Festival Extends Into Second Full Week of Cultural Events

The second week of the Fine Arts Festival will begin Monday, March 25, with 11 events scheduled during the six-day affair, including six professional lectures and performances.

An art auction will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Anthony-Seeger Campus School auditorium with Charles Turner of the art department as auctioneer. Paintings, drawings and ceramics are among the items that will be put up for bids.

Monday night at 8 p.m. Mary Latimer, former head of the drama department at Madison, and her husband, Blaine Cordner, a professional actor, will give readings in the Latimer-Shaeffer theater.

Clement Greenberg, controversial art critic, will lecture on the newly emergent art forms at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in the Campus School auditorium. He has written books and articles which have appeared in national publications and the New York Times Book Review.

James Dickey, poetry consultant for the Library of Congress, will read and comment on his own poetry Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Duke. He has published five books of poetry and has also written for the New York Times Book Review.

Thursday the Madison College Concert Band, conducted by S. James Kurtz, will present an instrumental program at 8 p.m. in Duke. Among the selections to be presented will be a work for eight woodwinds by Mozart and a trombone concerto by Rimsky-Korsakov.

One of the highlights of the week will be the dedication of the four new dormitories and the Latimer-Shaeffer Theater at 11 a.m. Saturday. J. Earl Moreland, president emeritus of Randolph-Macon, will be the principal speaker.

A lyceum program will cap the Fine Arts Festival on Tuesday, April 2, with the appearance of the Virtuosi di Roma chamber group at 8 p.m. in Wilson auditorium. The group specializes in Italian baroque music and is currently on its ninth tour of the United States. A New York Times critic remarked that they play with both elegance and fire, "a combination of qualities that one likes to think of as being typically Italian."

G. Tyler Miller, President of Madison College, is shown as he was presented the Distinguished Service Award at the evening ceremony held on Founder's Day.

Festival to Close with Concert

The 1968 Fine Arts Festival will close with a concert by Bruce King, dancer-choreographer.

Mr. King, a native Californian, graduated from the University of California, Berkeley, and received his M.A. at New York University. A member of the Merce Cunningham Company, he has been a featured dancer in summer musicals and on television, and has performed his solo concerts throughout the United States.

The summer of 1960 he made his first solo tour, and since then he has choreographed his own dances. The Department of Dance at U.C.L.A. invited him to be Artist in Residence in the spring of 1963, and that summer he taught dance technique, performance and production at Columbia University. More recently, he has been Artist in Residence at the University of Oregon, Brigham Young University and Ball State University.

Visiting Artist in Dance

He began his assignment as Visiting Artist in Dance at Bennett College in the fall of 1965. Three solos (OMENS

AND DEPARTURES, GHOSTS, and OVERTURE) commissioned by Bennett College are currently in the repertory of his concert of solo dances.

The schedule of his concerts and master lessons for the 1966-67 season included the Festival of Fine Arts at the University of Omaha, Bard College, Pennsylvania State College, the Convention of the Louisiana Association of Dance Masters in New Orleans and a one-week workshop at Colorado State College where he taught his MIRACULOUS GARDEN, gave demonstrations and performed his solo concert. Last summer he conducted workshops and performed his solo concert at Iowa State University and Montana State University.

This fall he resumed his regular teaching at the Children's Centre, Adelphi University, and continued with his work at Bennett College. The summer of 1968 he will again conduct dance workshops and perform at Ball State University and Montana State University.

King Announces Repertoire

The concert to be presented at Madison is made up of choreography created and performed by Bruce King. OVERTURE, commissioned by Bennett College in 1966, introduces the dancer and themes from several of his dances. RUNNING FIGURE, a character study, and FIVE SHORT DANCES, a suite of abstract dances, were performed during his first solo tour in 1960. OMENS AND DEPARTURES, commissioned by Bennett College in 1967, was choreographed to an electronic score. GHOSTS, his first Bennett College Commission, premiered at the Harkaway Theatre in December 1965. This dance reveals six Restless Spirits: Falling, Calling, Mad, Exiled, Lost, Adrift. CLOUD, an Impressionistic piece, premiered at the University of Oregon in June 1964. "THEMES: Desert, Sky, City" was developed while Mr. King was Artist in Residence at the University of California in 1963. The dancer introduces each section of the program to acquaint the audi-

Warren Senior Honor Society Taps Fifteen Junior Women at Madison

Fifteen Madison junior women were recently tapped into the Percy H. Warren Senior Honor Society.

