Madison College To Operate School Named For Two Madison Educators

For the first time in its fifty years of preparing teachers for the schools of Virginia and the nation, Madison College will operate, beginning in September of this year, its own elementary school.

The Anthony-Seeger School, now under construction on South Main Street, is named for two retired faculty members of the College, Miss Katherine Miner Anthony and Miss Mary Louise Seeger, both of whom are residents of Harrisonburg.

Purposes of the School

With shifts in emphasis in the education of teachers, the function of the campus school is changing. Four purposes of the Anthony-Seeger School which will receive emphasis are: to serve as a model school in the community, thus providing opportunities for those interested to observe optimum learning situations in which tested procedures are used; to afford initial laboratory experiences (observation, demonstration) for undergraduate students preparing to teach; to serve as a center for the development of resource units, curriculum guides, and audio-visual aids; and to provide limited student teaching opportunities for college students.

This school will not be used, except in a limited way, for student teaching. It is planned that not more than one student teacher shall be assigned to the teacher in charge at any one time.

Nor, will the campus school be used as an experimental school. Its major function will be to serve as a model situation in which the best teaching experiences can be demonstrated.

The Physical Plant

The building will include the outstanding features found in contemporary school architecture. It will serve as a model for elementary school buildings in this section of the country. Plans for the school were drawn by the Walford and Wright architectural firm of Richmond, after a representative from this firm and a committee from the College had visited outstanding elementary schools on the Eastern Seaboard.

Among the features of the building will be a well-equipped auditorium, a cafeteria, a library, a health center, a game room, and a lounge for parents and visitors.

This article will be continued in next week's BREEZE.

Clothing Department To Present Exhibit

Madison College home economics advanced clothing class will present an exhibit in the clothing laboratory May 15. The program will consist of tailored suits and coats made in clothing for the family class, as well as mending, house furnishings, children's garments and dresses.

The theme for the exhibit this year will be "The New Look" and refers not only to the new look of the 1958 fashion season, but to the new techniques and methods used in the up-to-date clothing construction work. Margie Yarger and Doris Ann Young will serve as coordinators of the advanced class. Nora Jane Roberts and Judy Shreckhise will serve for the family clothing construction classes. Others who are participating include Martha Childress, and Caroline Evans in exhibiting arrangements, Vivian Sue Connelly in decoration, and Beverly Schultz in announcements.

The students who will assist as hostesses during the day will model the garments they have made. In some instances the garments are designed and are original patterns made by the students. Students and faculty are invited to attend the exhibit.

May Day Weekend To Feature Dance

Decorations of silver, dark blue, and white will change Reed Gymnasium into an elegant ballroom. "Anniversary Ball," which is the theme of the May Day Dance, will be held on May 3, 1958. It will begin at 9 and last until 12 midnight.

There will be dancing to the music of "The Starlighters" who are from Hopewell, Virginia. This will be their first appearance on Madison College campus.

The theme, "Anniversary Ball" is in commemoration of the Golden Anniversary of Madison College.

Couples will be able to obtain bids for the dance for $3.75. Formal Dress will be the attire for this entrancing evening.

Madrigals To Give Musical Program

Madison's Madrigal Singers will give a program for the Young Men's Civic Organization at Staunton on Tuesday evening, April 22. The program will consist of madrigals, spirituals, and folk music.

The Madrigal Singers are a mixed ensemble chosen through auditions by the director, Miss Gertrud Burau.

Specializing in Old English Madrigals, this group performs around the community and class credit is given for membership.

Room Assignments To Take Place Soon

A student's mouth fell open, a fork dropped into a plate, and a table of aroused students began to plan where they would live next year on the Madison College campus. This was the reaction at lunch Tuesday, April 15, when the new dormitory assignments were announced for next year.

Spacious living will be the motto of the freshmen class. Besides the four freshmen dorms we now have, there will be two others, Junior and Johnston. As you might have guessed by now there will be only two in a room in the freshmen dorms. The sophomores-to-be really feel fortunate to have the new dorm, Gifford, and of course they will also have Converse which we now know as Senior. The juniors will be in Logan and on the third floor of Wayland, and our busy seniors will reside on the first and second floors of Wayland.

