----A WORD TO LANDLORDS .- The New York Standard in referring to the summer flight of so many Americans to Europe, takes the occasion to say a few words to the laudlords, who, it declares, are actually driving away renumerative customers by their greed. While there are places, within two or three hundred miles of our large cities, possessing abundant attractions, thou

They assert that so high are the hotel charges at our own watering places and mountain resorts that they cannot afford to seek health and a summer's pleasure at home. FOOTSTEPS. In the quiet hour of gloaming, When the hugh is upon the earth, When the stars gleam out and the low winds moan I sit and listen-listen alon;
By the side of the desolate hearth.

I listen, but not to the homeless leaves, As they drift 'gainst the window pane; Nor the soughing wind from the firer, whed hill, Nor the sigh and set of the swellen rill, Nor the whisper of car less rain.

I listen, I listen, and but to hear The footsteps that fall a ound; The footsteps that gladdened my life of yore, The footsteps that seek my side no more, That fall on no earthly ground.

The tiny steps of my first born Come pattering quick and soft; He had trod like a man, had he stared, by this, Yet oh I yearn for the baby kins, He tottered to give so out.

It's firm tread rings out gallantly, Just as it wont to do,
When I used to spring from this same low seat, The corner I loved the best to greet,

As he strode through the evening dew.

Slow and heavy, and quiet and light The echoes around me come,
The steps that through youth's gay footpaths rang'd, Of friends forgotten, of friends estranged, Who once made life and home.

Ah well, poor salvage from the wreck All memory saves and stores,
Yet the sounds that people the sweet Past's dreams Are dearer to me than the light that gleams On the lonely Present's shores. All the Year Round.

A Man Who Will Never Shave Again.

A worthy citizen of Evansville, Ind. undertook to trim his beard a short time since, and by a slip of the seissors, spoiled the ent. He trimmed a little more, and still more, but it would look lopsided; so he went to the bar-bers and got shaved for the first time in twelve years. He was very busy, and the business detained him in his office until a late hour of the night, and when he went home he found that his family had retired. This was not an unusual occurrence, so he silently antered by means of a pass key, sought his own room, and undressed without lighting the gas. He had hardly got into bed when his wife astonished him by uttering a loud and prelonged scream. He was very much alarmed for her, and feared she had lost her reason. He implored her to tell him what was the matter.

At the sound of his voice, she screamed—"Oh! Edward, come quick! and save me."

"I am here, dear," said he, but she screamed the louder at the words. He sprang out of the bed, and had just struck a light, when his brotherin law, a muscular six footer, rushed into the room and fired a revolver at his head. Luckily it missed, but his fist did not, for in a minute a pale-faced man, with a long white robe staggered under a blow that doubled the size of his organ of comparison.

"My God!" exclaimed the kusband. "are you are crazy?" "Bless my heart!" exclaimed the muscular brother-in-law, "if it ain't Ned himself! Why, what on earth tempted you to get yourself up in that style?" "What style?" asked the much abused husband, as he rubbed the growing lumps on less for chead "Why when did you shave?" It was all clear to him then. His wife had put up her hand in the dark, and meeting the shaved face of a man, took her husband for an intruder. She recognized ais voice at first, but the second time he spoke her terror was too great, and she fainted. When the brother-in-law rushed in he saw a thin faced man, with a slightly bald head, in a long white robe, and in his rage at the supposed outrage, fired at him, missed, and then knocked him down with his fist. Fortunately, his voice saved the husband from a second shot. His wife received from her faint only to faint again at the recognition of her nusband's shaven face and the pistol Matters were finally straightened up at home, but on the street his friends passed without speaking, and at the bank he was not only refused payn ont of a draft, but threatened with arrest for signing his own name in endorsing it. Of course a little explanation brought the various affairs all right, but it took so much time to explain, and for the contusion on his forehead to get well, that the aforesaid citizen rows he will never share again, as he considers it a habit dangerous to peace, and even to life.

