A president of the senior class, moved in great dignity, beauty, and meaning.

MISS MOSS AND MISS JOHNSON are planting the following locations of regular super- viors at. (Continued in a song.)

The whole ceremony was one of full dignity and solemnity holding a solemn ceremony. Gathered in academic caps and gowns the entire senior class headed by President Duke and Anne Mellor, head of the class senior, moved stately procession from Harrison Hall. The one lamb circle was formed about the song selected for the planting. Dr. Gifford, spoke of the ceremony, Miss Moss and Miss Johnson is for the song "Miss Moss Hill" and the planting of the tree.

The planting of the evergreen tree performed by the class officers was a great event and a splendid addition to the campus. Rebecca Jennings, Gladys Hawkins, and Florence Reese, and Miss Moss, while a second reading was given by Catherine Guthrie. A prayer by Dr. Wayland and the singing of the school song "Miss Moss Hill" completed the planting of the tree.

After this, the new order took its place again. Alma has been in the infirmary since Spring holiday with the teacher. This quality must come, and we hope to have her back in no time.

We are all very much to learn that Denise Moore is a graduate of our hospital where she expects to have an opera- tion as soon as she receives her discharge. She is not expected to return to school this quarter, but we hope she will be with us again next year.

ENROLLMENT

H. T. C. is extremely fortunate to have two American Beauty rose bushes at the arch way behind Old Main and Old Main. At this time Mr. Duke made a most inspiring and colorful talk to the sen- iors after which the real planting was planted by the class president assisted by Miss Moss and Miss Johnson. Miss Moss, Miss Johnson, and Miss Smith are exceedingly fortunate to have the good fortune of H. T. Dear Aunt Aggie,

I am afraid you are giving me a very unfair treatment problem. Last Friday I put on my Easter dress and went to the dining hall to see if I could be seen. As I walked through the door the ice cream appeared. One half was orange ice cream and the other half was chocolate ice cream. I was so fresh from school that I opened my mouth to shout, "What a trick this is!" but when I shut it I saw that it was orange ice cream and the other half was chocolate ice cream. I was completely astonished at this and laughed. Then I got the idea to tie my handkerchief around my mouth and say, "I see a pin drop." The effect was quite remarkable. It was heard all over the campus. Then I tried to say, "He's so romantic," and everyone looked at me with surprise. I even tried saying, "Icily yours." This was quite interesting, too. I even said, "You Yarn." Everyone was startled and I tried to say, "For the thing you'd escape."

Yours truly,

Selma Madrin

Southern Charm By Isa Glenn

It was in the spring that pre-war was the key note of the lives of ladies, particularly of our society. It was the goal of their education, their life. Girls went to school to learn to run their hands up, so that the blood should flow away, leaving them white, and all other like attributes of a lady. Sportsmanship was an unknown quality.

Of these schools, one of the best was that of Miss Cassandra Tecumseh in Georgia. Every year, for generations, Miss Cassandra, in her black bombazine, that had arrived at an infinite age, would challenge the girls, and guard your good name and face. At their graduation Alice May is dropped in vinegar it is dis-...and makes the following plea in...with the Philippine Islands...with the Philippine Islands...with the Philippine Islands...with the
