Candidates For Six Major Offices Campaigns Begin, Elections Feb. 24

BY PATRICIA NICHOLAS

Elections are in the air, and during the following week campaigning will become the primary interest of every student here at Madison College.

The major officers presented their candidates to the nominating convention and the nominating convention then made its report to the electoral board and in turn the electoral board met and screened the candidates. The report of the electoral board was sent to the major officers, who asked the two candidates eligible to run for the office, if they would accept the nomination.

The candidates are as follows: Student Government President, PATRICIA (PATTY) DAVIES and JACQUELIN (JACKIE) JEFFRESS; Honor Council Chairman, JOAN BENNETT, and BERTA BIRITOS; Y. W. C. A. President, ALICE HARRIS and NANCY CAROLYN MOORE; Athletic Association President, ELLEN ASHTON and JANE GEOGHEGAN; Editor-in-chief of the Schoolma'am, ELIZABETH (LIZ) DAWSON, and JOAN HALL METTS; Editor-in-chief of THE BREEZE, SHIRLEY JACOBS and ELLEN RAINES.

Since that time campaign managers have been selected and the selection of campaigning committees will take place tonight.

Each of the twelve candidates will address the student body February 23, in Wilson auditorium. Elections will be conducted the following day, and the returns will be announced to the candidates and the student body on the same night.

The period of time extending from the announcement of candidates to the announcement of the final returns of the election, is one of the most exciting and important times on our campus.

Vote

To the student body this campaigning and elections are surpassed in importance only by our national elections. To the college community these candidates represent potential leaders for the major offices on campus.

From these candidates will come the choice of the student body for those to serve as officers. The responsibility of each member of the student body is no less than that which he will face later in selecting government officials. The choice should only be made after careful consideration of each candidate's qualifications and a self-convinced feeling that the candidate is the right one.

To many of the new students on campus perhaps all the excitement, tension, and confusion will seem strange, but it is important to get interested in the elections. Get to know both candidates, for this is only fair to each of them.

There is a feeling of fun in the elections with exhibits and posters, but it is important to member the seriousness of this time, too.

No one knows the outcome of the election. Under our democratic system each can express his feelings—do just that.

Service Given To You

Each spring the classes at Madison elect officers for the following school term. The ballot is usually long and ranges in every possible office from class president to the three representatives on Student Government.

When the fall session opens, few remember the specific election and still fewer think of the three members on Council. As time goes by the students get a vague idea of who their representatives are. They know that there are six girls from each class who have some relationship with the rules of the school, and they should be avoided.

Perhaps this description is a bit harsh, and perhaps you are not guilty, but do you know who your three members to Student Council are?

The three girls from your class are among nine other representatives and the Student Government Association officers who meet each Wednesday night in the SGA room, for a meeting, which may well last after the 10:30 bell rings.

They are the ones who must sacrifice the studying for a test, or even an exam, for a meeting which takes priority over all others on campus. These are the students who are faced with making decisions which may affect an individual student's entire future life. These are the students who must decide on policies which affect the entire student body. These are the persons from whom you will choose a president and vice-president of the Student Government Association, for without experience on Council one cannot possibly serve in one of these positions.

And why must these individuals give of their time and talents so willingly? Because you chose them to represent you in one of the most active organizations on campus—the Student Council of the Student Government Association.

The reader is probably now saying "so what?" The "so what" of this is these representatives need and want your faith and support.

They want your support in the form of constructive suggestions. They want your support in the policies of your school, in decisions made by them. If you feel you can not support their decisions, discuss it with them. Most of all, they want your faith—a faith that will give them comfort when they are confronted by very big problems.

Won't you find out who your representatives are, and give back to them a small portion of the service they have given to you?

Common Problem

Are you planning to become a teacher? Many of us here at Madison are, and most of us have, or will have, a common problem. The problem is whether or not we're qualified to teach in the location in which we want to teach when we are graduated from Madison.

When we have met the requirements of Madison College for graduation, we have automatically met the requirements of the state of Virginia, but suppose one should decide to teach out of state. A number of us do decide to go out of state to teach but wait until our senior year to be concerned whether we've met the requirements or not.

