The Madison Dance Theater

Dance Theatre Adopts 'Mariah' For Festival

A student-choreographed dance entitled "Mariah" will be performed by members of Madison Dance Theatre at the Virginia Dance Festival February 22 at Virginia Commonwealth University.

The dance composition, based on a Latin American arrangement of "Mariah" by the Kingston Trio, was choreographed and taught by Esten Lambert, a senior Elementary Education major and Mathematics concentrator. Mr. Lambert attended the University of the Dance at Jacob's Pillow in Massachusetts during the past summer. He was awarded a full scholarship for the 9-week program of study, which included modern, ballet and ethnic dance.

Colleges and universities from all parts of Virginia will be participating in the Virginia Dance Festival. Activities are to include a dance workshop, lecture-demonstration, presentation of student compositions, and a critique by the guest artist.

Representing Madison at the festival will be Miss Caroline Goodrich, advisor to Dance Theatre, Marianne Perlin, Nora Stone, Janet Burgess, Denay Trykowski, Sidney Gill, Esten Lambert, Diana Gehley, and Nancy Sours.

Madison Dance Theatre is also scheduled to perform "Mariah" in the Student-Faculty Talent Show March 14.

Senior Presents Recital

Marianne M. Price, soprano, will present her Senior Recital February 23 at 3 pm in the Latimer-Shaeffer Auditorium. Miss Price, a native of Arlington, sings with the Madison College Chorale, the Madison Singers, and is vocal soloist with the Madison Orchestra. Accompanying Miss Price at the piano will be Sue E. Christian.

The program will include a Handel aria with Thomas McDonald, violinist, and Wayne Taylor, cellist; "La Regata Veneziana" by Rossini; "Ouvre tes yeux blues" by Massenet; "Les Cloches" by Dubussy; "Jeune Fillette" by Dalayrac; "Cosi Fan Tutte, Act II, Scenes i, ii by Mozart with Shirley Redford, soprano, Sue Christian, alto, and Donna Burcham, accompanist; and, "The Pasture" by Naginski, "Plum Pudding" by Bernstein, and "A Little China Figure" by Leoni.

All students are invited. There is no charge for admission.

President Miller has scheduled an Open Meeting for tonight at 6:30 in Willson Auditorium. The President's Open Meetings provide the students with an opportunity to speak directly to the President and his Administrative staff.

All students are urged to attend.

Office of Activities Tightens Rule

It has been reported to the Office of Student Activities that non-college persons have been attending dances on campus. Madison dances are open only to Madison students and their dates, and students from colleges issued an invitation by the organization sponsoring the dance. Future dances will not be open to the public.

Hereafter, the following will be in effect regarding campus dances:

1. All students must show ID cards for admittance to dances.
2. The sponsoring organization will be responsible for having persons at each entrance to check ID cards.
3. No student is to be admitted who does not have an ID card from Madison or one of the colleges issued an invitation. Students may bring dates who do not attend Madison or the other invited schools. In other words, persons attending the dance must be students of Madison or one of the area colleges and must present his ID card before being admitted.

When invitations are sent in the future to area schools, they will be informed that students will be expected to present ID cards for admittance. Any difficulties with enforcement of these regulations should be reported to the police officer on duty.

Therefore, because dances are not open to the public, they should not be announced through any public news media.

Students Participate in First Teacher Evaluation

Madison's first student-oriented Teacher Evaluation will take place in the near future. The questionnaire being used for the evaluation was designed by several sociologists from the College of William and Mary. It has been used at that college and Old Dominion College with great success.

When the questionnaires are available, they will be distributed in the dorms by hall monitors and collected at the end of a week.

Through this questionnaire, the Teacher Evaluation Committee seeks to present to the individual professor a summary of the comments of students who were enrolled in a specific course during the fall semester of the 1968-69 session.

All questionnaires on any given course will be directed only to students who have just completed the course during this fall semester. The committee realizes that professors often change their course organization, course requirements, and texts from semester to semester. What will be shown in the results of this evaluation, however, is only how each course was presented during the semester.

