Festival to Close with Concert

The 1968 Fine Arts Festival will close with a concert by Bruce King, dancer-choreographer.

Mr. King, a native Californian, graduated from the University of California, Berkeley, and received his M.A. at New York University. A member of the Bruce King Dance Company, he has been a featured dancer in summer musicals and on television. He has performed his solo concerts throughout the United States.

The summer of 1960 he made his first solo tour, and since then he has choreographed his own dances. The Department of Dance at U.C.L.A. invited him to be Artist in Residence in the spring of 1963, and that summer he taught dance technique, performance and production at Christopher Newport. More recently, he has been Artist in Residence at the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, and Montana State University.

Festival Extends Into Second Full Week of Cultural Events

The second week of the Fine Arts Festival will begin Monday, March 25, with 11 events scheduled during the six-day affair, including six professional lectures and performances.

An art auction will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Anthony Seeger Campus School auditorium with Charles Turner of the art department as auctioneer. Paintings, drawings and ceramics are among the items that will be put up for bids.

Monday night at 8 p.m. Mary Latimer, former head of the drama department at Madison, and her husband, Blaine Cordier, a professional actor, will give readings in the Latsime-Shaeffer Theater.

Clement Greenberg, controversial art critic, will lecture on the newly emerging art forms at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in the Campus School auditorium. He has written books and articles which have appeared in national publications and the New York Times Book Review.

James Dickey, poetry consultant for the Library of Congress, will read and comment on his own poetry Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Duke. He has published five books of poetry and has also written for the New York Times Book Review.

Thursday the Madison College Concert Band, conducted by S. James Kurtz, will present an instrumental program at 8 p.m. in Duke. Among the selections to be presented will be a work for eight woodwinds by Mozart and a trombone concerto by Rimsky-Korsakov.

The schedule of his concerts and master lessons for the 1966-67 season included the Festival of Fine Arts at the University of Omaha, Bard College, Pennsylvania State College, the Convention of the Louisiana Association of Dance Masters in New Orleans and a one-week workshop at Colorado State College where he taught his MIRACULOUS GARDEN, gave demonstrations and performed his solo concert. Last summer he conducted workshops and performed his solo concert at Iowa State University and Montana State University.

A lyceum program will cap the Fine Arts Festival on Tuesday, April 2, with the appearance of the Virtuosi di Roma chamber group at 8 p.m. in Wilson auditorium. The group specializes in Italian baroque music and is currently on its ninth tour of the United States. A New York Times critic remarked that they play with both elegance and fire, "a combination of qualities that one likes to think of as being typically Italian."

In order to be considered for membership each woman must have "an accumulative average of 10% of the highest grade on the grading scale she must "be within the top 35% of the entire junior scholars."

Nancy Cockrell (right) is being tapped into the Percy H. Warren Senior Honor Society. The following women were chosen by a unanimous vote of the present members: Dianne Acree, Carol Barlow, Barbara Beacham, Candy Borge, Nancy Cockrell, Karen Crudup, Lynn Everson, Betty Jane Gaynor, Judy Jacob, Karla McAllister, Keith Martin, Lynda Satter, Jackie Weeks, Barry Wilson and Lindy Evans (president).

The purpose of the local honor society is the same as the one stated in the preamble of the constitution of the Mortar Board, the national women's honor society. It is "to promote college loyalty, to advance the spirit of service and fellowship among university women to maintain high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman."

Visiting Artist in Dance

He began his assignment as Visiting Artist in Dance at Bennett College in the fall of 1965. Three solo sonatas (OMENS AND DEPARTURES, GHOSTS, and OVERTURE) commissioned by Bennett College are currently in the repertoire of his concert of solo dances.

Zeta Tau Alpha has elected new officers for 1968-1969. They are: President — Dawn Mayhew; Vice President — Linda Olson; Recording Secretary — Martha Niles; Corresponding Secretary — Paul C. Cline; Treasurer — Patty Cash; Historian — Sparkle Bradman; Rush Chairman — Nancy Richardson; Assistant Rush Chairman — Ray Sonner; Membership Chairman — Bob Toohey (Alph Sigma Sigma); Recruitment Chairman — Bob Toohey (Alph Sigma Sigma). The new officers will begin their duties of outgoing leaders, they must also prove their individual worth. The ideas of these new officers will determine the future of Madison College. Leadership, no matter how strong, will, however, be ineffective unless met by cooperation and support from the student body.

Therefore, more important than bestowing wishes for good luck upon the new officers or commending past officers, we ask that each student on campus examine his or her attitudes. Have you done your part? Are you a member of the student body, or just a student?

The Madison College business club, Phi Beta Lambda, celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a party at its March meeting last evening in Frederick dormitory.

Approximately 25 members attended the event. Bonnie Childers presented a short program on the legend of St. Patrick. Barbara Small, the club's social chairman, was in charge of refreshments and decorations.

During the business session the members decided to elect officers for the 1968-69 term at their April meeting.

Recently, the organization sponsored a group tour to branch Cabell and Company in Harrisonburg. A representative from the stock and bond brokerage firm explained the business side of banking to the students.

THE FINE FOR JOSTLING WITH A CAMPUS COP IS...

CONCERT NEEDS IMPROVEMENTS
Dear Editor:

I feel I must voice my opinion on a matter that has been on my mind for the past two weeks.