All is silence, gloom and death." The Dead Sea, as seen by us, bore quite a different aspect. For miles along the shore we rode through a thicket of shrubbery and willows, as green as we have found anywhere, and among the prettiest flowers we carry with us are some we plucked on the shores of the Dead Sea. That the waters are heavy and bitter, is true, for we tested them in bathing, but that they are rarely ruffled we cannot believe, as at the time of our visit there was but little breeze, yet their waves splashed on the pebbly beach, and in the distance their white crests looked like so many white Swans .-Boston Traveller. Youth and maiden plied whips also without stint, and kept a good lead, but upon overtaking them in turn the train passengers could see by the straightened neck and panting side that the good steeds could not bear the pace much longer. The girl's dishevelled tresses stream back in the breeze like a banner of golden threads; the hatless youth encouraged her and the horses with cheering shouts, and the passengers cheered both in the heartiest possible way. The locomotive was gauged to keep alongside at first; but presently the overtaxed animals of the lovers plainly stackened their speed, and the figure of the pursuing sire grew ominously neaver. Then the excitement of the travellers reached fever-heat; men shouted and swung hats, women screamed, and the engineer whistled-and all to no avail, for the horses could do no more. A moment it seemed that paternal vengeance must win the day; and then, by a happy inspiration, the passengers roared for the train to stop and take the fainting lovers aboard. Down with the brake it was in an instant; the cars were brought to the quickest possible halt; and the youth, maiden, saddlebegs, and carpet-sacks were dragged on board by friendly hands just as the stern old man on the great flyinghorse, came near enough in his cloud of dust to be heard ordering surrender. Then screamed the whistle again, and away flew the train like mad, leaving the enraged father to shake fist and pistol impotently at its cheering human freight. Anxious to encourage him in his early piety, the man took him over to the stand of an old Presbyterian deacon who had the much-coveted books in charge. He introduced him to the deacon, telling him the circumstances. He praised the boy very highly; was delighted to see a young man so early seeking after the truth, etc., and presented him with the best bound Bible in his collection. He says that at Chapel Hill in 1846 a young gentleman from Raleigh (and now a prominent citizen of that city) made a weak attempt to cultivate a moustache, and it raised such a commotion in college that the Faculty took hold of it and sent the Rev. Dr. Deems, now of New York, and then one of the board, to the young man to reason with him, and get him to shave his upper lip. The doctor appealed to, the young man, for the sake of his sainted father, "to cut it off," and if not for his sake, for God's sake, "to cut it off." And the hairs disappeared. Only sports

Jaly 1, 1872 CAUSES OF BANGER TO THE PERMA-

NEWCY OF GOVERNMENT.

Senator Thurman, in his great University speech, discusses the dangers impending the Government of the United States. Negroes, Territorial extent, Federal centralization, he considers in relation to the present conditions and future mutations. The first the people's edict. Flournoy, of the he properly does not regard as inimical. He estimates them in numerical ratio with the white population, and concludes their inability to do harm om their weakness in numbers. We ave no fear of the negro as a race; com his ignorance and impressibilty here is danger, as there is danger from he ignorance and impressibility whenover it exists in a voter, unless he is vigilantly enlightened as to his duty and interests. He has a ballot and every ballot when improperly exercised, is so much force thrown against constitutional barriers, and white men can throw bad ballots too as well as black. Under the dominion of the carpetbagger, the negro could be marched to the polls and induced to vote for any proprosition or candidate, with a few honorable exceptions.

It was a natural mistake; he could not distinguish the political adventurer who came down here to rob in the name of freedom, from the philanthropist who advocated it as a principle. That they are not the same, he should be informed, and he is open to conviction. He should know that being equal, before the law, with the white man, there is no political antagonism between the races by reason of color. The South's acceptance of Greeley should convince him of this. The Government is designed to be administered for the benefit of all. The prosperity of the white Southern man is essential to that of the Southern black man. There is danger from ballots under the universal suffrage rule where the hand that casts them is not guided by intelligent minds.

Federal centralism and State rights have been in continuous struggle from the days of the revolution. We must maintain the latter by the force of ideas, and assiduous indefatigable effort to disseminate and inculcate truth.-We have a cordon of independent of which can recede or secede, and each must perish or flourish in the fixed relation which it bears to the whole. We have had our say on Secession and lost. State glory and State J. R. Tucker, now professor of law at the Washington and Lee University, delivered the most philosophic address and the most eloquent in connection therewith, we have ever heard or ever

The vast territorial extent of our country was not considered by Mr. Madison and Mr. Hamilton as adverse to the permanency of our Government. Mr. Thurman appeared to differ with these distinguished statesmen. We should not confound a republican Constitutional Government with that of purely Democratic. The last is the voice of a whole people—an irrepresible absolutism. The first is a federation of States, each possessed with a local government, and all appointing a common government for the promotion of the general welfare, with its powers distinctly defined in a written Richmond, the proceedings of which charter. A pure democracy could not C. A. Yancey, a delegate gives as fol exist in an area such as the United States, but a republican government gains elements of strength and harmony therefrom.

