Big Weekend Features Concert, Parade, Sports, and Fashions

The Student Activities Committee announces their first Big Weekend of the current year. The weekend features Sam and Dave, the "Soul Brothers" of Fall '69, in concert October 3. Weekend offerings range from a fashion show to a parade of "original" decorated cars.

Chairman for the weekend's activities, Peggy Zirkle, provided the following schedule of events:

- Friday, October 3: Sam and Dave in concert in Wilson Auditorium for two shows at 7:30 and 10 pm. Tickets will be on sale outside the bookstore from 9 am. to 4 pm., Monday through Friday, with reserved seats $3.50 and general admission $1.

- Saturday, October 4: A soccer game between Madison and W&L will be played at EMU's home field at 1 pm. Provost Daniel Hall will crown the Harvest Queen at 2 pm. Admission is $1.

Approximately 600 men will be full-time students and the men in special and evening classes should bring this figure to more than 700 male students on campus.

'First class honor rating was awarded to the Breeze by the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota in the Hat All-American Critical Service. It was the first time the paper had attained this rating since the 1962-63 school year. Ellen Edwards served as editor during the period in which the honor was earned.

The ACP provides a critical news service for college and university papers from throughout the United States. The judging is done by the University of Minnesota School of Journalism through professional newspaper men and women with extensive publication background.

Newspapers published from January through May were judged on coverage and content, writing and editing, editorial leadership, physical appearance and photography. Marks of Distinction for superior achievement may be awarded in each of the five categories and a paper must receive at least four such credits to be rated All-American. The Breeze received Mark of Distinction credit for superior accomplishment in photography.

Madison will rock with the sounds of soul team Sam and Dave as they present two concerts on October 3.

Madison's Young Republican Club recently announced the pending arrival on campus of the Republican nominee for governor, Linwood Holton. Making his first stop on campus since being selected to challenge the Democrats for state control, Holton is scheduled to address interested students and the general public in Blackwell Auditorium on Oct. 1 at 4 pm.

A Roanoke attorney active for years in Republican party politics, Holton was unseated by a narrow margin in his bid for governor in the last election. Since that time, he has remained active in state politics and was one of the spearheaders in President Nixon's successful sweep of Virginia last November.

Holton's pledge as governor is to build a better Virginia for the 1970's. "We offer a party united behind a united ticket, a party fighting for Virginia rather than with itself," says Holton.

Also on the Republican ticket with Holton are H. D. "Buz" Davabarn, running for lieutenant governor, and Richard D. "Dick" Oberhaim, seeking the attorney general post.

Holton Visits Madison Oct. 1

All students and interested citizens are invited to attend Holton's address.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

If anyone has tickets B-M 6-9 or R-7 to the Sam and Dave concert October 3 in Wilson Auditorium, please stop by the ticket office across from the bookstore and exchange them for the proper tickets.

Dance Group to Hold Demonstration

Madison's Dance Theatre is holding an open house this Wednesday, October 1, at 7 pm. in Asby Gym. All students are welcome to attend and view a technique session performed by members of the theatre. Following the demonstration, discussion concerning the activities of the club may be exchanged between the audience and the club members.

One week later, October 8 at 7 pm, try-outs will be held in the dance studio for all interested in participating. A special invitation is extended to all male students.

Previous dance experience is not required to try-out. Students will be selected on their ability to perform previously demonstrated basic exercises and simple movement patterns.

Attempts will be made to keep the areas of make-up, lighting, costume and other types of stage work simply by indicating their particular area of interest.

Enrollment Figure Surpasses 4,000

Dr. G. Tyler Miller said today that the total enrollment at the college exceeds 4000 students for the first semester of the coming academic year.

He noted this figure was double the enrollment at the college five years ago. In the past four years, the number of students has increased more than 75 per cent.

Approximately 640 men will be on campus at 2 pm. with a dance to follow later that evening in Keezull Gym from 8 to 12 pm. Admission is $1.

A fashion show, titled "Harvest Reflections on Parade," will be held in Wilson Auditorium at 2 pm. Admission to this event is free. Clothes will be provided by Charles Mathias and Ney's House of Fashion. Contact Janet Volz if you would like to be a model.

Ratings of First Class (excellent), Second Class (very good) and Third Class (good) are given on the basis of total numerical scores achieved in the five classifications.

"Competition for top ratings is tougher each year," Otto W. Quale, ACP executive director stated. "College editors, writers and photographers of today grew up in a whole new world of mass communications and their newspapers reflect this sophistication. There is more in-depth reporting and significant editorial content than was apparent five years ago.

"It is responsible press challenged by great insight into the problems and progress that are a part of their lives today," Quale added.

Honor Code Emphasized

"The jurisdiction of the Honor Council shall extend to all cases involving lying, stealing, cheating or failure to report one of the above breaches of honor. If you are found guilty of 'failure to report' clause of this statement has come under much question and discussion from the students at Madison College.

Many ask, why should a student be responsible for reporting the crime of another student? What does he owe the Honor Council? Who makes him his brothers keeper? If the student is not injuring you, why report it? These are good questions. They reflect thought and concern on the part of the student body. However, there are equally good answers that should also be considered.

