Stratford's "Arsenic And Old Lace" Presents Murder In Hilarious Comedy

On March 28 and 29 at eight o'clock in Wilson auditorium, Stratford Players will present as its spring production, a hilarious, fast-moving comedy written by Joseph Kesselring and entitled, "Arsenic and Old Lace." Directed by Dr. Mary Latimer and Wayne Garber, this comedy combines homicide and nonsense in a way that has audiences laughing one moment and shuddering the next.

WINE AND WOMEN play prominent parts in Stratford's production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." In this dramatic scene are: Ken Holtzman, Pat Lumpkin, Allene Cross, Judy Murphy, George Teed, Eddie Broyles, and Al Strickler.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" centers around Abby and Martha Brewster, two lovable old ladies whose hearts are full of charity and cellar filled with corpses—twelve of them. Abby and Martha's favorite pastime is to befriend elderly, homeless males and invite them to taste an arsenic-flavored elderberry wine. Abby Brewster will be portrayed by Pat Lumpkin and Judy Murphy will appear in the role of Martha.

Brothers
Mortimer Brewster, drama critic and brother of Abby and Martha, who feels that their fondness for murder has developed into a very bad habit, will be played by Ken Holtzman.

Allene Cross will appear as Elaine Harper, Mortimer's fiancée who wants to marry him in spite of the insanity which runs in his family.

George Teed will play the role of Jonathan Brewster, a well-established murder whose main interest is to collect more bodies than his aunts. Dr. Einstein, a plastic surgeon, will be played by Al Strickler.

Behind The Scenes
Working behind the scenes will be: Diane Waldrep, props; Marilyn Miller, costumes; Judy Vought, make-up; Elaine Phelas, sets; and Sonny Spinks, lights. In the capacity of stage manager is Ann Carol Younkins, and Joanne Snead is publicity chairman.

New Organization Interests Students

The organizational meeting of the student VEA was held on Tuesday, March 18. The student's response to this club was shown when 125 students attended.

A member of the student VEA has several advantages—she becomes a member of both NEA and VEA, she will receive the benefit of programs provided to give each member a better understanding of the teaching profession, the club will serve as a coordinating club for all other education clubs on campus, and a state convention will be held with seven other Virginia Colleges attending.

Responsible for the beginning organizational meeting were Allene Cross, Ann Ames, Merlin See, Betty Jo Loving, Miss Sara Anderson, Dr. Charles Caldwell and other faculty members.

Committees were appointed to make definite plans for constitution, by-laws, nominations, name, and program. Another meeting will be held in a few weeks.

Wednesday Program Features Glee Club

Madison College Glee Club, which recently returned from a successful tour of Southwest Virginia will present next Wednesday's assembly.

A varied program will range from popular show tunes to selections by Bach and Brahms.

Among the popular compositions to be presented will be "Without a Song," "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "Malaguena" with a solo by Lucy Hook.

Included in sacred music will be "God's Time is the Best," Bach's Cantata No. 106, and the highlight of the program, "The Thirteenth Psalm" by Brahms. Also in the program will be a spiritual, "Ride the Chariot" with Frances Swanner as soloist.

The Glee Club under the direction of Dr. Lester Bucher, has devoted many hours of practice to their program and it promises to be one of the outstanding assembly programs of the year.

Spectacular In Life Dramatic In Death

by Mary Minor

"Spectacular" is not always used as a movie term; it can also be applied to life and death.

Consider the life and death of Mike Todd. His early life was not distinguished; Aurom Hirsch Goldbogen was the son of a poor rabbi, but before Aurom was twenty he had made and lost one million dollars in real estate.

As a Broadway producer, his box-office hits gained a fabulous income. After this he turned to Hollywood, immediately becoming successful. Investing in new processes attracted Todd, among them cinerama and the Todd A O wide screen. "Around the World in 80 Days," using the Todd A O process, won many Oscars.

During this time Todd met and married Hollywood star Elizabeth Taylor.

Why Not?

With the recent decision by the State to lower the number of required hours in education courses, many Madison students heaved a sigh of relief. However, since there is no requirement by the State Board of Education that colleges must adopt their curricula to these new standards, Madison may decide to maintain its present number of hours in education, and any student will in no way be affected by the new decision. Why do the State education requirements not coincide with Madison requirements? It seems only natural that they should, yet they do not.

This brings to mind a more serious fault in Madison requirements versus those of the state—it is possible to graduate from Madison College with a minor in social science, which does not qualify as a minor for state certification. In other words, students may take courses in history and social science which, according to their catalogues, complete the Madison requirement for a social science minor. Yet, they are not certified to teach social science in the public schools of Virginia. Is this sensible?

This is only one known example at Madison. Possibly, and probably, there are more departments with the same problem.

