Progress And Madison

Now that the 1938-39 session is well under way and the problems of student adjustment have been minimized, we believe that the college and its administration are next in the line of editorial fire. When the present student body entered Madison in the fall of 1938, it possessed the same qualities as Madison possessed in its establishment as the State Normal and Industrial School in 1908, we find but one word to describe the present body's feeling—and the word is PRIDE.

The first students entered in this college in 1909, and during the past three years, more than 14,000 students have taken work here. Over 3,000 of these have gone out as graduates. The present student body is a group of women who, the largest enrollment in the school's history.

 pupils. A. J. lunar. Now head of V. P. L. and Dr. Samuel P. Duke, president of Madison since 1919, have directed this institution's destinies.

During their past thirty-four months and a student enrollment of 399 for the nine-month session. Under his administration, the faculty has increased from three to thirty. The campus now covers 62 acres and its physical plant is valued at $2,000,000. Construction on a $53,000 heating plant is now in progress, and plans for a $140,000 library are nearing completion.

Reports of the state superintendent of public instruction show the contribution of the college to the educational program of Virginia. During the last three years it has granted more professional-collegiate certificates to teachers, than any other college or university in the state.

The present student body has a greatly expanded program of activities—scholastic, athletic, social and cultural. Its members also enjoy a varied curriculum which includes voice and piano courses in home economics, and an expanding course in commercial education, besides the regular teacher-training course.

Such far-reaching developments are the result of administrative vision and the ability and determination to carry them out.

With such a well-equipped, progressive college as our alma mater it is little wonder that we are all enthusiastic over the fine results it produces here. We can, therefore, with pride, say that Madison and we'd like Madison to be proud of us.

Get Your Mail

"All things come to him who waits," at least, that's what we've been hearing all our lives, but the past few weeks have led us to believe otherwise. We are all under the impression that the Post Office which has caused serious delay in putting the mails away, on schedule.

Fortunate that a certain degree of pandemonium is always attendant upon the opening of school, we also believe that both students and Post Office employees should really be too busy getting themselves organized to have the mails up on schedule. Since an efficient system has not yet been worked out, it is apparent that the Post Office is understaffed for its present needs. In efficiency all that he demanded in the coordination of the various representatives of the four powers met at Munich on the following day.

Briefly, the outcome of the conference was this: Hitler got practically all that he demanded in the Godgesburg ultimatum, but without the necessity of taking direct action against Czechoslovakia. The leaders of immediate war was removed, for England, France, and the United States had promised to fight with Czechoslovakia if Germany took direct action against it. Chamberlain, Daladier, and Mussolini, triumphanty returning to their capitals with what they considered "peace with honor," were jocularity welcomed by their peoples. Sharp contrast with the rejoicing in these countries was the bitter resignation prevalent in Czechoslovakia. Abandoned and betrayed by their friends, she was forced to submit to the dictations of a conference at which she was not even represented. The representatives of the four powers met at Munich on the following day.
