Barter Theatre Presents 'The Reluctant Debutante'

"The Reluctant Debutante," a frivolous comedy about a scheming mother's campaign to make her daughter's "coming-out," a social success, will be presented by the world famous Barter Theatre of Virginia in Madison College's Wilson Hall Auditorium on February 21, beginning at 8 p.m.

In the limited space of a stage, Lynn Pecktal, brilliant young scenic designer, has managed to create an elegant and spacious atmosphere in his setting for "The Reluctant Debutante." A graduate of Emory and Henry College, Pecktal has designed more than twenty-seven sets for the Barter. He received further technical training at the Priscilla Beach Theatre, "The Common Glory" and the Fort Jackson Theatre.

With brisk and fluent wit, "The Reluctant Debutante" exhibits the travail of an upper-class British family during the feverish period of their daughter's "coming-out." The pretty young girl herself finds the whole ritual silly and boring and would rather be home in the country with her horses and dogs.

This deplorable attitude only spurs the youngster's somewhat rattle-brained mother to increased strategies for snaring dinner partners, dancing partners, and eventually a husband for her daughter. The debutante's father, groans under the expense and the late hours he is compelled to keep. He helplessly surrenders to the rituals he regards as inevitable.

Another light-hearted lesson in this harlequinade which delighted London, New York, and Barter audiences is that parents shouldn't try to chaperone their daughters too rigidly. One of the most uproarious scenes in "The Reluctant Debutante" is the one in which the parents, fearing for their daughter when left alone in their living room with a date who's rumored to be a rake, try to eavesdrop on their tete-a-tete and get caught.

"The Reluctant Debutante" is by William Douglas Home, who well knows the round of repeated parties in the same smart hotel ballroom that a debutante season entails, from having himself been a highly eligible bachelor in this free-loading atmosphere a few years before.

Like the heroine of the play, Beth St. Clair, the 'debutante' of the Barter production, took a long look at social duties expected of her and chucked it all for the more rigorous arduousness of the theatre. She kissed the boys goodbye, parked her Hillman Minx and made her own debut at the Barter Theatre of Virginia in "Anniversary Waltz" and created the role of Jane in "The Reluctant Debutante."

Biology Department Goes On Television

On Saturday, February 21, 1958, the Biology Department of Madison College will present a half hour show on the Harrisonburg Television Station concerning the past 50 years of the department on the campus. Doctor Mengebier, with the assistance of Betty Johnson, is basing the program on the advancement of the cell.

The program will consist of slides concerning the human cells followed by a demonstration of the measuring of cell activity. Betty has been experimenting with cancer cells and the effects they have. On Saturday's program she will show and explain her experiment with a chicken. In closing their program there will be a short discussion on the genetics of the cell.

This television series is relatively new, having begun early in this school year. Doctor Theodore is in charge of the series and has had a variety of programs ranging from art, physics, English, geography, and library science to the Madrigal Group. Other interesting programs have been planned for the remainder of the school year.

Madison College To Participate In The College Drama Festival

Madison College will participate in the College Drama Festival of Virginia at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts' Theatre in Richmond on February 22, with a scene from the drama, MARY STUART, by John Drinkwater, English playwright and poet. The scene is in Holyrood Palace, Edinburgh, Scotland, in the year 1566. The action centers around the murder of the Italian secretary to the

Rush Week Begins With Open Houses

On February 24 "rush week" will begin for the social sororities on Madison campus. Activities for the week will continue through March 1. During this time the sororities and rushees are given the opportunity to become acquainted with those girls with whom they wish to become "sisters."

Eligibility for rushing is constituted by being a sophomore or higher and having a cumulative and last semester average of at least 2.00. Transfer students are eligible for rushing after being in school one semester, by having a sophomore rating, and by possessing the equivalent of a 2.00 average or more the previous semester.

On February 24, activities of the week begin with the officers of the Panhellenic Council meeting with the rushees to introduce them to rush procedures. Open houses will be held from 4:00 to 5:30 P.M. on February 26 and 27. Following the last open house, "silence" begins and no communication is carried on between any sorority member and a rushee until after "walking" on March 1.

Porpoise Club Plans Water Performance

February 27 and 28, at 8:00 p.m., the student body will be taken to "Far Away Places" when the Porpoise Club gives its annual aqua ballet in the Reed pool.

The seniors in the club will be featured in a special number and Nancy Talman, the president, will do a solo. Admission to the show will be free.