Would it not be a simple matter for the college to set up the same requirements as the State Board of Education? This would alleviate the confused situation in our history department, and perhaps in others as well.

R.F.R.

Which Do You Prefer?

Consider not the "Three Faces of Eve," but instead the "two faces of learning." One face is turned toward the student—toward instilling in him a true feeling for the subject being studied and toward guiding him in his enjoyment of gaining this knowledge both in and out of the classroom.

The other face is turned toward the subject. The book is the supreme word, and facts rule. The students are supposed to be two way vessels; the facts are poured in by the instructor and expected to be poured back on tests and exams. Or, what is even worse, the whole class hour is devoted to a performance on the part of the instructor in which the students are merely passive observers.

Which do you prefer?

As all journalists know -30- means the end of an article. At the end of this editorial will be a -30- signifying the end of an article and an editor's last written word for the Breeze.

The editor and staff have earnestly tried to print a paper of which you can be proud. Of course, we realize that there have been some mistakes, but we will back that up with "nobody is infallible."

The newspaper cannot be put out each week by the editor only. The staff is a very important element. Without the wonderfully organized and efficient staff, there would not have been a Breeze waiting for you each Friday night.

The editor's final editorial would not be complete without a sincere thank you and appreciation note to the staff for their wonderful cooperation. They have taken their free time (and it takes plenty) to find stories and to write them. Every Tuesday and Thursday nights have been devoted to the Breeze. Joan Lambert should be recognized for her competent work as news editor, Winifred Waite for all those heads she wrote alone for weeks, Ann Carol Younkens for catching all those glaring errors, Charlotte Gratz and Judy Reynolds for slaving over the dummy sheets to make an "eye catching" paper, and last but certainly not least to Rachel Rowland for being the "right-hand man" at all times and doing many of the odd jobs. Of course, one can not forget the business manager and staff, who work on the money end of the paper—this is very important. Also, a good job was done by the ad collectors and distributors.

We, the 1957-58 Breeze staff sincerely wish the new editor and staff the best of luck.

Featured soloists for the tour were: Betsy Goodman, Mary Ruth Suiter, Ella Sue Kiracofe, Fran Swanner, Lucy Hook, Carol Bowers, Jane Bivens and Jo Ann Clark. Accompanist Jane Henson was assisted by Martha Duke and Ruby Wray accompanied the soloists.

Richmond

The Glee Club plans to go to Richmond on April 26 where they will sing at Northminster Baptist church and Ginter Park Methodist church. On April 27 the Glee Club will sing at the Main Street Methodist church in Suffolk and the Portsmouth Monumental Methodist church.

Today's Prayer

Our Father and God, we thank Thee for Thy blessing and keeping power, for Thy grace unto us, and for salvation given freely to us through Jesus Christ.

May the outpouring of Thy Holy Spirit enter our hearts and enrich our lives. Grant us some new vision of Thy truth.

Forgive us the things we do not do for Thee, and the words we do not say for Thee. Forgive our weakness. Thy will be done.

Amen.

Mainly Men

by Larry Bohnert

One of the few co-educational organizations on campus has been the subject of much conversation since last week's assembly. It seems that the Madrigal Singers turned out an enjoyable program judging from the comments and compliments of both faculty and students.

Actually, this group has been well received in and around the community whenever they sing. The group performs throughout the school year for club banquets, "ladies' night" dinners, T. V. appearances and church services.

The "Mads" have expanded their music literature from singing strictly English madrigals to doing novelty, light and sacred music as well.

The size of the Madrigal Singers is limited, however, at the present time there are two vacancies in the men's section. If you are interested in becoming a member of the "Mads," you should contact Miss Bureau now, or attend a rehearsal in order to "sit in" with the group to see if you can, and want to become a member.

Laugh, Remember Advice To Freshmen

by Bobbi Gentry

Every student on this campus has at one time been a "lowly freshman." The transition from seniority in high school to a "lowly freshman" in college was a difficult and somewhat humiliating experience.

Yet it happens every year and Freshmen, since you have almost finished your first and last year as a "lowly freshman," we offer you this little poem, in the hope that you will look back, laugh, and remember.

I am a lowly freshman; I have no poise or grace.

I must respect the upper class to show I know my place.

My place is very low, indeed; I am an humble soul.

I crawl around like a centipede, When I should crawl in a hole.

I am a lowly freshman; I have no sense of knowledge.

To learn respect and discipline is why I came to college.

Dean Wilkins Plays Hostess To Duck

by Bobbi Gentry

If you were on campus Friday night, March 21, around 7:00 p.m. you may have seen our two visitors from the University of Richmond. Two pledges of Sigma Phi Epsilon, in order to meet the requisites for "Hell Night" on Saturday, were asked to pay Madison a visit.