The following women were chosen by a unanimous vote of the present members: Dianne Acree, Carol Barlow, Barbara Beacham, Candy Borges, Nancy Cockrell, Karen Crady, Lynn Fiery, Betty Jane Gaynor, Judy Jacobs, Karla McAllister, Keith Marston, Lynda Snyder, Jackie Weeks, Barry Wilson and Linda Evans (president).

The purpose of the local honor society is the same as the one stated in the preamble of the constitution of the Mortar Board, the national women's honor society. It is "to promote college loyalty, to advance the spirit of service and fellowship among university women to maintain high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college women."

In order to be considered for membership each woman must have "an accumulative average of 10% of the highest grade on the grading scale added to the overall campus average," or she must "be within the top 35% of the entire junior scholars."

Nancy Cockrell (right) is being tapped into the Percy H. Warren Senior Honor Society by Beverley Wells (left). Nancy was one of fifteen junior women who met the qualifications of service, scholarship and leadership set by the society. Tapping took place on Founder's Day while the students were in class.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Officers Need Support

Those few students who attended the Installation of Major and Minor Officers on Wednesday night witnessed an end, but also a beginning.

The newly installed officers have before them a difficult task. To them falls the duty not only of following outstanding leaders, they must also prove their individual worth. The ideas and leadership of these new officers will determine the future of Madison College. Leadership, no matter how strong, will, however, be ineffective unless met by cooperation and support from the student body.

Therefore, more important than bestowing wishes for good luck upon the new officers or commending past officers, we ask that each student on campus examine his or her attitudes. Have you done your part? Are you a member of the student body, or just a student?

Student Objects to Closing

Dear Editor,

Why was the library closed during the assembly on March 14, at 4:00? In this age of "Madison's Growth", when not even half of the student body can fit in the auditorium, why must the library be closed? Two librarians weren't even at the assembly. They walked past the library at 4:40, one unlocked and entered the front door but told us we could not enter because the assembly was not over yet. They have student assistants, all of whom are not seniors or freshmen. Why not use them? I'm sure no one would complain of a librarian shortage for an hour and a half.

Madison is an institution of learning, some people learn best in the library. Why should you penalize one segment of the student body. It would be no insult to the speakers, for not all students could attend. With our facilities as meager as they are, why make them worse?

Concert Needs Improvements

Dear Editor:

I feel I must voice my opinion on a matter that has been on my mind for the past two weeks.

On March 2, 1968, I journeyed from my home to your campus for two specific reasons; the first, to visit some of my friends who attend Madison College; the second, to attend a concert given by Dionne Warwick. I had looked forward to the visit with much anticipation for the above stated reasons but as it extended into the night of March 2 I began to have some reservations! No, not about my friends or Dionne Warwick but about the manner in which a "Big Weekend" at Madison College was conducted.

After arriving and receiving my ticket from my friends, I was informed that I would not necessarily be guaranteed the seat printed on the ticket. It seemed as though there had been a mistake and a duplicate of my ticket had been printed so that someone else would be at the seven o'clock concert claiming the same seat. I was later to discover that I was not the only person who was upset with this lack of efficiency on someone's part when I saw and heard many people at the first concert express their displeasure at the fact that someone else was occupying their seat. I am afraid the ushers could not offer much consolation to me or the rest of my party except to refund to us a dollar of the admission cost and seat us on the last row of one of the sections of the auditorium.

Possibly, I would have been more understanding about not being seated properly if I had arrived late for the concert. However, considering the fact that I had been waiting outside the auditorium since six o'clock to be seated, I felt justified in my feelings. Then, too, the manner in which I was greeted when I arrived at the "concert hall" did not add any alleviation to the already dismal situation. I was rudely informed by a member of the "Big Weekend" committee that I and the rest of my party could not be seated until at least six-thirty, probably later. To my utter disgust, I was to have to wait outside the auditorium and see and hear this same committee member, along with one of her cohorts, conduct themselves in a rather flippant and "showy" manner. I would like to suggest that

BREEZE BRIEFS

The Madison College business club, Phi Beta Lambda, celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a party at its March meeting last week in Frederikson Dormitory.

Approximately 25 members attended the event. Bonnie Childers presented a short program on the legend of St. Patrick. Barbara Small, the club's social chairman, was in charge of refreshments and decorations.

During the business session the members decided to elect officers for the 1968-69 term at their April meeting.