"Whose responsibility is it to acquaint us with the requirements of the locality in which we want to teach?" and, "How can this responsibility be met?" are two questions which follow logically.

Each one of us must find out and be responsible for seeing that we meet those requirements. The College can and does make its requirements in the teaching curricula such that when we are graduated, we can teach in Virginia, but it would be almost impossible for the College to be responsible for seeing that we are prepared to teach in any one of the other forty-eight states. This job falls to us. However, the College will give us all the help we seek.

We are encouraged by our advisers from the time we first enter Madison to check and be sure that we are getting the courses which we'll need. This information is easy to find. There are catalogs both in the library and in the Registrar's Office in which one may find the requirements for certification in each of the United States. One may also go to the Director of Teacher Training, the Director of Student Teaching, the Director of Teacher Placement, and others for information and aid.

The important thing is for us to find the necessary information and act upon it early in our college careers so that there is no need for worry in our senior year.

Mainly Men

by Larry Bohnert

Last Friday night the men students on campus displayed some heretofore unknown talents and abilities when the curtain opened for their minstrel show.

Like many class-nite rehearsals, the minstrel had its rough practices when the entire cast was not present, but the enthusiasm of the men was still present long after the jokes had become so old that it was an effort to laugh at them.

I don't mean to belittle anyone's help or ignore their contributions in the show, but, several names in particular, it seems to me, deserve some measure of acknowledgement which may have been over-looked by the students not in the show.

The sets, for instance, were designed by Arturo Bassols. I hope you also noticed the quality of the printed programs. This was due to the salesmanship of Sam Koontz and Gene Pfoutz in subscribing for advertisements.

Although each member helped in some way outside of participating in the show, the most credit should be accredited to Dick Barnes who directed to whole "push." His interest went beyond the fact of putting on a show—he drilled and reviewed the songs, quartets and dances until, in the limited practice times, he did a commendable job of making the show the polished product it was.

Striving for perfection, but having fun doing it, the entire cast shared with Dick the necessity of doing their best possible job.

Due to the excellent support and flattering compliments of so many of the student body and faculty, it is hoped that this program will become an annual event for the fraternity and YMCA.

Later!

Dear Pencil Pal . . .

Today has been a hectic day, but then that's to be expected when you've just finished the first semester and begun a new slate. The teachers try to cram more knowledge into our feeble minds in one period than we can comprehend. Perhaps if I concentrate more on the lessons and less on the outside world, I can do better.

Really, have you noticed how spring is quietly slipping in on us? There's a feeling in the air that limits studying to a certain degree. Maybe it's because Valentine's Day is nearing and everyone is engrossed in the thoughts of that "someone special." When you go down town, you can see your friends at every card counter picking out Valentines to send. This year, there are so many new and different contemporary cards.

On the other hand, perhaps we feel so light and gay because we know that we only have a little over three months left of school. I guess we're all looking forward to the "good ole summer-time."

Well, I suppose I'll have to stop the daydreaming and come down off my cloud number nine to finish this dreadful homework.

Write and tell me all that's new with you.

Until then,

Jane Bivens Is Senior Personality

The senior personality for this week is Jane Bivens. Her hometown is now Pearisburg, but this does not mean she has always been a "Southern Belle." Jane has spent most of her life in Ohio, but when she graduated from high school her family came South.

She participates in many activities on campus including: Concert Choir, secretary of Diapason club, YWCA, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Jane is majoring in Music Education, and her hobbies are music and knitting. Everyone has enjoyed Jane's beautiful voice—anyone for a pair of home-made argyles?

Jane did her student teaching in the Arlington area during the first part of the school year, and she was very impressed with it. "I thoroughly enjoyed it, and I would like to go back to that area to teach," she said.

One of the outstanding things about Jane is that she is one of the few people that have been in the Arlington Cemetery after dark. Since Jane enjoyed the Arlington area so much, we hope that she can return; and those will be lucky kids who benefit from the many, many talents and abilities of our Jane Bivens.

Valentine Greetings To My Roommate

by Ellen Raines

There are valentines for sisters, brothers, fathers, mothers, and almost everyone you can think of sending one to, but no where is there to be found a small simple card to express the love of the season to a certain person who is one of the most important persons in a college girl's life—a roomie. Here is a simple little verse that is dedicated to roommates all over the world.

