STRATFORDS PRESENT PLAY—THE BLUFFERS

Dramatic Club Gives First Play of Season Before An Enthusiastic Audience in Sheldon Hall

By eight o'clock Friday evening, November 28, Sheldon Hall was packed with over-excited girls and faculty members. The Stratford Dramatic Club was presenting its first play of the season, at which time five girls made their debut in college dramatic circles. The entire cast is to be commended on its excellent playing and the fact that they kept the audience spell-bound throughout the whole performance.

"The Bluffers" or "Dust In the Eyes" is a light French play written by R. M. George. It is a very realistic interpretation of modern home life, where there just isn't enough money to keep up with the neighbors.

At exactly thirty minutes past eight the curtains were drawn and inside the Malingear home was seen, a happy (?) family group. Mr. Malingear, a doctor, Mme. Malingear, his wife, and their daughter, Emmeline, were discussing such interesting things as the daughter's beau, their neighbor's prospects, and last, but far from least, the fact that Dr. Malingear had a patient that morning. Indeed, great stress must be laid on the fact that Dr. Malingear really had been called up at six o'clock in the morning to see a patient. This was a most unusual event—the first patient in two years.

The Malingears were trying to make a good impression on Frederick Ratinois, since they thought he would be a good "catch" for their daughter. They thought it would be very nice to have such a wealthy, cultured son-in-law. It was very amusing to notice the little devices and deceptions that the Malingears practiced when Frederick's parents came to call on them.

In return, the Ratinois family invited the Malingears to dine with them. They proved to be as ambitious for their son as the Malingears were for their daughter.

Each family was succeeding in throwing dust in the other's eyes, and each was trying its best to outdo the other by just one little bit. Each family was flattering itself that they were to get such a wealthy "child-in-law". When what should happen? Why, Uncle Robert walked in and laughed at them all! He showed them what they were. He wiped the dust from their eyes. But instead of this ending as a tragedy, they all joined arms and went in to dinner, each satisfied with the other.

SOPHOMORES CLAIM B. B. CHAMPIONSHIP

Sophomores Victorious Over Freshmen Who Make Brave Showing. Final Score 21-13

The Harrisonburg gym fairly rocked with the vibrations from the cheers of the upholders of the Sophomore-Freshmen basket ball teams who opposed each other in their annual game November 29. "Pep" meetings during the day and a slight "clash" of colors in the lobby before dinner, gave rise to feeling which, when taken into the gym at 7, filled that none too spacious room to overflowing.

The sight which met the eyes of the spectators when they arrived at the scene of the coming conflict explained the actions of two groups of girls during the afternoon. Streaming from beneath coats of one group might have been seen bits of red and white paper while the others endeavored to conceal green and white colors. They were well repaid for their precautions when they heard the surprised exclamations of the incoming "onlookers", for the gym was indeed beautifully decorated in the two class colors.

Amid the cheers of their supporters the two teams took their places. Well matched in size and both with records of having overcome the other two classes to secure the privilege of playing in this last game, a very exciting game was expected.

The whistle blew! The players swiftly adjusted themselves to the floor, each eyed her opponent and at the second blast of the whistle, sprang into action. A Freshman snatched the ball and in a minute or two, a score was placed on the Freshman side of the scoreboard. A few more moments and again the "red and whites" scored but their record was not destined to stand undisputed for long, for the Sophomores began to score. Wild was the cheering when the score stood 4-4 and wilder yet came the cheers from under the green and white bower when it stood 4-8 for Freshmen.

'Tis a long lane that has no turn and the bend was in sight for the Sophomores again began to roll up the score and at the end of the first half it was 10-14.

During the intermission the cheerleaders, Ruth Wright and Mary Pettus for the "Sophs", Elizabeth Rolston, Bernice Jenkins and Elizabeth De Jarnette for the "Freshies", marshalled their forces onto the floor and kept up a lively battle of yells until time for the time whistle to blow again.