The time for each class to register for rooms will be announced in the dining halls. So, if you want a room next year, you had better lend an ear when the static begins to penetrate the dining halls.

Betsy Auten To Represent Richmond As City's "Ambassador" To Europe

Nahid Beijan, an experienced traveler, gives Europe-bound Betsy Auten a few helpful packing hints.

The Richmond Community Ambassador Project has announced that Betsy Auten will represent their city in Europe this summer. This project is an experiment in International Living. Richmond is one of 50 cities sponsoring this project. The purpose of the ambassador project is to sponsor a young person to represent Richmond in a foreign country and after returning, share her experiences through talks to various local organizations. These organizations join in raising funds to send Betsy abroad.

Betsy, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Auten, is a 21 year old senior majoring in English. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority, YWCA, and Kappa Delta Pi. She is also former chairman of Honor Council.

Betsy recalls how she first found out about the project. "I had gone to the swimming pool and was talking to a friend. She asked me if I knew of a home where an Italian student could stay for the summer. I told her I would ask around and see what I could do. I talked to my parents and we found him a home with some friends. I met him and through him I found out about the project. I became interested and applied.

Betsy will be leaving the United States in June and will return in August. They are planning to sail over but as of yet they have not been notified as to how they will return.

Students Receive Dietetic Internship

Congratulations are in order to Peggy Beall, Vivian Connelly, Beulah Dillow, and Reisa Frank, who have received dietetic internship appointments. The purpose of these internships is to help the graduates learn to carry out practical jobs under supervision. It also gives them experience in teaching student nurses.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Beall, Peggy hails from Arlington. She has been appointed to Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Vivian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Connelly, from Dahlgren, has been chosen to go to the U. S. Army Medical Specialist Corps, Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas.

Hailing from Charles Town, West Virginia, is Beulah Dillow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen W. Conklyn. Her assignment is to Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee.

Reisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Frank, from Baltimore, Maryland, has been appointed to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts.

These girls will begin their one-year appointments in September, 1958.

Each of these girls applied for three positions and were accepted for all three. This is an excellent showing for Madison's Dietetics Department and for these students.

New Education Club Honors President

The newly formed Student Education Association, in its meeting on April 10, chose G. Tyler Miller as the chapter's name, in honor of Madison's president who is an outstanding member in the educational field.

Other business completed during the meeting was the election of the sponsors, Dr. Elmer Smith and Mr. John G. Stewart, with Dr. Charles G. Caldwell as honorary adviser.

The officers for the 1958-59 session were elected and are: president, Betty Barbour; vice president, Suzanne Snedegar; secretary, Ann Benesek; treasurer, Betsy Ross; and reporter, Joan Lambert.

All students who are in the education curricula are invited to become members during the S.E.A. membership week to be held soon.

Recreation Council Lists New Officers

Nancy Sydnor is the newly-elected president of the Recreation Council. Nancy's term of office will set a new precedent in that the Recreation Council president will be termed a minor officer.

The other newly-elected officers of the Recreation Council are Virginia Kay Merrell, vice-president; Bobbie Lee Lloyd, secretary; and Frances Kibler, treasurer.

The Recreation Council has recently purchased a T.V. set for Johnston Dorm and a radio and games for Riverwood, the college camp, in hopes that everyone will use and enjoy them.

Notice

All students who plan to attend the Summer Session are asked to enroll in the Office of the Dean as soon as possible.

Quick News Review Of Past Week

by Mary Minor

There is no such thing as an idle threat. Johnny Stompanato, whose method of control was idle threats, must have discovered this when he was knifed by Cheryl Crane, Lana Turner's fourteen-year-old daughter. Justifiable homicide was the ruling.

Idle threats were made by right wingers in the French Cabinet. They were to resign if concessions were made to the Algerians. Concessions were made. The government fell.

Fifteen Travelers Return From Trip To Vacationland On The Bermudas

by Grace Manly

"What did you do Easter?" is not the question to ask a few local vacationers if you want a quick and intelligible answer.

