Committee Investigates Proficiency Exam

A special committee, formed to study the effectiveness of the Junior English Proficiency Exam, disclosed its recommendations for changes in the JEPE requirements.

Organized by the administration in 1960 in response to complaints of illiteracy among Madison graduates, the test was designed to be a safeguard for the school, preventing students with poor writing skills from obtaining a degree. Contrary to the stated purpose of the JEPE no student has ever been refused a degree. However, several cases of postponed graduation, pending successful completion of the JEPE, have been recorded.

Today, exemption from the exam has been granted only to students with a "B" average through English 101-102 and any one semester of a 200 English course. The new proposals would permit any student who did not receive a "D" or "F" in any of the three required semesters, to be exempted. Another notable proposal is that all unexempted students be required to take the test at the beginning of their junior year in order to assure time for failures to retake the exam without postponement of their graduation.

There were suggestions to terminate the system because several members of the faculty felt that the JEPE is not as efficient as it should be, but there was not a majority of support among the department faculty for this move.

Breeze Expanding

This issue of the BREEZE is the first step in the expansion program planned for the Madison College student newspaper. Hopefully this second edition of the BREEZE will be published each week for the rest of the current semester. This goal can only be accomplished through the cooperation of both students and faculty. Information for Tuesday's publication should be turned in by Friday, or at the latest, Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

ACLU Bids For MC Recognition

By GENE WHEELER

A substantial number of students attended a meeting of the prospective Madison chapter of The American Civil Liberties Union, held on Sunday evening, February 11 at 7:00. Dennis McAdams led the discussion which concentrated on the immediate goal of obtaining recognition as a legitimate student organization.

A constitutional committee was formed to design a basic outline of policy to present for recommendations and ratification, and several other committees were established in order to further coordinate the group's activities.

It was suggested that a Harrisonburg chapter would be founded in the near future, which would allow a connection between Madison and Harrisonburg branches of the union, and therefore a broader and more effective scope of activities.

Various aspects of the activities of the national organization of the ACLU were briefly described; and Dennis explained possible activities that might be initiated on the Madison campus, among them visiting speakers and, tentatively, a weekly session with several lawyers who would be available for discussion with Madison students.

The persons in attendance showed a considerable amount of interest and enthusiasm for establishing an active and effective ACLU chapter.

Arrangements were made for attendance at several wine-and-cheese parties to be held in order to acquaint prospective and present members with ACLU members of the Charlottesville area.

Meetings will be held weekly on Sunday nights at 7:00 p.m. in the SGA office, Room 114 of The Student Center. Faculty members and interested students are urged to attend.

Another dull Friday night staring you in the face? The Campus Program Board presents Priff's Place featuring 'Passage' in the Campus Ballroom this Friday night from 8-12 p.m. The atmosphere will be a club type with dancing and beer from the bar for only 25 cents a glass. A cover charge of 50 cents will be collected at the door.

Dr. George West, a Madison College music professor, has been named as one of the judges for a jazz festival Feb. 15 in Hampton.

Dr. West will help in judging the contest of 14 junior and senior high jazz groups. Competing groups will come from throughout the Tidewater section of the state.

Dr. West, director of the Madison Jazz Ensemble, will also direct clinics at the festival.

The festival in Hampton is sponsored by a musicians' union and Tidewater music stores in order to promote music programs in secondary schools.

Godwin Announces Candidacy

Former Governor Mills Godwin Junior has announced that he will again seek the Governorship. The former Governor's tersely-worded statement was made available by aides at a Richmond Hotel Saturday.

Wilborn Attends Seminar

Dr. Thomas L. Wilborn, Associate Professor of Political Science at Madison College, attended the Department of State Scholar-Diplomat Seminar on International Organization in Washington last week.

The seminar began Monday and continued through Friday afternoon.

Dr. Wilborn, with seven other scholars invited by the State Department, held discussions with officials of the Bureau of International Organization Affairs and observed its policy making processes.

The Scholar-Diplomat Seminar program, which involves several seminars each year on different problem areas, is organized to improve communications and increase understanding between the Department of State and specialists in academic communities.