The second half was but the first reenacted with speed and team work raised to the nth power. The score continued to climb with the second year team always in advance until at the end of the last eight minute quarter the score board told a tale of another victory added to the already long list of the Sophomore class—a victory

VIRGINIA EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE IN RICHMOND

Aeolian Banquet For New Members

The first Aeolian Club banquet, which was held in the dining hall on Friday evening, November 28, was a marked success.

The table was arranged in the center of the dining hall, and the Aeolian colors, green and gold, were used for decorating purposes. In the center of the table was a basket of gorgeous chrysanthemums, while the yellow candles at both ends of the table were lighted when the guests came into the dining hall. The place cards were decorated with hand painted copies of the Aeolian Seal and little green ribbons.

All of the members of the music faculty, the charter members and the new members of the club were invited to the banquet. Elizabeth Buchanan and Alice Watts were the only old girls who were able to come back. The other guests who were present were Miss Furlow, Miss Hoffman, Miss Miller, Miss Rush, Miss Trappe; the new members, Thelma Eberhart, Rebecca Kilby, and Helen Walker; and Nancy Mosher, Zelia Wiseman, Katherine Buchanan, Eva Bargelt, Christine Maria, Ruth Kirkpatrick, Frances Hanbury, Margaret Kneisley, Matilda Roane, Veta Draper, Catherine Williamson, and Marion Travis.

At the conclusion of the banquet, several informal talks and toasts were given.

Varsity Squad Chosen

The Varsity squad for the coming season has been chosen and the training tables opened. The squad had its first meeting Monday night at 9:00. In addition to the practice Mrs. Johnston talked to the girls about the work of the season and read them the training regulations. All of last year's players have again "made" the squad and with the splendid material from the new girls, H. T. C. varsity is bound to have another successful season.

Those on the squad are: Centers: Blanche Clore, Frances White, Doris Kelley, Virginia Harvey, Ruth Nickell, Helen Bargamin. Guards: Mary Miller, Sadie Harrison, Lorraine Gentis, Virginia Jackson, Carolyn Weems, Phyllis Jones. Forwards: Jessie Rosen, Wilmot Doan, Elise Taylor, Mary Phillips, Thelma Haga, Virginia Turpin.

Twilight Hour

Twilight Hour last Sunday was in charge of the new members of the Aeolian Music Club. The program was led by Helen Walker. Thelma Eberhart played, "First Mazurka". This was followed by "Caprice Viennois" played by Helen Walker. Rebecca Kilby played "Argonaise", and "Au Matin."

After the program was concluded Marion Travis played Christmas hymns and those who wished to remain, sang.

"Listen patiently to everybody's good counsel and then—forget the most of it as quickly as possible."

Many Members of Faculty and Alumnae Attend Conference. Alumnae and Peabody Banquets Big Features.

The annual Virginia Education Conference was held in the John Marshall High School, Richmond, Virginia, November 25-28. This conference is held to promote education in the state. There were seventy-five departmental group meetings held during the four days of the conference. Great interest is manifested in this conference by thousands of teachers and school officials.

Many members of the Harrisonburg faculty and alumnae took active parts in the meetings. At the meeting of the Department of Grammar Grade Teachers, Dr. John W. Wayland talked on "Training in Good Citizenship." Miss Katherine M. Anthony talked on "Modern Tendencies in the Teaching of Mathematics in the Elementary Grades". In this meeting of the Mathematics Section, of which Dr. H. A. Converse was re-elected president for the coming year, all of the talks centered around the modern tendencies in the teaching of mathematics. A committee was appointed to make a survey of the modern tendencies in the Virginia schools.

Miss Portia Boddie was reelected president of the Department of Kindergarten-Primary Teachers. At this meeting Miss Lucy Gage spoke of "The School Program in Terms of Purposeful Activities. Miss Gage is Associate Professor of Elementary Education, Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. Miss Edna T. Schaeffer is president of the Music Teacher's Section.

Miss Penelope Morgan, a former student of H. T. C., is vice-president of the Virginia Home Economics Section. The chief speakers in this section were Miss Lita Bane, Executive Secretary of American H. E. Association; Miss Emma Gunther, Professor in the Department of H. E. Teachers College, N. Y. C.; Miss Mary I. Barber of Battle Creek, Michigan; and Mrs. O. H. Avery, State Supervisor of Home Economics. Miss Barber's subject was "Opportunities Open to Women in Home Economics Other Than Teaching", and Mrs. Avery's was "The Advantages of the Cottage Plan in Teaching Home Economics.

