Fall Schedule Eliminates All Saturday Classes

Have you ever been tired of having to get up on Saturday morning to go to class? Of having to get up on Saturday morning to go to class? Have you ever had certain pangs of guilt from going home and completely missing that class? Cheer up! Effective next fall, there will be no more Saturday classes.

After careful study, it was determined that Saturday classes could be eliminated without affecting the length of the school year. By simply making the classes that meet on Tuesday and Thursday one hour and fifteen minutes, the need for Saturday morning classes has fallen by the wayside.

This is a break for the instructors as well as for the students involved. Believe it or not, the instructors are not overjoyed at the prospect of having to get up with us everyday. Saturday. This will allow them more time for research or for doing whatever suits their fancy.

The only mandatory Saturday periods will come at exam time. Because of the limited amount of time for exams, Saturdays will be still used to get them out of the way.

The following schedule illustrates the Schedule of Classes projected for introduction next fall:

As with every good thing, however, there is always one or two good prospects. In this instance it will be the 8th and 9th period classes which will be held in the evenings. But we are sure that most students would rather attend for this short amount of time in the evenings rather than having to get up Saturday morning.

Kathy Duggan, Carol Sibley, and Charla Hayen are pictured in a moving scene from the recent play, "The Three Sisters.

'Sisters' Production Successful

(Reviewer's note: This article was published in the Daily News Record, February 18, by one of Madison's English professors, Dr. Frank Adams.)

Chekhov is one of the greatest and most influential modern dramatists. And by general consent, "The Three Sisters" is his masterpiece.

Madison College's Department of Speech and Drama and Stratford Players recently mounted, under the direction of Edward Kenestrick, an absorbing and rewarding production of it.

The play, with its interlocking love affairs, defines the summary. One measure of its depth is that, although characters are varied and extensive, the development of these is more important than character.

That theme may be that each of us is trapped inside himself, that whereas the world can reach us, not even love allows us successfully to reach the world. The pressure of this scizophrenia mounts steadily.

Director Kenestrick supported his fine job with his own sets and lighting, both of which were innovative but constantly helpful. And he was indeed fortunate in his cast.

Of the three sisters, Kathy Duggan, as a sturdy,introverted and quietly moving Olga, Charla Hayen, as a whimsical, wispy, would-be extroverted Masha, and Carol Sibley, as a beautiful, unfuffled Irina, were each individually perfect in their roles.

As the title suggests, they were at the center of the play, but it was Vershinin, played convincingly by George Phillips, who voiced their significance.

In lesser roles were Gary Flavin as the escapist Prozorov (rather thin to talk about being stout!); Marilyn Dize as his effacingly unlikeable wife; Michael Moore as Masha's humorous, pedantic husband; Houston Rogers as the doomed Tassenbach (who looks the part to perfection), and San Heatwole as the amiable Solonyon.

The audience on opening night appeared to be led into a world of the lost and isolated individual worlds of the characters and the audience (especially about their fates, just as Chekhov intended. Chekhov and Kenestrick both succeeded.

SGA Changes

Constitution

The SGA would like to announce that copies of the current constitutional revisions are posted for students to read on the SGA board and on the boards in the breezeways adjacent to the SGA's meetings.

SGA members will visit the dormitories Wednesday, February 26 at 11:00 p.m. to review the revisions with the students and to hold a vote of approval. Two-thirds of the student body must approve the revisions before they can be accepted.

The dorm meetings will be compulsory for all students and one every is urged to bring their handbook to the meeting.

Scholar to Speak on Modern Spain

Arthur P. Whitaker, professor of Latin American history, emeritus, at the University of Pennsylvania, will lecture Monday, March 3, at 11:00 a.m. The topic of the lecture is to be given in Wilson Auditorium will be "Modern Spain in War and Peace".

Dr. Whitaker, who has lectured widely at universities in the United States, was head of the Latin American Unit of the Department of History, at the University of Pennsylvania, from 1943 to 1945. He represented the United States at the Pan American Institute of Geography and History in 1946, 1947, and 1951. He has written several books, including "Argentina, Spain and Defense of the West; Ally and Liability, and Nationalism in Latin America".

Dr. Whitaker, who holds a Ph.D. from Harvard, is a member of the Inter-American Academy, the American Philosophical Society, the American Historical Association, and the Council on Foreign Relations. He is also a recipient of the Serra Award of America.