Dr. Wilborn has conducted research of the United Nations and teaches courses in international relations and organization. He is also adviser to the Madison students who participate in Model United Nations conferences.

As expected, the statement did not indicate whether Godwin would run as an Independent or as a Republican, but instead asked support from Virginians "Regardless of political persuasion."

Last year Godwin made it plain that if he did decide to run, it would not be as a Democrat. He indicated that he deplored the Liberal leanings of both the State and National parties. Godwin, who was Virginia's Democratic Governor from 1966-1970, was active in last year's campaign to reelect President Nixon.

The announcement contained nothing to support or detract from rumors that he will remain aloof from party labels for the next few months, and then accept the GOP nomination in June.

A Conservative Godwin candidacy sets the stage for a classic political battle with Liberal Lieutenant Governor Henry Howell, Jr., who announced his gubernatorial candidacy last year. Howell is not expected to announce for several weeks whether he plans to run as a Democrat or as an Independent. But indications have been strong in recent weeks that he will run as an Independent.

Congressman Butler To Present Educator Award

Rep. M. Caldwell Butler of Virginia's 6th District will be the guest speaker February 19 when the "Educator of the Year" award will be presented at Madison College in Harrisonburg.

The award, which will not be announced until the night of the banquet, will go to a person who has given distinguished service to education on the level he works.

Nominees for the award were selected from throughout the Shenandoah Valley: an area including the counties of Roanoke, Botetourt, Rockbridge, Augusta, Rockingham, Page, Shenandoah, Warren, Frederick, Clark and the cities in those counties.

Last year's award went to Dr. Roy A. Alcorn, then superintendent of the Roanoke City school system. The award is given by Greater Madison Inc. an organization of citizens who are interested in the future of Madison College.

About 200 are expected to attend the banquet which will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Percy Warren Campus Center at Madison College.

Rep. Butler, a Republican, is in his first term in the House of Representatives representing the 6th District, the Roanoke Valley area. He

Soviet Student Newspapers

A Look at the Other Side

By Vladimir Gurevich

(Editors note: The following article was written by a student in the Journalism Department of Moscow University and describes college newspapers in the Soviet Union.)

(CPS)--In the Soviet Union there are about five million students. The daily youth newspaper 'Komsomolskaya Pravda', which has a circulation of 6.5 million, and all 130 local youth newspapers published in the USSR have special student pages.

In addition, the majority of Soviet universities and institutes publish their own student newspapers. There are over 400 in all. The student papers are not published only in Russian. One-fourth of them are printed in other languages of the USSR -- Ukrainian, Byelorussian, Armenian, Tatar, Lithuanian and others.

As a rule, the student papers are published once or twice a week and consist of either two or four pages. Their total weekly circulation is over 500,000 copies. The 'Moscow University' one of the largest and oldest newspapers of the kind, will soon celebrate its 50th anniversary. More than 70% of all the student papers published in the Soviet Union at present were started during the last fifteen years.

The editors of the student papers are elected by a show of hands at general institute or university conferences. Several students who show journalistic abilities usually make up the editorial board. Work on the paper is voluntary and the students are not paid for it. Usually one or two professional journalists help them to edit the paper. The students prepare the material for the press, do the drawings, take photographs and deal with the printer themselves. Part of the funds for the publication of such papers is allocated by the trade union committees of the institutes and universities. The rest is supplied in the form of subsidies granted by the administration of the schools and from the sale of the papers, since each issue costs two kopecks (about four cents).

The structure of the editorial board of all the student papers is about the same. It consists of educational, scientific and sports sections, a cultural section, a trade union section and a Young Communist League (YCL) section. If there are many foreign students at the institute or university, a special section is devoted to them.

Students who wish to express their views on a certain problem, or those who have received an assignment from the editors, are chief contributors to the papers. Members of the teaching staff, representatives of the administration and of the communist and YCL organizations of the institute often publish articles in these papers.