One active, powerful, fearful agency, now at work in the North, more fraught with evil than any other, Mr. Thurman did not advert to: we mean the strikes of laborers against capital or vice versa wherever it occurs; the intensified and concentrated manifestations of the Trades Unions; the 100,000 of men who have laid down their hammers, and planes, and work- name. He was re-nominated by Mr. ing tools, and invited the hundreds of McMullen, of Greene, and the vote thousands of laborers in the North to unite with them in forcing terms from capital, and in establishing a universal rule of labor which no one member can violate. We will treat this in an extended paper hereafter.

The fires of civil war burn wildly among these fierce spirits; the heart of the French revolutions glow in their organizations, and unless restrained and like causes continue to produce like effects, the bloody tragedies of Paris may one day be transferred to the streets of New York City.

The speech of Senator Thurman has the ring of the true metal, and it is gratifying to see he has kept his soul white of sin, and his hands clear of the corruption which hangs as a blighting mildew, over all the highways and byways of political life.

THE RICHMOND CONVENTION.

Virginia has spoken, and as become her glorious traditions, her magnani-

She locks shields with all her sister States who rally around the banner emblazoned with the principles of constitutional liberty.

The material composing the Convention defies the assault of the caviller. Fresh from the people with their instructions still lingering on the ear, some of the best men in Virginia assembled in Richmond and announced old Whig line, was there, and Baldwin, of the Valley, and Kemper, true as the Confederate sword he sheathed: the eloquent Douglass and the brilliant Goode; and Governor Smith, with his seventy years complete, but still the eloquent orator of Virginia, and others of equal capacity, with uncovered heads, pledging themselves in holy alliance to attempt the overthrow of their country's oppressor, and the rescue of the Government from the thrall of tyranny.

Casting aside the debris and fossils of ancient partizanship, and grappling alone with vital issues in the active present, they announce their readiness to unite with all men who have buckled on their armor to do battle for the right.

The protest, made long ago in the OLD COMMONWEALTH, they announce, as the voice of Virginia, and her delegates go to Baltimore to cast her decision in opposition to a separate candidacy of the Democracy, and in recommendation of Horace Greeley to the support of the party for the Presidency.

The Enquirer of July 1st, contains a letter from Gen. Wise, addressed to Col. Mosby.

The letter is too long to publish in this issue. From the pen of Governor Wise its English and construction must necessarily be good, but far below, we think, his average productions.

The patriotism and genius of Henry A. Wise, and his devotion to popular rights, have earned for him the title of "tribune of the people." He has a warm place in the hearts of the people of this

The citizens of Virginia, never-theless, have always thought for themselves; they are just a little stubborn on this question of free volition, and happen just now to believe that if they could honorably agree to renew their States in our federature system, no one citizenship with the United States Government, and live as citizens under its protection, that it is their duty to receive all the benefits of this condition, and not invite its disadvantagesto advance the good, and to repudiate rights must be vindicated in the Fed- the evil. Gen. Wise thinks Virginia should repudiate Grant and Greeley. Colonel Mosby expresses preference for the former over the latter. The Conservative party, generally, prefer Greeley to Grant, and all have a right to independence of thought.

We call the attention of that portion of the State machinery which watches over the destinies of this District, to the Congressional canvass. We have at least, four candidates in the field now. The distribution of the Conservative numbers among so many may make the election of a Republican possible. The votes of the latter, are estimated at between six and seven thousand, and the former about twice that number. The Conservative party do not desire to give a chance to any Republican, and we demand of the committee presiding over this District, to issue a call for a Convention to nominate a

THE GRANT REPUBLICAN MEETING LAST SATURDAY

Was weak in numbers but strong in faith. The whites were mostly officials, and the colored heavy tax-payers. B.B. Botts, Esq., presided, and in appropriate terms stated the object of the meet-

The speeches, which were very decent efforts and free from scurrility, were distributed into two branches—the useful and the ornamental. Under the former operated Register Gray, who being the returned delegate from Philadelphia, described the affecting scenes there witnessed. The yells for Grant; his effigy on horseback, and the horseback effigy under Grant; how he voted for Colfax, and how Wilson beat Colfax at the last, and how certain Wilson is to stand in his shoes eventu-

Col. Gray, U. S. M., did the ornamental. In the empyrean soared his eagle, and spreading his wings over the Galena tan-yard—a spot sacred to all maudlin philosophy. American hearts-filled the air with such screamings as only leather can inspire. Indeed Col. Gray's Admiration for leather was only equalled by his devotion to coal, in which business, he informs us, Horace Greeley was once engaged.