Little sun, less tan, but more fun, fell on fifteen Bermuda-bound tourists who left from Madison April 3.

Flights on Eastern Air Lines and Pan American Airlines via Washington and New York had transported the travellers to the idyllic island by 2 o'clock a.m. Friday. A modicum of sleep that night set the precedent for the remainder of the evenings.

Collectively our pooled knowledge came up with the facts that Bermuda is the combined name for a chain of about 150 small islands which lie in the middle of the Atlantic in the shape of a huge fish hook. The seven largest are connected by bridges and causeways and make up what is commonly considered the mainland.

Our mid-ocean location is the most sphere, as it was founded in 1612, eight years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

Typically British is the rule of the road to the left, and motor cars are rigidly limited to 14 horsepower, and 166 inches in length (the size of a small British car) is the largest car allowed. Maximum speed is 20 m.p.h. in the country and 15 m.p.h. in the towns due to the narrow, windy, hilly roads.

Tourists are welcomed and warmly treated as they are the most important industry on which the Colony depends for about 95 per-cent of its income. There are no industrial estabnortherly group of coral islands in the world. They are situated 568 miles due east from Cape Hatteras, North Carolina; 666 nautical miles from the port of New York, and the total land area occupies approximately 22 square miles.

At the last census Bermuda's resident population was about 41,000 of which about two-thirds is colored. There are no "natives" as the islands were uninhabited when discovered and colonized by the British. The Olde Towne of St. George, located on the eastern end of the Bermudas, is the oldest continuous English-speaking community in the Western Hemi-lishments other than a small perfume factory, a few small-boat building yards and a movie studio, which produces films for both T.V. and Hollywood. Bermuda's Easter lily is virtually the only item of export as more than a million are shipped annually to the United States, Canada, and England.

Those who took part in the Bermuda trip included Dean Wilkins, Anne Lee Burruss, Janet Burrus, Mary Feagans, Zilla Cooper, Rettie Warren, Grace Manly, Betty Ann Hazel, Linda Saunders, Mary Emswiler, Gloria Whitlock, Wanda Wright, Virginia Faulkner, Eleanor Parker, and Virginia Mayes.

Breeze Suggests Council

The six major organizations on campus function as separate units, each one designed to perform their respective duties. The absence of a mutual bond or tie between these groups often leads to unintentional conflicts and lack of co-operation between the major organizations.

We are suggesting that these organizations combine their efforts in a co-ordinating capacity, which will serve to benefit the student body at large.

The establishment of an Organizational Council, consisting of a representative from each major organization, would lend itself to constructive ideas and suggestions submitted by the students, as to how these organizations could more efficiently meet the needs of the student body.

The second purpose of this Council would be to promote and establish closer co-operation between the major organizations. We feel that this Council would act as an effective agency through which the representatives might exchange ideas, and discuss problems relative to the functioning of their respective organizations.

We do not advocate that this Council become another organization with delegated power, duties and elected officers.

Informal meetings could be held monthly to carry out these functions.

This editorial has been directed to the leaders on campus and the student body in entirety in the hope that the need for such a council will be recognized and some action will be taken.

THE BREEZE

Give

We have been fortunate over the years in having a number of foreign students enrolled at Madison College, who have been aided by the Foreign Student Fund.

This year an earnest appeal was made to the student body to contribute to this fund in the hope that the $900 goal could be reached by April 15, but because that goal has not yet been reached, the time has been extended to May 1.

Each of the organizations and classes received a letter appealing for contributions. It suggested that the money be taken to the Treasurer's Office, as no personal solicitations would be made.

The past few weeks have been busy ones and in our haste, we have unintentionally neglected to do our part in supporting this drive.

I feel certain that if we would give our contributions to our class presidents, they would take them to the Treasurer's Office.

Family Style

"Bless, O Lord, this food to our use and us to thy service, and make us ever mindful of the needs of others; in Jesus name. Amen."

