

Sherry Ellis (front) and Diana Gehley spend long hours practicing for Studies on "The Sky"—their portion of the Madison Dance Theatre presentations April 26 and 27 during Madison's Fine Arts Festival.

Dance Group Performs

Whatever happened to Orchestis? Have you noticed that this word is not heard around campus anymore? The reason is that the name of the dance group has been changed to the Madison Dance Theater. The original Orchestis dealt exclusively with modern dance while the new Dance Theater is interested in full range of dance techniques, including ballet and ethnic. Consequently, their productions are more accurately called concerts than recitals.

The group, under the sponsorship of Madison's Caroline Goodrich Wood, will present its spring contribution to the Fine Arts Festival April 26 at 8 p.m. and April 27 at 2:30 p.m. in Wilson Auditorium. This concert will consist of three distinctive parts. The first section of the program will feature "Les Patineurs" ("The Skaters"); various modes of dance, especially ballet and characterized ethnic, will represent ice skating on a frozen pond. The sole male member of the Madison Dance Theater, Esten Lambert, who attended Jacob's Pillow school of dance in Massachusetts on a scholarship this summer, helped choreograph this first part.

The second third of the presentation will combine different dance techniques in seven studies on "The Sky," a musical number created by the joint efforts of Anita Kerr and Rod McKuen.

The final portion of the show will be a fully modern interpretation of the mystical "Legend of Scythia."

Students having their identification cards will be admitted to the concert free of charge. General admission will be $.50.

Anyone interested in joining the Madison Dance Theater next semester, either as a dancer or as a member of the stage crew, may contact Mrs. Wood in Ashby Gym. Auditions of a general nature are held twice a year, and no previous experience is necessary. The only requirement, one must have to join the Madison Dance Theater is enthusiasm.

Sunbathers Warned: Await SGA's OK

The beautiful weather during the past few weeks has brought out the sun worshippers. The SGA, however, reminds all students that sunbathing is not permitted until an official announcement is made.

Permission is expected to come within the next few days from the administration and Dr. Walter Green, the college physician.

The proposed sunbathing areas include: the area on the east side of Hanson and the space behind Hoffman and Wayland for women students only; the grounds around Lake Newman for men students only; and the field to the east of Frederickson park-

Fine Arts Offer Beauty, Culture

Madison's annual Fine Arts Festival is currently in full swing and, adding a bit of beauty and culture to the coming of spring.

The festival runs from April 18 through April 27 and offers students and others a fine selection of lectures, recitals, and exhibitions.

The program began on April 18 with poetry reading by Ken Smith. Held in Latimer-Shaeffer Auditorium, the presentation also featured comments from Smith.

The Stratford Players also presented Lionel Bart's "Oliver." Student director John Anglin and faculty advisor Horace Burr were extremely pleased to learn that the movie of their selection took numerous Oscars at the Academy Awards Presentation.

Edmund Whiting, sculptor, architect, and artist, presented a gallery lecture on April 21 in the Art Gallery in Duke Fine Arts Building. Whiting is currently head of the Department of Art at Franklin and Marshall College. He studied art in Jerusalem, India, and at the University of Michigan. He also studied under architects Eric Mendelssohn and Frank Lloyd Wright. Whiting's sculpture will be shown throughout the entire festival.

On April 21 an art auction was held in Anthony-Seeger Campus School. Numerous works of varying types were offered, and art buffs had a field day with the myriad selection.

Tonight Dr. Marion Perkins of the Music Department will present a piano recital at 8 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. This will be Dr. Perkins' second appearance in the Faculty Recital Series. Her recital will include Bach Toccata, Beethoven's Sonata Opus 110, Mendelssohn's Variation Series, Brahms' Intermezzi, Suite for Piano by Norman Dello Joio, and Chopin's Ballade in A Minor.

April 23 will have a full schedule. At 3 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. the Aldanya Quartet will present both chamber music and a concert. Acclaimed as "one of the outstanding chamber music organizations of the younger generation," the group includes Andrew Baplatynshy, Ray Kobler, Alan de Veritch and Daniel Rothmuller.