Great Escape

BY MARI RICHIN

Madison College and the surrounding Harrisonburg area are not exactly over-abundant in a variety of entertainment and other acceptable diversions from the weekly grind.

Most students who find themselves in the unavoidable situation of having to spend a weekend in Harrisonburg approach such a prospect with usually no more than an apathetic sigh. Of course, there are a few diehard students who find their weekend containment in Harrisonburg academically stimulating. Where else could one carry on a study marathon without the slightest fear of social temptation as here in Harrisonburg? However these people who condone the lack of entertainment are at a definite minimum, judging by the throngs of students who make their weekly exodus from Madison come hell or high water or any phenomenal traffic at the entrance ramps to Route 81. Ah yes, Route 81, a term comparable to escape and salvation in any Madison College student's vocabulary!

The most popular diversion here on campus and the only one available most of the time seems to be growing in popularity by desperate "fun seekers" here. I am referring to the weekly campus movies. However, in the wake of its popularity, this diversionary tactic is becoming less desirable as time goes on.

Going to a campus movie is becoming more like a 3 hour ride on a New York subway during rush hour! To simply get in to the auditorium, a student must go through his share of pushing, shoving, poking and assorted other delights including claustrophobia and suffocation. Such preliminaries make even pledging a fraternity seem like child's play. Once one has made it inside the auditorium he must try to find a seat. With 1000 other students also trying to find seats, this could be rather difficult and let's face it, window sills are a little chill-ly at this time of year!

Later, approximately 20 minutes after the designated starting time the movie begins- TA! DA! Now, the big trick is to be able to understand what the actors are saying over untimely conversations in the audience. If you have the tremendous fortune and good luck of actually knowing what's going on from one minute to the next-congratulations! You are definitely in a minority.

Don't ever figure on enjoying an emotional scene in its entirety without some interruption. It seems that some students have the compelling desire to become actors themselves; many simply yell out their own additions to "improve" or "spice up" the script which, on occasion, can be slightly detrimental to the mood established at the moment.

You might have found yourself caught up in the romantic mood enkindled by the sudden meeting of Robert Redford and Katherine Ross flashed upon the screen. As they stare silently at one another, the audience becomes tense in the anticipation of their next move. Suddenly, at the peak of anticipation, a voice echoes forth from the audience, "Well, get her dummy!" Oh terrific- the whole place breaks into hysteria and that romantic moment flies right out the window possibly taking the whole theme with it though you'll never know.

Suddenly, "The End" flashes across the screen, lights go on and once again you're on the outside; only this time wondering if it was really worth the effort.

The point is that Madison is offering a lot of popular movies this semester and if everyone was a little more patient and considerate, these movies could really be entertaining diversions for those who must spend their weekends on campus and who have no real desire to pitch tents in the library!

Grapplers Split Pair

By CHUCK LOCKARD

The Madison Wrestling team split two decisions last week by winning their first match in the school's history 24-18 over Virginia State College on Wednesday, and then losing to a strong George Mason team 33-12 on Saturday.

In the match against Virginia State Tim O'Rourke and Bill Tabb were the outstanding wrestlers for Madison. O'Rourke won his match 13-9, beating a previously undefeated wrestler from Virginia State. Bill Tabb, wrestling two weight classes over his normal, overpowered his opponent 6-0. Madison received 4 forfeits from Virginia State, but was also forced to forfeit 2 weight classes.

In the loss to George Mason, Terry Bruesser and Bill Tabb were cited as the outstanding wrestlers for Madison. In the 150 lb. weight class Terry Bruesser pinned Lou Mendeng in 4:45. Later, in the 177 lb. weight class, Bill Bobb pinned Steve Williams in 1:44.

Coach Clark of Madison praised the whole team in both matches, saying that he could not single out any one wrestler. Coach Clark also noted that in the George Mason match several matches could have gone either way. He points out that the team had scrimmaged Lynchburg College during the week, and the whole team was vastly improved.

All women interested in participating on the intercollegiate tennis team are asked to meet in the Purple/Gold room, Godwin Hall at 7:00 p.m. on February 15, 1973. If you are unable to attend, please get in touch with Miss Harris, Godwin, 308.

