

Virginia Academic Institutions Offer Foreign Summer Studies Programs

The Foreign Studies Committee would like to inform students and faculty about several summer programs in Europe and the Middle East, offered by institutions in Virginia.

The current Madison tour gives three credits for Music 200 (Music in General Education) or Music 300, Music 561, and Music 562. Tour dates are from June 23 through August 5. Auditors are accepted and the cost of the tour is under $1,000. Further information can be obtained from Miss Helen Ininger, Box 677, or in her Duke Office, M-222.

Burgess Awarded Scholarship by 4-H

Janet Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Burgess of Newport News, Virginia, has been named the recipient of an $800 scholarship for outstanding work in 4-H. Given by the West Bend Company in the National 4-H Economics Scholarship program, this was announced at the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago.

This is the second such award in two years for Janet, a junior majoring in Home Economics. Last year while attending the National 4-H Congress as a state winner for outstanding achievement in her bread project, Janet was awarded a $500 scholarship by Standard Brands.

Miss Burgess was among the top ten graduates of the Warwick High School's class of '66. She has been active in 4-H for eleven years and is now serving as treasurer of the 4-H Alumnae. She is also active in Orchestras and the Wesley Foundation.

Mary Baldwin College plans to offer a summer session at St. Anne's College, Oxford, England, for students interested in English literature and history. Six hours of credit will be given for successful completion of the program and the cost of this tour is about $1,100. Information concerning the program can be secured from Dean Martha S. Grafton, Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va.

Randolph Macon College will conduct its sixth summer program in German language and literature in Heidelberg, Germany. The two month stay in Europe, not including optional trips, will cost about $1,500. Six credits will be granted for successfully completing the course. Inquiries should be directed to Dr. William Stanton Noe, Randolph Macon College, Ashland, Va.

The Humanities Division of Radford College announces a Travel Study Abroad tour from June 20 through July 20. Credit can be given for Humanities 101-102 and the cost will be approximately $1,199. For information contact Mrs. Ruth W. Williamson, Radford College, Radford, Va.

Dr. J. Luke Martell, Sr., College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., reports a tour sponsored by the college and prepared by the Centre de Cooperation Culturelle et Sociale. This tour of France, scheduled from June 20 through August 6, is designed

Hiram Review Announces Contest

The editors of the Hiram Poetry Review announce a new national collegiate poetry contest — The Henry Dumas Memorial Poetry Awards. The Hiram Poetry Review is a semi-annual international poetry journal published by the Department of English, Hiram College. Henry Dumas, killed May 23, 1968, was a member of the editorial staff of the publication. Any full-time undergraduate student at an accredited college or junior college is eligible to enter. Two prizes will be offered: a first prize of 75 dollars and a second prize of 25 dollars. Both winning poems will be published in a future issue of the Hiram Poetry Review.

Manuscripts must be post-marked no later than January 31. Announcements of winners will be mailed to all applicants by May 15.

There are no restrictions as to length or subject matter of the poems submitted. Manuscripts should be typed on one side of conventional bond. No more than two poems may be submitted by any single applicant. All manuscripts become the property of the Hiram Poetry Review and will not be returned. Manuscripts must be accompanied by a letter from a college instructor attesting to the applicant's being a regularly enrolled, full-time college student; these letters should be on college or department letterhead stationery. Envelopes should be marked "Henry Dumas Memorial Poetry Awards" and addressed to Hiram Poetry Review, P. O. Box 162, Hiram, Ohio 44234.

Lost and Found

Dr. Fay J. Reubush, Dean of Women at Madison, would like to announce that class rings from the following high schools have been turned in to the lost and found. Owners may claim them by identifying the years and initials:

WMCL to Begin Broadcasts Next Semester

by Ann Elmore

WMCL, Madison's FM radio station, is expected to begin broadcasting early next semester, it was revealed today by Dr. Eugene Moulton.

The station, to be located on the second floor of Alumnae, will contain an office, control room, news room, recording library, and a recording studio. It will be the only stereo station in this part of the state. It already boasts a record collection consisting of 200 albums and a like number of single discs.

Staff members have been undergoing training for their respective tasks for several weeks and those who have completed their training are preparing others for station positions.