Your failure to report on the violations of the Honor System is harmful to your classmates, to your school, to you, and even to the guilty person. It is not the only way you can help someone by allowing him to cheat, steal, or lie. How much good are you doing your school by allowing students like this to attend? In a school where cheating, lying, or stealing is prevalent, the quality of the education received there suffers, and the value placed on a degree from that institution is almost non-existent.

You, as a student at Madison, owe it to your fellow students, your school in general, and yourself in particular to help curb violations of the Honor System. Is it fair to you or anyone else to study long and hard for a test and yet receive a lower grade on the assignment than someone who did not study at all but cheated? Are you really being fair by ignoring the fact that someone is cheating and just turning your head and walking away?

The Honor Council is not asking you to become "spies" or "informer" on your friends. We are asking you to care—care enough about Madison, enough about the students here, and enough about yourself to support the principles of the Honor System. By supporting the Honor System, you can make Madison a place where honor and concern for others are valued and appreciated.

More Student Involvement Urged

by Frank Humphreys

In the aftermath of registration and the various ceremonies surrounding that joyous occasion of the first day of school, and faculty alike began the routine that qualifies Madison College as an academic community.

While the individual worries ran the gamut from working to getting their particular organization off the ground for another year. In an environment such as we face here at Madison, the ultimate success lies in the hands of all participants. In the past, many of the so-called "participants" have been satisfied to sit idly on the sidelines and observe the actions of others in organizing the various activities that occur on campus. With the increasing student body, there is absolutely no reason why we cannot experience a larger degree of participation than has ever been witnessed here.

New students, freshmen and transfer students alike, will be pleased to learn that the majority of campus activities not directly related with the learning process are primarily controlled by the students. Too often students are apt to mimic their elders in that they are content to sit on the sidelines and watch others do the work necessary to insure that there is suitable activity for the student body. Anyone with a grain of sense would realize the folly of this position.

Ultimate success falls squarely upon all Madison students. Should you have an idea for a social weekend, the Student Activities Committee has an urgent need for your energy and efforts. Should you have a particular talent for politics, you may have an outlet for your creative efforts in either elected student offices or in any of the campus political organizations. And if you fail to find any of the present organizations meeting your fancy, then the place for you is Harambee, a completely new organization.

Harambee, you say, sounds like that television program coming out of Washington. The only similarity is that both are concerned with the education of young people directly affected by their separate programs. Harambee will be called liberal; rambee will be called political. Both are called many things. But it will only survive if it has the support of the students.

The big question is this: why sit around in your room in the dormitory, in the cafeteria, or off-campus if you are a day student, and wonder about what you can do to make your campus? Seek out members of these various organizations and you are sure to find an outlet for your creative talents. And who knows, your idea may be the one that proves to be an historic event at Madison College.

Death Calms Political Scene

The sudden deaths earlier this month of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Senate minority leader, and Washington state congressman Drew Pearson have removed two of the nation's most controversial figures from the national political scene.

Dirksen, the senior senator from Illinois, was a masterful politician who consistently put the welfare of the nation above that of party or state. He won the grudging respect of friend and foe alike with his adeptness in the art of compromise. His flamboyant rhetoric, deplorable in a decent human being, was a device for winning over minds of the public because each, in his own peculiar way, devoted his life to his country's service.
College Adopts Centrex System

An advanced telephone system known as Centrex was cut in at Madison College at 12:01 a.m. Sept. 11 and as a result of the change, dormitory students on the main campus will have a color telephone in each room.

Engineered and installed at no cost to the college by the Automatic Electric Co., of Chicago, the project was the culmination of two years' work.

Parents and area persons will be able to call directly to the dormitory rooms without going through an operator. Also, direct calls will now be made to faculty and administrative personnel. There will be five separate categories of telephone types on campus. The system will carry 1,300 student telephones and 250 college personnel telephones.

Called the most modern Centrex system in the nation, the system was built with an eye toward the future and it will not be outmoded when push-button telephones replace the dial type. Its capacity can be greatly increased as wires have already been installed for this purpose. In addition, it will be possible to have access to the college's future computer through the system, making it possible to feed questions into the machine from other buildings.

The heart of the new system lies in the maze of electronic equipment which covers approximately 3,000 square feet in the basement of Wilson Hall. The complex is so large that it has its own telephone number. Both the console and central office equipment are in air-conditioned rooms to control both humidity and temperature.

In addition to each individual having a private line, college personnel can transfer calls themselves and hold three-way conference talks with an outside party.

The college will be issued, its capacity, and those areas available to requisition the gym for its use only, 5,000 telephone directories containing approximately 5,000 numbers.

Requisitions Need One Week Notice

Space on campus for dances and similar activities is limited, and those areas available must be requisitioned in advance.

After talking to Lisa Crider, chairman of the Student Activities Committee, the following guidelines have been established for organizations needing space for an activity:

1) Organizations are allowed to requisition the gym for three non-consecutive weekends per semester and requisitions should be in at least one week prior to the desired date of use.

