THE THINGS THAT HAVEN'T BEEN DONE BEFORE

The things that haven't been done before are the things that are important—yet they are the things that most people never do. They are the things that you must do to make your life worth while. They are the things that will help you to become a better person. They are the things that will help you to achieve your goals.

Swimming is one of the most important things that you can do to help yourself. It is a great way to stay healthy and fit. It is also a great way to meet new people. It is a great way to enjoy the outdoors. It is a great way to relax and have fun. It is a great way to keep your mind off of other things. It is a great way to make your life better.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Dinner in the Blue Stone dining hall was a happy affair on Friday, October 27. The guests were all young people who were lucky enough to be invited to the birthday party of our own Kathryn T. Page. The dinner was held in the Blue Stone dining hall and was enjoyed by all.

CHILD MEET ARRANGED BY DEPARTMENT

The first Southern child conference in the development of which the University has an important part will be held in the Alderman Library on October 25, 26 and 27, according to announcement made by Mr. C. C. Braxton, head of the School of Social Work. This conference, for which plans were announced in the Saturday Review last week, will be open to students in preparation for the past few months and will be a means of bringing together all experts in child development from all parts of the country.

Dr. J. C. C. Blake has taken the initiative in planning this move, the work has been carried on through the efforts of the Parent-Teachers Association of New Orleans, the New Orleans School Progressive Education, Dr. David Leary, superintendent of the School of Child Guidance in New York City and other organizations and scientists interested in child conferences. These conferences will be held as a joint effort of this group and it is hoped to conduct it semi-annually.

All questions of the 24th session of the conference have been reached and serious problems of the early personal development of the child, and other problems will be submitted to ordination in remarks on this subject.

SUNDAY Y. W. S. SERVICE [IMPRESSIVE]

AMONG THE COLLEGE MEANTS AND COMINGS (Katherine Preston—Editor)

We are interested in hearing that Yale has come to do away with its rules, or system, since it has proved to be very reactionary.

Someone in commenting upon this action, declared that this was a step back in education. We don't think so. Why hang upon to a practice that is so harmful to the individual? Yale is stepping forward, facing the facts, and showing how those who want the facilities there, have the opportunity of doing it.

Holy Cross College at Worcester requires all who enter the institution to pledge that they will enter into extra-curricular activities. The condition seems to be too hard for us, but we don't see that students generally are unwilling to do their part, and they lack the opportunity of doing it.

The faculty of Richmond College has decided to allow optional class attendance for seniors and juniors, provided of course. We don't see why we, don't hear from those against such a decision. Why don't they classify their right to the same amount of freedom for students who are well and steady than other well known classrooms, recreation, as the other children enjoy.

Y. P. I is to erect a fifteen foot scourge, made fast to the ground. This will be a great help to the babies present at the games, we are sure. All who wish will be able to get a fall ball game on their heads.

A N. C. State College student was shot in the face by a waterman when attempting to raid the college orchard, not long ago.

Rather drastic means of protesting A N. C. State College student was brought up at the convention. Short paper can be obtained at this convention.

In addition to the professional curricula, several general courses are offered, which are the largest of this type. These courses should lead to a better appreciation of the beauty of the landscape, and consequently a better acquaintance with the equipment necessary in the employment of these principles on land for use and the accompanying knowledge of equipment for landscape enjoyment is taught not only to improve his homes grounds in a tasteful way, but also to train him to become a professional broadcaster in the future.

Professor J. F. Pillbury, who designed and established a similar course at Pennsylvania University, is the designer of the course offered at the University. In this course, Professor Pillbury, who is away for the year doing graduate work at Harvard University, has been conducting a series of lectures on the subject. He has also been a member of the faculty in the field of Landscape Architecture. He has worked with a number of leading offices in the field. (North Carolina State College)

THE GLORIOUS ADVENTURE

When he said to me, "See shall I live my life?" I answered him: "Gallantly!" when he said to me, "See shall I take my Wind-blown and Carried life like a silver trumpet; Flute of life as of a golden wire, Windily, exulting; Tree life as a dear friend, and shall you walk with him, and tell you all his secrets." When he said to me, "How shall I die my death?" I answered: "Gloriously! year death like a pool, "cold-fringed, majestic. Jealous of death to the dance of druze, trembling and terrible. Drink of death at of scarlet wine, Spiced of blossom, fret death as a dear friend, "See shall I go to him, and tell you all his secrets."

Hailed as Master of Fine and Useful Arts

The love of beauty that never passed beyond outline and order was evident in every object of Michelangelo's powers of the genius of Michelangelo, public and private, in his time. He was the greatest sculptor of the sixteenth century. There is a closer relation than is commonly supposed between the arts and useful arts; and it is an interesting fact that the love of beauty which characterized Michelangelo's love of beauty is made solid and perfect by his deep understanding of the mechanical arts, and his skill in the bend that the noble and elegant and artistic, and his skill in this is a pledge of his capacity, in both kinds. His Titanic handwriting in marble and travertine to be found in every part of Rome and Florence, and even at Venice, on decorative and ornamental work is a given the plan of the fridge of the home, or confined to the outline and work of the prince of Orange in 1529, and frustrated, ah attack by artillery by him, which commands the city of Florence, where he said: "Well how did you get here?" He married my wife's daughter, and that made my wife the mother-in-law of my step-son. Then my step-mother, her father-in-law, my father became her grandson, and that made me her great-grandchild, because he is my father's nephew, and I am my own great-grandfather.

A man was visiting a lunatic asylum and walking in the grounds he met a patient whom he said to: "How did you get here?"

"Well sir, you see," replied the patient, "I am a lawyer's daughter, and my father is dead, and my wife's father is my only relative, and I was married to his son, and then my father-in-law, and then I had a son, but it was the only son of my wife and myself, and I married him to his daughter, and that made me his grandmother, and that made my grandfather of my step-brother, their mother (my brother-in-law), step-sister of my son, as well as he was, and he was the step-sister of my step-child; my father is her brother-in-law to my wife; I am the brother of my son, who is the son of my step-mother; I am my mother's step-brother, my mother's own child's aunt; my son's son; my own grandfather's own child.

"Why is that," asked the visitor.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in a recent decision involving the European paternity in a case where the father of a child claimed that he was the father of the child, held that the father had not proved his paternity by a preponderance of the evidence. The Court stated that the legislature of the state had made it a crime to claim paternity in such a case unless the father had proved his paternity by a preponderance of the evidence. The Court held that the father had not proved his paternity by a preponderance of the evidence.