Mr. Logan was made chairman of the Editorial Committee to get out a bulletin for the English section. Mr. Johnston was especially interested in the meeting of the Science Department. The central idea of this section was the "selling" of science to the laymen or ways and means of getting interest in science back to the people. They want to get the mass of the people to have an interest in science and to realize its importance in their lives. A resolution was passed pledging the science section to support the Journal of Chemical Education, published under the auspices of the Division of Education of the American Chemical Society. This magazine is especially interested in the standardizing of courses in science in high schools and colleges. There is also a social side to these

Let's Try!

Examination time is drawing near;
Frightful things will soon be here,
Bringing sorrows and much hard work
To all those girls who dared to shirk.

Are you one of those girls? Will you have to cram and jam on the night before final exams? If you are—My!
Won't you envy the lucky girls who believe in "work, for the night is coming"? Yes, it is hard to believe, but there are some of us who daily toil till our fingertips are sore, well knowing what a grand and glorious feeling it is to be able to met one of the aforesaid "frightful things" face to face without flinching. Are you going to stop "putting off until tomorrow what you can do today"?

Get Busy! Let's try!

Consider Consideration

Consideration for the rights and feelings of others is not merely a rule for behavior in public but it is the one thing which more than any other action keeps the wheels of social intercourse oiled and working smoothly.

Girls, do you think we realize that when we coldly nod to some other's cheery "hello" that we, nine cases out of ten, hurt that girl more deeply than if we had slapped her sharply in the face? Is that consideration for the feelings of others?

Some girls in the back of the library keep up a continual buzz of conversation—not in a loud tone, not in a whisper, but just that disturbing hum.
Others are trying to work, especially as examination time draws near. The library is an institution for the studious, not the loquacious. Is that consideration for the rights of others?

This seems like public life, doesn't it but we may easily apply them to the more intimate phases of school life.
Do we always consider the roommate who wants to study when we want to talk or have company? Do we always remember that even yet some new girl may not have adapted herself to the life here and that maybe we can help her over some rough place?

In short, to keep in mind our friends and schoolmates and do nothing that will either annoy or offend them sums up the principal rules for conduct.

Six Cylinder Love

A movie, "Six Cylinder Love", was given in Sheldon Hall, November 29, for the benefit of the Athletic Association.

The story was that of two young people, just married and still very much in love. He rashly promised her anything she wanted. Then the trouble began when they bought a car. Bills mounted higher and higher, till they had to sell their home and even their car. But everything turned out all right in the end.

conferences. The events of most interest to those from H. T. C. are the Alumnae Luncheon and the Alumni Dinner of George Peabody College for Teachers. The latter was held in Murphy's Hotel this year. Those from the H. T. C. faculty who attended this dinner were Mrs. Moody, Miss Anthony Miss Boddie, Miss Post and Mr. Logan.
Miss Anthony was elected chairman of the Peabody Alumnae Dinner for next year.

To those at H. T. C., one of the biggest things of Thanksgiving week is the annual Alumnae banquet which is held in Richmond. This banquet is arranged by the Richmond chapter of the H. T. C. alumnae.

The Blue Room of Hotel Richmond was the scene of the feast this year.
Mr. Johnston, who was asked to act as toastmaster, asked each alumnae to rise and identify herself.

President Duke commended the alumnae for their help to the school and told of the plans that have been completed and of those he hopes to complete.

Others who spoke were Miss Emma Gunther, of Teachers College, N. Y. C., and Dr. Thomas Alexander, from Columbia. Dr. Alexander spoke of his visit to Harrisonburg, and of the impression he received here. Gertrude Bowler enthusiastically gave as one of the finest things at Harrisonburg the friendly relations of faculty and students.

During the meal, a telegram from the North Carolina alumnae was read.
The girls sent their Thanksgiving greetings to those at the banquet.