Also on April 23 Sterling professor of French Henri Peyre of Yale University will present a lecture as part of the Visiting Scholars program. The topic for the lecture will be "Albert Camus, Novelist and Moralist." "Literature and Politics in Modern France," and "The Crisis in French Fiction" are the other topics selected for his tour through Virginia. The lecture will be presented at 4 p.m. in Latimer-Shaeffer Auditorium.

Madison's Oratorio Chorus and Orchestra will present the Easter portion of Handel's "Messiah" with Dr. Gordon L. Ohlsson conducting. The concert will be presented on April 24 at 8 p.m.

Joan Reinthaler will conduct the Camerata Chorus of Washington in Latimer-Shaeffer Auditorium at 8 p.m. April 25. A feature presentation of Madison's Lyceum Series, the chorus will rediscover and perform forgotten masterpieces of early music. Concerts by the chorus have been broadcast live and through recordings in the United States, Europe, and Latin America via the Voice of America.

The Madison Dance Theater will present recitals on April 26 at 8 p.m. and on April 27 at 3 p.m. in Wilson Auditorium. In addition Carol Teti will present an organ recital in Lisner Auditorium. This will be the first recital by Miss Teti in the Faculty Recital Series at Madison.

During the entire festival and through April 27, the works of Edmund Whiting will be exhibited in the art gallery in Duke Fine Arts Building.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Student Choice Limited

Most persons will agree that the emphasis on a college education is becoming more demanding as our society becomes more complex. Today, however, a person graduating from high school has an even more complex choice of whether to attend college, join the armed services, or enter the independent world of work. The choices after graduation are limited: for women, it's usually work or go to college; and for men, the decision is to enlist in the military or go to college.

The possibility of working after graduation for men is limited in its application due to the current draft laws. Upon graduation, a young man who desires to work is a prime target for draft board quotas. Therefore, he has to decide whether to take the chance of working and being drafted, enlisting, or going to college. Unfortunately, this latter possibility often escapes those families unable to afford the rising costs of today's higher education.

So the problem seems to be what to do about the present draft situation facing thousands of young students across the nation. Can it be improved?

Various solutions have been offered, usually with mediocre results. A new proposal is that of a volunteer army which, it must be granted, sounds great to the younger generation. But is this method an effective one?

Thinking idealistically, what would be the possibilities of setting down a pattern which both male and female students could follow? After graduation, a mandatory obligation to serve the country for one or two years could possibly remove the blindness presently experienced by so many of our nation's youth who begin life off on the wrong foot by making that first wrong decision. With this system, everyone would know they had an obligation to serve the country for a specified time, after which they could return to fulfilling their academic endeavors through government loan programs.

One major advantage to this proposed system would be the elimination of draft exemption due to minor physical ailments. Those persons unable to pass a physical could be exempted from military combat, but could be used constructively in an office situation, depending upon the individual handicap involved.

With such a system, students could enter an area of their chosen interest; if not one of the armed services, perhaps the Peace Corps or Red Cross or another beneficial organization. In other words, all persons would serve their country in some capacity, whether it be civilian or military.

Some form of "drafting" may still be necessary to support a standing army, but possibly this is where the concept of a volunteer army could benefit. By offering more pay to military types, this would influence men and women to serve their obligation through the armed forces.

It must be realized that this system, like any new proposal, could not be installed overnight. It would involve much planning and organizing to eliminate certain loopholes. But it would do one thing that our country needs right now: it would restore a certain pride to our youth in being Americans through their fulfillment of an obligation to their country.

'Greek Week' Unites Sororities, Fraternities

In past years, the sororities and fraternities of Madison College have existed as separate entities, all striving for comparable goals but doing so virtually independent from one another. This year, the Greeks on campus have united endeavoring to attain some of those goals together. This effort has yielded Madison's first annual Greek Week.

The eight sororities and five fraternities have decided to promote Greek spirit and raise money for charity at the same time.