On March 2, I journeyed from one home to your campus for two specific reasons: the first, to visit some of my friends who attend Madison College; the second to attend a concert given by Dionne Warwick. I had looked forward to the visit with much anticipation for the above stated reasons but as it extended into the night of March 2 I began to have some reservations! No, not about my friends, but about the manner in which a "Big Weekend" at Madison College was conducted.

After arriving and receiving my ticket from my friends, I was informed that I would not necessarily be guaranteed the seat printed on the ticket. It seemed as though there had been a mistake and a duplicate of my ticket had been printed so that someone else would be at the seven o'clock concert claiming the same seat. I was later to discover that I was not the only person who was upset with this lack of efficiency on some one's part when I saw and heard many people at the first concert express their displeasure at the fact that one else was occupying their seat. I am afraid the ushers could not offer much consolation to me or the rest of my party except to refuse to us a dollar of the admission cost and extend to us, or the last row was one of the sections of the auditorium.

Possibly, I would have been more understanding about not being seated properly if I had arrived late for the concert. However, considering the fact that I had been waiting outside the "concert hall" did not add too, the manner in which I was seated. The "concert hall" did not add to my utter disgust, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn, I was to turn.

To my utter disgust, I was to turn.

Anyone interested in the IWA Summer Seminar should contact Nancy Bowen, Box 401, or Dr. McFarland, or write to the Seminar Admis- tration.

The issue has not come before the United Nations, so it was divided into delegations repre- senting 300 delegates at various countries at the Model U.N.

Bomb Scare Adds Excitement at Middle South Model United Nations

by Ann Elmore

A bomb scare on Friday highlighted the Middle South Model United Nations March 4th. The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Local police investigated the General Assembly to search the auditorium.

Twelve Madison students represented various countries at the Model U.N. The countries were Argentina, Dahomey, and Ethiopia, a Se- crety Council member.

The delegates heard various speakers throughout the five- day conference. The keynote speaker was Ambassador Ab- delgani, Ambassador to the U.N. from K e n y a. Other speakers were: C. Payne Lu- cars, Director of the Peace Corps in Africa, and S. S. Shadid, head of the Kenya Mission to the U.N.

There was an International Week dance on Friday night sponsored by the International Center. The Model U.N. hap- pened to fall on International Week at U.N.C., according to Pat Merchant, junior.

Mohammed Qadid, a stu- dent at Eastern Mennonite College and Madison, received the best delegate award.

One of the issues discussed was the recognition of Nam-ibia, a new country in Africa.

Counseling Center Scheduled

Plans were recently announ- ced for a counseling center to be located in Alumnae, second floor. The center will consist of the Office of the Director, Office of the Assistant Direc- tor, Freshman Class Counsel- or, a testing room, and a con- ference room. The counsel- ing center will be under the direction of Dr. James W. Fox, Dean of Student Serv- ices.

Included in the counseling center will be the offices of the two assistants to the Dean of Women. There will be no change in their present capac- ity as personal, social, and voca- tional counselors. They will cooperate with the faculty advisors and help the student to better understand himself.

12 Madison students will serve as the new President of the Institute of World Affairs, Inc., founded in 1924, at Geneva, Switzerland, is an ed- ucational institution, incorpo- rated under the laws of the State of New York. The Sum- mer Seminar is designed to prepare outstanding university students of many countries, re- ligious and cultural back- grounds, for leadership and active participation in public affairs in their respective countries, and to do effective work toward a better understanding of one another.

Any student interested in the IWA Summer Seminar should contact Nancy Bowen, Box 401, or Dr. McFarland, or write to the Seminar Admissions Committee, Institute of World Affairs, Inc., 577 Madi- son Avenue, New York, New York 10022.
Students Help Elections

The dynamic campaign effort by college students from all over the country played a vital role in Senator Eugene McCarthy's impressive showing in the New Hampshire primary. Well over a thousand students took on the full gamut of campaign jobs, from ringing doorbells and writing speeches, to driving cars and handing out stamps. Many observers believe the student's enthusiasm also had a significant psychological effect on the campaign.

Reaction to this student political activity was widespread in both pre- and post-election analysis. Just prior to the New Hampshire vote, Mary McGory wrote in her nationally syndicated column that McCarthy's student support was "a river of fire that could change the face of American politics". Most of the election-night commentators referred to the students, and in its lead editorial, the next morning, the New York Times stated that the McCarthy victory was "a testament to the efforts of the students and other citizens who entered in his campaign for peace."

Political Opinion Expresses

The conclusion to be drawn from this first 1968 primary is not only that the two or more than ten million ballots or the issues. It is very

Oratory Winner Chosen

The James Madison Oratorical Contest was initiated for the first time on the Madison Campus this year and is to become an annual event. The speech contest required that students write, memorize, and deliver an original speech on a nationally important topic. Some excellent speeches were heard, and after careful balloting a panel of nine judges declared the winners.

First Place — Kathy Dunn on the topic “Madisonian Democracy.”

Other students included in the finals were Stewart Hall, Liz Levine, and Ron Pietzch. All winners received cash awards. In addition, Miss Dunn will have her name engraved on the James Madison Oratory Trophy.

the next time members of your student body serve in such positions they be more aware of the fact that they are being observed by persons around them and they learn to conduct themselves accordingly.

I must admit that the evening was not a total loss, however. Miss Warwick gave a superb concert, under the circumstances. I do realize that concert facilities (auditorium, sound equipment, etc.) might not be the best available; I understand and I do not criticize any student for this. I do feel, though, that other phases could have been properly organized, specifically those I have previously mentioned. I would hope that when future events occur on your campus they would be given more thought and planning than was obviously given to the one on March 2.