Campus Awards Priscilla Shafer Coveted Title Of Miss Madison

by Pat Nicholas

Priscilla Shafer, Student Government President, has been awarded the title of "Miss Madison of 1957-58" by a vote of the student body. Pris was not told of her title until a few minutes before The Breeze was circulated on campus.

Frolicking in the snow on campus, Pris Shafer typifies all Madison girls in her role of Miss Madison, 1957-58.

Miss Madison is a title of which one may be duly proud. It is awarded each year by the student body to the senior girl best representing those qualities a Madison girl should possess.

Pris was born in Roanoke, and still claims it as her home town. During the past four years this outstanding student has participated in many extra-curricular activities. She was president of her Sophomore class, a member of The Breeze staff, feature editor of the School-ma'am, and a member of the Student-Faculty Committee.

Acting as President of the Student Body, Pris has done much. Her contact with the students has been pleasant, efficient, and in an attitude of friendliness.

Among her other activities, Pris is also a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha social sorority, the Y.W.C.A., and the German Club. Earlier this year she was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

First semester was busily spent for Pris. In addition to her regular duties and classes she also did her student teaching at Keister Elementary School.

Other candidates for the Miss Madison title were: Betsy Auten, Connie Faulder, Mary Ellen Garber, Sarah Bundy Hodges, Carrie Lou Jeter, Pat Lumpkin, Doris Talbert, Grace Manly and Charlotte Robinson.

The Miss Madison competition is sponsored each year by the Art Club. They are also responsible for choosing the candidates. Betty Hommon is the present president of the Art Club.

Committee On Field Service Plans A Mid-Winter Alumnae Conference

by Joan Lambert

Madison College will hold its annual Mid-Winter Alumnae Conference on Feb. 28 and March 1, for graduates of 55, 56, and 57, who are now teaching in the state schools.

Dr. G. Tyler Miller, President of Madison College, said that the purpose of the conference is to bring out the apparent needs of these teachers in such a way that they and the college faculty may work together in helping to solve some of the problems of both the teachers and the college.

The conference will also present student teachers with an opportunity to discuss experiences with these teachers in order that they may gain a better insight into what to expect when they begin their teaching career.

Registration will be held from 4:30 to 11 p.m., in Alumnae Hall. At 7:30 p.m., a water show will be held by the Porpoise Club Show which will be followed by a reception and coffee hour for returning teachers, Madison College faculty and seniors. This will be held in Alumnae Hall.

On Saturday morning, March 1, from 9 to 11 a.m., departmental group meetings will be held for teachers of art, business, elementary teachers, history, social science, home economics, mathematics, modern language, music, physical education, science and school librarians.

The highlight of the two day meeting will be the general session which will begin at 11 a.m. Dr. Charles Caldwell, Director of the Division of Teacher Education, will preside. The Rev. Earle D. Roberts, Associate Professor of Biblical Literature and Philosophy, will give the invocation to be followed by a message from President Miller, followed by Dr. Percy H. Warren, Dean of the College, who will give an inspirational talk.

Interfaith Council Sponsors Assembly

Wednesday Assembly, February 26, will be sponsored by the Interfaith Council and a well known orator, Rabbi Bernard Honan, will be the featured speaker.

Rabbi Honan graduated from City College of New York, receiving his B.A. Degree and was ordained a Rabbi at Hebrew Union College Jewish Institute of Religion in New York City. In 1950, he received his masters degree in Hebrew Letters.

Rabbi Honan is Director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. He previously served congregations in New York City, South Carolina, and New Hampshire.

Cold Complaint

During the past few days of the cold spell there have been the usual complaints aired by the unfortunate students who are forced to walk from their rooms to classes and the dining hall. "It's entirely too cold to be walking around"; "It's not fair for us to have to go out in this weather," etc., etc., etc.

Many have suggested that the rules be changed during this "state of emergency" to allow us to wear slacks to classes. "Slacks will be so much warmer than skirts"; "Other schools let the girls wear slacks, and I don't see why we can't."

Why is the student body thrown into a state of panic over a few days of cold weather? Certainly, most of us are not conditioned to the sub-zero temperature. However, we all are fortunate enough to have blouses, sweaters, coats, scarfs, gloves, knee-socks, and boots. If we are sensible and dress with an ample amount of proper clothes, we will not need to change our rules and wear slacks.

Perhaps we should all keep in mind this proverb, which has been slightly altered for the occasion: "I complained because I had no shoes; then I saw a man who had no feet."

