Decision 2008: And The Winners Are...

3,975 student casts ballots last week to elect the new SGA executive council

BY LEAH SMITH AND THE BANDERS

Daniel J. Stana • Administrative Affairs

Daniel J. Stana joined SGA at the beginning of her freshman year because she originally had planned to study public policy and international studies. However, she realized that SGA was a complete and well-rounded organization that excited her.

"I wanted something that challenged me a little more," says Stana. "I knew about different cultures, so I appreciate that." Senior Senator Lindsay Dowd, who she feels was a role model for her, is advising her to stay focused and be aware of her opportunities. "I know about different cultures, so I appreciate that," Dowd said.

"I want to take a more active role in the way SGA works," says Stana.

Candace Avalos • Student Affairs

Candace Avalos, a senior at JMU, is new to SGA. However, she has been involved in Student Ambassadors and SGA, so she just wants to keep that connection she created.

"I'm organized and improved communication between Student Ambassadors and SGA, so I just want to keep that connection she created."

"I'm prepared for it."

"I want to take a more active role in the way SGA works," says Avalos. "I know about different cultures, so I appreciate that." Senior Senator Lindsay Dowd, who she feels was a role model for her, is advising her to stay focused and be aware of her opportunities. "I know about different cultures, so I appreciate that," Dowd said.

Stana has participated in SGA since his freshman year and has served as a senator. She plans to use her experience to enhance the level of service and representation.

"I'm prepared for it."

In the March 3 issue of The Breeze, the front page article "Two-day indie music celebration, MACRoCk, returns to Harrisonburg" incorrectly stated that the label expo was Friday, but it was in fact Saturday.

In the March 3 issue of The Breeze, the front page article "Decision 2008...Candidates' Platforms" stated that elections were held Tuesday but they were actually Wednesday and Thursday.

In the April 3 issue of The Breeze, the article "Talking to Reynolds" referred to Tim Reynolds as former Dave Matthews Band guitarist. In fact he was never actually in the band, he only collaborated with them.

Farmers Markets & Local Farms. During the spring, summer and early fall in the Shenandoah Valley, farmers’ markets are loaded with fresh fruits and vegetables that cost less than the grocery store. First, you have to deal with buying groceries and how to make sure you don’t blow your budget out of the water. You support the local economy and are able to have fresh tasting and in-season vegetables. They taste so much better when in season.

What makes them find out more about how you could make a difference in other people’s lives, as well as your own?

Campaign managers say cancer survivors running a "Light the Night" race are shown in support of the opening ceremony. Relay for Life during the opening weekend. While hundreds of cancer survivors and caregivers gathered for the event, there were two significant outcomes: fundraising and awareness.

This weekend, 2013 held its annual Relay for Life. The event is a 24-hour event where cancer survivors, caregivers, and families come together to celebrate, remember, and fight against the disease. The event features live entertainment, speakers, and a luminary ceremony at night. The funds raised during Relay for Life support the American Cancer Society's mission to save lives, celebrate lives, and lead the fight for a world without cancer.

Students Abandon Cars to Help Save Environment

BY JAY JAMISON

It was all about the free T-shirts for many students who showed up for the Harrisonburg Coalition's annual No Drive Day on April 2, the Harrisonburg Coalition's first No Drive Day. The event was designed to encourage students to use alternative modes of transportation such as walking, biking, or using public transportation.

"I ride the bus every day to campus," said sophomore Melissa Jarrett, who rode the bus to campus that day. "It's a lot cheaper than driving, and you don't have to deal with traffic." She also mentioned that she had participated in previous No Drive Days and enjoyed the experience of not relying on her car.

"We look forward to updating Carrier Library in the near future to make it more useful to students and faculty," said Reba Leiding, assistant to the Dean of Libraries. "It's a great cause to be a part of, and it's nice to see the community get involved."

Executive Treasurer

Tom Rife joined SGA last fall and knows freshmen will be his way to get involved at JMU in a way that will help him make connections with the student body. He has a number of ideas for SGA as far as a fund-raising mechanism or a way to do a lot of the things that SGA usually funds. He is interested in better understanding the funding opportunities available through SGA and in utilizing such opportunities for the Class of 2009.

"If you go to the stores, they give you a discount. I don't get anywhere close to the world, it allows me to sell JMU bonds," said Rife. "If they can keep that trend going, that's the difference between the class treasurer position and the executive treasurer position. I feel like I have the experience and am fully qualified to be executive treasurer."

Rife has spoken with a number of the administrators to see if her platform points are feasible. Rife plans to be more approachable," Avalos said. "I think he is looking forward to campus."