All the Greeks will participate in a multitude of activities such as football, a tug-of-war across the lake, and a field day, with each competing against one another in friendly competition for the title of the fraternity and sorority of the year. Each event will be assigned a certain number of points for a victory, and the fraternity and sorority accumulating the most points at the end of the week will win the title.

It will all begin Sunday, April 27, with a "picnic" at Melrose Caverns. A runner with a torch will ignite a bonfire to officially open the week's festivities.

The fraternities will participate in a basketball tournament Monday evening in Kee-zell gym while the sororities cheer for their favorite team.

Tuesday through Thursday afternoons, the Greek will play football games on the soccer field. An All-Star game will climax the final tournament on Thursday with two girls from each sorority and three men from each fraternity being chosen to play against each other. Fortunately, the rules have been altered somewhat to aid the female all-stars.

Following the afternoon football games on Wednesday, the Greeks will operate various booths on the quad. Each group will enter one or more fund-raising booths for charity. The entire campus is urged to participate in this worthwhile benefit.

The next night, April 30, will host a "Greek Week Show," entitled the "Odyssey: How it really was." This is open to all students in Wilson Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Madison's Big Weekend Committee is planning a concert for Friday and the Student Government is sponsoring its annual May Day ceremony Saturday, May 3. Because of these activities, no Greek sports will be held.

The finale will be Sunday with a Greek chariot judging and race around campus, a tug-of-war, a field day, and a bar-b-que. Each Greek organization will enter a chariot to be judged for beauty. Immediately following this judging, a race around campus will take place beginning at 1:30 p.m.

At the conclusion of the festivities, the winning sorority and fraternity will be crowned in a brief ceremony behind Moody Hall.

The Counseling Center opened the third Study Skills Laboratory today at 12:00 noon in the SGA room on the second floor of Alumnae Hall. The classes will meet for three weeks on Tuesday and Thursday from 12:00 noon to 1:00 p.m.

Tour Europe For College Credit

Madison's Summer Tour program in Europe which offers credit in music and individual projects will begin June 25 at 7 p.m. when the group departs Dulles Airport. Arrival in London will be just 12 hours later.

After four days in London, the tour will proceed to Amsterdam and remain there until July 3. From Amsterdam, the group will travel by tour bus to Bremen, Berlin, and Bayreuth, arriving in Bayreuth July 8.

The group will spend July 9 and 10 in Munich, then proceed to Salzburg, Austria, via Lake Chiem. Arrival in Vienna, the easternmost point of the trip, is scheduled for the afternoon of July 13. The group will spend three days there.

From Vienna, the caravan will move southward to Villach and Venice via Tarvisio and Udine arriving in the Renaissance city of Florence July 20.

The group will leave for the Eternal City of Rome July 22 and remain there until July 27 when the tour swings north to Pisa, Como, and Lucerne. After attending the Lucerne Music Festival, the students will move on to Dijon and to Paris where the tour ends. The students will leave Paris for the U.S. Aug. 5.

Special features of the tour include concerts in London, Berlin, Bayreuth, Salzburg, Vienna, Florence, Rome, Lucerne, and Paris. Students in areas other than music are currently planning special projects with their respective department heads.

The tour price of $966 includes all sight-seeing charges, hotel fees, and tips. Transportation and accommodations have been arranged by the Cosmopolitan Travel Service.

Information and applications are available in the office of Dean David Fox. Deadline for applications is April 30. Dates of special showings of films pertaining to the trip will be announced.

SPASM Organizes to Curb Disruption on U.S. Campuses

A counter-revolution is emerging on some college campuses as students are organizing to oppose disruptive demonstrations.

One group calls itself SPASM — The Society for Prevention of Asinine Student Movements. It was born at Wichita State University where students staged a "milk-in" as a "peaceful, intelligent and legal demonstration" in protest of protests.

At Michigan State University, more than 10,000 students have signed petitions condemning "intimidation, violence and disruption."

A group of U. S. Marines studying at Purdue University have organized a drive to collect 500 pints of blood for hospitals, a student answer to disturbances on other campuses.

Sgt. Allen Force, a native of San Francisco who is heading the drive, said he intends to show that "the activists, rioting and burning buildings are a small minority representing colleges falsely. The average student doesn't dare to get up and speak against these activists. This blood drive gives this student an opportunity to say what he believes without any particular talent for rhetoric."