This is very familiar to us, the students of Madison College, as we pause together at the beginning of each meal. At each of the three meals, we are served at tables in the dining halls. While our girls are being served at tables with white linen cloths and napkins, in many schools students are waiting to go through a line with a tray.

The cafeteria style of serving food has its advantages and could be the partial answer to the problem that will arrive with the increased enrollment during the 1958-59 session and following sessions. Does this style provide an opportunity for the students together, to acknowledge their blessings? Does it provide an opportunity to develop and carry on the manners their families have taught them? Does this style of serving convey a feeling of relaxation or would it add to the confusion of the day?

Our style of serving is a credit to Madison, so let's keep our dining halls and the home-like atmosphere which is fitting and proper for our 1,230 young women.

Jane Henson Presents Piano Recital Richard Barnes, Tenor, To Assist

Jane Henson, pianist, assisted by Richard Barnes, tenor, will present a recital on Sunday, April 20, at 3 o'clock in Wilson Hall.

Miss Henson's selections will include the following: Komm' susser Tod by Bach; Sonatina in C Major by Kabalevsky; "La plus que lente" by Debussy; "Jardins sous la Pluie" by Debussy; Prelude in C# Minor by Rachmaninoff; and Ballade in G# Minor by Chopin.

Jane Henson, pianist, Nancy Wood, accompanist to Richard Barnes, tenor, will present a recital on Sunday, April 20 in Wilson Auditorium at 3:00 p.m.

Mr. Barnes will sing the following selections: Nina by Pergolesi; Chi Vuole Innamorarsi by Scarlatti; Im Wunderschönen Monat Mai from Dichterliebe by Schumann; Aus Alten Marchen from Dichterliebe by Schumann; When I Have Sung My Songs by Charles; Twenty, Eighteen by Taylor; My Child Asleep by MacGimsey; and Song of the Open Road by Malotte.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Norman Henson of Roanoke, Virginia, Jane is a junior and a pupil of Miss Elizabeth J. Harris. Since arriving on Madison's campus, Jane has been very active in the Y.W.C.A., the Diapason club, has been the accompanist for the Glee Club for the past three years, a representative to the committee of public entertainment, and the secretary-treasurer of the M.E.N.C. She is the newly-elected chaplain of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority.

Enrolled in music education, Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnes of Portsmouth, Virginia. He is a student of Miss Edythe Schneider. Very active in student activities, he is a sophomore representative to the committee on public entertainment, the ~~Madison~~ Orchestra, and Sigma Delta Rho social fraternity.

Richard will be accompanied by Miss Nancy Wood, a junior from Roanoke, Virginia.

"Registration Time"

When the smell of blossoms fills the air,
And a touch of spring is everywhere,
And the campus breathes a new taste of life,
All seems at peace and free from strife;
But there is one blot on nature's sensation
It's commonly known as SPRING REGISTRATION.

You tell your adviser, "Now let's take it slow,
Saturday classes and eighth period won't go;
Do I have to take that, Won't this do as well?
OK, just send Mom the key to my cell."
Thus, you see, without many complications
Next year will be just an extended vacation.

When you've finally consented to not receiving
The long awaited course in basket weaving,
And find sunbathing carries no credit hours,
You know that college is no bed of flowers;
And you decide to take that extra class
And hope that with luck you just might pass.

This is only the beginning of worse things to come,
For you've yet to pull cards and find that some
Are full, thus you start all over again
Pulling your hair and racking your brain
To find something else to fill that space
Then it's back to the registrar at a lively pace.

Oh, all things work out all right in the end,
And with few maladjustments you're ready again
To start a new year with new pep and zeal,
But to make things work out, you've changed your whole field,
And for the life of you, you can't see how
When you started in business, you're in biology now.

This past Wednesday the ceremony of installation was held for the 1958-59 major officers. During this ceremony the new officers assumed the responsibilities of their respective offices through the taking of oaths. Each officer hoped that as she was taking her oath the members of the student body were taking a similar oath of support.

The oath administered to me included this line, "I shall always remember that The Breeze is the voice of the students and through it they shall speak." It is sincerely hoped that in the coming year, you the students, will assume your responsibility and utilize your college paper to express your views, opinions and talents. "And through it they shall speak," is our bond—help make this oath a valid one.