His allusion to the shop in Bostonevery place in Boston is a shop, a music store, or an Unitarian Church-where Wilson first drew his coat, was most pathetic, and excited much emotion among the audience, and the touching incident in the history of the worldwhen even as a child, Grant ground the red oak bark to tan the lovely bulls hides—caused the big heart of a clerk

Senator Lewis made a few remarks in which he promised a speech hereafter. He appears to have been at one time quite in harmony with Greeley, except that he could not endorse Greeley's abolition views. It affords us pleasure to state the meeting behaved with commendable propriety.

Col. Gray's speech, though politically absurd, was quite pretty, and his brother's was sensibly put.

THE STOKES-FISK TRIAL.

The trial of Stokes for the murder of Fisk is progressing in New York

The evidence, thus far, proves the shooting by Stokes, of Fisk conclusively, and the subsequent death of Fisk from the effects of the wound.

The reader will remember that Col. Fisk was an extensive dealer in stocks, in New York-a prince of the Erie Road-of vast alleged wealth, and a crack commandant of one of the city regiments, seeingactive service in the ved in an entangling alliance with one of the cypr ans of New York, he contracted the enmity of Stokes, who eventually gave him his quietus at the Grand Central Hotel. Fisk is the author of the sentiment, "go where the woodbine twineth," as a substitute for the mere common expression, "up the spout." He started his career as peddler in tin wares, and his turn-out through the New England States, is represented as only equalled by the pageant of a circus entree, or

Grant's at Long Branch. Frem a poor pedler, he attained, by his industry and management, to be one of the "bulls," or at any rate a "bear" on Wall Street. Flourished in the gold speculation; monopolized railroads; patronized the drama, and owned theatres. In the prime of life he met his fate through one of the instrumentalities of his own immorality. Republican County Convention.

Persuant to call a Republican County Convention was held on Saturday June 28th, in the U. S. Court at Harrisonburg, and was called to order by C. Douglas Gray, Chairman County Committee. B. B. BOTTS was elected to preside and FRANK J. BRAMHALL as secretary.

The following resolutions were offered and, after speeches by Col. A. S. Gray, Hon. John F. Lewis and C. Douglas Gray, were unanimously adopted:

Douglas Gray, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we cordially approve and endorse the platform of principles adopted by the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia, with so much enthusiasm and unanimity, and pledge to it our hearty, energetic, and undivided support.

Resolved, That the unanimous recommendation of President Grant is a just and appropriate tribute to the great soldier who saved the Republic in time of war, and whose civil administration has been attended with remarkable and unparalleled success in sacuring honesty and economy in the collection and disbursement of the public monies; great reduction of the national dobt, simultaneous with a rapid reduction of taxation; peaceful settlement of foreign complications; the extension of annesty, civil rights, and protection to all, and who, as Horace Groeloy declared, "never has been beaten, and never will be."

Resolved, That we hall, with pleasure, the nomination to the Vice Presidency, of Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, a profound and liberal Statesmen of unstained character and unimpeachible integrity, whose career has been a life-battle for the elevation and protection of working-men, of whom he is proud to be one, having worked his way, unaided, from the shoemaker's bench to the Senator's seat. His nomination is a proper tribute to "the nobility of labor, the long pedigree of toil," and cannot fail to receive the support of laboring millions of the Republic.

Resolved, That the thanks of the people of Virginia are due to a Republican Congress for the protection extended by Senator Lewis' Bankruptey Bill to the poor man's homestead, and covering it with the agis of the power and authority of the United States.

A resolution offered by Senator

A resolution offered by Senator Lewis relative to the action of the District Convention was also adopted. On motion of Dr. William. J. Points. a County Committee composed of C. Douglas Gray, Frank J. Bramhall, James Baker, Henry Frazier, A. C. Long, John Plunkett, A. L Lindsey, Samuel Whitmer, St. Clair Poindexter and David Gilmer, was elected to reorganize the party in the county and select delegates to the Congressional District Convention at Scaunton on the 10th of July. (From the New York Tribune, May 23, 1872. Extracts from Mr. Greeley's Letter to the Club in which it was proposed to cen-sure him for signing Mr. Davis's Bail Bond.

By these Presents Greeting-To Messrs. George W. Blunt, John A. Kennedy, John O. Stone, Stephen Hyatt and thirty others, members of the Union

GENTLEMEN-I was favored on the 16th instant by an official note from our ever-courteous President, John Jay, notifying me that a requisition had been presented to him for a "special meeting of the club, at an early day, for the purpose of taking in consideration the conduct of Horace Greeley, a member of the club, who has become a bondsman for Jefferson Davis, late chief officer of the Rebel Government."

