Convention Urges Interest In World Affairs Through Press

The majority of college students to-day are not interested only in their own local campus events, but are taking an active interest in national and international affairs. Convening at the University of Minnesota last week in Minneapolis, delegates to the Associated Collegiate Press Convention displayed a very definite concern for the crisis of the state of Europe, as well as for whether it was necessary, how much aid should be given, what countries should receive it, and the kind of aid which should be brought before the United States Congress. The editors agreed that aid should be sent, but still the amount varied considerably. Nonetheless, the editors believed that voluntary nation-
The faculty of Madison is receiving a special vote of thanks from the student body for their consideration and foresight in setting up a special schedule for the fall semester which will revolve around plans for class schedules. The importance of this group should not be minimized. Through their work students will be able to plan their schedules during the early spring of the preceding year, i.e., this spring we may plan for next year’s classes. As a result of this change, conflicts may be ironed out during the spring and summer months. A洽ues to the faculty may also be made when classes are over-crowded.

Another factor which will be automatically improved, will be the existing time frames which have formerly required registration. Under our plans early, we will be able to have a longer period of time in which to plan our schedules, and arrangements will probably be made for larger groups to register at default times. Registration at Madison may now prove a pleasure, instead of a tryard ordeal as it has been in the past.

Spring registration is bound to be a great improvement over the past methods. At first it will naturally have some faults, but after this system has been used several times, these faults will gradually be corrected and it is hoped that Madison will have found the answer to her registration problem.

The students of Madison appreciate the efforts of the faculty in initiating this new plan and we are anxious to co-operate in any way, so that registration on campus may be greatly facilitated in the future.

Tell Us What You Think?

When the business manager and I returned from the Associated Press College Editors Regional Conference at suburban Washington D.C. (but not the 4A Powerhouse), we came back with new ideas and suggestions which we received from the lectures given by nationally-known newspapers. We hope to use many of these ideas on a plan like this for the finishing this year.

It will only be through student and faculty co-operation and help, however, that the staff will be able to give you a better, more modern newspaper. We need your suggestions, testimonial and compliments on the Breeze in order that we may make it your paper.

Don’t just tell your friends what you think of the Breeze—tell a student staff member your ideas. Don’t just discuss your suggestions and improve the newspaper because of them.

Student interest is vital in publishing a newspaper for a student, so do let us hear from you.

Take Care!

This week it is another old story—but a very important one. It is the story of our health and all our health problems subjected to such consideration, we neglect it.

This is just a reminder that the equipment does cost a bit, we put considerably little, it is hard to replace, and we neglect it!

Student Health is very important in really scientific terms. Dr. U. S. rejected the more "impracticable." Delegate Dulles maintained that it would delay Korea independence. The real understanding is that the U. S. representatives do not want this plan.

The people, not only minor struggling. Hope for an eventual agreement in this question is very high—and once the powers agree on one plan, they will, in all probability, agree on others—it just takes time!

Something To Chat About...

Harry Latch announces his engagement to Clara Belle Snagg from the deepest, darkest hills of Umbagog—down on the Massachusetts River. The marriage will take place at the end of this month, and that is all for the first meridian. The couple will reside at Bobo Hollow in East Sodbom.

The Freshmen who ventured to the cookie camp for the first time this year, the other week-end, had an adventurous experience. "I only saw three of the things we were told about," said one of the group. "We should have been told to be more careful."

Nothing to Chat About...

On Thursday and Friday, the Student body of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va.

Published Weekly by the Student Body of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va.

BREEZE

Member Virginia Inter-Press Association, Associated Collegiate Press

Published Weekly by the Student Body of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va.

Mary Margaret Beck, Editor-in-Chief
Lois Storey, News Editor
Brenda Sower, Assistant Editor
Barbara Caro, News Editor
Trey Moore, Art Editor
What We Think of it—The Virginia Bashes another thrifter on the silver screen. "The Jetsons," which combines the dramatic talents of our favorite two, Helen and Paul, portrays the new life of a happily married couple.

In this book of personal convictions, Mr. Broadnax points out that a nation’s real wealth is in its natural resources and these exploitation would make us a poor nation. Therefore, he says, we have the all in our power to conserve these resources. He also believes that we must be established upon a basis whereby we receive as much money as we export. We must do this through trade with Russia, and not England since at present England has little wealth, but it is exchangeable.

Mr. Broadnax believes in Russia’s policy of economic equality and political absorption of neighboring countries. He thinks England and the United States, and not Russia, should follow her policy.

The author sees in the future two great states—Russia, and Russia and the other, America. In the end he sees the merger of these two states into the United States of the World.

World—Nicholas S. Timmoff

In this book, Mr. Timmoff combines the orderness of the scholar, the style of the experienced journal-ist, and the clear cut presentation of the sincere teacher.

He shows his great understanding of the world, and he presents it to us in a series of short novels, each of which gives a clear account of the sources of jealousy and the behavior of the victim. This book is of inestimable value to us all.
Eye 6 and Garnett 0, Bruce 18. To the eve of the festival of "All Saints." The ancient Druids had a three day celebration at the beginning of November. On the eve, they believed that spirits of the dead roamed abroad. Thus, the Druids made huge bonfires to drive them away. As early as Rome, the festival of Pomona, goddess of fruits and gardens, occurred. Nuts and apples were symbols of the winter store of food and until this day the custom of bobbing apples and roasting nuts is observed.

When the Christians solemnized their holiday, the peasants still clung to the old pagan beliefs and customs that make Hallowe'en a night of mystery and fun-making. Our cherished traditions, as to disguise ourselves and gather together for mischief is typical of this period.

The essence of the "Importance of Being Earnest" is clearly brought out in Act II at the time when the two young and beautiful ladies involved met, completely unaware that they are supposedly engaged to Earnest. When mention is made of him, they both exchange words, and that is about all. Finally John and Algernon appear upon the scene, and they play a much milder game.

Lady Bracknell was instrumental in bringing about the happy alliance, it is in the final moments of the last scene, the fear of losing "Earnest" dissolved. The only member of the company who has played in all ten productions of "Being Earnest," with a role opposite Phyllis Egerston, Angelica Maribeth, Joan Kirby, Anne mysers, Mary, and Alice England.

Thus, Hallowe'en is still the one night when superstitions come true; Ghosts, Witches Appear together for mischief. Our cherished traditions, to the old pagan beliefs and customs that make Hallowe'en a night of mystery and fun-making. Our cherished traditions, as to disguise ourselves and gather together for mischief is typical of this period.
Madison Loses To Sweet Briar

By Jessie Snowdon

Although the final score of the Sweet Briar-Madison hockey game on Saturday was 1-0 in favor of Sweet Briar, the Madison extramural hockey squad made a fine showing.

The one goal was made in the first few minutes of play when the Sweet Briar team carried the ball down the field with accurate passes. Being a little excited in their first game of the season the Madison team faltered on the defensive the first half of the game.

The Purple and Gold gained confidence in the second half during which time the Madison team carried the ball into Sweet Briar's end of the field in an offensive attack.

Pledges Organize

Pledges of Alpha Sigma Alpha held their first meeting on October 27, in order to elect officers. Those elected were: Norma Gay, president; Paul Ashbrook, vice president; Elise Bellefont, secretary; Jane Anderson, chaplain, and Kay Richards, song leader. Ann Sibert will serve as president of Tri Sigma's pledges, Daisy Lay, as vice-president, and Marianne Clark, as secretary-treasurer.