Nice People Around Here

Consider this a minute! Has any Madison student ever stopped to think how friendly and obliging the people and merchants of Harrisonburg are to the college students? They are always willing to help with a friendly smile when a girl runs in their place of business with a desperate cry for a needed article. They actually "bend backwards" to cater to their every whim and fancy.

A very good example of this is the past week with all the campaigns going on at Madison. Where did much of the material come from? You guessed it — from the people of Harrisonburg. A student runs in and tells them their problems; the man goes back to the storeroom and brings out just what was wanted, or at least similar to what was in mind. To add to the congeniality they have already displayed, they ask whether they can deliver it for you.

In what other college town will you find movie theatres giving twenty free passes each week? Where else would they run a special bus on Sunday for all the students to attend the church of their choice? You must admit by just these few factors that Harrisonburg is certainly showing that warm southern hospitality.

It is not just the merchants who are so considerate of Madison students' problems, but also the population. Each day some kindness is displayed in some way toward a Madison student by one of the citizens of Harrisonburg. Just walk down the street and see how many smiles and "hellos" are expressed by the people.

Let's face it, we're pretty lucky to have such a nice town to live in. Let's appreciate it by returning a favor for a favor.

Snow Goes On Our Sidewalks

With the recent snows has come many falls, wet feet and colds. One improvement on campus this year has eliminated or helped to eliminate these three factors which keep many students out of classes or in the infirmary.

An expression for a small word of thanks to the far-sighted ones who, when the new heating system was put in, also planned for the melting of snow. Due to the heating pipes being put in under the sidewalks that run in front of Reed, Wilson, and Maury, the snow is melted almost as soon as it drops.

Perhaps we did complain of the inconvenience of the sidewalks being torn up in the fall, but now we fully realize that the construction work was not only necessary but also beneficial. It saves many precious hours and muscles for the maintenance men whose job it is to keep the sidewalks clear and safe.

Thank you engineers, your work is much appreciated.

Hey There!

by Connie Lou

Shrieks and shrills can be heard back campus and behind Jackson dormitory any night or day now. Here, Madison girls return to the chilly thrill of sledding. There are tumbles and frost-bitten toes, but this all adds to the merriment. See you in the snow!

This old-fashioned snow really has tied things up. Here's hoping that all good Madison girls are back on campus and safe and snug in their classes. Sympathy goes to all those poor unfortunate girls who were stranded at V.P.I. and V.M.I.—those nasty, natsy roads! Believe it or not, gals, the snow really was inconvenient for some!

It certainly is good to have Mrs. Varner back with us. The Home Economics department looks natural again. The Panhellenic Council is glad to see her smiling face also. Welcome Home!

The Extramural Hockey Teams were entertained by Miss O'Neill and Miss Berkley at a buffet supper in a very fashionable style. At least it all began this way. Before the evening was over everyone was sitting around in groups singing and strumming the ukeleles. Couldn't hide that old fighting spirit, huh?

Those who will be coming to summer school may pick up their Summer Session Catalogues for 1958 in Dean Warren's Office. Summer is right around the next corner, believe it or not.

Happy snow balling!

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

If at all possible please publish the following letter in your newspaper.

The Military Ball is a great festivity here on the campus of Virginia Tech. For us seniors, it is really a great high-light. You see, this weekend of celebration is scheduled for March 1, 1958, one hundred days prior to that great day of graduation.

Since Madison has long been a favorite of Techmen and has the prettiest girls in the state, etc., etc. We, the two writers, wishing to attend this dance would like to have dates from Madison. As you well know a date is a prerequisite for attendance.

After spending four years away from the rest of the world, here in B'burg, we find contacts hard to come by. We sincerely hope that two Madison "dolls" will come to our rescue—SOS. Any girls interested in sharing a pleasurable weekend, please reply to Box 4348 or Box 4631, Va. Tech Sta., Blacksburg, Central Siberia.

Here's hoping,
Two Hokie Seniors

P.S. All replies are confidential.

SNOWMEN OR NO MEN

Why haven't more snowmen been built on campus? You can't use the scarcity of snow as an excuse! With all the snow during the past month the campus should have been loaded with them. After all, aren't we always complaining about the lack of men around here?

From Columnar Crystals of Frozen Water To Sunbathing In Two Months

by Kathie Warburton

A familiar sight on Madison's campus this winter has been an abounding supply of small tabular and columnar crystals of frozen water formed directly from the water vapor of the air when its temperature at the time of condensation is lower than zero degrees centigrade.

Appreciation of the beauty created by the season's generosity begins to reach an all time low as problems pile up along with the snowdrifts. With the novelty of cutting campus wearing off, more and more complaints can be heard as students brave the weather for classes and meals.