It is recognized that this is the first Teacher Evaluation program conducted at Madison College and it may prove to be less than perfect. However, this evaluation procedure is designed to be a continuing program and refinements and/or improvements will be made in subsequent editions.

The importance of this evaluation can not be over-emphasized as it will attempt to consider the opinions of as many students as possible. Student cooperation is extremely important.

Harrison Renovation Provides Classroom, Lecture Facilities

Harrison Hall is undergoing a half million remodeling to refit it for classroom use, faculty offices, and lecture hall facilities for the business education department.

The remodeling contains 24,000 square feet of space. The contract for the improvements provides heating, air conditioning, lighting, partitions, and other facilities. The project will take approximately seven months.

Other construction activities on campus include rapid progress on the library addition as well as on a girls' dormitory. Work has also been begun on the foundation for the second boys' dormitory.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Educator Fights Back

Congratulations are in order for one faithful educator in California who has taken a firm stand against the ever-increasing number of agitators attempting to disrupt campuses throughout the U.S.

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, noted educator and semanticist, and Acting President of San Francisco State College, stated before a House subcommittee meeting on February 3, that "an alliance of militant students and alienated faculty, using tactics that helped the Nazis rise to power in Germany, is dedicated to destroying society, starting with San Francisco State College."

The militant students, on strike since November 6, 1968, have demanded that the administration set up a school of ethnic studies, with absolute autonomy from the California state college system. The student demand for autonomy has certain requests, all of which are non-negotiable. They apparently want all or nothing.

Another demand of the militants is that all black students wishing admission in the fall 1969 be accepted. However, this would do away with the present acceptance system and could be against the Civil Rights Act, resulting in a type of reverse discrimination.

The strike itself started when black students attacked the campus newspaper (6-8 Negroes were arrested during the attack for beating up the Editor). Since that time, planned violence has overtaken the campus. It was first directed toward the classrooms when students were terrorized and furniture was turned over. This was soon followed by a series of minor bombings and arson (mostly trashcan fires to disrupt classes). Finally, the violence spread to guerrilla fighting and outright student beatings.

It appears that most of the students were against mob rule and were simply seeking an education. However, those students attempting to attend classes were severely beaten by the militants.

Hayakawa has taken a firm stand, and has said he is prepared to keep the college going, even if he must continue to rely on squads of policemen every day to prevent strikers from disrupting classes. He estimated that the actual cost incurred for the use of police to be approximately $100,000 per day.

What are the students' reasons for this alleged takeover attempt? He says "the Students for Democratic Society has said it wants to destroy our society. However, they are not going to begin here."

When commenting on the news media coverage, he states: "It is very interesting to attend a noon rally and get home in time to see yourself on the six o'clock news." Although he feels that there are presently revolutionaries on campuses throughout the U.S. attempting to cause trouble, he says that his problems differ from those of other college campuses throughout the U.S. as each has its own unique problems.

Let us be truly thankful for such a man as Dr. Hayakawa and that we do not have the problems on our campus that he is presently facing.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I GUESS HIS GRADES REALLY WENT TO POT THIS SEMESTER."

REVERBERATIONS

Wrong Cars Pay for Tickets Like Cafeteria Changes

Dear Editor,

As students who have paid $30.00 to register our cars on the Campus, we have but one question to ask the administration — why are we paying even one thin dime for this great "privilege"? 50% of the cars that are parked in the rear of Wayland Dorm are not registered. They take up 50% of the parking spaces every single day and when a ticket is given, they can tear it up and throw it away. They have this honor for the very fact that they do not register their cars, while those of us who pay the fee and abide by the registration rule of the College also pay for parking tickets when no "legal" parking is available. The whole system defeats its purpose by actually penalizing the student who abides by the rules, and rewarding the ones who do not.

