Another Election Soon
Be Sure To Vote Again
On February 18, 71 per cent of the student body went to the polls and voted for the six major officers who will lead campus activities next year. Next week, we will vote again, this time for the twelve minor officers, whose job it will be to lend a strong helping hand in the "big six." If you can't think of a reason why you're not voting, "O, well, these girls aren't so important, I don't think I'll bother to vote," perish the thought. Each one of these twelve minor officers is in charge of particular phases of her "department," and, unless she does her job well, the entire student body will suffer ill effects. In other words, "a chain is only as strong as its weakest link."

The Banzai has printed a few questions to help you orient to this election, just as was done for the one held February 18. Even as we write these stories, however, we wondered how many adults would consult the contents before casting their votes—we aren't too naive to realize that many students do not "read" the Banzai. But, because we feel it is vitally important that voters know their candidates, we have printed this information.

If you're an underclassman, chances are you aren't well acquainted with the candidates. As a prospective citizen and voter of the United States, it is every student's duty to find out about the girls who have been nominated.

Between now and the day of elections, spend a little time inquiring about your candidates. Be prepared to vote wisely when you go to the polls—don't let your ballot be disqualified because you didn't vote for each office.

Schedules Planned Early
Prevent Confusion Later
Year off with a "bang," which is impossible when we must spend our students in replanning the yearly schedules. This would certainly save more confusion and lost-time for both faculty and students in replanning the yearly schedules.

If we had our schedules before our summer vacation, we could plan our electives to avoid conflicts and returns in the fall with courses satisfactorily arranged for the school year. This would certainly save more of the faculty's time and we could all start the new year off with a "bang," which is impossible when we must spend our first day arranging and rearranging our class schedules.

To the Editor:

"Bangs" are generally looked upon as the force that runs a school spirit. Taylor's habit for him, rise to the polls—don't let your ballot be disqualified because you didn't vote for each office.

This only causes more confusion and lost-time for both faculty and students in replanning the yearly schedules. This would certainly save more confusion and lost-time for both faculty and students in replanning the yearly schedules.

Cold Winter Turns Miss G. Burau To Warmer Climates; Thus Madison

By Dr. Ingraham

The tall contralto soloist who sang at the Methodist Church Sunday was Miss Gertrude Burau, one of Madison's new addition to the music staff. Miss Burau is from Williamsville, New York, but she similarly confessed that she usually referred to Buffalo, New York, the closest big city, her home town.

Miss Burau's debut has always been to a voice instructor, consequently, much of her early life was spent in the vocal studio. She attended Columbia University with the degrees of B.S. and M.A. While in New York, she was employed as a teacher, later Samsonoff.

After graduation she taught, for a while, at Allegheny College for Women in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and at State Normal School in Johnson, Vermont. But one wintry morning when the thermometer hit 50 below, Miss Burau, who hates cold weather, decided to head for warmer climates. She is now a resident of Madison, because in February, she decided to give up New York, but she smilingly confess to the Panhellenic and student turbine.

Payments were established at the Roanoke, A number of the girls attended the former and teaching branches of Madison's secondary education curriculum and were given at various fraternity houses.

When do you think the election of next year? Tony Pastor accepted his place in the Saturday night. Parties were given at various fraternity houses and occasionally boxes of chocolates were used. At the beginning of that semester.

The officers could then take over the secondary semester. By this time the old officers would have time to become acquainted with the new ones. The fourteen members of the institution have gone on record as favoring a minimum salary of $200 for beginning teachers and those who are more senior, retirement and salary schedule arrangements.

The VA is also sponsoring a teacher recruiting commission with Dr. Delaney Lancaster, president of Farmer University and Teachers College in Madison. A special committee under this commission is working on teacher education.

Anybody know anything about horse racing? Or maybe we should say, you would be interested in a little news about the horses? Don't get me wrong—we're not promoters of horse racing, or the gambling that is connected with this rather expensive and truly enjoyable sport. It's the one thing that is far from our mind—but there are variations in sports which also add to the spice of reading a sports page. And so we thought a little "horse talk" might add something to the variety of reading material people look out for and want to read about the horses.

When the year 1946 came to a close, horse racing had one of its greatest seasons. One horse, Ansel, established a new money record, and will be one of the greatest money-winners in history. By fall of last year, Ansel had become the second horse in history (Whirlaway was the other) to gain more than a half million dollars. And to think that the man who won by the nose of Hirsch Jacobs bought this high-class plug for the small fee, considering, of $50,000—making the horse the highest -priced in the country at the time. Ansel's grandfather owns a farm down in the Northern Neck of the state and since he has a farm of several acres, it's not surprising that he has had Mr. Ansel by the nose for the last time and returned the next fall to roast the next on her class softball team. In the fall she made varsity basketball and baseball teams that year, and played on her class softball team. In the spring she began playing tennis for the first time and returned the next fall to become a member of the baseball club.

Two weeks ago Lou captained the junior varsity to a victory over Shenandoah College. No one could have guessed, to watch her play, that last game against a strong opposing team. In the opinion of most people, Lou is one of those lovable peanuts. Lou is a member of the Y cabinet, and assistant treasurer of the Baptist Student Union.