I've already started making contacts with various other treasurers," Rife said. "I just plan on being very approachable."

ROONI: Two Close to Call

ROONI has few students and has the unique opportunity to focus on the creative and intellectual development of the students. The ROONI mission is to foster critical thinking and problem-solving skills in students through hands-on learning experiences. The ROONI curriculum includes courses in science, mathematics, and humanities, as well as interdisciplinary projects that encourage collaboration and innovation. The ROONI community is a diverse group of students, faculty, and staff who are committed to creating a supportive and inclusive environment that fosters individual growth and development. The ROONI program is offered in partnership with local community organizations and businesses, providing students with opportunities to apply their knowledge and skills in real-world settings. The ROONI program is open to all JMU students and is designed to complement the academic disciplines students are pursuing. The ROONI program is offered in a variety of formats, including traditional classroom instruction, online learning, and on-site internships. The ROONI program is supported by a dedicated team of faculty and staff who are committed to providing students with a transformative educational experience.
FROM THE DESK OF FRED ROSE

Dear Members of the JMU Community,

My name is Fred Rose and I am working hard to ensure your student representatives to the Board of Visitors in this week's Breeze newsletter.

First and foremost, I hope every student and faculty member is part of the JMU community. Even now I often stop on campus and say "I knew that the people who have lived here have become a major part of my life, and this has nearly been true.

My experiences in the classroom, on the playing field, and in professional relations with tomorrow's leaders have taught me that I know that my professional experience with dealing with student issues is a major part of being in this office. As the student body has grown and developed, the role of the Board of Visitors has changed and continues to go on from year to year. The fact that something like this could officially happen in the United States government in the 21st century is mind-boggling.

I bet the drivers who were forced to work in the field every day, and never got to leave, would say what was going on there. Furthermore, I suspect the many slaves who worked in the cotton plantations that helped fund the Southern war effort didn't have a particularly positive view of their situation either. In fact, I suspect they were much more likely to view their situation as cruel andinhuman.

Lacrosse loses at home for the first time, 11-10
BY SAM WOOGERS

Momentum has been hard for the JMU lacrosse team to establish this season, and in its first conference game that trend continued. The Dukes (4-4) got an early lead against Colonial Athletic Association rival William & Mary (3-6), but it wasn't enough as No. 4 JMU held on to win 11-10 at theallah on Friday in the second game of the weekend matchup.

But three unanswered goals from Wagner, senior midfielder Emily Helter and senior attacker Jada Breen led the Tribe back in the second half and gave the Dukes the win.

The Tribe had a hard time covering the deep part of the field, thanks in part to two goals from CAA defender Jeannie Campion.

With the 11-10 win, the Tribe improves its season record to 5-1 on the season. Lori, a veteran player on the Tribe, said "It's too bad that trend continued. JMU was scheduled to play another doubleheader later in the season, but the weather was too bad.”

JMU was scheduled to play another doubleheader later in the season, but the weather was too bad.

With wet and windy weather conditions, the game was postponed to the next day due to rain. The games were rescheduled for Monday at 4 p.m. in Farmville, Va. JMU is now 5-1 on the season.

JMU Outscores Longwood 18-7 in two games, but takes the split
BY ANTONIUS KUBENSTIEIN

The JMU men's baseball team outscored Longwood 18-7 in two games, but took the split.

In the first game, JMU's five runs in the seventh inning propelled them to victory. In the second game, the Dukes were held scoreless in the first inning, but scored seven runs in the second inning to take the lead.

JMU's offense exploded in the seventh inning, scoring four runs on nine hits. The win improved his season record to 0-9 on the season behind wins in all three doubles matches and five of six singles matches.

Sellers & Caseres: JMU’s RBI Machines

JMU splits its first two matches of the CAA round robin tournament before its final matchup with Hofstra was canceled because of rain.

JMU's records have lost at home but are 7-2 this season. The Dukes have lost their last four matches and are 2-3 on the season.

With the threat of inclement weather looming, double matches were skipped to ensure the completion of singles matches. It was a key loss for JMU, whose strength all year has been in their three strong doubles teams.

"It's too bad that we didn't get to play them again," senior Alex Tippett said. "The doubles point is a big thing for us, so we really lost it every game. We have three solid teams through the end, so any other matches we win, it's going to give us the doubles point.”

On Saturday the Dukes returned to Roanoke with a 4-0 win over Delaware. They scored in the first three innings with three runs and added an extra run in the fourth inning to take the lead.

Tarr and sophomore Mike Hartt defeated Delaware's Travis Gribben and Austin Langdon 6-4 in the singles. In the No. 2 match-up, freshman Carlos Castaneda and junior Brit-
