Announce Meeting Plans Early—Save Confusion And Absentees

It has become increasingly evident that Madison organizations, and particularly organization leaders have become very slipshod in planning and avoid a responsibility which their groups. Meetings are planned on the spur of the moment, and announcement of the meetings are posted on the bulletin board or announced in the morning halls, only a few minutes or few hours from the time of the proposed meeting.

It is becoming almost impossible for the student interested in extra-curricular activities, as every student should by far his plans, if he aims to appear with dignity and in utmost time, and assuring herself of no breathless halves, forgotten themes, and headaches from studying all night by flashlight.

The best plan is this: Begin planning their meetings at least, one week in advance. 1. M.

Welcome, Randolph-Macon!

It is with justifiably anticipation that we await the visit of the Randolph-Macon Glee Club. We have heard many compliments on the splendid harmony this group attains and the fine voices enrolled. We regret that conditions these last few years have made it impossible for them to honor us with at least an annual visit, but now that they have resurged, we sincerely hope that "they will continue singing for us in the future."

And so we extend to you a most cordial welcome, Glee Club of Randolph-Macon, and trust that you will enjoy your visit as much as we shall enjoy having you here! B. A. C.

The lens of the Kampus Kandids focuses on campus events such as those in the Sorority Life article, where freshmen are matched with other students to learn about their college environment. Without a doubt, the social aspect is a vital part of college life, as seen in the many stories about sororities, fraternities, and social events. The article on the Capitol Union and the Japanese tea ceremony highlights cultural experiences, while the piece on the Baptist Student Union reflects on prayer and faith. The focus on campus activities like the basketball banquet, the university board of managers, and the annual meeting at Madison Hall shows a deep engagement with the college's academic and extracurricular life.

May Day is coming. There's going to be plenty doing, you all know that, don't you? Sports, dances, folk dances, crowning the queen, just a big day, a big day! It's going to be a real social occasion that keeps the student's interest up. After May Day is over, everybody thinks as far as participating in sports is concerned, he has enough. Not so.

On May 9 here at school, a Water Sports Carnival is going to be presented to the student body. From what we've heard this is going to be strictly the real thing. The carnival won't have exhibitions of swimming and diving, like some might think. This event is being planned now so that you, all of you, will have free enjoyment of it in a proper carnival of water sports. In other words, where May Day is the day for everybody to entertain themselves in outdoor sports, Friday, May 9, will be the night for all to join in on the fun of indoor sporting-ame events.

The Water Carnival will not be limited for the experts, or even good swimmers. Non-swimmers also will be able to play too. There will be water polo, volleyball, kick ball-race, and lots more for your enjoyment. It's going to be a big thing. You know about the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Well, this will be the cousin of that gala affair. Programs for the spectators will be issued when you arrive. Even the novices might surprise you.

The first group will be made up of H. Emmett, B. Craig, T. Deavers, D. Dickson, B. Ferr, G. Garfinkel, R. Gravely, B. Johnson, B. Miller, H. Haley, B. L. Henshaw, L. Mitchell, K.