2) Should any given weekend not be requested by the week before, any organization, regardless of the number of times it has previously requisitioned the gym, can submit the appropriate forms on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Further details may be obtained by contacting Bruce King, chairman of the Dance and Concert Committee, through campus mail or by phone at 434-3992.

Requisitions can be obtained from Mrs. Corrine Chatley, Director of Student Activities, in Alumnae Hall between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

President G. Tyler Miller places a call on Madison's new Centrex telephone system, the most modern one in use today. Additional wiring has also been installed for greatly increasing this system's capacity in the future.

VA Enrollments Jump to 370,000

Some 370,000 veterans will be attending institutions of higher learning this fall — 70,000 more than in 1966. Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said today.

Another 205,000 are expected to enroll in schools below college level and 60,000 in on-the-job training, a total of 37,000 more than the 23,000 enrolled in this program in 1968.

White service members can not take on-the-job training under the G.I. Bill, Johnson said that 8,000 of them will enroll in colleges and another 42,000 in education programs below the college level.

This fall's enrollment will bring to 1,600,000 the number of veterans and servicemen who have been trained since educational provisions of the newest G.I. Bill went into effect June 1, 1966.

To be eligible for VA educational assistance, veterans must have had at least 181 days of continuous service (part of it after Jan. 31, 1955).

SMALL PIZZA $0.99
LARGE PIZZA $1.49

Though classes have just begun, John Rader's soccer prospects have two weeks of practice under their belts in preparation for their Oct. 1 opener against Roanoke on the EMC turf.

Rader is hopeful that last year's experience will pay off in the Dukes' first win ever in soccer. Last year's squad sailed only a tie. Lack of a consistent scoring punch and a defense which often made a sieve look like a brick wall in comparison led to a dismal first season.

Cleve Branscum, Madison's new basketball coach, will not have his candidates on the court for some time yet but he has already begun to familiarize himself with the holdovers from last year's successful squad as well as with the newly-enrolled talent.

The Dukes will play a 21-game schedule including one with the Alumni. Four-year scholarships will furnish the opposition in the regular season games for the first time as the Dukes continue to expand their athletic program.

The Dukes will enter inter-collegiate competition in baseball for the first time next spring when they play a 13-game schedule.

Though the Dukes' 1970 golf season is several months away, Coach Ward Long is holding a fall qualifying program for prospective varsity golfers at Spotwood Country Club.

Joining five lettermen from the 1969 squad are freshmen Bob Feltes of Elkton, Bill Lam of Montevideo, and Tom Pollard of Ashland Patrick Henry, all of whom were No. 1 on their respective high school teams. The lettermen include Capt. Jim Glenn, Roger Luttrell, Chuck Schomo, Denny Fellona, and Graham Harris.

Coach Long extends an invitation to other men on campus who can play well to contact him. It is possible that some can be added to the group registered with Spotwood.

The 1970 schedule has been expanded to include four new opponents, including V.M.I. and Coach Long indicated the Dukes may be hard-pressed to improve on their recent 7-3 record.

Dr. Ed Lipton, director of intramurals, requests that all faculty members interested in participating in various activities this fall return their forms immediately so that the program can get under way.

He noted that tennis was passed to the women from the original form and should be added.

Two Capital City colleges will field football teams this fall—one of them in its first season as an institution of higher learning. Federal City College will play an abbreviated schedule in its opening year while D. C. Teachers will return to the gridiron after a lapse of five years.

The shocking collapse of the Chicago Cubs and the sudden emergence of the New York Mets as a solid baseball team have to be the most exciting stories of the current season.

The evaporation of a seemingly comfortable lead has turned the Cubbies into a snarling, snapping distraction so that the Mets rolled into the division title with timely hitting and excellent pitching.

Cheo Jones, for whom this corner predicted an outstanding season, leads his league in hitting while Tom Seaver is the No. 1 pitcher.

Soccer Team Opens Season Thursday

Coach John Rader’s plan to start an all-veteran unit in the Dukes’ second season of intercollegiate soccer went up in smoke when it was discovered that two lettermen failed to clear the grade barrier and two others dropped out of school.

Rader is worried and with good reason since the Dukes, state champions, on the EMC field at 3 pm.

Ten members of last year’s winless squad, including seven lettermen, will form the nucleus of this year’s team. There are also four freshmen trying out for positions.

Letter winners include John Gillette, Rip Marston, Mike Mott, Steve Nardi, Bob Robinson, Tom Saunders, and Charlie Wymer. In addition, Greg Duggan, Pat McLaughlin, and Roger Wolfe, none of whom earned his letter last year, have returned. Other candidates include freshmen Joe Erickson, Steve Grainer, Carl Lentz, and John DiGuardo, sophomore Rich Rogers, and senior Mike Taylor.

“We’ve still got some problems to iron out,” said Rader today, “but some of the boys are looking real well including DiGuardo at goalie, center forward Nardi, center halfback Wymer, wing Saunders, and Robinson at fullback. The battle for some positions is still wide open.”

The Dukes will play a nine-game schedule with all home games being played at EMC. A spectator bus will leave Gibbons Hall 30 minutes prior to game time for the home matches.

“I don’t know how good we’ll be yet but we’ll be there for every game,” Rader said.
