500? Why were so many freshman plans passed first semester with no discussion from the class as a whole?

The freshman class now has a new Executive Council. We should realize that this new council will have new ideas and should be free to present them and feel that they can present them. Just who is included in Executive Council; in other words, who is allowed to attend Executive Council meetings? This semester's Executive Council must be given a chance to prove themselves before they are completely ignored!

May we suggest that the Freshmen support THIS semester's Executive Council.

Janet Acors
Connie Wood

I realize times are changing, but this is a little bit too much. Is there some way to stop this? Does the administration realize this is going on?

The "excitement" of never knowing who you may meet when you open your door adds "spice" to college life which I'm sure most of us could do without.

Textbook Related to Meeting

Dear Editor,

This paragraph was found in the textbook for Health 200 (Healthier Living by Justus Schifferes, page 135). I felt it apropos to the President's Open Meeting of February 8, 1968.

"In dealing with the problems that agitate adolescents we (adults) should not forget that the educative process is a two-way street, and that unless we listen attentively to their problems and complaints, we are more likely to aggravate than to diminish the conflicts between older and younger generations."

Respectfully,

Gail Huber

STU GU NEWS

Committees Formed

by Suzanne Hobson

Hi, and a happy good morning to you. Stu Gu has several active committees working now on some greatly needed improvements. After much talk, finally we have succeeded in getting a paperback bookstore organized. Instead of hoofing it to Leggett's for books, our bookstore on campus will provide the necessary books. Also, a bad check committee has been formed for all of our mathematicians. This way your checks will be covered for up to twenty dollars. We hope to instill more faith in the downtown merchants this way. There is also a committee working on doing away with the off-limits lists. The key word for this year is OMIT.

Now, guess what happened this past weekend? The Va. Association of Stu Governments held its winter conference at UVA, and, as Madison is a member, several representatives of the school road-tripped it to the big U. When we arrived, we met in a general assembly. Schools from all of the state were represented. Of course, the Briar had their silk blouses and U. Va. had their vests and pipes. We then met in our individual standing committees. Perhaps the most worthwhile result of the weekend was the tremendous exchange of ideas. We brought up our problems and usually at least one school somewhere in the state had encountered the same problem and had found a satisfactory solution. Old Dominion gave us help with our Course Evaluation Committee; Va. had plenty of help with the Bad Check Committee; Mary Washington explained their Open Visitation Policy, and Frederick had tips on block booking big name groups for concerts. That evening Senator Spong spoke to us. The topic of his speech was "Involvement", a theme every person at every college should seriously consider. The

More Summer Riots Foreseen

by Mike Cappeto

In every part of our country, the summer is inaugurated with the "snap" and "bang" of Independence Day fireworks. In many of our big cities, this exhibition of explosives is not only a reminder of our heritage, but a foreshadowing of the pistol and rifle fire that will inaugurate a summer of rioting.

All signs tell us that 1968 will be the worst year yet in our nation's history of Negro rioting. Note the record: five serious riots in 1965, twenty in 1966 and nearly eighty last summer.

To add more fuel to the fire, the government has imposed restrictions and placed cuts in Federal programs for the jobless. This will yield more jobless young men, both black and white, who will drift aimlessly about the slums and ghettos in search of excitement... in whatever form it may take.

A hardening of black-white antipathies, especially in previously riot-stricken areas, will further add to the already tense situation.

A riot neighborhood is not a pretty sight. Newark, New Jersey, the biggest riot town of '67, still has not returned to normal. Many local merchants have abandoned their shops in search of a "more respectable neighborhood"; new and growing industries have been skeptical about opening offices anywhere in Newark.

With all these jobs, and potential jobs eliminated, the income of the Springfield Avenue section of Newark has dropped to practically nothing.

It will be several years before Newark will forget this disaster. Until then, the citizens of that riot town will live in a state of poverty, unrest, and most of all, shame.

There seems to be no way of preventing the riots. The only remedy for a riot town has been the riot itself. That is, wherever a riot has taken place, wherever death, destruction and injury have occurred, there has never been another outbreak.

Maybe the only solution is to "let nature take its course"—but could this possibly be Nature's way?