Dukes Lose In Overtime to FCC

BY CHIP CARVER

The Panthers of Federal City College, led by Coach Sam Jones, slipped by Madison 64-61 in overtime here Saturday night.

The loss dropped the Dukes to 13-6 for the season.

Madison had managed to take a 53-52 lead with 2:02 remaining in regulation time on a shot by Tim Meyers. The Dukes had trailed for most of the game with FCC leading by as many as 8 points.

The score was 54-54 at the end of regulation time and the Dukes seemed to have gained a psychological advantage. But this was short lived as FCC was able to score the first

Track Team Loses

The Madison College team finished in third place in a track meet held at Lynchburg College last week.

The Dukes scored 40 points to 57 for North Carolina A&T and 61 for Lynchburg. Several Dukes gave great performances in the initial meet of the season for the Madison trackmen.

Greg Gerlack finished second in the heartbreaking Mile Run by only a few feet. Seemingly inspired Gerlack came back to win the 2-mile run, lapping the third man several times.

Madison's only other first came in the mile relay. The team composed of Tom Cushing, Mike Howes, Larry Tarnacki and Jeff Starnes covered the distance in 3:44.7.

points and control the tempo of the final minutes.

Coach Sam Jones failed to comment on the game because he does not like to talk about officials.

He did however express the thought that "Madison College has improved greatly over last year and looks to be better in the future."

"We had to adjust our defense to compensate for number 35 (George Tolliver) who was able to penetrate our defense repeatedly."

Asked to comment on the Boston Celtics, a team with which he starred along with Bill Russell and K.C. Jones, "Boston appears to have a good chance to reach the playoffs and win the championship."

J.V. Duchesses Win

By DEBBY WRIGHT

The crowd roars... the players dribble, pass, shoot, rebound... over and over, the official's whistle is heard as they raise their fist hand over their head. Such was the spirit of the second game of the Round Robin basketball tournament in which the J.V. Duchesses met the girls of Salisbury.

The score was tied up at halftime with each team earning 20 points and almost as many fouls. With Madison points, the entire purple and gold team rallied in the final minutes of the last quarter to beat Salisbury 47-44.

In the Madison Varsity's first game on the following day, the girls raised their record to 8-2 by beating Salisbury College.

Championship Sorority basketball saw ASA beating AST in an exciting, high scoring game of 21-20.

Rushes

"Walk" on the Quad

Panhellenic Conference and eight National sororities culminated formal rush activities with "walk" on the Quad on Wednesday, February 7. Seventy-one girls walked to the sorority of their choice, including Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Alpha Sigma Tau, Kappa Delta, Phi Mu, Sigma Kappa, Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Zeta Tau Alpha. The rush program was introduced with a slide show, depicting all aspects of Madison sorority life. Three round parties were held in which the sororities entertained and informed the rushes of the sorority's activities. The last parties held followed a theme with elaborate skits, costumes, decorations, and inspirations.

Any girls interested in sorority life are urged to contact Monica Albertollí or Gail Hunter.

Chrysalis Seeks Student Literature

The Chrysalis, which will be published during the middle of April, is now considering student works in prose, poetry, and art. The final deadline to submit work for publication is February 16.

The criteria for evaluation of prose work includes a 2500 word limit on an unpublished, original manuscript. The editors ask that the manuscript be typed and double-spaced. Only quality work will be considered. If the manuscript is to be returned please have name and campus address available.

salis has no limits on length, but it must be previously unpublished, original and creative. Only good poetry will be judged for publication. Good poetry is defined by the editors as that which enables the reader to achieve an intense perception of life, and to develop his experience with existence. The essence of poetry is concerned with condensed details, perfected word order, creative and new images, and precise figures of speech and diction. In short, good poetry touches the reader completely through his senses, imagination, and interest. Poetry will not be returned, and the editors will publish works because of quality, not quantity.

The prizes, which will be awarded for prose, poetry, art and cover design, will be announced at a later date.