This week marks the appearance of the new student government column. This column is the result of a request made by you. Submit your questions for the column to Box 28. Let's hear from you!

Today's Prayer

For Thy presence that we sense, see, and feel around us as we gaze out into the beauty of Thy spring-time, we give Thee thanks, our Father.

As each blade of grass pierces the ground, as each bud breaks forth on the dark grey trees, as each bird reappears with its sweet melody, and as the sun creeps high in the day, help us to realize, our Master, that it does so in this world that is Thine because of Thy love for us, Thy children.

Cause us to be thankful for these and all Thy blessings. Forgive us when we stumble and keep us always near to Thee and Thy will for our lives.

—We pray in the name of Thy Son and our Savior.

Amen.

What's New In Stu-Gu

The forty-third Annual Conference of the Southern Inter-collegiate Association of Student Governments was held April 9-12, 1958 at Converse College, Spartansburg, South Carolina. Madison was represented by Priscilla Shafer, Betsy Auten, Harriet Harnsbarger, Dean Wilkins, Helen Warren and Winnie Brown. The main theme for the convention was Every Wheel In Motion. Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael Jr., president of the college, presented the keynote address.

Thursday's program was highlighted by three discussion groups—Are Your Wheels Turning, We're Making Tracks, and How Do You Oil The Squeaks. In these meetings many problems were discussed concerning how to strengthen local Student Government Organizations. Thursday evening a report by the Findings Committee, We're Greasing The Wheels, was presented. This included an evaluation of the day's program and ways in which to improve it.

Discussion groups were continued on Friday and election of officers for the coming year was held. The day was made complete by a banquet held in the college dining room.

Climaxing the meetings, controversial issues facing southern colleges today were discussed.

Saturday afternoon delegates to the convention were invited to a Steeplechase at Tyron, North Carolina. This completed several days of educational and enjoyable events for the Madison College representatives.

Letter To Editor

The sophomores received a blow for which they were unprepared when it was announced at lunch Tuesday that the dorm in which they had anticipated living was to be given to next year's sophomores. Perhaps we wouldn't have been quite so disappointed if it had not been for the fact that ever since early fall when we were told that we would be able to live in the new dorms as juniors, the sophomores had anticipated living in freshly painted rooms, having modern kitchens available for use, having newly furnished dining centers, and being able to live in rooms meant for the number of girls they housed. It was a disillusionment and we were hurt when we saw something we had planned for, something officials told us was for us, suddenly snatched away!

Recently the outgoing S G A president requested the privilege "seniors first" be more closely observed. She added that although we may think of it as a trivial issue, that as seniors, we would appreciate its observance as one of the few privileges seniors are allowed. Incoming juniors feel the same about a choice of living quarters. As upperclassmen we deserve the right to choose where we shall live, for this is one of the few privileges we are offered.

Fine Arts of Value to Everyone Offers Untiring Variety To Life

by Evangeline Bollinger

One way to explore the subject of the Fine Arts in the life of the teacher would be to recall what happened to me when I last heard Mozart's Marriage of Figaro, when I last looked at Chagall's White Crucifixion, or when I last read Sophocles' Oedipus Rex or a poem by Herrick or Auden. Another way would be to try to imagine what my life would be like if I had not found my way into the worlds imaged by the artists whose works I love.

A third way—perhaps the simplest—is merely to list rather sketchily a few of the values I have found in my happy encounters with paintings, poems, and songs.

1. The arts answer our characteristically human desire for order. To know a work of art is to recognize elements not as pieces of a puzzle or patches of a miscellany, but as parts of a whole—singular and significant—that delight the mind.
2. The arts help up to lift our consciousness above the trivial and the banal. It is easy to break free from our petty frustrations if we have the help of Dante or Tolstoy. It is difficult to think small thoughts in the company of Beethoven or Michelangelo.
3. The arts satisfy, in ways peculiar to themselves, our hunger for contemplation. We must spend much, perhaps most, of our time, in trying to solve problems. That is probably good. But it is also good for us to make time to refresh ourselves in contemplating a symphony, a drama, a statue that is good in itself and not merely for something else.
4. The arts, with inexhaustible variety and freshness, utter man's praise of Being.