Achievements Measure Efficiency

by K. Jones

Efficiency can only be measured by the accomplishment of goals. The myriad demonstrations we are presently witnessing in the United States are purportedly not senseless congregations; we must, therefore, search for their goal. We can only assume that the primary aim in the use of demonstrations is publicity, i.e. to draw favorable public attention to grievances or proposals. We should, therefore, judge their merit in relation to the amount and type of publicity they get and the reaction to that publicity. If the demonstration is to be a useful tool in a democratic society, it must be understood by and draw favorable reaction from the public.

Publicity Unavoidable

No one can deny that today's demonstrations are receiving all the publicity they could ever need or desire. It seems that every day we read of new demonstrations or at least get to hear old ones rehashed. Yet, there is a serious question if the publicity they receive is of the type the organizers of the demonstrations desire. A serious leader does not mind constructive criticism, but would generally desire to see his viewpoint expressed positively. This means that his method, his demonstration, would have to merit this favorable consideration. Only an irresponsible leader, or one who could not control the demonstrations he began, would stoop to trying to obtain any type of publicity, favorable or unfavorable, in order to bring his cause to the public view.

Demonstrations are, by their nature, ostentatious and to many people, excess in anything is distasteful. Therefore demonstrations will never appeal to the total public. They will also not reach the uninformed public. Who will they reach? And how will these people react?

Demonstrations Obsolete

The middle class, middle aged, general reading public are the voters of America. This is the sector the demonstrations reach and this is the sector they are trying to reach. These people control the destiny of America. These people are generally impressed with the gregarious, intellectual, new generation. Peaceful, purposeful, and orderly demonstrations would not upset these people, but when demonstrations become associated with burning, pillaging and general civil disobedience, these people cannot help but attach a negative emotional reaction to all demonstrations. So, it would seem demonstrations are quickly becoming obsolete as a method of gaining favorable publicity and reaction to a cause.

Employment Directory On Sale For Summer

Over 50,000 summer jobs open to college students are listed in the new "1968 Summer Employment Directory" just off the press.

Employers throughout the United States and Canada who list their summer job openings include resorts, summer camps, national parks, summer theatres, restaurants, ranches and business. They invite applications now.

There are 12% more summer jobs available than last year. Salaries are higher in many jobs — an increase of $100 to $200 for the season. Camp counselors, resort workers and office help continue to be in greatest demand. Scuba divers, ham operators, special education students, and fly-tying and origami instructors are among many others needed.

"Summer Employment Directory" may be ordered by mail; send $3 to National Directory Service, Dept. C, Box 32065, Cincinnati, Ohio 45232. Mark "rush" for first-class mailing in December.

U. N. Assembly Set For March

Students attending the Middle South Model United Nations from Madison will be representing Dahomey, Ethiopia, and Argentina.

This Middle South Model United Nations will take place March 6-10 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. This is one of the 12 regional groups which is sponsored by the Council of International Relations and United Nations Affairs. These groups are all part of the International Student Movement for the U.N.

During this assembly prominent men will speak to the group, according to Pat Merchant, junior, executive for the group. The Keynote speaker will be the permanent ambassador to the U.N. from Ethiopia, Lij Endalkachew Makonnen. On March 9 Dr. William B. Walsh, founder and director of Project Hope, will speak.

Harvey Selected As Best Dressed

The annual Glamor Magazine's "Best Dressed" college girl contest was held at Madison College last week. Sue Harvey was chosen to represent Madison in the competition.

Sue, an English major with a minor in Psychology, was selected by open ballot on the following qualifications:

1) Sense of style

2) Poise, posture

3) Wardrobe

4) Meticulous dress

She will now compete with college girls from all over the United States for the title of one of the "Ten Best-Dressed College Girls in America." Publicity for both winners and their colleges will be given to the 10 girl finalists in the contest.

More Effective Snow Plan In Effect

by Sue McCrary

At the request of President Miller, a more effective snow removal plan has been set up at Madison. Mr. Eugene Wagner, Director of Buildings and Grounds, has put together a schedule which assigns maintenance men to designated areas so that main thoroughfares can be cleared more efficiently. Mr. Wagner has emphasized the importance of cleaning steps before ice becomes packed and has urged that the salt provided be used liberally.

