I had three sleeveless dresses with no pockets:

A cotton one with the back cut out

A sheath with a side zip, hard to sit down in

A brown linen number with buttons

from neck

to hem.

Finally: A black lace dress that the fashion police at a library conference praised me for, I guess because it wasn't Dowdy.

Still no pockets.

That's 21 dresses, if you weren't counting.

I took 21 dresses to the thrift store,

because I no longer wore them.

I had to take just a few at a time.

I had to check that I wasn't losing anything.

At least

I didn't have to check the pockets.