The station will operate daily from 4:30 pm to midnight and will present programs featuring all types of music as well as various educational programs. Up-to-the-minute news will be another feature. An Associated Press wire service will be installed in the news room.

Equipment for the station has begun to arrive and WMCL needs only FCC authorization to begin operations. The necessary application for the license was made four months ago but has not yet been approved by the FCC.

Operating funds for WMCL are provided by the administration. Much of the equipment was purchased through student contributions.

The date of the station's first broadcast will be announced as soon as the necessary license is received, Dr. Moulton said.

The desires of Madison's physical education professors have been fulfilled. The lake may not be a football field, but it is being used for physical activity.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Parking Spaces Needed

The increase of students maintaining cars on campus has created problems with no solution in sight. The most obvious of these deals with the lack of student parking on front campus. The first paragraph in the Parking and Traffic Regulations of the college states that, "The demand for parking vehicles at Madison College will continue to increase more rapidly than parking areas can be provided. Therefore, insofar as practical, the College will provide parking: FIRST, for faculty and employees; SECOND, for students with registered vehicles; and THIRD, for official visitors." Thus, parking areas most accessible to the academic buildings have been reserved without charge for faculty and administration.

This, at first, appears quite unfair to students who are required to pay a parking fee. Upon further consideration, however, it becomes apparent that if Madison desires to attract highly qualified instructors, many fringe benefits must be offered. Parking privileges are but one. As the College attracts more professors, it is foreseeable that parking areas on front campus will be restricted solely for faculty.

There are several reasons why this problem will not find an easy solution. First, there is the question of finances. The parking area on back campus was built at an expense of $105,000. Present plans to re-surface the parking lot behind Harrison Annex will cost an estimated $52,000. At this time, there are no funds available for the construction of additional parking lots.

Secondly, projected plans for parking areas do not include lots on front campus. Many members of the student body as well as members of the BREEZE staff feel that it would be feasible to use areas now seeded with grass for parking areas. Areas such as the plots behind Keezell, Moody, and Varner House have been suggested. However, many do not realize that before plans for any construction on campus will be approved by the governor, they must first be approved by the State Art Commission. This seems a needless restriction in some cases, but it is a restriction by which the college must abide. Therefore, even if funds were available, all future lots will be constructed on back campus. For the present, there still remains the question of regulation of student parking on front campus. This problem should be partially remedied by September when cars will be registered by lot and students will be required to park their vehicles in designated areas.

The shortage of parking areas is most noticeable prior to and following vacations. The original plan stated that unregistered cars on campus during these periods were to be parked on back campus. This has not been the case, and it would be advisable for the proper authorities to take notice of this situation.

Another problem concerning parking that has come to the attention of the editors is the lack of parking spaces available for students using Infirmary facilities. Col. A. H. Phillips, Business Manager, stated that it would be possible to consider reserving several spaces in the lot behind Burruss for Infirmary patients.

The parking regulation that has caused the most concern on the part of students is the fees charged for parking violations. The cost for a first offense is one dollar. A second offense results in a three dollar fine while the third offense is five dollars. Students charged for a fourth violation must pay a ten dollar fine. For the fifth offense, the student is referred to the appropriate Dean. In establishing this schedule of graduated fees, it was felt that a blanket fine higher in cost than the fines now charged would be unfair. It was decided that one-time offenders should not be penalized as harshly as those who habitually violate parking regulations. Rather than serving as a deterrent, these graduated fees have served only to create animosity. If parking fines are designed as deterrents, perhaps it would be more effective to use a blanket fee for all offenses. This fee would, of necessity, be higher than those now charged.

While many of the problems concerning parking on campus have no possible solution, there are conditions which can and should be remedied. It is suggested that students discontented with the parking situation as it now exists make use of the means of communication available to them — for example, President Miller's Open Meetings, Open Student Government Meetings, and the BREEZE. Only when constructive criticism reaches the proper administrative officials can action be taken.

Slacks Allowed During Snow

Dear Editor: The Standards Committee wishes to announce that slacks may be worn anywhere on campus in the event that snow is falling and that there is an accumulation of snow on the ground. After a snowfall this condition will remain in effect until terminated by the Standards Committee Chairman or Dean of Women.