Home Econ Student Given Fellowship

Miss Mary Margaret Winston, a senior in High Economics Education at Madison College, has been awarded a non-service fellowship for graduate study at the University of Tennessee. Miss Winston will pursue a graduate program in Home Economics Education with minor work in Related Arts.

As an Honor Student at Madison College, she has pursued a special study on "The Influence of the Bauhaus on Design in America as it Relates to House and Furnishings."

NICB Announces Higher Salaries

More recruits wanted! At record-high starting salaries!

Those two cries are being heard on college campuses today as business undertakes its annual hunt for new employees.

The National Industrial Conference Board reports: "Most companies expect to hire substantially more graduates than they did in 1968 and they are quite prepared to pay even higher salaries to capture the outstanding young men they want."

As usual, demand for engineers continues heaviest. A Northwestern University survey shows that demand for engineering graduates with a bachelor degree due in June is up 36 per cent this year, compared with a 14 per cent higher demand for other kinds of graduates. Also, the survey shows an increasing number of companies interested in men and women with advanced degrees — master and doctorate.

Here is a table showing average starting salaries offered men with bachelor degrees and the increase over last year:

| | Monthly Increase | |
|-----------------|------------------|-----------|
| | Pay 1969 | Over 1968 |
| Engineering | $818 | $42 |
| Accounting | 737 | 35 |
| Business Admin. | 668 | 38 |
| Liberal Arts | 657 | 43 |
| Chemistry | 754 | 44 |
| Physics | 780 | 37 |

| | | |
|-----------------|-----|----|
| Math-Statistics | 741 | 40 |
| Economics- | | |
| Finance | 692 | 42 |

Here are similar statistics for men with master degrees:

| | | |
|-----------------|-----|----|
| Engineering | 957 | 46 |
| Business Admin. | 950 | 55 |
| Accounting | 869 | 60 |

Surveys show corporations still offer women college graduates starting salaries lower than those offered men in comparable fields. Women engineer majors with bachelor degrees, for example, start at an average of $806 a month, some $12 lower than men. There is an $80-a-month gap for liberal arts majors and a $45-a-month gap for majors in chemistry, physics and accounting.

Play Rated Highly Professional

by James N. Conis

From the opening notes of the overture to the final curtain call, the atmosphere of last week's performances of OLIVER, presented by the Department of Speech and Drama and the Stratford Players was of the highest professional level.

Wanda Lee Beech's realistic portrayal of an innocent boy searching for love in the machinations of a delightfully deceitful Dickensian world was the most appealing and natural Oliver one could ask for. Her voice was appropriately pure and sweet.

As head machinator, Sam Heatwole's Fagin could not be faulted. His incredible characterization — that a young man could use his voice so effectively was one of the many fine parts that made the performance so professional. His Rigoletto-like figure was especially good as he taught Oliver to steal and as he sang "Reviewing the Situation." He was comic and evil at the same time yet all the while a likeable person. It must have been very difficult for him to keep his bent-over position all the time. We felt relieved when he finally stood up for the curtain call.

The Artful Dodger—Candy Lewis—athletically appropriate as a cocky teenager was bouncy and alive throughout the performance. Her voice and movements were always professional especially while singing and dancing with Oliver in "Consider Yourself at Home."

Carl Cole as Sikes certainly looks the part of a muscular bully who forces his way through life especially in the stage business when he breaks up a chair and bullies the whole company at the Three Cripples. Nancy, played by June Moneyhun, is his fated love and was at her best in her song "As Long as He Needs Me" in which she put over feeling with conviction.

Susan Vaughn as her companion Bet was pleasantly portrayed. Michael More as Mr. Bumble showed clear diction and gives promise of future development as an actor. Karen McWilliams as Mrs. Corney, Mr. Bumble's biddy, was a real comedienne as she sat on Mr. Bumble's lap and amusingly screamed "I Shall Scream."

