Included in the plans is a mock trial to be held Monday at noon in Wilson Auditorium. This will be the Christmas assembly on December 9.
Consider Your Waitress

"May we have more milk?" "Seconds on meatloaf, please?"
These are the frequent cries of the hungry Madisonites during mealtime. The answer in most cases is in the negative, for almost all tables are composed of some twenty-seven girls. Each table must be served by the waitress before each table's choice of seconds. Certain helpful tips will remember you will benefit you as well as the waitresses. During both breakfast and lunch the dishes can be stacked at the end of the meal; this enables the waitresses to have an easier time when she begins to remove the dishes.

The waitresses are not expected to receive all of the services that she does in a public eating place on campus, as waitresses also have classes to attend after the meals. Therefore, students should not loiter at the tables any longer than necessary.

Keeping these in mind, each individual should realize that a waitress can only do one thing at a time. We should respect her and give her all the help we can in making her job as easy for her as possible.

Extra mural basketball started out on the right foot as quite a few participants showed up for try-outs. However, there is still time to come out in case you were unable to come out this week. The team practices Monday and Friday at 4:30 and Wednesday at 7:00. The first few weeks of practice will be devoted to brushing up on skills and techniques. Seniors away student teaching will also be given an opportunity to try out for the team when they arrive back on campus.

For those of you spending your first year at Madison—no one, regardless of their standing on past teams at Madison, automatically becomes a member of the team. Each girl is given an equal opportunity to become a member of the team. Selections are made by Miss Crawford after giving the girls a fair amount of time in which to show their ability to play basketball.

DAY STUDENTS are also encouraged to come out and try out for the team.

While the extra mural activity seems to be doing fine the intramural sports are definitely on the decline. Both fencing and volleyball have fewer participants each time they meet despite the fine job being done by the sports leaders. However, these girls can hardly show what they are capable of if the participation keeps falling. To make these activities a success they need the support of the students—which they are obviously not getting.

The freshmen had their swimming meet Tuesday night. This is something new and from its apparent success it will be continued next year.

Until the next time remember—"It takes a long time to bring excellence to maturity."