Dennis Brumbeck and Pete Matisio arrived on campus with a duck to show to Dean Wilkins plus a few other small tasks. They had to catch the duck on the lake at the University of Richmond, bring it up here to show to Dean Wilkins and return to Richmond with their "mascot." (The duck, that is, not the Dean!) They also had to get various measurements, extract some water from the pool in Reed gym, put up an SPE sign in Doc's Tea Room, measure the distance between Wilson and the highway, sing to some Madison girls, and collect a few "dainties."

The last thing on their list of requisites was to get an article and picture in the BREEZE. Sorry boys, that we were unable to reproduce the snapshot, but we were glad to oblige you with an article.

Richmond Offers You Summer Opportunities

Have you made plans for this summer? Why not come to Richmond? You will find limitless job opportunities and an exciting social life... and a charming apartment awaits you.

Three Madison alumnae would like to interest you in taking over their apartment for June, July and August. One of the girls would like to stay there this summer and share it with two other girls; however, we will consider turning it over completely if you are interested.

The apartment is in Tuscan Villa, 503 North Boulevard, very conveniently located. It has a living room, den (with TV), bedroom, bath, kitchen and ample closet space. We have it completely furnished—if you don't object to garden chairs in the den.

If this could possibly be for you, please write to Rettie Warren, 503 North Boulevard, Apt. 17, Richmond, Virginia.

Hey There!

by Connie Lou

Hey There for the last time. It doesn't seem like a year since editors have passed each other on leaving and entering the Breeze room. Time really does fly, I'm convinced. Best of luck during the coming year, Pat, and I know the Breeze is in capable hands. Just one thing—watch that late copy. It messes things up every time.

Only five more days till that long awaited Easter vacation. Here's hoping the Easter bunny hops into your home with lots of yellow and purple Easter eggs (for Madison, of course).

Hold your breath, seniors, because shortly after Easter comes that simple little occasion called graduation. Please don't forget this date, June 1. Mark it on your calendar so your seat will be sure to be filled.

Don't forget Stratford's big production, "Arsenic and Old Lace," tonight and tomorrow night.

Good luck to all the new major and minor officers. I know you will do a wonderful job in making next year one of the best at Madison.

Housewife, having finally tucked her small boy into bed after a very trying day, sighed: "Well, I've certainly worked from son-up to son-down today!"

It's time for me to retire too!

I Know Something Good About You

Wouldn't this old world be better If the folks we meet would say—"I know something good about you!" And treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy If each handclasp, fond and true, Carried with it this assurance—"I know something good about you!"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy If the good that's in us all Were the only thing about us That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy If we praised the good we see? For there's such a lot of goodness In the worst of you and me!

Wouldn't it be nicer to practise That fine way of thinking, too? You know something good about me, I know something good about you?

The snowstorm had been getting worse and worse and the young couple had been trudging for hours trying to find their way back home. They were lost. "Oh, look, Bob!" cried Betty happily. "We must be near a farm because there's a chicken sitting on the snow." "Chicken, my eye!" growled Bob. "That's the weathercock on the Wilson Tower."

Ingenious (?) Ideas Instigate New Fads From Around The World

by Bobbi Gentry

Want to start a new fad? Then take a look at some of the ingenious(?) ideas from college students around the world.

If you're in love and want everyone to know, put a spot of lipstick on the tip of the lobe of your ear. You will be a big hit in Latin America!

When someone asks you if you and your boy friend are "Jack and Jill" you will know that they mean you're almost always together but just aren't going steady.

In Cedar Rapids, Iowa girls borrow or beg expensive looking labels from big-city stores and then sew them on their own possessions. Of course, everyone knows that they are just pretending.

Girls, if you want to get into circulation with a bang, have your name and phone number stamped on your pencils. Then you won't mind losing a pencil here and there—preferably there!

For those girls who are experts at painting fingernails, try this. Stripe each nail three different colors—one at the base, another in the middle and a third at the tip.

Save your dance momentos and label them like this. Take the pins from the corsages and put them in boxes or on a pin cushion. Then paste under each pin a tag with the name of your escort, date of the dance and other pertinent information.

Fix up some food packages, send them to your boy friends, and label them "Care Packages." If you want to torment him, send one filled with old magazines and other inedible items and label it "Careless."

Need an extra book-holder? Use a wire coat hanger, bend it to book, shape, and trim it with brightly colored tape. Of course, if you're the real studious type and require more than one coat hanger, you'll have to send some of your clothes home or give them to your roommate.

"Traveling dinners" have become quite popular in Anchorage, Alaska. Boys try to arrange, sometimes successfully, to take their dates to a different restaurant for each course of the meal. (Takes an Eskimo to think of something like that!)

Be on the look-out for "hobo shirts." They have as many ingredients as a "Dagwood" sandwich. Buy or make them for events where you're supposed to wear what you usually wouldn't be seen in.

Latest squelch—"Act your age, not your IQ!"