The main difficulty with the last snowfall was that the men were in the midst of helping move girls into a new dorm, which resulted in a lack of manpower. Then three snow plows broke down; one machine was put out of service when its blade was bent while plowing open the parking lot. A larger staff and better equipment seem to be the answer, but the problem involved here is money.

Also, Mr. Wagner would wish that students keep in mind that trash removal from the dining hall and dormitories along with other regular jobs must come first, and that snow removal is necessarily secondary.

Snow shovels will be provided in the dorms for the convenience of those students and housemothers WHO DESIRE TO USE THEM. The administration hesitated to take this action because they felt some would accuse them of shirking their duty. However, students themselves requested at the president's open meetings that these shovels be made available. Any further suggestions are welcome.

Rushie Annie Harmon (left) is enthusiastically greeted by Zeta Tau Alpha sister Martha Allen (right) as open bids were accepted for sorority membership on February 15. See story.

Nat'l College Queen To Be Selected

The 14th Annual National College Queen Pageant will be held in June this year. The annual search will begin in March and continue through June to find "the nation's next outstanding college girl." During the pageant officials will award 50 free trips to New York City—a trip for each contestant representing each of the 50 states.

Winner of the national title will then receive more than $5,000 in prizes, including an automobile and a trip to Europe.

This annual pageant is designed to give recognition not for "beauty" but for scholastic ability, academic accomplishment, and leadership qualities. Poise and personality will also be taken into consideration. All girls, freshmen through seniors, may be nominated by classmates, friends, club groups, sororities and fraternities, or she may send in her own name.

For a free entry blank write to: National College Queen Contest Committee, Box 935, New York, New York 10023. For further details contact Trish Moore (1967-68 Virginia College Queen), Box 1652, Radford College, Radford, Virginia 24141.

First Formal Golf Team Formed

Spring '68 will see Madison's first formal intercollegiate golf team for men.

Three years ago an informal group was sponsored by the M. A. A. and played three matches, defeating E. M. C. twice and tying Bridgewater. This spring eight matches will be played and the top four men will be entered in the State Collegiate Tournament at Hot Springs, Virginia, on April 29.

Candidates for the team so far include: Senior Jamie Triplett, Juniors Dave Roush and Dave Garber, Sophomores Jim Glenn and Graham Bartley and Freshmen Chuck Shomo, Joe Hoover, Roger Jones and Bob Toohey.

Any other eligible men interested are asked to contact

Ward Long in Keezell B-2 as soon as possible as present plans call for practice to get underway around March 1.

Several men have high school experience and demonstrated considerable ability and the aim for the year will be to develop a team to be a worthy representative of the college and one with a good chance for victory in all matches.

Madison College Men's Intercollegiate Golf Schedule for Spring—1968:

April 2—Bridgewater College—Home.
April 4—Lynchburg College—Away.
April 18—Ferrum College—Away.
April 23—Eastern Mennonite College—Away.

April 26—Eastern Mennonite College—Home

April 29—State Tournament (Hot Springs, Va.)

April 30—Bridgewater College—Away.

May 2—Ferrum College—Home.

May 7—Washington & Lee University—Home.

Home matches will be played at the Spotswood Country Club. Tee off time is 1:00 p.m.

WAA Tips

by Diane Hillman

An organized meeting for those who wish to try out for the women's inter-collegiate tennis team will be held on February 28 at 4:15 in Keezell 6. All women students interested in playing on the team should attend this meeting or see Jeanne Eller, coach of the team, before this time. Try-outs and practice will be held on March 4 at 4 p.m. on the tennis courts. In case of rain, the try-outs will be held in the gym. The first team match will be against Bridgewater on March 28 on their courts.

February 16, the fencing club sponsored a demonstration by VMI's Foil, Epee, and Sabre teams. The demonstration was very well attended and proved to be a success.

The schedule for basketball intramurals is now posted on the WAA bulletin board in Keezell. Badminton intramural tournaments are now underway, but anyone wishing to play may still join.

The Porpoise Club has now started work on its spring production. The program will be presented on March 22 and 23.

The women's basketball team is playing an away game today against Longwood College. The last game of the season will be at home against Bridgewater College on March 2 at 2 p.m. Everyone come out and support the team at their last game.