Dr. Whitaker will be on campus in connection with the Visiting Scholar Program. This program is sponsored by the University Center in Virginia, Richmond, Virginia, Included in Dr. Whitaker's schedule are appearances at the University of Virginia, Roanoke College, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Longwood College and the University of Richmond. Madison students are urged to attend the lecture on Campus.

Telephone System Installed; Cost Included in Fall Tuition

Students returning to Madison in the Fall will find another convenience added to dormitory living. The PBX telephone system currently being installed in the basement of Wilson Auditorium will be operational by September. Every room on campus will contain a private telephone. Through tuition fees, each student will be paying approximately $1.50 per month for this new convenience.

The students chosen last night will be announced for the 1969 May Day Concert to be held in Wilson Auditorium. Under this new system, students will be able to call anywhere on campus as well as receive campus, local and long distance calls. In order to place local or long distance calls, a request must be submitted to the telephone company. The charge for this additional service will be four dollars per month. Pay phones will remain in the halls, with a possible reduction in number in the new dormitories.

A sub-station of the telephone company will be set up on campus to serve the College. It will be operated by students who will be on the company payroll.
Universities Face Crisis

"The agony of the universities has become a crisis for education and, hence, for 'law and order' in the ordinary meaning of that term. It has become a nightmare without example for public officials at every level, not excluding that political sphere which is not the White House."

"Never before have all those charged with some duty of maintaining public order -- from the police station through the courthouse to the governor's mansion and so up to Washington -- been tormented with a problem so nearly insoluble on all past experience."

"Never before, too, have college administrators been so widely ineffectual in maintaining a climate in which elements of all past experience.

must receive, weigh, and act upon all criticism, constructive or destructive, that the citizens would like to see an end to discrimination as an end of any grading system for Negro students. The majority of Negroes flunked out for undeniable academic failure and an atmosphere within reason and have some livelihood of being accomplished.

of that term. It has become a nightmare without example for education and even for 'law and order' in the ordinary meaning which received its charter in 1905 as concerned social protest has developed into a few years ago as concerned social protest has developed into a "student" outbreak.

"It is doubtful, however, that any member of this "establishment" gives any serious thought to the insurrectional demands emanating from the campuses lately.

Where is it heading? What is it accomplishing for anyone? The answer is quite clear: it is taking us nowhere, and it is accomplishing exactly NOTHING except to alienate those in power who could implement some needed changes. Instead of acting like the adults most claim to be, the students involved in the disorderly demonstrations come out looking like a bunch of hostile kids just caught with their hands in the cookie jar. It is extremely unfortunate that this undistinguished minority is so rapidly tearing down what others have worked so diligently to achieve.

PKB Starts New Traditions, Selects Playmate of Month

Madison has undergone several changes this year due to the introduction of a greater number of male students on campus. This element has aroused a new spirit on campus, as well as a new social atmosphere.

It is evident that Madison will continue to progress and to improve campus life as it enjoys the advantages of a greater number of men who will augment the fine tradition here that has been started by the women student body.

One of the first advantages of this new atmosphere is the beginning of new social fraternities to broaden the social life on campus. One of these, for example, is Phi Kappa Beta, which received its charter in December 1968.

This fraternity is dedicated to becoming highly involved in campus activities and is organizing many social activities of its own on campus.

Betty J. Perry

Phi Kappa Beta fraternity has recently selected their first playmate of the month. The fraternity hopes to continue this activity by choosing a girl each month to represent their idea of a playmate.

Miss Betty Jean Perry has been selected for the month of February. Betty is a junior at Madison majoring in music, and she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority.

WKCY Asks for Student Editorials

Don Miller, manager of radio station WKCY, has invited Madison students and faculty to help mold public opinion for a better college and a better world by expressing opinions on pertinent subjects in editorials.

WKCY requests that guests' editorials be limited to 300 words if possible. The writer may read his own editorial or have one of the station's staff ended in a tie for third place. The advisors for the fraternity are Dr. Ed Lipton and Jack Atkinson, who are members of the faculty.

PKB has begun as an active group of brothers and looks forward to becoming an integral part of increased campus social activities.