Ex Libris Announces New Club Officers

Ex Libris officers for 1958-59 were elected and installed at their regular monthly meeting.

Ann Ames, the outgoing president, installed new officers Arnette Stinson, president; Phyllis Edwards, vice-president; Athel Boone, secretary; and Mary Masincup, reporter.

Delegates Attend National Convention

Miss Frances Grove, counselor for Kappa Delta Pi and Mary Lois Hardy, member and representative of the junior class, attended the Twenty-First Biennial Convocation of Kappa Delta Pi held in Chicago on March 20-22.

Kappa Delta Pi is Madison's National Honor Society in education which is open to those juniors and seniors who merit membership.

While at the convention Miss Grove participated in a panel discussion on "Program Development." Mary Lois acted as a discussion leader in the area of publicity.

There were 384 members and counselors at the convention representing chapters throughout the United States. Among those present were some outstanding educators including Dr. Gerald Read, Dr. Joseph Justman, Dr. Henry H. Hill and others.

Dr. Gerald Read has just returned from Russia where he has succeeded in setting up an exchange program of American and Russian scholars. Dr. Read will conduct the educational exchange both in Russia and in America. His speech was most informative and was entitled "The Challenge of Russian Education."

Another outstanding speaker was Dr. Joseph Justman, our first Kappa Delta Pi International Exchange Fellow to Italy. His topic was "Something That Endures...An Appreciation of Fellowship."

Dr. Henry H. Hill, President of George Peabody College for teachers, delivered the final address. His speech was entitled "Changing Opinions In American Education." He discussed vital issues such as segregation and other pertinent issues befalling our educational system today.

Orchesis Members Gain From Festival

Representatives of the Orchesis club returned from the "Art Festival" at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro this past weekend.

Colleges attended the festival from Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. Friday afternoon the colleges performed their dances. Madison performed the "Cable Cord" dance. Each dance was criticized by two male members of the faculty at the University.

Saturday morning the members attended a master class which was instructed by Merce Cunningham of New York. That night a Modern Dance Concert was given by Merce Cunningham and his dance company. Following the concert was a reception. There were many lectures and performances to attend over the weekend on many phases of the Art World.

The girls stayed in the dorms on campus. The "Art Festival" was beneficial, and we came back with many new ideas concerning modern dance. Those attending were Carol Dunaway, Jeannie Dyer, Reisa Frank, Carole Jean Hicks, Nancy Lee Hooper and Miss Monica Gutchow.

Kay Merrell Sports Personality For The Month

Our sport's personality this week is a sophomore physical education major, Kay Merrell. Kay, although presently living in Oakton, is a Yankee at heart and considers New Jersey as her home state.

Kay attended Fairfax High School where she was very active in the Girls' Athletic Association, the school paper, and the extramural program having played extramural basketball and softball.

Since her arrival at Madison in September of 1956, she has been very active in both the extramural and intramural programs. She has played extramural hockey for two years and is now in her second year as a member of the extramural basketball team. Kay has also participated in intramural volleyball and tennis. Our personality is also a member of Mercury club, Bluestone Cotillion club, and Sigma Phi Lambda.

Kay has two supplementary goals to reach before graduating from Madison. One is to have an extramural softball team started here, and the other is to learn how to play the ukulele.

If you are interested in finding our personality look for her in Senior 321.

Dear Long Ears Alias Bonney Bunny

Dear Easter Bunny,
Remember us? We're that grief stricken group that got left out at Christmas! So that you won't get roadmap eyes, we'll skip the preliminaries and get down to business.

Leave us the usual—the chocolate eggs, the pale pink candy, and the juicy jelly beans all nestled down in those ghastly gobs of green grass.

We want some pre-percolated Postum, a partly pooped party for partly pooped people, a pre-prepared pony tail, a pickled peck of pickled peppers, a sorta-shaped Chemise, sterling silver staples, a tiny team of termites, and an uncle to take care of the ant farm.

Now let's not play like Santa Claus and goof again. OK?

Hollywood Presents Academy Awards

March 26, 1958 saw a grand array of beautiful gowns, beautiful women and the screen's most handsome men. The Academy Awards presentation was attended by some of the most famous names, faces, and figures in the entertainment world. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Oscar for the best movie of the year, "Bridge on the River Kwai." None the less exciting were the awards for best actor and best actress, awarded to Alec Guinness and Joanne Woodward. Other awards went to Red Buttons, best supporting actor, for his role in "Sayonara," and Miyoshi Umeki, for her role in "Sayonara." The song, "All the Way," popularized by Frank Sinatra, took its place as best song of the year, having won over such popular hits as "Tammy," "An Affair to Remember," and "April Love."

In the winner's place as the best documentary film of the year was "The Story of Albert Schweitzer." The Oscar given for the best screenplay was awarded to the movie "Designing Woman."