These are values for people in general, not merely for teachers. Perhaps that is, after all, my point. The teacher is preoccupied with that which is human. His calling is to prompt others to confront the world outside themselves and the world within themselves more responsibly. If the arts help him to do this first for himself, it follows that the arts are very good for his teaching.

Evangeline Grace Bollinger, who was a student at Madison in 1944, received her AB degree in English at Madison College and her M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

Dr. Bollinger is now associated with Saint Xavier College, Chicago, Illinois in the Division of Humanities.

Betty Miller, Soprano Gives Vocal Recital

Betty Miller, soprano, assisted by Catherine Philippe, clarinetist, will present a music recital Thursday, April 24th, at 3:30 p.m. in the Recital Room.

Her selections will include the aria from Joshua, "Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre," by Handel; "Like to the Damask Rose," Edmunds; "I'd Be a Butterfly," Bayly; "My Lovely Celia," Monro; the recitative and aria from the opera La Traviata, "Ah, fors' e lui che l'anima (Is he the one)" by Verdi; Schubert's "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen (The Shepherd on the Rock)" for Clarinet and voice; "Little Lamb," Worth; "Midsummer," Worth; and "The Ragwort" and "The Dandelion" from Two Nursery Rhymes for soprano and clarinet by Arthur Bliss.

Catherine, accompanied by Miss Ruby Wray, will play the "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano" by Felix Mendelssohn.

Betty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clements T. Berezoski of Annandale, Virginia, is a student of Mrs. Hazel Gildersleeve, and is the recent bride of Philip O. Miller Jr. of Richmond, Virginia. Her activities have included membership in Zeta Tau Alpha social fraternity, Glee Club, N.E.N.C., Diapason club, Northern Virginia Area club, YWCA, A.C.E. and Kappa Delta Phi.

Catherine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Philippe of Alexandria, Virginia, is a freshman in the music education curriculum with a major in clarinet and a minor in piano.

YWCA Organization Sponsors Solicitation

Having watched the achievements of the World University Service expand, Madison's YWCA has organized a campus solicitation for April 29.

Through such goals as building of dormitories, scholarship loans and provision of educational equipment, the WUS provides a chance for international students and professors to further academic studies which would not otherwise be possible.

Mentally now we start to mark the close of another year. Yes, as the old major officers step out and the new ones step in we know that graduation (and exams) are not far away.

If I may, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Sam on the great job she did as president of the Athletic Association. We all enjoyed working with her. However, now we all know the job is left in the very capable hands of Martha Talman, the new president. Best of luck to you Martha!

Now for the news—First of all it sure is nice to see the sun again after all these months, isn't it kids? The spring intramurals have finally gotten into full swing with the exception of tennis.