Gentlemen, I shall not attend your meeting this evening. I have an engagement out of town and I shall keep it. I do not recognize you as capable of judging, or even fully apprehending me. You evidently regard me as a weak sentimentalist, mislead by a

I arriagn you as narrow-minded blockheads, who would like to be useful to a great and good cause, but don't know how. Your attempt to base a great enduring party on the hate and wrath necessarily engendered by a bloody civil war is as though you should plant a colony on an iceberg which had somehow drifted into a tropical ocean. I tell you here, that out of a life earnestly devoted to the good of human kind, your children will select my going to Richmond and signing that bail-bond as the wisest act, and will feel that it did more for freedom and humanity than all of you are competent to do, though you had lived to the age of Methuselah.

I ask nothing of you, then, but that you proceed to your end in a direct, hides—caused the big heart of a clerk frank, manly way. Don't sidle off into in Bankruptcy to throb with exultant a mild resolution of censure, but move the expulsion which you propose, and which I deserve, if I deserve any reproach whatever. All I care for is, that you make this a square, stand-up fight, and record your judgment by yeas and nays. I care not how few votes with me, nor how many vote against me; for I know that the latter will repent it in dust and ashes before three years have passed. Understand once for all, that I dare you and defy you, and that I propose to fight it out on the line that I have held from the day of Lee's surrender. So long as any man was seeking to overthrow our Government he was my enemy; from the hour in which he laid down his arms he was my formerly erring countryman.

So long as any is at heart opposed to the national unity, the Federal authority, or to that assertion of the equal rights of all men which has become practically identified with loyalty and nationality, I shall do my best to de-prive him of power; but whenever he ceases to be thus, I demand his restoration to all the privileges of American citizenship. I give you fair notice that I shall urge the re-enfranchisement of those now proscribed for rebellion so soon as I shall feel confident that this course is consistent with the freedom of the blacks and the unity of the republic, and that I shall demand a recall of all now in exile only for participating in the rebellion whenever the country shall have been so thoroughly pacified that its safety will not thereby be endangered.

And so, gentlemen, hoping that you will henceforth comprehend me somewhat better than you have done, I re main yours, Horace Greeley. New York, May 23, 1867.

Monterey, Va., June 28th, 1872. Editor of the Old Commonwealth:-Our county for some days past has been enlivened by the presence of Col. Stewart and T. M. Almond, Esq., of Luray. These gentlemen have been working in our midst in the interest of the Washing, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad, and I am most happy to say that their efforts have been crowned with great success. Captain J. W. Myers of this place, also took the field. When I saw them return on Monday last, wearied and travel-stained, I almost trembled for the result. But yesterday told the tale. Our citizens both old and young let go the plow handles and hoes, and poured in from hill and vale to the polls and voted a handsome subscription to the enterprise. We are indeed tired of living out of the world, and in a short time our iron, coal and marble. which have slept in quietude from "time immemorial," will be unearthed, and we hope to be placed on an equal footing with our sister counties of the East and West. All honor to Colonel Stewart, Mr. Almond, Captain Myers, and many others here who have "placed their shoulders to the wheel" and awakened our citizens to a sense of their duty. Our county will long remember the genial faces and well timed advice of Messrs. Stewart and Almond. We have voted a tax of fifty thousand dollars and a subscription is now on foot which is rapidly filling up with the names of our wealthiest and most prominent citizens. There were only about fifteen or twenty dissenting votes cast in the whole county. Tell our old friend C. E. Haas, Esq., that he can sell the "old bay" and soon come to our Courts on the train. With kind wishes for the success of your excellent paper, Respectfully, MONTEREY.

His record is a good one, and coupled with Thomas M. Hite assignee of J. H. McLeod, ... AN OLD RELIC.—We have before us a copy of the Ulster County GAZETTE, bearing date Kingston, N. Y., January 4th, 1800, for which we are indebted to our friends Messrs. Gassman and Bro. This old paper was published by Samuel Freer and Son, is well printed, the impression clear and distinct, the type being what is known as "old style," and which miserable taste there has been for several years, upon the part of some of our present-day publishers, an effort to revive. This paper contains an excellent summary of news, both home and foreign, yet we cannot but mark the change wrought by American inventive genius in furnishing news from Europe in a couple of hours instead of, as in this instance, several months. The news from Europe is to October 20th, 1779, not quite three months.