At the close of the meeting, "Blue Stone Hill" and "Auld Lang Syne" were sung. As they parted, each expressed the wish to be able to meet again next year.

Those present at the luncheon were Samuel P. Duke, Dr. John W. Way-

Moral for College Girls

It was the day of the school concert and the audience consisted mainly of mothers, proud and envious, according to the parts that their children were playing.

One small boy came on the platform;
striking a bold attitude he began:

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your ears!"

Whereupon one of the mothers turned to her companion.

"There, that's the Joneses' boy", she said tartly. "He wouldn't be his mother's son if he weren't trying to borrow something."

Beware Teachers

The children were reading a story about a little girl named Patience. An ex-H. T. C. student took quite a few minutes explaining the meaning of patience. Just as she was certain that the children had "gotten the point", a little boy, whose father was a naval doctor, frantically waved his hand.

"Miss Leigh, are you sure that is the right meaning?"

"Why certainly."

"Well, it's not true with my daddy's patients!"

One—I declare I can't read my writing after it gets cold.

Nother—Probably that is why you get better marks in early fall and late spring than you do in the winter months!

"When do the leaves begin to turn?"
"Before examinations."

Referee—Foul!

Freshie—I don't see any feathers."

Soph—This is a picked team."

Practice teacher—What do you do to keep your shoes looking nice?

Bright pupil—Varnish them.

Sing a song of luck

Wouldn't it be great

If Xmas came two times a year?

But 'taint a college girl's fate!

Doris (at Breeze Staff meeting)—
This is the second time this evening that the monitor has called us down for making too much noise, so won't you please, Katie, stop chewing that gum so expressively?

Jean (looking with amazement at Evelyn's "iodined" neck)—Evelyn, I know you are right sick, but you aren't too sick to wash your neck, are you?

Warning!

Hickory, Dickory Dock,

The hands fly around on the clock.

Work and then play.

Do this every day.

And you'll have no good reason to knock!

"Life's a jest, indeed I know it
I thought so once but now I show it."

TOM SAYS—

Thirteen may be an unlucky number but he is plenty glad there are only thirteen more days before Christmas holidays begin.

Chapel

Wednesday, November 26: Dr.
Gruver, pastor of the U. B. Church of Harrisonburg, conducted the devotional exercises. He then talked of his trip to the Mediterranean countries, telling especially of the statues, monuments, and the tombs of the kinds of Egypt.

Friday, November 29: Mr. Shorts led the opening services. The quartette from the William's Colored Singers visited the school. They have toured in Europe and over the United States. Rev. Austin, pastor of the colored church of Harrisonburg, introduced the singers. The selections they gave were "The Old Oaken Bucket",
"My Love's Own", and "An Imitation of the Calliope".

Monday, December 1: After the devotional exercises, Mr. Chappelle introduced Professor Emma Gunther of the Department of Home Economics of Teachers College, N. Y. C. She spoke especially of the opportunities for "give and take" service in the life of today.

Thanksgiving Morning Watch Service

As the sun was peeping over the top of Massanutten Mountain last Thursday morning and glinting on the frosted campus a group of girls gathered in the reception room of Alumnae Hall to hold a morning watch service. The early hour gave a quiet solemnity to the ceremony. A Psalm of praise read by the leader, Janie Harrison, opened the services. Doris Persinger read a beautiful Thanksgiving poem. In the sentence prayers which followed the girls spoke of the many things for they are thankful. The playing of "Traumeri", a pipe-organ solo, on the victrola was an unusual musical feature.

The program was under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. It is the first of its kind ever held in the school but so impressive was it and so much enjoyed by the girls that the Y. W. is now planning to hold more watch services in the future.

Sunday Y. W.

A song service was the feature of the Sunday evening Y. W. program.
The devotional exercises were conducted by Virginia Wiley. After two hymns by the entire body of students, Juanita Baldwin gave a vocal solo—
"Just As I Am."

In keeping with the approaching holidays a Christmas hymn was sung.
The services were closed with the Y.
W. Benediction.

Turkey, Etc.

