The Wagnerian Festival brings a group of five to the world's Young Violets. It will appear in Williams Auditorium on Monday, November 14, as the second number on the Lyceum Course. This is a modernized show under the direction of Giselle Bamborough, who was first student at the Kupstal College for seventeen years. Their accompanist, Harri Beno, is also noted as a composer and conductor. He studied at Bryn Mawr, Virginia, and has been the winner of the Pulaski Award for orchestral composition in 1931.

This is the 150th anniversary season of the birth of Richard Wagner, of whom it has been said, "Wagner was the most sublime genius of the entire 19th century, a great man of the 19th century". His music has been enjoyed by millions for seventy years. Their accompanist, Harri Beno, is also noted as a composer and conductor. He studied at Bryn Mawr, Virginia, and has been the winner of the Pulaski Award for orchestral composition in 1931.

Are You Educated?

Your answer will probably be an emphatic "Yes," or an important "I'm not by this time, I certainly ought to be." But stop and think it over for awhile. We've been doing just that since listening to Professor Robert Slaughter's talk in chapel last Monday, and we've reached the conclusion that his description of a better-educated person is a worthy ideal for every student and faculty member on this campus to follow. Because in the true sense of the word, education is not a means to an end, but a real goal whose pursuit is the occupation of every worthwhile lifetime.

Involves so much more than a certificate or degree, yet most of us sit back in all our snugness and bask in the delusion of the idea that Mr. Slaughter's eight qualifications for a better-educated person: 1. He is dominated by constancy of purpose. Has a variety of intellectual interests and is a person who has balance, good judgment and culture.
2. He is good at work; he is thorough, has system, organization and method.
3. He believes that a spiritual faith is the real foundation of a worthwhile education. Faith in something greater and beyond gives him courage, peace, self-control and the power that comes from within.
4. He is a modest, humble being—one who is grateful for the opportunity to give himself. He knows every man he meets is in some way superior.
5. He is dominated by constancy of purpose. Has a variety of intellectual interests and is a person who has balance, good judgment and culture.

Little Pepper Relates Off-Stage Experiences

By JULIA ANN FLOHR

On Saturday afternoon the usually bare uninviting dressing-room backstage in Wilson Auditorium glowed and acquired a Betty Ann Florry personality—the same magnetic charm which had captivated them all as a pretty little doll on the boardwalk at Atlantic City twelve years before.

"I loved dancing so much," explained this petite actress as she pulled on Phronsie's tattered shoes and to pull on a quaint little dress. "So I grew up and went to school like any other child," she continued, still flushed with pleasure from the retelling and reliving of her unusual experience. "I enjoyed most my years at Oak Lane, an experimental school of progressive education, sponsored by Temple University in Philadelphia, my home city, incidentally. Oak Lane allowed us freedom of thought and work and I think that is more than ever we lived in each period. For instance, when we took up the Elizabethan Age, I chose drama, and the project, I built a miniature theatre of buzzwords.

All the while she was deftly combing her hair and rolling it into curls on her fingers. "Though I played in A Mid-Summer Night's Dream with a professional group of Philadelphia, that was in high school. But girls are more understanding than men—to a certain extent," she said with a swift of her skirts.

"I enjoy this sort of work," she replied with animation, "I like Harrisonburg, three things in particular: the mountains, your Southern accent, and Dr. Trexler—he's charming."

Fifty-Four Guests Attend October Birthday Dinner; Rotarians Will Entertain

A BURLEON address has been given by Agnes Arnold, Chairman of the Social Commit- tee, that the orchestra for the second annual dinner of the Student Senate will hold on October 28 at 7:30 for the Juniors and Seniors and their dates are Ray Frye’s Vanity Fair under the torchlight of the big dancing, which will be open to Freshmen and Sophomores, has not been decided, but will most likely be decided upon in the next week.

October Birthday

The first in the series of annual birthday dinners was held last night in help, Studenten and Senior Dining Halls. Approximately fifty-four students ate at the banquet table. The faculty guests were Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Duke, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Logan, Miss Clara O. Turner; Mrs. Annie B. House; Mrs. M. R. Slattery; Miss Pearl O’Neil; Miss Julia Robinson; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Boyd, Miss Gladys Goodman, and Miss Ethel Spilmann.

Social Committee acted as hostesses, while dinner music was furnished by the Aeolian Club.

The banquet tables were decorated with orange-colored candelas and fresh cut flowers. The plate cards were of a Hallowe’en design.

Rotary Club Gives Banquet

The Harrisonburg Rotary Club will entertain the daughters and daugh- ters of Rotarians who attended this college at a dinner on October 24 at the Harrisonburg Rotarian Banquet.

The time set for the occasion is 7:15. A large number of members of the ‘37 class, who are married to men in the laboratories at Salonas Island, will be present. The ballroom will be illuminated with everything that can possibly be done to give the occasion a Hallowe’en spirit.

The orchestra for the an- nual dinner of the Student Senate will be quartered in the Social Receptio

Schoolma'am Issued Plans
Emma Rand, business manager of The Schoolma'am, issued the following statement concerning the budget for the annual for 1937-38:

"A large proportion of a college magazine is devoted to the underwriting of student talent. Our production department, which is the true heart of the Schoolma'am, is under the guidance of Mr. Robert Coppridge, who has been in charge of the magazine for the past three years. He is an expert in the field of magazine production and has been responsible for the success of the Schoolma'am."

The Schoolma'am is published by the Student Senate of the University of Virginia, and is distributed to all students free of charge.

Photographer To Arrive Oct 31
Individual pictures-taking for the Schoolma'am will begin on October 28. A schedule will be posted with the hours the photographer will be available. When a student signs up for a session, she is urged not to be late; instead of dragging, pastel shade transfers will be used.

Readin' and Writin'
By Evelyn Brown and Mary J. Wright
We are beginning to believe that maybe the colorful denominations of the various radio stations are correct. "State that an announce," "quaint," "unrewarded," and "unattended," have been flying thick and fast. Yet we vote unanimously for Thanksgiving strings or no strings. Thanks a million, fellow.

For some close harmony we suggest you get a stick of the girls in Westhampton. They really know how to renovate those old-fashioned tunes or get in on some swing numbers. We bet a sample of it at the page party —it sounded like more! And if you really want to hear some old tunes, "They call me Moonlight," the girl, and "Honeysuckle Rose" to her extra-special membership.

Are you planning to go up Massanutten Peak tomorrow? If you're contemplating that trip you must get some advice from last week's adventure. We hear you won't need to dress up warmly. "You will be enough to fire a furnace—and don't forget a "thole. (This is not a paid advertisement—just an idea.) Just burn your rosaries' riding pants and tell her to have the bed made when you get back—and you'll be ready for it. Have a good time!

Madison went up V.P.I. in a big way. But they all got better. So they went up."