In its pages we have, first--"American Congress, Tuesday, December 10, 1799," in which is the address from the House of Representatives to the President, and the reply of John Adams, President. This is followed by the address of the Senate and the President's reply. These documents are able, graceful and dignified, and bear a strong contrast in this regard to the present time. Next comes the news from Europe, most of which is devoted to accounts of battles, in which Suwarrow, the Great Marshal of Russia, was the prominent figure upon the part of the allied forces, against BUONAPARTE.

Turning to the inside of the paper we find it in deep mourning because of the death of General George Wash-INGTON. The proceedings of Congress thereon, the address of Mr. Marshall, the address of the speaker to the President and his reply, the address of the | the purpose of sending delegates to the Senate and the President's reply, all able documents, giving us a keen insight into the feeling of gloom which overspread the great patriotic heart of the young Confederacy. These proceedings are then followed by the funeral ceremonies at the burial of the great Chieftain at Mt. Vernon. We regret our want of space forbids a longer short notice of this valuable old paper; the reading is so good, and the adherence to correct principles and good government are so dominant and refreshing, in comparison with our day, that we are tempted to reproduce the whole of it.

In the business department we find that people advertised, and sold farms and goods same as now; that bankrupt laws were in force and used; that the list of letters which were advertised at the principal Post-office in the county embraced the list for any or all others in that county; that people got into debt and were sold out at Sheriff's sale as now; that men's wives ran off and were duly advertised, &c. New York also owned negroes then, as will be seen by the following advertisement which we copy entire:

From the Richmond Whig of June 28. STATE CONVENTION AT RICHMOND.

The delegates to the State Conservative Convention assembled at the Theatre yesterday at noon, and were called to order at 121 o'clock by Hon. Raleigh T. Daniel, Chairman of the State Executive Committee. He moved that ex-Governor William Smith be appointed temporary President of the Convention, and the motion was unanimously carried.

Ex Governor Smith being on the platform, came forward to take the chair, and was greeted with applause. He announced that Rev. W. W. Walker, of Westmoreland, would invoke the blessing of God on our labors.

Mr. Walker then offered a fervent prayer, in which he supplicated for the establishment of peace and fraternity throughout the country.

Gov. Smith then addressed the Convention. He tendered his grateful thanks for the honor conferred upon him. We have met here, he said, for great Baltimore Convention and of ap pointing electors. Constitutional liberty is a myth. The grand doctrine of the rulers at Washington is to do whatever they please. No constitutional limit of power is respected by them ; tione whatever. We are here to aid in rescuing the liberties of the country from the hands of violence and power. The question is, How shall we accomplish it? The great Democratic party has heretofore presented its own candidates and given them a hearty support, but of lite the majority arrayed against it was too large to be overcome. Now the Radical party is divided. The good men have withdrawn from it, and nominated candidates for President and Vice-President. Shall we hesitate to cooperate with them? Shall we hesitate to "cry aloud and spare not" until we have driven the Radicals from power? Shall we disregard the lesson of the Irishman who, in the hour of difficulty, will wield a shillalah of gum if he cannot get one of hickory? No, Sir, we will co-operate with all good men in rescuing the liberties of the country. Governor Smith enforced the necessity of harmony and unity in the Democratic and Conservative party. We must not in any sense disband, but must go together as a band of brothers.

If we do this he had no doubt that we would achieve a great victory. A distinguished man, who tells what he knows about farming, says that "we may expect squash in November," and squash there will be. [Great laughter.] Old as I am (chronologically old, thank God) I will do all that I can to secure the victory. The Governor believed that all the stragglers from the camp would come back before election To suppose otherwise is to suppose that they are not capable of appreciating the duties of a patriotic citizen in a crisis like this. Let the Democracy unite with the Liberals against Grant, and brandy and salt can't save him. [Applause.] HON. THOMAS S. FLOURNOY'S SPEECH.

Hon. Thomas Stanhope Flournoy, of Halifax county, having been called to the platform, responded in a speech which was well received. He commenced with the remark that he for one did not regard a decision between Grant and Greeley for President as a "choice of evils." The nomination of Greeley was a providential opportunity for the rescue of our country from the evils which have overwhelmed it and the greater evils which threaten it .-He had a personal acquaintance with Mr. Greeley, and could say that the "old white hat" covers the broadest head and kindest heart in America, and the heart is beating for us. [Applanse. He said in reference to the Baltimore Convention, that in his opinion it should adopt a resolution to the following effect: Resolved, That we deem it expedient to make any nomination for President; [loud applause,] but we earnestly recommend to the American people the cordial support of Horace lie should extend patronage to this Greeley and Gratz Brown. [Renewed Virginia, in convention assembled, Sweden, 60 cents, Switzerland, 60 applause.