Also page 66 in the handbook states, "Students are not to cut campus." Students are reminded that cutting campus is a call down offense. Also football on the quad is not allowed under any circumstances. Boys guilty of this violation will be referred to the Dean. Students are also reminded that gym suits are not considered proper classroom attire, and may not be worn in academic buildings.

Santa Claus Entertains Needy

by Ronnie Mayfield

This is most likely what ran through the minds of twelve children who were entertained at a Christmas party in Shorts Hall on Wednesday, December 18. Tau Sigma Chi, one of Madison's newest fraternities, sponsored this party for a dozen needy children of the Harrisonburg area.

Along with refreshments galore and two films, Santa Claus paid an unexpected visit and presented each child with two gifts which were provided by generous local merchants.

When asked about the success of the Christmas party, Gerald Early, president of Tau Sigma Chi, said that everything went smoothly and that the children seemed to enjoy themselves; one child made him promise a party for next year. Early also said he wanted to thank the many dormitory residents who assisted in planning the party. Noteworthy here was the live Christmas music played by Mike Holmes, a member of The King's Row. When asked the purpose behind the Christmas party, Early replied that this is just one of the ways in which Tau Sigma Chi plans to serve the community interests.

The University of Virginia is again conducting a Spanish Summer Institute in Salamanca, Spain. Interested students should contact the Director of the Institute, Dr. Arnold A. Del Greco, Department of Romance Languages, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va.

The college of Arts and Sciences of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute plans to have four language programs and four English speaking programs. Each program will conclude with a two week independent travel period. Language programs are planned for France, Germany, Russia, and Spain. The other four are: the Austria program with emphasis on the arts, architecture and culture of Austria and Greece; the Netherlands program features the theme "European Governments, East and West" (including a tour of various European capitals); the Swedish program with the theme "Social, Political, and Economic Ideas of Scandinavia"; and the Middle East program features "Problems Confronting the Middle East." Cost for each program is between $1,295 and $1,395. For further information contact Dr. Louis Menonides, Coordinator of International Studies, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

Students who are interested in the above mentioned programs should contact the Program Directors or the Chairman of the Foreign Studies Committee, Mr. John Stewart (Box 98 or in Keezell 2).

White Directs Alumni

by Frank Humphreys

When you graduate from Madison and go your separate ways, you will take with you fond and cherished memories of your stay here. From time to time, nostalgia will make you wonder what has been happening at your alma mater and what your classmates are doing. The Madison Alumni Association was established to help satisfy this need.

Located on the second floor of Alumnae Hall, the Alumni Association has been in operation since 1912, serving all the past graduating classes. Until last year, however, their work was of a limited nature. To remedy this situation, a new director was hired to coordinate and handle all matters pertaining to alumni.

Mr. Robert White came to Madison in July 1968 from Boston, Massachusetts, where he was a regional sales manager with Knapp Shoe Manufacturing Company. A graduate of the College of William and Mary, Class of 1964 with a B.A. in Philosophy, Mr. White is married and the father of a 2 1/2 year old girl. His wife was also a William and Mary graduate.

Mr. White is the first full time director of the association, having as his prime responsibility the managerial guidance of the programs. The Alumni Association has two primary goals: 1) to maintain contact with students after graduation regarding the growth of the college, any new special programs, and any of the other various changes that have or will take place; and 2) to keep classmates in touch with each other. By keeping alumni in touch with the college and each other, they will have the opportunity to actively participate in the growth and further development of the college.

How can the alumni participate when they may be many miles away from the campus? Through the association, they can make their wishes for new programs or certain changes known, and the association, acting as their agent, can provide a concentrated follow-up on these recommendations. As new programs or extra-curricular activities are added, there is not always enough monetary support forthcoming from the state. Should an alumnus wish to contribute any financial support, he may do so through the Alumni Association. Although this is not the association's main objective, they realize that financial contributions from alumni are beneficial and quite often necessary.

"The Madisonian", the official publication of the Alumni Association, is published quarterly and sent to all Madison alumni. This magazine not only informs the alumni of what their classmates are doing; it also helps develop a higher degree of awareness of what is happening on the campus.