I'm not saying you're so beautiful,
But I don't say you are bad.
I'm not saying you set the styles,
But you're just my latest fad.

I'm not saying you're so very smart,
But you sure try enough
And you always have a ready smile
Just when the going's rough.

I do say I am lucky
To have someone like you
Cause I'm not stylish either
And I'm not beautiful, too.

I set no fads, and one thing's sure—
I'm not too very smart.
I guess that's why we're roomies
And I love you with all my heart.

Notice

Due to the length of the film RAINTREE COUNTY, to be shown on February 14 and GIANT to be shown on April 4, 1959, the movies will be shown at 7:00 p.m. instead of 7:30 p.m. as previously scheduled.

Just Me... Nick

The train of thought and interest for the next week and a half will be campaigning for major officers. In last week's BREEZE we attempted to explain the procedure involved in obtaining these candidates. This week our editorial is concerned with pointing out some facts we should keep in mind as we choose the candidates we support.

We, here at Madison, are fortunate in that we practice student government in all its aspects. Students of our choosing lead us in our play, in our making of rules and disciplinary actions. Students lead us in providing means to strengthen our spiritual life and students report to us what is happening and how the majority feel about campus affairs. Still another group of students record our year's activities and progress in such a way that we are allowed to keep it as a record of a year at Madison. Too often we lose sight of these facts, too often we are swayed by unimportant things and forget the real issues. The students we elect on February 24 will be the students who will lead us, in all the important aspects of self-government and expression, not for just a short time—but for an entire year of our college life. They will be our instruments of government and expression. Therefore, look to the important issues at hand, use your own gift of reason and pick the candidates you believe will give those things that will contribute to Madison's progress and your needs. After choosing the candidates you believe will provide all this—then give them your loyal support before and after the election.

Too often we become so involved with wearing campaign slogans and working on exhibits that we forget the need of support after elections. No matter how good your candidates may be they cannot represent you and provide for you if you do not let your needs and desires be known and your support be evident.

Guess what! Mary Washington, a sister college, has recently made plans and has now started on a paperback book store. Madison's plans are progressing and I hope they will be in evidence soon!!!

This past week provided an experience that will long be remembered. The Religious Emphasis Week was most inspiring—its real success will never be known but rather felt for years to come. Our YWCA should feel that they have realized its major function of administering to the spiritual needs of its members.

The French club will provide us with an opportunity to try out our French and learn more about the French play techniques.

Just noticed that today is Friday the 13th!! This is no time to be superstitious—good luck to all the candidates tonight and give us a good campaign!!

Crash Of Transport Over Soviet Union

by Caroline Marshall

The Soviet Union denounced as false this week a tape released by the United States State Department of the fatal attack of Soviet jets on an American transport flying along the Turkish-Armenian border. The crash of the transport is known to have caused the death of six American airmen; the fate of the remaining eleven involved in the incident remains unknown. The State Department has stated that it has been using the tape in an effort to obtain information concerning the eleven airmen who may, it is feared, have been killed also.

The Soviets have been prolific in their scorn of the tape's validity. Soviet leaders have accused the United States of using the tape as an instrument to promote the cold war. The United States has in turn announced that it is shocked that the Soviet Union should refuse to supply information concerning the airmen whose fate is still unknown.

Le Cercle Francais To Present A Comedy, "Les Deux Timides"

Le Cercle Francias will present "Les Deux Timides" ("The Two Timid Ones") on Wednesday, February 18, at the noon assembly. This will take place during National Foreign Language Week which has been designated by President Eisenhower as February 15-21.

Presented entirely in French, this one act play is a comedy written by Eugene Labiche. It tells the story of a young girl, Cecile, who finds herself engaged to a young man, Garadoux, whom she does not love, because her father is so timid he could not refuse the young man when he asked for the hand of Cecile. Cecile loves Monsieur Jules Fremissin who is also very timid. With one bold suitor, one timid suitor, and a very timid father, matters become quite complicated for Cecile, but she solves everything with her quick thinking.