Campus Dance Clubs Sponsor Week-end

Dean Hudson, the "Moon Over Miami Man," will play for the annual German-Cottillion Dance week-end, March 14 and 15. Mr. Hudson's smooth music will carry out the theme, "Southern Serenade."

There will be included in this gala week-end, a Friday night informal featuring the VMI Commanders; a Saturday afternoon jazz concert conducted by Dean Hudson; and the highlight of the week-end, the formal dance.

The informal dance will be from 8:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m.; the jazz concert at 4:00 p.m., and the formal dance will begin at 8:00 p.m., and conclude at 12:00 midnight.

To highlight the evening, the German and Cottillion Club presidents, Betty Johnson and Grace Manly, will lead the figure. Members of the figure will be attired in flowing white gowns. Refreshments will be served during intermission.

Dean Hudson was born into a musical family and showed early aptitudes for playing the drums and trumpets. While in college he and some classmates organized an orchestra. Since that time Dean has been the leader of his own band. Mr. Hudson is now enjoying a growing popularity throughout the East and South. His group has played more return engagements in this area than any other band.

The price for the block ticket will be $8.00. Students can go to the informal, the concert, and the formal under the block ticket plan. Separately, the informal is $2.00, the concert $1.00, and the formal $6.00.

Icy sidewalks and dormitory steps have made daily routine a dangerous venture. Weekend trips have had to be cancelled. Some found themselves snowbound at their destinations and were unable to return to school by 10:30 p.m. Sunday night. Even a few of the professors could not get over the treacherous roads and classes had to be called off.

The Alaskan weather has prompted a few suggestions on how the Madison polar bears might get to class more easily, ranging from skis to Huskie-drawn dog sleds. Eskimos must really have it easy.

If everyone survives the freeze, in less than three months you'll actually be sunbathing!

Mainly Men

by Larry Bohnert

Last Monday night the Madison Dukes finally came through with a victory. The Dukes beat Ferrum Junior College 48 to 45 in a close and thrilling game. Because of inclement weather, Ferrum delayed the starting of the game until 8:00. Nevertheless, a good crowd waited patiently to cheer the Dukes high-scorers, Mike Whitmire and Bruce Leffel who each scored twelve points. Buddy Swecker, a new player for the Dukes made nine points. The team plays their final game tonight away from home.

Sigma Delta Rho is making rush-preparations for the second semester. Men students eligible for the fraternity must have attended Madison for at least one semester and maintain a 2.00 scholastic average.

Good luck to all you major election candidates. By the way, we men can vote for candidates representing only four of the six offices; namely, Honor Council, Breeze, Schoolma'am, and the Athletic Association. Men are not allowed to vote for S. G. A. or Y.W.C.A. as we have our own respective organizations.

Times Have Changed As Washington Would Discover If He Would Return

by Bobbi Gentry

Have you ever wondered how George Washington would fare in these modern times when cherry trees are scarce and the Indians no longer roam the country in search of loose scalp?

Yes, Mr. Washington would find times quite different—Let's take a quick glance at a few of the problems George would be confronted with.

In addition to the scarcity of cherry trees and Indians, George might find it difficult to toss a silver dollar across the Rappahannock—not because he's gotten older, but simply because everyone knows that a dollar just won't go as far as it used to!

That long white wig would be replaced by the current coiffure, the Mohawk. The blousy breeches and silk stockings would reappear in the form of flashy bermudas and knee highs. The black sleeveless T-shirts and the leather jacket would replace the white lace shirts and knee-length coats. I am sure he would find it difficult, if not impossible to waltz to the Stroll or Boni Maroni.

He might consider a return trip across the Delaware, but I doubt it. Of course, if he did decide to try it, he would probably have to do his own rowing, and he may even find it necessary to trade his row boat in.

George may feel a bit uncomfortable in his struggle to keep pace with the modern times, but his troubles would be few in comparison to the ills we would suffer if we could step back into the past.

Imagine trying to get to class on third floor of Wilson in a long silk dress, two hoops, six crinolines, two petticoats, one tightly-laced girdle, silk stockings, and one long flowing white wig. Even if you did make it to your destination, you would never be able to bend sufficiently to fit into a chair.

RETURN BOOKS NOW

Mr. Joe Kraus, head librarian, announced that about five-hundred books that were checked out first semester have not been returned to the library.

Since some of these books are probably not in use, Mr. Kraus asks that they be returned so that others may use them. If you have library books left over from a report or term paper, won't you please return them?