but ascertained he was at Chappaqua. He wanted to tell him that his letter of acceptance was the best ever writhe should break his pen and put away his inkstand until he was elected President. Now, if Mr. Greeley should be nominated at Baltimore, and another platform adopted there will have to be another letter written informing him of his nomination, and he Mr. F.] didn't want anything of the kind Greeley is the man to beat Grant out of power, and when he is elected every man will breathe freer. Under his administration there will be no sectional legislation, no enforcement bills, no carpet baggers. Is the man who will thus relieve us "a choice of evils?" Let old Virginia, which numbers among her sons the greatest and wisest the world has produced, send out no doubtful voice, but declare with emphasis for Greeley and Brown, reaffirming, in substance, the platform of the last State Convention, "Opposition to Radicalism.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH. John Goode, of Norfolk, permanent chairman, spoke as follows: You have come together as Virginians, mindful of the rights and interests of the State, to make the necessary preliminary arrangements for another Presidential contest—a contest which involves all we hold dear upon earth. feel sure that your deliberations will be marked by that decorum which has ever characterized the representative men of the Old Dominion. There never has been a time in the history of the country when its citizens were called upon to participate in a Presidential election involving issues of grander import. I am one of those who believe that the existence of constitutional government—the perpetuity of free institutions, is dependent in a large degree upon the defeat of Ulysses Grant and the corrupt ring by which he is surrounded. We can expect nothing from the re-election of Gen. Grant but a continuance for another term of four years of the unscrupulous military despotism which has characterized his administration. (The speaker then presented, in vivid terms. a long catalogue of acts which had rendered the Administration of President Grant odious to the American people.) Such, he said, have been its usurpations and its corruptions that the people have become alarmed, and have determined to make an united effort for their deliverance.

I am glad to know that old party prejudices have been sacrificed; that old party ties have been sundered; that old party issues are forgotten, and that men concern themselves not so much about the consistency of party records as they do about rescuing the country from despotism. Is it to be wondered at that this irrepressible movement of the people should have been made? Is it to be wondered at that the Anglo-Saxon race should be unwilling to wear the collar of a military master? The race which has incorporated in its bosom all the elements of human progress still rejoices in the overflowing energy and the unconquerable will which has made it conspicuous in all the ages. No wonder then that the mighty heart of the people is stirred to its utmost depths, and that the dead issues of the past, and, in the language of my gallant friend, Gen. Kemper, to come up "with uplifted brows" and heroic purpose, to confront the living issues of the present. [Loud

applause.]
This is an impulsive movement of the people, a popular uprising such as has never been before in this country. I unite with my distinguised friend (Governor Smith,) that we must sacrifice our, prejudices upon the altar of our country; that we must combine all the elements of opposition and concentrate our strength, our whole strength, upon the ticket which has been put forth at Cincinnati. [Enthusiastic applause.] It is too late now to discuss that ticket. The Rubicon is crossed and the bridges burnt. Our fortunes have been staked irretrievably upon that movement which culminated at Cincinnati. It is impossible to elect a straight-out Democratic ticket. The grand tidal wave of public opinion is sweeping over the country. It is vain, or worse than vain, to attempt to stay its progress or resist its force.

The old Democratic party is coming up with a self-abnegation worthy of its historic fame and as an ally of the Liberal Republicans will hurl its massive columns against the insolent and presumptuous foe. State after State is wheeling into line. Every day brings themselves under the banner of "Constitutional Liberty." Under that sign we will conquer. In conclusion, can any man doubt what part Virginia will play in this grand drama-Virginia, the mother of heroes, Statesmen, and Presidents.-She will once more assume the trump of leadership and take her accustomed position in the very front of the fight. fight. She will summon her children from the seaboard to the mountains, and they will come like the warriors of Glen Alpine to the sound of their leader's whistle. [Applause.]

I rejoice that we have no dissensions in our State; that concord pervades all our borders. Whigs and Democrats, Union men and Secessionists, have come up here with hearts and hands united, and forgetting the past, have determined to battle together against the common enemy. Let that spirit continue to animate us, and whatever may be the result of the Presidential contest, when the smoke of battle has cleared away we will have the infinite satisfaction of perceiving that Virginia, at least, is secure and saved from the black wave of Radicalism which has brought desolation and ruin to our sister States of the South. [Loud applause.]