Thanksgiving Day dinner at H. T.
C. was a festive affair. The girls and their guests gathered around tables laden with good things to eat. "Professor Turkey Gobbler" was the guest of honor but Cran Berries and Mincemeat Pie were nearly as popular.

The piano had been brought into the dining hall and after the last course had been served the lively notes of a popular tune brought several venturesome students to their feet. Members of the faculty sanctioned the act by joining the dancers and soon many gay couples were on the floor.

After about eight dances a Thanksgiving song was started and the dining hall fairly rang with the singing.

Faculty and students alike seemed to have a very enjoyable time. Those girls who were away for the holidays can not know how to appreciate a Thanksgiving dinner in Harrisonburg.

New Aeolian Members

Fortunate indeed, is the Aeolian Music Club in having secured for membership Rebecca Kilby, Thelma Eberhart and Helen Walker. These girls met Monday, November 24th, and creditably passed the entrance examination of the Club. This examination was taken before the entire club and several members of the music faculty, Miss Shaeffer, Miss Hoffman, Miss Trappe and Miss Rush.

The entrance requirements for this honorary Club are as follows:

1. The applicant must be a member of the music department of this college taking private lessons in piano, voice, violin or pipe organ.
2. The applicant must have had some experience in playing in public recitals.
3. The applicant must be recommended by the teacher in charge.
4. She must pass an entrance examination which has been made out by the members of the music faculty, approved by the Club, and which is taken before at least three of the Advisory members and before the Club.
5. The applicant must pledge her loyalty to the Club and signify her willingness to take part in all of the activities of the Club.
6. The applicant must make at least an average of "c" on all of her class work.

This year another requirement has been added to the above list, in accordance with the original purpose of raising the standards of the club whenever it is advisable and practicable to do so. This requirement is:

7. The applicant must have had at least one quarter's work in harmony, or its equivalent, before applying for entrance into the Club.

The examination which was taken by these girls consisted of notation, major scales in several rhythms and in thirds, sixths and tenths, and harmonic, melodic and natural minors. Besides these things, each girl presented a program which displayed her technical and interpretative ability. These programs consisted of the following numbers:

THELMA EBERHART

Opus 299 Czerny
Opus 299—Number Eleven Czerny

The Aeolian Music Club was established in this college in March, 1924. There were eighteen charter members, and these three girls are the first to come into the club. The first year girls will not be taken in until some time after the beginning of the winter quarter.

Anyone meeting the requirements for entrance into the Club, and showing that she has both technical and interpretative ability may become a member of the Club. Invitations to join the Club are not sent out. On the contrary, the members of the musical faculty recommend the names of students who can meet the necessary requirement. Entrance is based upon ability, not upon popularity.

Lyceum Program

Several hundred girls "wended their way" to Sheldon Hall December 5, at 8:30 p. m. to the play, "The Cotter's Saturday Night". This musical and dramatic production was suggested by the famous poem of Robert Burns.

The scene was laid in the kitchen of a typical Scotch lowland home. The open fireplace, shining pot and kettles gave a cheerful appearance to the room. John Anderson, the cotter, and his elder bairns came in from their work to spend the Saturday evening in story, play and song. The cotter and a neighbor played a game of chess in the chimney corner while the wife prepared the evening meal.

When they were gathered around the fireplace the rich voices blended well in singing the old Scotch favorites, "Annie Laurie", "Loch Lomond", "Scots Wha Hae", "John Anderson, My Jo", and "A Man's a Man For A' That".

The dry humor, the bright plaids, the fiddle music, left a true Scotch feeling which caused more than one girl to go back across the campus humming, "On the bonnie, bonnie banks of Lock Lomond."

Harrisonburg High vs. Charlottesville High

The Harrisonburg High School girls lost their basketball game with the Charlottesville High School team on the college gym Friday night, November 28. Despite the hard fight put up by the local team the score stood 17-10 at the end of the last half.

The team made a good showing in this, their second varsity game of the season, and are indeed a credit to their coach, Wilnot Doan. Wilnot is doing part of her student teaching in physical education, and the basket ball players are her particular charges.