The parking lot directly behind Hoffman Dorm, which is now for faculty only, would greatly facilitate the student's problem. For some reason this college seems to think that six or seven employee and state cars warrant a parking area large enough for 20 to 25 cars. At no time of the day or night are there more than seven cars in the lot, yet when the registered student automobile is parked there for a few hours, a ticket is immediately slapped on the windshield.

Now we are not being unreasonable by asking for new lots to be built, only for the use of lots that are vacant 24 hours a day. A more sensible solution for this specified lot would be to mark off as many places as necessary, and let the rest be used by registered student cars only.

We sincerely hope that the administration will consider our problem and agree upon some suitable solution in the near future.

Perplexed

Dear Editor:

During the past several years, the cafeteria has been the object of a great amount of criticism. The long lines, lack of seating, and meals that could often be improved upon, are still sources of dissatisfaction.

I feel, however, that Mr. Griffin, the new manager, is due a word of thanks. His consideration during the recent examination period was most appreciated. The bags filled with "goodies" and the "make-your-own sundaes" were a surprising, yet pleasant innovation. Who knows, maybe someday students will look forward to meals...

Well fed??

Rats Annoy Huffman Girls

Dear Editor:

Here we are in the new dormitories. Did I say new dormitories? Huffman Dormitory is more than two years old and more dormitories are going up. Why is Huffman not finished? Our complaint about Huffman Dormitory concerns the numerous large holes left adjacent to the drain pipes in the mop closets. Through these holes have come countless gray furry creatures that have invaded our hallways, our mattresses, and our couches with their nests.

After several complaints to the proper authorities the entire dormitory was generously supplied with two mouse traps. Thus far we have successfully executed Charles, Robert, Chubby, and Tex with the provided traps. On Feb. 7th new measures were taken. The fifth mouse—Grossy—passed away from poisoning and was found decomposing under a couch on 3rd floor B-section Huffman Dormitory.

Poisoning is by no means a good method of extermination; however, it is a last resort.

Reading Day Set For Exam Week

Through the efforts of the SGA Reading Day Committee, certain days will be set aside in the future, free of classes, in preparation for exams. These days will be included in the calendar of events for next year and will continue every semester until the students desire to discontinue it.

In addition to the future reading days, the SGA is working on a student directory containing names, P.O. box numbers, campus and home addresses of all students at Madison. It is hopeful that this directory will be available in March.

Counseling Center Opens Study Lab

Do you want to raise your grades, build your vocabulary, or get better test grades? If your answer is "yes" to these or a number of other questions concerning study skills, then you will be interested in the Study Skills Laboratory offered by the Counseling Center, under the direction of Mrs. Todd Zeiss. The program begins today.

A three-week intensive course makes up the Study Skills Lab which emphasizes techniques of note-taking, vocabulary building, techniques of test-taking, writing themes and research papers, and techniques of efficient studying.

Classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from noon until 12:50 p.m. in the SGA room on second floor Alumnae.

These courses will be offered, subject to student demand, every three weeks during the spring semester. No fee will be charged for the course (except a required book charge of $1.25) and a limited number of students will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

As a supplement to the Study Skills Laboratory, group counseling will be available once a week under the direction of Dr. William O. Hall and Mr. Richard Chafey.

If you are interested in participating in a lab, please stop by the Counseling Center on the second floor of Alumnae.

We feel we have adequately expressed our complaints through the proper channels, but still there have been no attempts by the school to correct the situation.

We feel that until the holes in the mop closets are repaired, no amount of poisoning or trapping will rid the dormitory of mice. We only hope that the new dormitories will be properly completed and that their new residents will not be plagued by mice.

Sincerely,

Third floor, B-section,
Huffman Dormitory

Professor Named as Delegate To State Credentials Committee

by Frank Humphreys

Proving that he "practices what he teaches", a political science assistant professor has recently been named as alternate delegate to the Credentials Committee of the State Republican Convention to be held in Roanoke on February 28-March 1.

John Abbott Paul, who heads his own law firm in addition to teaching here, was bestowed with this honor by his peers in the state Republican organization. As a member of the credentials committee, it will be his duty to substantiate the presence and attendance of the elected representatives from the various districts within the state.