Recently, the organization sponsored a group tour to Branch Cabell and Company in Harrisonburg. A representative from the stock and bond brokerage firm explained the operations of the local business to the students.

Burton J. Conway, assistant professor of physics, has received a Radiological Health Fellowship at the University of Tennessee, beginning in September, 1968. He will be working for his doctorate in physics during this educational leave of absence.

Dean John T. Rice will present "A Sociologist Views the American Family: Its Function and Future in Affluent Society" at an open meeting of the BSU, Tuesday, March 26 at 6:15 p.m. at the Baptist Student Center. A brief discussion period will follow. Special music will be provided by Marianne Price.

The recently elected officers of the German Club are as follows: President — Liz Luxner; Vice President — Becky Dixon; Secretary — Ellen Charnock; Treasurer — Diann Shrekhsie; Social Chairman — Carol Skarzynski; Business Manager — Craig Molnar; Reporter — Ann Norton; Big Weekend Representative — Ann Cox. Installation of officers will be March 26, at 6 p.m. in Alumnae Hall. The next general meeting will be April 3 at 6:15 in Maury 17.

A Madison professor recently received his Ph.D. in government from American University. Paul C. Cline, a member of the Social Science Department, entitled his thesis: Relations Between Plain People and Government of the United States, which deals with the problems of Social Security and selective service among the Amish and similar minority groups. His doctorate became effective in January of this year.

Parents' Day will be held on Friday, April 5, with class visitations continuing the following morning.

Individual invitations have been sent to all parents with enclosed reply cards.

Activities will be essentially the same as last year with a general meeting, luncheon and evening entertainment. A new feature, a Parent-Faculty reception, will be held from 2-4 p.m. at Hillcrest Reception Garden, weather permitting.

Faculty members will be present to meet parents around four refreshment booths—one for each of the four academic divisions.

Co-chairmen for the event are Richard Mandeville and Ray Sonner.

The center will consist of the Office of the Director, Office of the Assistant Director, Freshman Class Counselor, a testing room, and a confidential file room. The counseling center will be under the direction of Dr. James W. Fox, Dean of Student Services.

Included in the counseling center will be the offices of the two assistants to the Dean of Women. There will be no change in their present capacity as personal, social, and vocational counselors. They will cooperate with the faculty advisors and help the student to better understand himself.

The future Office of the Director of all non-academic housing (presently done by Dr. Cline) will be located in Alumnae, first floor, where the offices of the assistants to the Dean of Women are now located.

The counseling center is scheduled for completion by July 1 of this year.

Plans For Seminar Set

Plans for the 45th Summer Seminar conducted by the Institute of World Affairs, Inc. were announced recently by Dr. Daniel McFarland, faculty member of the History Department at Madison College.

The Seminar will be held at the IWA's Educational Center at Twin Lakes, Salisbury, Connecticut, from July 8 to August 22. The general theme will be "Global Impact of the Third World in Transition," and work will be directed by Dr. L. Wendell Hayes, currently a Senior Staff member in the Advanced Study Program for Brookings Institution. All graduate students concentrating in various aspects of international studies, or graduating seniors especially interested in these fields are eligible for the Seminar. Partial or full scholarships are available and graduation certificates are awarded upon successful completion of the Seminar program.

The Institute of World Affairs, Inc., founded in 1924, at Geneva, Switzerland, is an educational institution, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The Summer Seminar is designed to prepare outstanding university students of many countries, religious and cultural backgrounds, for leadership and active participation in public affairs in their respective communities and countries, and to do effective work toward better world understanding.

Anyone interested in the IWA Summer Seminar should contact Nancy Bowen, Box 401, or Dr. McFarland, or write to the Seminar Admissions Committee, Institute of World Affairs, Inc., 527 Madison Avenue, New York, New York, 10022.

Bomb Scare Adds Excitement at Middle South Model United Nations

by Ann Elmore

A bomb scare on Friday highlighted the Middle South Model United Nations March 6-10 at University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Local police interrupted the General Assembly to search the auditorium.

Twelve Madison students represented three various countries at the Model U.N. The countries were Argentina, Dahomey, and Ethiopia, a Security Council member.

The delegates heard various speakers throughout the five-day conference. The keynote speaker was Ambassador Ab-dulgan, Ambassador to the U.N. from Kenya. Other speakers were C. Payne Lucas, Director of the Peace Corps in Africa, and S. S. Ruoro, head of the Kenya Mission to the U.N.

There was an International Week dance on Friday night sponsored by the International Center. The Model U.N. happened to fall on International Week at U.N.C., according to Pat Merchant, junior.