Gen. Kemper submitted the following resolutions, which, he said, had $1 10, Denmark, 60 cents, Italy, 40 cts., been earefully considered, and was of Netherland, 75 cents, Norway, 60 cents, the greatest importance:

That we greet with lively satisfaction | cents.

Mr. F. said when in New York, re- the movement of the Liberal Republicently, he called to see Mr. Greeley, cannat Cincinnati; and desire to express our sincere admiration of the moral heroism displayed by them in subordinating party to patriotism, and ten, [a voice-the very best] and that pledge ourselves to meet their courageous and patriotic proffer of co-operation for the public deliverance in the same catholic and magnamimous spirit in which it was tendered.

Resolved, That the delegates ap pointed by this Convention to the Bal timore Convention should give a vigorous, persistent and united support to the Greeley and Brown ticket, nontinated at Cincinnati, as holding forth the fairest promise for allaying the passions of the war, reviving real peace within our borders, restoring integrity to the public service, re-establishing the States in their legitimate functions in the Federal system, preserving intact the great writ of liberty, and rescuing the Republic from the despotism of the sword.

HARRISONBURG, VA-THURSDAY, 1 1 : :: JULY 4, 1870.

A PLOT AGAINST GREELEY .- A Washington correspondent of the New York Cribrate mentions an estimate made by an officeholder in Washington, who is one of the shrewdest observers of political events, and one whose judgment as to the future is received with respect everywhere, giving the strength of Mr. Greeley before the Baltimore Convention as follows:-He says that he has little doubt that Mr. Greeley will have 517 delegates ont of the 724 on the first ballot, and Harrisonburg, Vathat of the delegates already chosen by the several States 317 are favorable to Greelev and only 13 against him, there being from Oregon, Delaware and one from West Virginia. He also says that there is a powerful effort making on the part of some of the old hunkers of the democracy to defeat Greeley before the convention by a "coup d' etat," and circulas in great numbers have been confidentially circulated for the purpose. The scheme, as developed, is to secure the States of Arkansas, Georgia, Ohio, Illinois, Texas and New Jersey, which, it is held, would do much towards controlling the convention. The officer, however, unbesitatingly admits that Mr. Greeley will be nominated, and that the contest in November will be a very close one.

Thus are the politicians making their calculations and indulging their machinations, but the fact is that the people generally seem to be troubling themselves little about the one or the other. As the New York Express says the people have got it into their heads that Greeley is their man, their candidate. Once in every ten or twenty years the people break loose on the Presidency, and they are running loose. now; and it is not easy to see how they can be made, either as democrats or republicans, to run with 'the machine,' unless 'the machine,' runs with them.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 24 .- Advices to the government announce the immediate release of Dr. Houard, the United States consenting to waive the claim that he is a citizen.

The Postoffice Department has selected an open card under the new law, providing for one-cent postal cards. A card with one side enveloped would probably have been selected, but that a card of that description would have been subject to regular letter postage under the law.

The Greeley and Brown committee in charge of the Greeley and Brown headquarters at the St. Marc Hotel, are daily in receipt of hundreds of letters from all portions of the United States, stating that all the political signs of the times predict success.

A SPLIT TICKET .- Mrs. Woodhull has been interviewed by a Western reporter, and she admits that Fred. Douglass will not stay on the ticket, and that Ball Tickets, she is hunting up a substitute. Sl.e is Dinner Tickets, determined to continue in the field for Bills of Fare, the presidency. Douglass refuses to Receipts, run against Grant. She says: "Jennie Shipping do., and I are going to Europe shortly. In Tags. this great work we have shattered our Labels, health, spent $300,000, and must have a little rest. We shall not be absent but about four or five weeks. We will suspend the weekly, and a daily will be started. It is backed by such men as Vanderbilt. Electoral tickets will be put in the field. Ten thousand dollass have been raised for preliminary campaign purposes. It will, before it is over, prove to be the liveliest campaign this country has ever had.

THE FLAG INSULTED AGAIN .- A Washington dispatch says; The State Department has received dispatches from George Holt, our consul at Gaspe Basin. Canada, to the effect that the cantain of the Dominion cutter Stella Marie captured the American schooner James Bliss, for an alleged violation | And all other and all other of the Dominion laws, and brought her into port, with the Dominion flag flying at the peak over the Anetican flag which was union down. The consul protested against the insult, but it was repeated.

The New Jersey Court of Pardons has decided to grant the petitions of the people of Paterson and vicinity, and commute the sentence of Libbie. Garrabrandt, convicted of poisoning her employer, to imprisonment for life.