Pat Clements will play the part of Cecile, with Marilyn Thomas playing the part of her father, Monsieur Thibaudier. The role of Garadoux will be portrayed by Jackie Jeffress and Mary Alice Varner will play the timid Monsieur Jules Fremissin. Midge Guy will be the maid, Annette.

Heading the committees for the production are Pattie Lou Jernigan, publicity; Lois Howard, programs; Marilyn Thomas, script; Sonny Spinks, lights; and Brenda Glenn, stage. The play is directed by Marilyn Miller, president of the French club. Dr. Marguerite Woelfel is the adviser.

Interviews Present Job Opportunities

February 20, 1959 will be a day of opportunity for all people who are interested in professional work with the YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

Miss Jane McAfee, assistant in Recruiting in Personnel Policies and Services of the National Board of the YWCA, headquarters, 600 Lexington Avenue, New York City, will interview all young women with the ability and desire to work with people of different ages, races, and faiths, who, as well, have imagination, resourcefulness and concern for Christian and democratic principles. An A. B. degree with some experience in working with groups of people, either through camp counseling or playgrounds, or in campus projects, church or similar programs, also is helpful to those who want to work with the YWCA.

"The YWCA," says Jane McAfee, "is just as interested in the young married woman who wants to combine a work outside the home with marriage as it is those whose wish is for a vocation first, then marriage."

Openings in a variety of professional posts are available throughout the United States—in community YWCA's, on college campuses and in areas to which the new YWCA program is being taken through decentralization. Among the staff needs are teen-age program directors, young adult program directors and health education directors to work with women and girls as well as in co-ed programs.

Interviews may be arranged through the Placement Office. An appointment sheet will be on the bulletin board right outside of the Placement Office under the YWCA symbol.

Students Opinions On Bookstore

by Mary Frances Tyler

Many articles have been written during the past months about establishing a paperback bookstore on campus. A recent survey revealed the following opinions of the student body concerning their actual need and regard for such a service.

Do we really need one? Everyone interviewed stated an affirmative answer. Providing inexpensive copies of interesting and enjoyable books would motivate more reading among the students. Since paperbacks are compact and more easily transported, the student can read during the awkward moments usually consumed by waiting for a class to begin or for a tardy friend to arrive.

What type books would you be interested in purchasing? The most frequent answer to this question was books that pertain to and can be correlated with the students' major. Current best-selling novels and outline aids to the student were definite choices.

How extensive should the bookstore be? Books of academic subject matter from every field of knowledge should be included to aid the student in research. Biographies and fiction for enjoyable reading were often mentioned. On the whole, the students all agreed that it should be limited to only good works of literature, of both research and enjoyment value.

How many books would you buy? Various, less specific answers were received, but everyone stated definitely that they would support such a bookstore. The actual number would depend on how many books the professors would require the student to read and the amount of spare time the student would have.

Comments were varied concerning the location and organization. Popular opinion was that the books should be organized on shelves to facilitate browsing through the various books offered. Because of the problem of making change, it was felt that one person should be available to take the money, rather than having the service completely on the honor system.

Porpoise Club Show To Be Fairy Tales

Porpoise club will present its annual show on Thursday and Friday night, February 19 and 20, at 8 o'clock in Reed pool.

The general theme of the show is based on a collection of fairy tales. Seven numbers will be performed, plus a diving number and a solo by Susan Matthews, president of Porpoise club.

This show is the one major project of the year for the Porpoise club. The purpose of the club is to foster an ability in synchronized swimming and to advance student interest in swimming.

The officers of the club are: Susan Matthews, president; Totsy Anderson, vice president; Sally Ann Lawrence, treasurer; Helen Sullivan, secretary; and Marty Padgett, historian. Miss Leotus Morrison is sponsor of the club.

Snow Starved Ski Fans Are Flocking To Great North Mountain Resort

The problem of no snow has been solved by the use of artificial snow at Shawneeland on the Great North Mountain.

Snow-starved ski fans from the Middle Atlantic states have been flocking in great numbers to the one ski area where they have been assured of that precious white stuff for their favorite sport. It is Shawneeland on Great North Mountain, 11 miles west of Winchester.