Mohammed Shadid, a student at Eastern Mennonite College and Madison, received the best delegate award.

One of the issues discussed was the recognition of Namibia, a new country in Africa. The issue has not come before the United Nations, so it was merely a hypothetical question.

Representatives from 46 colleges and universities attended the Model U.N. The approximately 300 delegates were divided into delegations representing 74 U.N. member nations, according to MSMUN Bulletin put out on March 8.

The National Model U.N. took place in February in New York City, but Madison was unrepresented because no funds were allotted for the convention.

Madison College Camp

College Camp Offers Pleasures

by Sue McCrary

On the North Fork of the Shenandoah River there stands a red brick farm house, surrounded by 35 acres of Christmas-y white pines. A caretaker, who maintains a tenant house nearby, sees to the upkeep of the building and grounds and makes sure the trespassing laws are obeyed.

This is a brief description of the Madison College camp, the property for which was purchased in 1929 for the recreational use of students and faculty. The farm house has four rooms and a kitchen, providing cooking and sleeping facilities for a group of 25 to 30 people. Overnight and weekend trips are taken by social and honorary organizations, and twice a year Miss Ruth Tergesen of the Health and Physical Education Department conducts a camp leadership class there.

A three-acre area around the house is kept mowed to provide space for such games as volleyball and croquet. The river is stocked with fish and several boats are always available. Because the camp is posted property, state conservation laws require that prospective hunters and fishers receive signed permits from Madison College in addition to state licenses.

Interested parties must check with the Dean of Women before requisition for use of the camp may be made. After approval has been obtained from Dean Reubush, the request for a specific date is entered on a calendar. The final step is to get the key from Mr. Eugene Wagner,

Director of Buildings and Grounds.

If you belong to a club that needs a place to hold parties or picnics, or if your group just feels the need to "get away from it all," why not look into the college camp? It is only about ten miles out on Route 33. Too few students know about this facility which has been established specifically for them. So take advantage of it — and have a good time!

Students Help Elections

The dynamic campaign effort by college students from all over the country played a vital role in Senator Eugene McCarthy's impressive showing in the New Hampshire primary. Well over a thousand students took on the full gamut of campaign jobs — from ringing doorbells and writing speeches, to driving cars and licking stamps. Many observers believe the student's enthusiasm also had a significant psychological effect on the campaign.

Reaction to this student political activism was widespread in both pre-and post-election analysis. Just prior to the New Hampshire vote, Mary McGory wrote in her nationally syndicated column that McCarthy's student support was a "river of free labor that could change the face of American politics". Most of the election-night commentators referred to the students, and in its lead editorial the next morning, the New York Times, stated that the McCarthy victory was "a testament to the efforts of the students and other citizens who enlisted in his campaign for peace."

Political Opinion Expressed

Perhaps the most important conclusion to be drawn from this first 1968 primary is not related either to the candidates or the issues. It is very possibly something much broader. Namely that effective, articulate expression of political opinion by students, combined with their active participation in the political process, can significantly affect the outcome of elections and the shape of American politics.

The second conclusion is equally irrefutable. Massive student participation in CHOICE '68 can and will affect the course of American politics in 1968.

The name of Governor George Romney has been removed from the CHOICE '68 ballot. The project's Board of Directors decided from Romney's abrupt decision of February 28 that he intended to withdraw from the presidential race, left them with little alternative but to comply with the spirit of the Governor's announcement.

Romney's departure from the race reduces the number of CHOICE '68 candidates to thirteen. The Governor's political philosophy of moderate liberalism, however, remains well represented in the candidacies of other individuals on the ballot.

Anyone interested in working with CHOICE '68 at Madison should contact Kathy Newcomb, Spotswood 42, box 2013.

Debate Society Lists Activities

The Madison College Debate Society has been active and quite successful during this second semester.

February 2-3, two teams consisting of Dave Rolan and Ron Pietsch, and Elizabeth Henderson and Margaret Hayes traveled to Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore for their Annual Debate Tournament.

Over forty colleges were entered, including Georgetown University, American University, University of Maryland, University of Pennsylvania, Swathmore, and the United States Naval Academy. Each of the Madison teams debated six rounds. At the end of the tournament, Madison had won three debates and lost nine. The debaters and their coach, Dr. Eugene R. Moulton, were quite pleased with Madison's first entry into an inter-collegiate debate tourney.

