CIVIC SCIENCE IN THE COMMUNITY

This book is addressed to the students in American high schools. Its sole purpose is to help the beginner in acquiring clear and dependable knowledge of the important facts and the fundamental principles of the science of economics, to the end that he may be able to adapt himself intelligently to his economic environment and to face the economic problems of life with intelligence, self-reliance, and the zest of broad interest.

While this is primarily a reader for intermediate and advanced classes in English, it is also a means for helping students to a broad understanding of American life. The material provides opportunity for the teaching of simple history, geography, civics, hygiene, elementary science, economics, and biography.

This is an introduction to the teaching of good English in speaking and writing, intended particularly as a help for the inexperienced teacher in this difficult phase of her work.

In this book we have the formidable difficulties of the transition from First Year Latin to Caesar admirably met. This is accomplished in large measure by a system of Introductory Lessons and The Training Camp. The book further contains a complete survey of Caesar’s entire story, the syntax that the pupil actually needs for the reading of Caesar, a vivid, interpretative introduction, and admirable notes in which the thought element of the Commentaries is emphasized, rather than the mere vocabulary.