The 8,000-acre country club and resort undoubtedly has set some kind of record for ski slopes in the East—the weekend of January 31-February 1 marked the eighth consecutive week end in which skiers enjoyed two full days of skiing.

It is made possible by an artificial snow-making rig using compressed air and mountain stream water. In one night of running, the snowmaker lays down the equivalent of a moderate snowfall.

If the snow drought continues indefinitely, Shawneeland hopes to continue to supply artificial snow for fans, according to Owner Dan Lam-borne.

Sleds away—bring out the racquets, because the weather is cooperating with all tennis enthusiasts. Speaking of tennis, let's all support the student's movement for improving the tennis courts.

Since spring is seemingly drawing near, what action has been taken by the Recreation Council to appropriate the funds necessary so that all students will be able to take advantage of the golfing opportunities extended by the Spotswood Country Club? Such an appropriation would be possible if student interest is displayed.

Before it is forgotten, let's welcome back the seniors who have been away student teaching. Everyone is looking forward to hearing about their experiences.

Now that the studying rush is over, why don't we participate in the intramural sport of our choice. You will never know how much enjoyment can be obtained by participating until you give it a try.

Congratulations to the extramural basketball team in their victory Saturday over Sweetbriar College. May the power of positive thinking continue this winning streak in Saturday's game with Longwood.

Zeta Tau Alpha Is Feature Of Series

Zeta Tau Alpha, located in Lincoln House, originated from Longwood College in October of 1898. With the help of several fraternity men, nine Longwood girls laid the foundation for this organization.

It was decided to call the organization a "fraternity" to distinguish it from high school sororities and honor societies. Therefore, although it is actually a woman's organization, Zeta Tau Alpha is still, technically, a fraternity.

Zeta has grown from this small beginning to become an international organization of 107 chapters and almost 35,000 members, having chapters in Canada and Hawaii.

The Madison chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha was started ten years ago as the local group, Tau Alpha. After one year on campus, this group petitioned the national Zeta organization and, consequently, became the Gamma Kappa chapter of the international fraternity.

Zeta Tau Alpha is the only international sorority (fraternity) on campus. This year's president is Pat Hubers.

The National Cerebral Palsy Foundation receives the support of the Zetas nationally. Also, the members sell magazine subscriptions. The Zeta Tau Alpha Foundation gives scholarships to a number of students each year to aid in their completion of college. Madison's Gamma Kappa chapter gives a scholarship to a Madison student annually in addition to supporting the national scholarships.

Zeta Tau Alpha is divided into provinces for supervision. Gamma Kappa is located in Province number one, along with five other colleges. Every two years a national convention is held, and every three years a national officer visits each local chapter.

This year's Province Workshop will be held here at Madison College with the members of Gamma Kappa as hostesses.

The Gamma Kappa chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha is now in possession of the Panhellenic scholarship cup which is awarded annually. The scholarship average obtained by Gamma Kappa for last year was 2.895.

Next week the BREEZE will bring you the last in its series of articles on sororities.

Attention

The application blanks for the state teachers' scholarships for the 1959-60 regular session and the 1959 summer session have been received from Richmond by the Office of Admissions and Student Aid at Madison. The application blanks have been sent out early so that they may be processed much sooner than in the past.

All students who are now holding the state teachers' scholarships and who have a 2.00 cumulative quality rating should come to Mr. DeLong's office immediately and make an application for the 1959-60 session. Lucky Strike presents —the funniest, easiest way yet to make money!

PUT IN A GOOD WORD AND MAKE $25!

Speak English all your life and what does it get you? Nothing! But start speaking Thinklish and you may make $25! Just put two words together to form a new (and much funnier) one. Example: precision flight of bumblebees: Swarmation. (Note: the two original words form the new one: swarm+formation.) We'll pay $25 each for the hundreds and hundreds of new Thinklish words judged best—and we'll feature many of them in our college ads. Send your Thinklish words (with English translations) to Lucky Strike, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Enclose name, address, college or university, and class. And while you're at it, light up a Lucky. Get the full, rich taste of fine tobacco—the honest taste of a Lucky Strike.