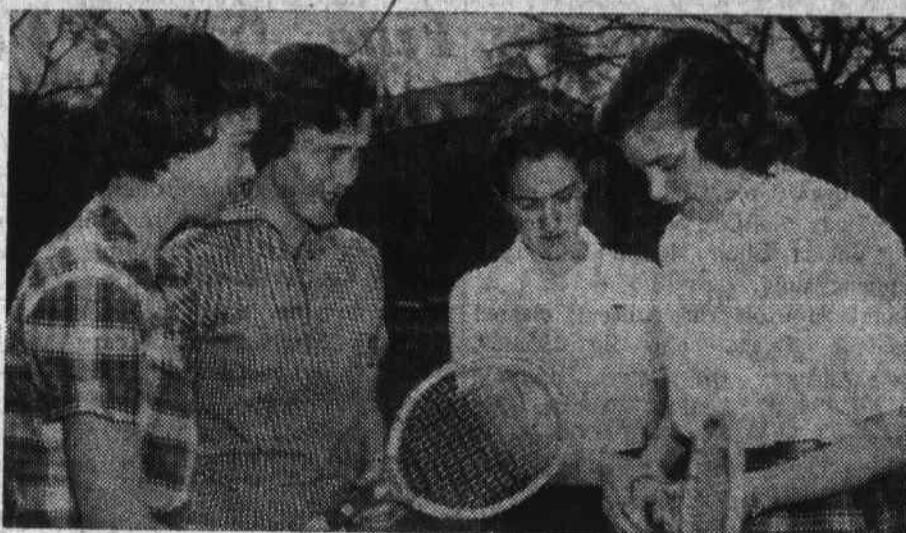

This Saturday, tomorrow, at 2:30, Madison will be hostess for the Virginia vs. Baltimore lacrosse game. Your upperclassmen will recall that this game was played here last year. Since then, however, many of our fellow classmates have improved their skill in the game and will be participating in this year's game as members of the Virginia team.

Next Saturday, April 26, the Madison extramural archery squad is having a match with Westhampton, with Madison again being the hostess school. As yet the squad has not been chosen, but those girls that are interested are in the process of trying out.

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Miss O'Neill on the award that she received over the weekend.

The girls that are trying out for the extramural tennis team are extremely happy to see the sun again you can be sure. For the first time since tryouts started the girls have been able to go out on the courts this week.

Till then—see you at 2:30 on the lacrosse field for the Virginia-Baltimore game.

Tennis enthusiasts Betty Roberts and Pat Shultz watch closely as Sara Jane Shearer gives Dobbie Dean that last minute briefing.

Tennis Enthusiasts Welcome Spring And Chance To Try Outside Courts

As the sun peeps out from behind the clouds and the temperature goes up from zero to above freezing we can see the tennis enthusiasts looking wistfully through the locked gates of the courts watching the workmen roll the courts.

For some reason the girls that are trying out for the extramural team have not felt that the gym provides the proper atmosphere for their best play. Many good tennis rackets can be ruined as one stretches for a hard serve, anticipating one with power and speed second only to Poncho Gonzales and crack—there goes the racket right into the basketball back board.

Miss Berkley relates the tale about one of her beginning classes after she asked if there were any questions and they replied, "Yes! When is it going to stop raining or are we making tennis an indoor game?" Well to end we'd like to say— "Spring is sprung (at last) Fall is fell The sun is finally out And we wish the tennis team well!"

Madison Plays Host To Baltimore Team

LaCrosse, an original American Indian game, was first seen at Madison a year ago. The Madison students have made much progress in laCrosse intramurals under the capable coaching of Miss O'Neill and Miss Berkley. Our coaches have been chosen to play on the Virginia team in the National LaCrosse tournament which will be held in Baltimore in May.

The Virginia LaCrosse team will play the Baltimore team tomorrow, April 19, at 2:30 p.m. on the Madison hockey field. Following the game there will be a tea in Alumnae Hall for the team members and officials. The Virginia team is composed of faculty members and students of Madison and other Virginia colleges. Those playing from Madison will be: Gail Matthews, Sara Jane Shearer, Betty Stone, Sandra Anderson, Pat Schultz, Sarah Jane Welch, Peggy Slempt, Jackie Poe, Pam Guy, Ellen Ashton, Miss Berkley, and Miss O'Neill.

WHAT IS A TERM EXAM IN PLASTICS?

DOUGLAS OUSTERHOUT, MICHIGAN Vinyl Final

THE MENTAL MARVEL mentioned above is so studious he made Phi Beta in his junior year—of high school! When he walks into classrooms, professors stand. The last time he got less than 100%, the proctor was cheating. When it comes to smoking, he gets straight A's for taste. He smokes (All together, class!) Lucky Strike! Naturally, our student is fully versed on the subject of Lucky's fine, light, good-tasting tobacco. He's well aware that it's toasted to taste even better. So when someone asks him for a cigarette, he's happy to spread the good taste. And that makes him a Kind Grind! Assignment: try Luckies yourself!

Don't just stand there...
STICKLE! MAKE $25
Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (No drawings, please!) We'll shell out $25 for all we use—and for hundreds that never see print. So send stacks of 'em with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mount Vernon, New York.