Mr. Paul has been at Madison for two and a half years. He received a B.A. from Washington and Lee University in 1959 and completed law school there in 1962. He then became a member of the Virginia Bar Association, and later he received his L.L.M. (Master of Law) degree from George Washington Law School in 1963.

From the summer of 1962 to the fall of 1965 he served in the army where he achieved the rank of captain before being honorably discharged. He opened his own law practice locally, and was originally an instructor at Bridgewater College.

He has been married for six years, and his wife was on the staff of Madison's art department last year. The Pauls have two children, a girl Penny, age 5, and a boy John Abraham, age six weeks.

Originally from this area, Paul has long been active in the local Republican party organization. In fact he joined immediately after graduating from high school some 13 years ago. He is currently the chairman of the local party organization and has been in that post for the past three years and has been a delegate to both state and national Republican party conventions, and through his efforts as campaign manager he has been instrumental in the election of many local officials.

And as if all this was not enough to keep him busy, he was recently appointed City Attorney for Harrisonburg for a term of four years. While hoping that he would not have to prosecute any cases against any Madison students, he assured us that "the legal processes will be just and fair" in any case that does come before him.

Asked to comment on the recent election of Richard Nixon, Paul admits that Nixon is faced with a hard job. He said that Nixon's failure to win a majority of votes plus strong Democratic Congress present a great challenge.

He admits, however, that Nixon "will probably be one of our most outstanding Presidents. I have faith he will end the war in Vietnam on honorable terms. Further, I was impressed with his inaugural speech, by his emphasis on simple values and spiritual values, as opposed to materialistic ones."

Another bright prospect, Paul stated, is the future of the Republican party in this area and in the entire South. It is very good in fact, because "it is a party of young people predominantly who are sincerely interested in achieving good government" for their states and localities.

The young people involved in the Republican movement have a broader base than those who supported the various dove candidates in the presidential election, where that group sought to capitalize on one issue only. The young Republicans, however, are more interested in a "continuing struggle for improving overall conditions."

bit of smoking and drinking has been occurring in the gym during campus dances as evidenced by the paper cups and cigarette butts.

Dean James Fox has requested that the following standards be followed in the future:

1. Each organization sponsoring a dance is responsible for large signs at all entrances to the gym and inside the gym along the balconies which shall read as follows: NO SMOKING OR DRINKING INSIDE GYM. Also, each organization is responsible for checking everyone going into the gym at any time and checking those inside the hall during the dance.
2. Any Madison student found smoking or drinking in the gym should be reported to the Dean of Women or Dean of Men.

3. Any NON-MADISON student found drinking or smoking in the gym is to be reported to the Security Officer on duty who will remove the person from the campus.
4. Sponsoring organizations unable to control the smoking and drinking in the gym will be denied future use.

Debate Team Faces Completion

A Madison College debate team, composed of Tom Rose and Charles Shomo, participated in the annual Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament at the College of William and Mary on January 30, 31, and February 1.

This was the 15th year of this fine college debating tournament, and the first year in which Madison participated.

Over fifty outstanding colleges and universities participated in the three-day event. Some of those who opposed the Madison debaters included, Dartmouth, Duke, Michigan State, Northwestern, Ohio State, Princeton, U.S. Naval Academy, and the University of Kansas.

The topic for the debates was, Resolved: "That the Executive Powers of the President in Foreign Policy Should Be Substantially Curtailed." Each college team consisted of two debaters, and they had to be prepared to debate both the affirmative and negative sides of the proposition. All teams debated eight preliminary rounds, including four on the affirmative and four on the negative. At the conclusion of the eight rounds, the eight teams with the best records continued debating until a champion was decided.

The Madison team was not one of the eight to enter the championship rounds. This is understandable since debate at Madison is a new adventure, and the tournament at William and Mary was one of the very best in the country. The Madison debaters are constantly improving and are determined to bring home some trophies at one of these debate tournaments in the future.