Gary Flavin and Charla Hayen as Mr. and Mrs. Sowerberry act with great versatility. Gary Flavin displays a fine sepulchral mien as the undertaker. Charla Hayen in her double role as Mrs. Sowerberry and Old Sally brought out the essentials of each character, first as the brash and coarse Mrs. Sowerberry and then as the pathetic and moving Old Sally.

As Mr. Brownlow, John Hull seemed unfortunately thin and young; he might project more the character of an old man. Lee Rose as Mrs. Bedwin was strikingly effective as she sang the reprise of "Where is Love." Ike Stoneburger was Dr. Grimwig; Jack Osburn was Noah Claypole; Marilyn Dize was the Old Lady and Flower Vendor; Geraldine Martin was the Milkmaid; Judy Kaepsell was the Strawberry vendor; Bob Davis and David Garriques were Knife Grinders; and Jeanne Impellitteri was Charlotte.

The Chorus of Work-House Boys, beautifully choreographed Dale O'Day, Janet Kirby, Pat McGary, Diane Wood, Jessica Gay, Sandy Steeg, Becky Randall and Jennifer Griesbach. The choreography of "Who Will Buy" with Oliver and the Street Vendors had the spaciousness and floating quality of a dream and was the most beautiful scene in Act II. In fact, the choreography of Dale O'Day and Scott McNeil was far better than what one generally sees on television and helped to give an overall professional aura. Carolyn Hall's costumes were emotionally appropriate as well as colorful.

A great deal of the professionalism was due to Herb Patterson's and Ed Kenestricks sets which moved quickly and efficiently under Mr. Kenestricks' technical direction with John Mueller as assistant technical director. Scene changes were managed with all possible smoothness by George Phillips as Production State Manager and Karen Matthews as Stage Manager. The other members of the technical staff, builders, painters and lighters, were as exemplary.

The somewhat awesome task of directing a full-fledged musical was the responsibility of John E. Anglin whose worth is beyond praise. He is to be congratulated. Although one or two characters may have been weak, it is not worthwhile to point them out because of the success of the total production.

It was a treat to be able to hear a live orchestra conducted by Mr. Clifford Marshall. At times the strings could have been stronger, but the whole effect of the orchestra was most gratifying. We hope that the Music Department will continue to be as successfully ambitious.

Male Athlete to Attend Banquet

For the first time, Madison will be represented in the winner's circle of the Harrisonburg Jaycees Sportsmanship Award Banquet to be held at the Belle Meade Motel on April 30 at 7 p.m.

The name of the male recipient has not yet been released, but he is in competition with other Madison athletes. Judging is based on an evaluation including: competitive spirit, enthusiasm, self-reliance, self-discipline, cooperativeness, promptness, respectfulness, consideration, friendliness, and inspirational abilities.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Harland "Swede" Svare, Washington Redskins defensive coach. Svare's accomplishments include the time he spent as a New York Giants player of the NFL playing on teams with Sam Huff. For a number of years, Svare was assistant coach to Vince Lombardi at Green Bay before becoming head coach of the Los Angeles Rams. He recently joined the Redskins at the request of Lombardi.

The banquet is open to the public, and admission is $3.00 per person. Other schools to be represented include Bridgewater College, Eastern Mennonite College, and all area high schools.

Taylor Leads SPE To Swimming Win

New pool records were set in seven of eight events in men's intramural swimming April 15 as SPE, led by triple-winner Mike Taylor, took the team title with 40 points.

Taylor posted wins and new records in the 40-yard freestyle, the 40-yard breast stroke, and the 40-yard butterfly as more than 100 spectators cheered for their favorites.

PKB, spurred by Corky Talley's win in the 80-yard individual relay, came from far back to take the runner-up spot while Phi Alpha Pi, which had the most qualifiers, placed third.

Jim Wagaman of the Studs set marks in the 100-yard freestyle and the 40-yard back crawl. SPE also established a team record with a 41.2 clocking in the 80-yard free style relay.

Golfers Topple Favored Lynchburg

The men's golf team split even in its last two matches losing to Randolph-Macon, 6½-2½, and defeating powerful Lynchburg by the same score.