The debate squad then journeyed to Virginia Intermont College in Bristol for their annual tournament on March 8-9.

Three teams were entered at Intermont, including Dave Rolan-Ron Pietsch, Elizabeth Henderson-Margaret Hayes, and Susan Eluto-Charles

Shomo. Again each team debated six rounds and this time Madison won six and lost twelve. In addition, our college won its first award in debate; Dave Rolan was given a certificate as one of the outstanding debaters of the entire tournament.

Other schools entered at Intermont included Virginia Tech, Randolph-Macon, Belarmine from Kentucky, Marshall University from West Virginia, University of Chattanooga, and the University of Tennessee.

Rolan and Pietsch will represent the Madison Debate Society in upcoming events—the Congressional Cup Debate Tourney at American University, and all teams will enter a tournament at V.M.I. in Lexington.

Dr. Eugene R. Moulton, who has coached several national championship teams at the University of Redlands and has written tests in speech and debate, is directing the new Madison debate program this year. He states that "Madison can look forward to a more expanded and successful effort in inter-collegiate debate in the year 1968-1969."

The following students were listed by the Registrar's Office as having been named to Dean's List for the first semester 1967-68. To achieve this distinction students must have a 3.25 average or above. Of the number receiving recognition, 48 are freshmen, 54 are sophomores, 83 are juniors, and 99 are seniors. Those students are as follows:

Rieke to Speak on Happiness

Christian Science will be explored in a public lecture entitled "How to Live Successfully" on Wednesday, March 27, in Duke Fine Arts Building, Room A100, at 7:30 p.m.

Herbert E. Rieke, C.S.B., of Indianapolis will be the speaker, under the sponsorship of the Christian Science Organization.

Mr. Rieke will discuss the Christian Science way of life that has brought inspiration and new direction to many thinking individuals. Answers to such questions as "What do success, happiness, satisfaction, or the accomplishment of a life-long goal mean to you?" will be answered.

Mr. Rieke is a graduate of Northwestern University and during World War II served as an Army Air Corps Chaplain in India, North Africa, and Italy, receiving a bronze star for distinguished service. He has been an authorized Christian Science teacher and practitioner for many years and is a member of the Church's Board of Lectureship.

Oratory Winner Chosen

The James Madison Oratorical Contest was initiated for the first time on the Madison Campus this year and is to become an annual event. The speech contest required that students write, memorize, and deliver an original speech on a nationally important topic.

Some excellent speeches were heard, and after careful balloting a panel of nine judges declared the winners.

Third Place — Rebecca Bryant who spoke on "The Gold Strike of '68."

Second Place — David Rolan on the topic "Crime is Criminal."

First Place — Kathy Dugan on the subject "Madisonian Democracy."

Other students included in the finals were Stewart Hall, Liz Levine, and Ron Pietsch.

All winners received cash awards. In addition, Miss Dugan will have her name engraved on the James Madison Oratory Trophy.

Dr. Roy F. Nichols, professor emeritus at the University of Pennsylvania, is shown above speaking at the recent Founder's Day. Dr. Nichols presented the first in a series of lectures sponsored by the Alumnae Association and faculty of Madison College, as he spoke on "James Madison and the First American Establishment." Following a banquet in Gibbons Hall, Dr. Nichols presented a second lecture entitled "Virginia's Place in the Second Establishment," to conclude the evening program.

the next time members of your student body serve in such positions they be more aware of the fact that they are being observed by persons around them and they learn to conduct themselves accordingly.

I must admit that the evening was not a total loss, however. Miss Warwick gave a superb concert, under the circumstances. I do realize that concert facilities (auditorium, sound equipment, etc.) might not be the best available; I understand and I do not criticize any student for this. I do feel, though, that other phases could have been properly organized, specifically those I have previously mentioned. I would hope that when future events occur on your campus they would be given more thought and planning than was obviously given to the one on March 2.

Sincerely,
Kathleen S. Agnew

Intramurals

Mr. Rader has recently established another first in men's intramural activities at Madison with the formation of an Intramural Swimming Meet to be held on March 26 from 8-10 p.m. The following events will be featured in the meet: Free style (20, 40, and 100 yards.), Backstroke (20 and 40 yds.), Breaststroke (20 and 40 yds.), 60-yard individual medley, and an 80-yard relay.

A competitor may enter only two events and they must be different events. Another limitation is that all 20-yard events are for beginners only. Anyone who is interested in competing should contact Mr. Rader or check the bulletin board in the men's day room.