The Madison team was accompanied on the trip to William and Mary by Dr. Eugene R. Moulton, Head of the Department of Speech and Drama.

Dr. Moulton announced that Madison will oppose a debate team from Bridgewater College before the Bridgewater Freshman-Sophomore Convocation.

Other exhibitions and tournaments are planned for the Madison debaters during the Spring Semester, including debates at Johns-Hopkins University, Georgetown University, and American University.

Two Wins Over EMC Claimed By Women's Basketball Teams

Debbie Wilson poured in 20 points to pace the girls' first team to a 42-21 win over EMC just prior to the semester break. It was the team's third win against a single one-point loss to Lynchburg.

The second team remained undefeated in four games by overwhelming the EMC second unit as Bev Burnett led the way with 10 points.

Neither Madison team experienced trouble in picking up easy victories. Though winning by 21 points, the first unit did not appear to be at their sharpest. The second team had even an easier time as they took a 22-8 lead at halftime and continued to build their lead.

The teams play a return match at EMC tomorrow evening.

Excessive fouling proved to be the first team's downfall in the 37-36 loss to Lynchburg. The loss of Pam Wiegardt, who led Madison in scoring with 11 points, and Cynnne Westmoreland in the third quarter was too much of a handicap to overcome.

Emily Harper and Gail Sears scored nine points each in the second unit's 55-15 rout of Lynchburg's second team.

Zooming out to a 32-20 halftime lead, the Studs defeated Shorts 3rd Floor, 52-43, to capture the mens' intramural basketball championship though outscored from the floor in the second half.

Jim Wagamon, Joe Hoover, and Graham Bartley combined for 40 points to pace the new champions while Rod Morris led the losers with 11.

Accuracy at the foul line made the difference as the Studs connected on 16 of 22 free throws while Shorts made only 7 of 16.

The losers fouled repeatedly in the second half in an effort to get back into the game only to see the Studs take advantage of the charity tosses to maintain their lead.

The Studs reached the finals by rallying in the second half for a 49-39 win over PKB while Shorts 3rd Floor reached the title round with a tight 42-40 victory over SPE.

The finalists each reached the title game on the strength of 8-1 records, a mark matched by the Faculty "A" team.

Dukes Victorious in Three Games

Evidently rejuvenated by the semester break, Coach Phil Huntsinger's Dukes have won three in a row since losing pre-exam contests to Luther Rice and Lynchburg JV's.

Led by Bob Hummer's 28-point spree, the Dukes stormed by George Mason, 103-68, last Wednesday in the most recent of the trio of victories. The Dukes never trailed in the raggedly played game marked by some of the most comic officiating of the season. The teams marched to the foul line for 52 shots and it was odd that neither team lost a player via the foul route although four of the Dukes had four each.

Hummer, replaced by George Sinclair in the starting lineup, had but 10 points in the opening half but poured in 18 after the intermission despite missing two free throws. Butch Rinker had 14 in the opening half to get the team off to a flying start but was blanked after the intermission while Guards Bob Toohey and Harvey Almarode combined for 16.

The Dukes led at halftime, 55-30, on the strength of a shooting percentage of 52% — a figure which dwindled down to 44% by the end of the game. Even so, they held leads up to 43 points with three minutes to go when Huntsinger inserted his second unit.

Dukes 91 — Lynchburg JV 80

Toohey and Almarode turned in their best performances of the year when the Dukes avenged an earlier loss by defeating the Lynchburg JV's, 91-80.

The backcourt duo combined to steal the ball on 15 occasions and totally disrupted the Lynchburg offense. In addition, each assisted on a half dozen baskets.

Almarode and Rinker scored 21 each and Toohey got 16 as the Dukes overcame sub-par performances by Steve Misenheimer and Hummer who had their poorest nights of the year. Each had nine points.

The Dukes led by 12 at halftime and were behind briefly only twice midway through the opening half.