Any organization needs financial assistance to operate, and the Alumni Association is no exception. Alumnae Hall houses the association's outlet to provide the students with college momentos. For sale are such items as jewelry, beer and coffee mugs, sportswear (sweaters, sweatshirts, night shirts, etc.), and many other items of interest. This is strictly a non-profit organization established to provide an outlet on campus where students could obtain items at a reasonable price.

Campus Development Plan Calls for Dorm, P.E. Building, Student Union

by Susan McCrary

The campus development plan for Madison College is a growing and encouraging one. Within the next few years students will witness the construction of two new men's dormitories and three more women's dormitories, a new physical education building, a student activities building and an infirmary addition. (See map below.)

Building plans for the student activities center have been completed by the architect, but the mechanical details are still to be perfected by Brown Associates, an engineering firm from Washington, D.C. When that blueprint is available, the next step will be to submit the plans to the governor's office for review and proposal, which usually takes about two weeks. The final step will be to advertise for construction bids over a period of about 30 days. Hopefully construction by the lowest bidder will begin in March 1969.

The new physical education building has been approved and the plans are presently being drawn up. Construction is estimated to begin in late June or early July 1969.

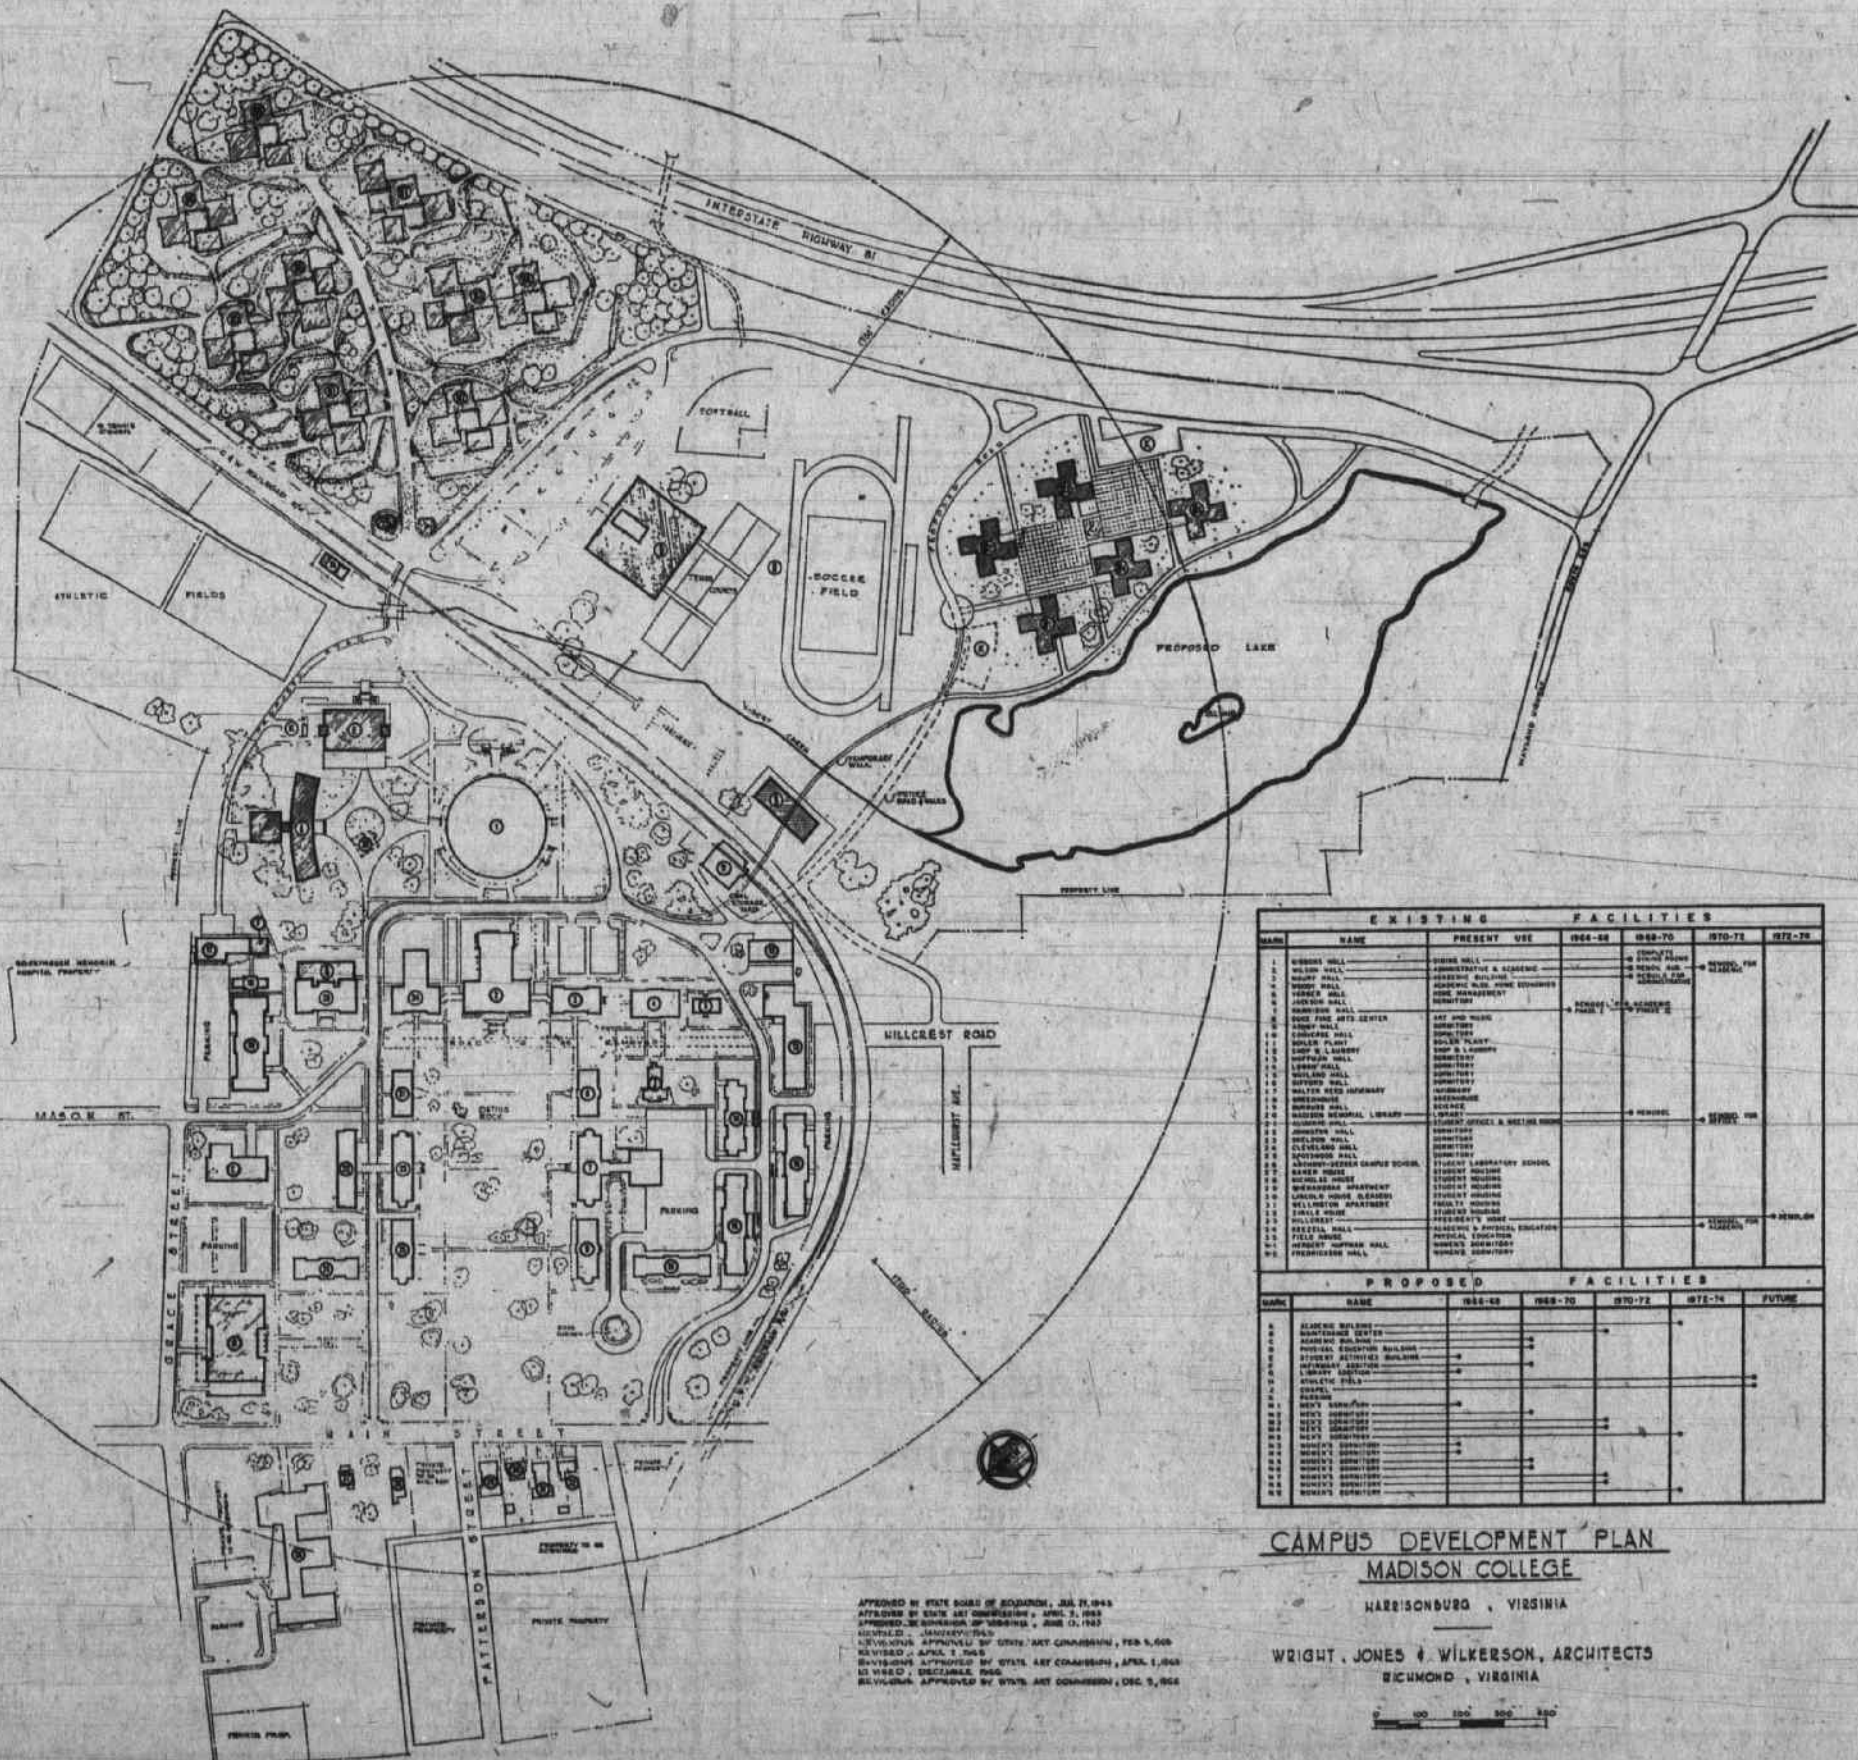

Two new women's dormitories are now under construction in the area behind Herbert Huffman dormitory. Each one will house 198 women and will be open for use in September 1969.

Another men's dormitory was put under contract in December. If all goes according to schedule, this eight-story building which will house 400 men will be completed in August of 1970 and be ready for occupancy in September 1970. Plans for two more men's dormitories and three women's dormitories are expected to be presented at the next meeting of the state legislature in the spring of 1970. Although housing funds are provided by the sale of revenue bonds, the legislature, which meets every two years, must first approve all proposals. If approval is obtained, which is expected, construction may get underway in the fall of 1970.