Sport's Flash

With Ash

Once again we have hit a slack in the news on the sports scene. The girls' basketball contest with Longwood was cancelled because of the rare sight of snow. Seriously, Longwood was unable to make the trip to Madison because of the heavy snowfall. Weather permitting, the girls will travel to Sweet Briar this Saturday for their second game of the season. Best of luck to you.

It seems now that the intramural bowling program will continue as previously planned. The ruling reads that students may patronize the bowling alley if they are in a sponsored group and accompanied by a member of the physical education staff.

The fencing intramural semi-finals were held Tuesday. The semi-finalists were: Shirley Stuart, Jane Geoghegan, Judy Bair, Shirley Berry, Betty Stone, and Ellen Ashton. The finals were held Thursday night during Fencing Club.

I imagine that by this time everyone has heard that the Dukes won their contest with Ferrum Junior College. Congratulations to you fellows. The boys also had a game Wednesday night, but it was too late to include in this issue. The results will be posted in the next issue and here's hoping that they are good.

'Til then—Let's beat Sweet Briar!

Dukes Top Ferrum In Basketball Game

Three cheers for the Dukes! Why? Well, on Monday, February 17, the Madison College Dukes won their basketball contest with Ferrum Junior College. This was the boys' first win of the season, and were they happy about it!

It was a nip and tuck game from the jump at the start of the game until the final whistle. Our boys held the lead for the entire game with the exception of one time. The lead was not a strong one, however.

Some of the comments concerning the game were: "It was a hard, fast game, even though it was low scoring." "This was the best game I have ever seen the boys play." And from those who were at a loss for words came the cry 'Wahoo' and it was well deserved.

The final score of the contest showed the boys on top by three points with the tally reading Madison 48, Ferrum 45.

Sieg Participates In Economics Group

Miss Martha D. Sieg, assistant professor of home economics and head of teacher training in that field at Madison College is participating in the National Home Economics Teacher Education Conference now being held in Washington.

"HOME ECONOMICS in Contemporary Educational Planning—As Related to Teacher Education" is the theme for the conference.

The conference is divided into four workshop groups: psychology, anthropology, sociology, and guidance in order to study what research in each area shows about the learning process. Miss Sieg has been appointed recorder for the anthropology group. They discussed ways to improve home economics instruction at both the secondary and higher education levels. Strengthening teacher training by using research findings from social sciences and guidance was the subject of sectional meeting.

MISS SIEG is a graduate of Wittenburg College where she received her B.A. degree. She received her Master of Arts degree in home economics at the University of Tennessee.

Dean Tolbert Claims Many Labels As Professor, Counselor, And Adviser

by Bert Elfrink

These labels are attached to Dr. E. L. Tolbert, new member of the Madison College faculty, professor, counselor, and adviser.

Coming from North Carolina State Teachers' College at Raleigh, North Carolina, where he worked for the past five years, Dr. Tolbert has quickly adapted himself as a member of the college and community.

Dr. Tolbert is the first person at Madison College to fill the job with the official title of Dean of Students. This job makes him the link and coordinator between faculty and students, giving his main attention to the health and general welfare of the students, aside from his regular teaching responsibilities. His other duties are varied, among them are the giving of psychological tests, counseling of students, teaching of night classes in guidance, serving on numerous committees, as well as being in charge of the college recreational program.

A graduate of the University of Virginia, Dr. Tolbert received his Master's Degree from Ohio State University, and his P.H.D. from Columbia University. His education was interrupted by four years of Army life, and he left the service with the rank of Major, after having served in the European Theater of Operations with the Engineers of the 95th Division, 3rd Army.

Not only is Dr. Tolbert active in school functions, but he also is adviser to the York Club, a young people's group of the Episcopal Church of which he is a member.

Born and raised in Virginia, Dr. Tolbert and his wife, Francis, are natives of Culpepper. They have two children, Jane, 5, and Margaret, 3; and they are now residing in Harrisonburg at 208 Dixie Avenue.

Ice, Snow Influence Weather And News

This week, the biggest news is the snow which has covered the East coast and has made its presence felt as far south as Georgia. A slight coating of ice has also spread itself over the national and international scene.

Birthdays And People Naturally Go Together

Birthdays are important. Everyone knows that. People are important, too. If you can't be important, you can have birthdays.

Some birthdays have made people important. Francis Scott Key is important because he wrote a tune commemorating America's birth. Some people have made birthdays important. A guy named George has made February 22 important because he was born on that day.