Dukes 96 — Shenandoah 80

Hummer, playing before a hometown crowd at Winchester, came up with his best night of the year in the Dukes' 96-80 win over Shenandoah. The talented senior forward burned the nets for 28 points and hauled in 29 rebounds in a game which was extremely close until the final few minutes when a Shenandoah press led to numerous Madison trips to the foul line.

Rinker, another product of the Winchester area, came through with 22 points, Misenheimer had 21, and Bob Toohey tallied 15. Terry Corcoran took scoring honors for the home team with 27 while Clark Dixon added 20.

Dukes 88 — Lynchburg 99

In a make-up of a postponed game, the Dukes were outthusted on the boards and saw a spirited rally fall short in the last 10 minutes against the Hornets.

Nowlin Wingfield was the thorn in the Dukes' side all night as he picked the backboards clean and took game point honors with 30. Almarode led the Dukes with 19 on seven field goals in nine attempts and five points at the foul line. Rinker had 14 and Lowell Turner and Misenheimer got 11 each.

Dukes 82 — Luther Rice 87

Luther Rice defeated the Dukes for the second time this season by overcoming a slender Madison lead with five minutes to go and hanging on for an 87-82 win. Rice had beaten the Dukes by four points earlier in the year.

The Dukes led by four at halftime on the strength of some excellent shooting by Misenheimer who led all scorers with 31 points. Brown paced the winners with 24.

Madison hit on only 30 of 90 shots and lost the battle on the boards to the taller Rice team. Hummer captured 14 of 33 Duke rebounds.

The Dukes now stand at 11 wins and five losses for the season as a result of last week's action.

Sports Of Sorts

Semester exams have come and gone and the Dukes lost two players to grades, Mike Kohler and Skip Page. In addition, several members of the taxi squad failed to come up with the necessary grade point to remain in school.

To supplement his squad for the remaining games on the schedule, Coach Phil Huntsinger has added three men to his team including Ron Prillaman who was on the varsity last season. Ronnie Yates, and Al Marston are the other two additions.

Kohler was used extensively through the first semester but fell victim to the flu prior to the holidays and never seemed to regain his early season form. To top it off, he is now under treatment for mononucleosis.

Regardless of what happens in the final games, the Dukes have already posted their best record in their brief basketball history. Never before had they won more than six games in a season.

The Dukes will meet their stiffest competition of the year Friday in Washington when they meet the D.C. Teachers who are having a fine year. D.C. has been mopping up its opposition and seems to get better as the season progresses. They recently drubbed Frostburg, a team which edged the Dukes twice, by a wide margin.

Well, the Washington Redskins have themselves a new coach in Vince Lombardi of Green Bay fame, but it will take more than a coaching change to make winners of the 'Skins. Lombardi will undoubtedly undertake a three or four year rebuilding program to make his team a contender for the league title. Wish him luck—he's going to need it.

Will the baseball season open on schedule or won't it? Ask any two fans and you'll get two different opinions. On the one hand, it would seem that the players have a legitimate gripe. On the other, it would seem that the pension requests are out of line considering that most of the players are making better than an average salary for a nine-month season.

The ultimate danger in this

"labor-management" dispute is that the game might lose its preferred status under the anti-trust laws which recognize the sport as a game rather than a business and thus exempt it from those laws.

The players say that they will strike as a matter of principle. In such an event, it might be well for the lowly fan, who helps pay their salaries through his support, to boycott the games for a time just to let the dissatisfied players know who their real bosses are.

It seems unfair, somehow, that the man who pays the freight and who must work 25 to 30 years to qualify for his pension or social security, should also have to pay higher ticket prices to see these temperamental primadonnas in action. But he will. Because if the owners lose the dispute, they will probably pass on the cost of the increase to the fan at the gate.

The ironic twist to the story is that almost half of today's players couldn't have gotten out of the Three-I league in pre-pension days. Even taking inflation into consideration, most of today's players are commanding salaries far beyond their actual worth simply because there is a dearth of talent due to expansion of both "major" leagues.