Among plans for the more distant future are the construction of a chapel, the remodeling of Alumnae, Maury and Keezell Halls, and the demolition of Hillcrest (President Miller's home) to provide space for a new academic building.

Dukes Improve Steadily

Reversing a format which had seen them lose a couple of games in the second half, the Dukes came on strong in the final two periods to upset the tall and talented W&L frosh, 91-80 at Lexington January 7.

The Dukes showed their best form of the season in shooting 51% from the field as Steve Misenheimer, Bob Hummer, and Butch Rinker led the way. The win was especially heartening to Coach Phil Huntsinger who has contended the past several weeks that his team had not yet jelled.

Misenheimer not only topped the Dukes in scoring with 23 points but also hauled 18 rebounds off the boards, Mike Kohler, though scoring only six points, netted 14 rebounds. Hummer took 10 and tallied 21 points while Rinker added 18 points. The Dukes had five men in double figures for the first time this season as Harvey Almarode and Bob Toohey scored 13 and 10 points respectively.

Prior to the win over W&L, the Dukes had dropped two close games to Frostburg, Md.

In the first of the two meetings, Frostburg overcame a Madison lead to post an 81-75 win. Rinker had his best night of the year as he missed only two shots while making 24 points. The Dukes also placed Hummer, Misenheimer, and Bob Maley in double figures.

A poor night at the foul line cost Madison a win in the return match with Frostburg January 4 as they made only 14 of 35 from the free throw line. They also suffered from the floor as they only hit on 37% of their shots.

Madison led by five at the intermission and the score was tied 71-71 at the end of regulation play. The final score ended 76-74 with all the scoring in the overtime coming from the foul line, except one basket by Misenheimer. Hummer and Misenheimer hit for 24 and 19 points, respectively, as Steve also paced the team in rebounding with 13.

The Dukes romped to their fifth win of the season against Shepherd last Thursday in a rough-and-tumble contest which saw Rinker, Hummer and George Sinclair suffer injuries. The final score was 103-68 and the team was never behind from the start.

Steve Misenheimer once again led the team scoring with seven field goals and seven of seven from the foul line for 21 points. Reserve forward Bob Schulze scored 16 in his best performance of the year while Lowell Turner tossed in 12. Bob Maley and Mike Kohler got 10 each as the Dukes again placed five men in double figures. It was the first time this year that the team had topped the century mark.

Though the Dukes held Shepherd to 68 points, their best defensive showing of the year, it must be said that the West Virginians had a poor night from the floor. Despite their edge in height, the visitors were unable to control the boards and the Dukes scored many easy baskets on long passes from Kohler and Schulze to the guards who streaked down the court.

This win gave the Dukes a 5-3 record for the season.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

For the remaining few evenings, volleyball intramurals will be co-ed and all students are urged to participate. Some faculty members have expressed an interest in forming a team so those interested are asked to come to Keezell gym.

The following are the results of the women's volleyball intramurals:

League A (experienced)		W.	L.
The Mops	18	4
Twistin' Turtle Trippers	9	9

League B (inexperienced)		W.	L.

The Aggressors	6	12

Intramurals

The 1968 fall soccer program attracted six teams, three from men's housing units, and one each from Faculty, day students, and Sigma Delta Rho fraternity.

Due to the availability of only one athletic field for men's sports, the schedule of games was severely hampered. Intramural Director, Dr. Ed Lipton, estimated that at least five more teams could have entered the competition which would have enabled an earlier start to the program. As a result, the cold weather did not encourage the students to participate.

Sigma Delta Rho ended the program undefeated in three games and finished in first place. The anticipated "big game" with the second place Faculty was marred by a Faculty forfeit due to a lack of the necessary number of players. However, an unofficial game was played which the Faculty won, 1-0.

Cindy Westmoreland out-maneuvers an eager Eagle from Bridgewater in the Madison women's basketball opener. Both the first and second teams were victorious. Next home game — Saturday, 2 pm., against EMC.

Women's Teams Defeat Bridgewater

Madison's girls got the basketball season off to a flying start as both the first and second units posted wins over tenacious Bridgewater teams in a pair of defensive battles in Keezell gym Jan. 7.