The match with R-M was played at Ashland's Hanover Country Club April 11 and the winners' Brown posted the best round—a 75. Jim Glenn, the Dukes' captain, was low man with a 77 for Madison while Jack Vandenhengel had 79.

The scoring:

Brown (R-M) defeated Glenn, 2 and 1; Alexander (R-M) defeated Roger Luttrell, 5 and 4; Vandenhengel over R. Cox (R-M) 3 and 1; Chuck Shomo tied H. Cox (R-M); Rawls (R-M) over Denny Fellona, 9 and 8; and Clark (R-M) beat Krupp, 4 and 3.

The Lynchburg match was played in a driving rain at Spotswood Country Club and Luttrell was medalist with 77 with Shomo shooting 78 and Glenn and Fellona 79's. The Dukes averaged 79 strokes per man—the first time the team as a whole has broken 80.

The scoring:

Glenn over Steele (L) 2 and 1; Luttrell edged Graves (L) 4 and 3; Kinsey (L) defeated Vandenhengel 1 up; Shomo beat Wallace (L) 3 and 2; Fellona over Thompson (L) 3 and 1; Blair (L) scored over Graham Bartley, 2 and 1.

The Dukes now stand at 2-1 for the year.

Singles champion Ed Anderson and Ed Sereno captured the men's intramural badminton doubles by upsetting top-seeded John Rader and Ed Lipton, 17-16 and 15-13, in a single elimination tournament recently concluded.

The Studs blanked Shorts 1st Floor, 2-0, to win the men's intramural volleyball title while Phi Alpha Pi took third place with a 2-1 win over the Faculty.

Captained by Jim Wagaman, the Studs won 18 of 22 contests in the 15-team league. Members of the winning team were Bob Maley, Ed Anderson, Barry Threewits, Pete Hauschner, Mike Mott, Glen Lake, Al Caccivio, Skip Page, and Jan Flakowitz.

Approximately 150 students and faculty participated in the league this year.

Weather permitting, men's intramural softball begins this week with eight teams entered in the league. Two games are scheduled each afternoon except Friday when only one will be listed in order to allow time to make up rained out games.

Official softball rules will prevail except that pitchers are not permitted to use the windmill windup and players are forbidden to wear spikes.

Games will last 1½ hours or seven innings whichever comes first and teams will be responsible for keeping track of their own runs, hits, and errors. The umpire will have the final say in case of discrepancy.

The first game will begin at 4:10 p.m. and the second at approximately 5:40.

Games tomorrow pit the Faculty against the Studs and PKB vs Phi Alpha Pi. On Thursday, Shorts 3rd Floor meets Lincoln-Shenandoah and Shorts 1st Floor faces Phi Alpha Pi. The lone game Friday finds the Faculty meeting SPE.

Fairways and greens made soft by a steady rain failed to hamper Ward Long's golfers who proved that they don't need sun to win. The Dukes trounced highly-regarded Lynchburg, 6½-2½, at Spotswood for their second win in three matches.

Once again Freshman Roger Luttrell showed the way with a 77. The Dukes as a team averaged 79 — a fine effort considering the elements.

The first two weeks of the baseball season have provided some surprises with the unheralded teams showing the way to the powerhouses.

It seems odd to find the Chicago Cubs, the Atlanta Braves, the Kansas City Royals, and the Boston Red Sox heading their respective divisions while last year's World Series finalists are flirting with the .500 mark. Only Boston is given the remotest chance of winning its division, the toughest of the four, although the Cubs could be the N.L. darkhorse.

Senator pilot Ted Williams saw the bloom depart from his team in its recent series with Baltimore when the Senators were whitewashed three straight times after tearing the cover off the ball against the Yankees.

He's learning fast that you can tell a man how to hit but you can't bat for him.

Ugly is only skin-deep.

It may not be much to look at. But beneath that humble exterior beats an air-cooled engine. It won't boil over and ruin your piston rings. It won't freeze over and ruin your life. It's in the back of the car for better traction in snow and sand. And it will give you about 27 miles to a gallon of gas.