Foreign Students Have Difficulties

In an effort to work toward improving communication among students on campus, Dr. William Hall, the counseling center invited Madi- son's foreign students to be guests at the inaugural meeting of the Foreign Studies Com- mittee. Issaias Azaria and I. Nagaru Pillai (India), Chong Hwan Cho and Miss Hong Za Lee (Korea), Miss Isabel Mendola (Ecuador), Miss Evelyn Bonham (Trinidad), and Miss Merete Christoffer- sen (Denmark) discussed some of their immediate problems.

Understanding the American accent was the main difficulty mentioned, and most of the students agreed they found it hard to follow lectures in the classroom. Merete Christoffer- sen suggested that a brief but intensive course in Eng- lish be provided for students from other lands who arrive first. Dr. Raymond Simmons, a member of the Foreign Studies Committee, advised that students arrange informal meetings with their advisors and try to get, better acquainted with English through conversation. Simmons emphasized that it is the duty of each advisor to make time to spend with his advisees.

Miss Mary Jane Wall of the Historical Society Department also suggested that students talk with those interested in foreign languages and with history and social science teachers. Miss Wall added that the students who will be participating in the upcoming Model United Nations General Assembly would be interested in ideas from foreign students extremely helpful.

A "big sister"/"big brother" program was proposed, where by foreign students would have an opportunity to meet more people. Some students said that it has been nearly impossible to get ac- quainted with people outside of their own living quarters.

John Stewart, chairman of the Foreign Studies Commit- tee, assured the students that they could count on help and guidance from the members of the Committee, and he thanks Dr. Hall for his cooperation and willingness to implement some of the suggestions of the committee.

Steve Misenheimer leaps through the air but to no avail as the rebound eluded him. However, Steve managed to pour in 43 points from the floor to lead the Dukes to a 104-85 victory over Shenandoah.

Misenheimer Scores 43 Points

Forward Steve Misenheimer and the Dukes came up with record-shattering performances to thrash Shenandoah at Claude Warren fieldhouse last week, 104-85. It was the Dukes’ 12th win against six losses and doubled the number of wins chalked up by last year’s team.

Misenheimer piled up 19 points in the first half as the Dukes took a 46-36 lead into the locker room at halftime, then came up with 24 more in the final two periods to smash his own single-game output of 38 points set against Bluefield January 11. The slender freshman made good on 14 of 19 attempts from the floor and was successful on 15 of 19 tries from the foul line.

Madinson’s 104 points was a team high and resulted from a 52% average from the floor in each half. Misenheimer received valuable help from Senator Bob Hummer, who came through with 18 points and some tough rebounding, Harv Alamazrode and Butch Rinker who scored 14 and 12 points respectively.

It looked as if it might be a cold night for the Dukes at the outset as they failed to score for more than two minutes. With the score tied at 13-13, they ripped off seven straight points and then moved out to leads which reached 18 points on occasions. The Dukes suffered through their most frigid game of the year at Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 15 and, instead of chalking up their 12th win, took their sixth loss, 67-60. Bluefield had lost to the Dukes here earlier in the season by seven points.

Only Bob Hummer was able to find the hoop often enough to keep the Dukes within striking range, but his single-handed efforts were not enough to overcome Bluefield.

Though firing at a mere 20%, in the first half, the Dukes still trailed by only 31-24 at halftime and zoomed out to a 32-31 lead in the first minutes of the second half. It was to be a dying gasp, however, as Bluefield came right back to take and maintain a slender lead throughout the rest of the contest despite Hummer’s heroics. The senior forward also led the Dukes in rebounding. Other Dukes in double figures were Butch Rinker and Bob Toohey with 10 points each.

The Dukes will wind up their most successful campaign ever when they trek crosstown Saturday to take on EMC.

With the end of the basketball season in sight, it seems appropriate to compliment Coach Phil Humsinger and his Dukes on their better-than-average year. Prior to the season opener, most fans little thought that the Dukes would be approaching the finale on the height side of the 500 mark. The team, lacked height and was a bit short on speed but more than made up for these deficiencies through that intangible known as "hustle.

The freshman-oriented squad showed its inexperience at times in the earlier games, but more than offset that lack through sheer determination. Only Bob Humsinger will graduate in June. The rest of the team should return barring poor grades although Dutch Rinker will have but one season of competition remaining.
