The Common Glory Portrays Our Early History, Jefferson's Spirit

By Mary Alice Joyner

Virginia once again has been glorified by the presentation of "The Common Glory." The beautiful玛格丽特・安德森 costumes, beautiful music, and artistic direction were all part of the scene that was the greatest historical drama for seven weeks this past summer, and it will continue the years to come.

The story deals with the gap of secession and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, ending in October 17, 1863, with Jefferson's death and the Declaration of Independence.

Jefferson was a member of the Continental Congress at the time when the colonies decided to break from the mother country. He was one of a committee of three appointed to draw up a declaration of intentions which was adopted on July 4, 1776, in the Declaration of Independence.

The dramatis personae included the famous Washington, Jackson, Lincoln, Jefferson, and many others. The music was so good that even some who are not music lovers were enchanted.

The Governor of Tuck Advisory Board Visit Madison

Governor William M. Tuck, with his Advisory Board on the Budget, visited Madison on September 21 to hold a hearing in person for the institution for appropriations for the next two years. The group will then return to Richmond to make a report to the General Assembly.

Members of the Board visiting Madison were: Lieutenant-Governor Robert E. Gilmore, Dr. Newcomb, H. T. B. Burt, Honorable H. W. Johnson, Dr. Earl S. Brown, Honorable J. D. Hagaard, Honorable C. B. Loosbach, Mr. Fred Q. Sum- mers, Mr. Morris. The Governor's visit to Madison was sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau.

Request Reimbursement in Appropriations

The Governor's office had already made a request for an additional $25,000 for the academic year. This request was held in suspense because of the depression and the national situation.

The Budget Committee also con-sidered a request for an additional $20,000 for food supplies and it is apparent that the food国家标准 would have to be maintained.

Reports and a business meeting will be adjourned at 3:30 p.m.

Music Department Features Weekly Listening Program

"Listening time listening hour" will be featured weekly from 12 to 12:30 noon on Mondays in Wilson Auditorium by the Madison music department, according to Dr. Glenn Gildersleeve.

The variety of programs will be played by music faculty members, some organizations of the school, and ad-ditional music students, and will include announcements over the system. Such programs are popular in many colleges and are in great demand, but to afford one-half hour of relaxation they will not, therefore, be very popular.

A General Chorus, giving one-half hour is being organized by the music department to meet Tuesdays and Thursdays eight hours. Miss students are needed as well as other interested individuals to attend regularly, in order that the group may be able to bring an interest in music.

Chairman W. C. Louderback, Mr. Fred E. Button, Miss Leeipton, and Mrs. Anna Youres will be chosen to conduct the group.

NOTICE

The Library is beginning a collection of Coronet and needs any issues that you have seen or have been given to the librarian.

Sincerely,

ANNE HUNLEY DOVEL

BREEZE ANNOUNCES

CLASSES

All students will read the regulations in their class letters in the Student Handbook, pages 10 to 12. Placing errors will be made on the Register of Student's Office and then sent to the Registrar of the institution for the next sessions of the school.

The afternoon session will open with music at 1:30 p.m. and will be followed by a joint class meeting, which will be preceded by a speech of music.

Listening to records a half hour of relaxation, is the idea, but to afford one-half hour of relaxation they will not, therefore, be very popular.

Friendliness Makes "One World"

When little groups here and there are interested in each other and the welfare of their congregation more than they are interested in being a friendly group. Each member is aware of a sense of security—and security is one of the things men strive hardest for. Now the more than 1500 individuals who are associated with Madison College have become, in that sense, a friendly group. You and I, as we meet another Madisonian is just accepted as the thing to do. Sometimes we don't know the person(s) we are addressing but that greeting, nevertheless, we do. And that we can't get along without. Some one, at the beginning of not one for each to get to know every other individual on campus as well as he/she wishes to.

You might be surprised to know that among some campuses and communities such a fraternal attitude doesn't exist—and these are not closely knit assemblies where each member feels wanted, needed, and a part of the bunch. Instead, each individual is just another customer—civilization itself is based and dependent on cooperation. To continue; when small, large, and large crowds live with an air and feeling of companionship and interest in the entire organization we then hope for nations to be closely united by common principles and philosophies. And after that comes "one world"—an ideal which seems very far away at times, but is one which we all hope for desperately.

That ideal is rooted deeply in the "Hello's" here at Madison and we are exceedingly proud of it.

For Entertainment And Information

A new school year and we at once begin to wonder what the year, or school year will be like. Of course we should. These carefully planned programs feature some of the country's greatest lecturers, musicians, artists, and writers. They come to our campus almost by magic and suddenly our small amphitheater is transformed into a great auditorium to bring us the finest of entertainment. And the most serious analyses of world situations. They come from the East, the West, from far away. They all say that we can attend the library lectures.

Let's do that term paper a few days early so that we can go to see these programs, and have the time to enjoy them. As to my one and only, he is Ogrodany by now. At least that's what his (or her) (because I am not sure) name tells them. America is like. And all the other librarians say that, because the most vivid tales about the world, the sages, is just waiting for an opportunity to present an opportunity to present a vision to the students. It is our duty to make a frame of mind that he hopes he will make us happy so that we can pass it down. and his of declaration of our as "skeletor."

B. R.

Remember !!!

Remember that old saying: "If we don't know where we're going, we can't get where we're going to." It will apply to every Madisonian who studies in the library!

Men and women of college age should need no reminder of the fact that the library is for study and therefore should be a quiet place where students can work. We know, however, seem to have forgotten that, though we may have finished our own work for the evening, others are still trying to complete their assignments. They need a quiet room—not one filled with giggles and whispering.

These programs are a part of our education, like the rest, not required, but beneficial and brought with our needs at heart. We accept most privileges—why not these? Some day you'll be paying a big price for the education you are given.

The Breeze

Hail Big Sisters!

When a freshman leaves for college or a nurse training school she usually worries about how she will get along in the new home, but already always she can expect to find a "big-sister." Most of the old students have always tried to help the new student. It might well be that the new student should be a "little-sister" to the other students.

"To lengthen or not to lengthen," that is the question. Women in women's circles today... It has been years, since such a fashion change has been made, I suppose to-day the question is used freely with others.