Bidding to make Madison its fourth straight victim, the Eagles' "A" team moved out to a 10-4 lead in the first quarter and held a 15-12 lead at halftime as the defenses dominated play. Madison, outplayed on the boards and a bit over-anxious on offense, looked as if it might make Coach Barbara Quinn's prediction of an unbeaten season a premature one.

The home team moved into high gear in the third period as Pam Wiegart and Chris Shelton scored four points each and Barb Moore and Peggy Bruce applied defensive pressure. Madison outscored the Eagles 11-3 to take a 23-19 lead going into the final quarter and the Eagles were unable to cut the margin.

Pam Wiegart paced Madison with 10 points while Chris Shelton got nine despite having the misfortune to miss two easy lay-ups in the final minute of play. It was Madison's first win over a Bridgewater team in several years. The Eagles had defeated Lynchburg, Longwood, and E.M.C. earlier in the season and are now 3-1 for the year. The two teams will meet again at Bridgewater, March 7.

Trailing 19-17 at the end of three quarters, the second team held Bridgewater to just two points in the last period to chalk up a 24-21 win in its opener.

Gail Sears showed the way with 10 points but it was a pair of baskets by Bev Burnett in the waning minutes of the contest that put the game on ice.

Madison led 9-5 at the first quarter and held a two-point margin at the half in a stirring battle of defenses and were behind for only a brief moment at the end of the third period and a minute into the fourth.

The teams will take on Eastern Mennonite in Keezell gym Saturday in the final game before the semester break. Game time is 2 pm but come early and watch the Madison girls go through their pre-game drills to "Sweet Georgia Brown" ala the Harlem Globe Trotters. It's a performance worth watching.

Sports Of Sorts

The Dukes have now split even in two overtime contests after dropping a two-point game to Frostburg Jan. 4. Once again, failure at the foul line was the culprit as the Dukes dropped in an icy 40% of their free throws.

In their three regular season losses, Coach Phil Huntsinger's squad has been beaten by a total of 12 points. Poor foul shooting was responsible for both losses to Frostburg. If the Dukes are to continue playing these down-to-the-wire games, their accuracy at the free throw stripe must improve. Otherwise, it could prove to be a long season.

This column was only half right on the outcome of the Tangerine Bowl fracas between the Richmond Spiders and Ohio U's Bobcats. A high-scoring contest was forecast and this part of the prediction proved correct as the teams combined for a record-breaking 91 points. But Ohio's pass defense was even weaker than had been reported. One wonders what kind of passers the Mid-America conference had this year. The Ohioans went through a 10-game schedule undefeated with a porous defense such as that? Almost unbelievable.

Luther Rice College took on the big boys in a holiday basketball tournament at Quantico and learned in a hurry that they are a far cry from big time basketball. Rice took three lop-sided losses in the tourney including an 80-48 pasting from the host service five.

The holiday tournaments across the nation took their toll of the nation's undefeated teams with only a handful escaping their first loss of the season. Among the vanquished were Columbia, Detroit, North Carolina, and Duquesne all of whom are rated in the top twenty teams in the country. North Carolina's overtime loss to St. John's of Brooklyn looked like a fluke until the New Yorkers dumped Davidson a few nights ago. The Redmen were no match for UCLA in the finals of the Madison Square Garden event, however. Alcindor and company just keep rollin' along.

As if the Dukes did not have enough to worry about, the D. C. Teachers whom they meet next month, blasted Eastern Mennonite a week or so ago in rather convincing fashion. The word is that the D. C. crew is loaded with talent.

The girls' basketball team will entertain Eastern Mennonite in Keezell gym at 2 pm Saturday and then remain idle for almost a month due to semester exams. The next girls' game will be an out-of-town encounter with Westhampton, Feb. 15.

The men journey to Luther Rice Saturday and then will be out of action until Feb. 8 when they face the Lynchburg JV's here. The first contest with Lynchburg was postponed due to an outbreak of the HKF in Lynchburg. The game will be rescheduled later in the season.

Mens' intramural basketball teams are reminded that they must play only with those men who are signed up on rosters 24 hours in advance of the game. Two teams suffered forfeit losses recently for using ineligible men.
