

OLD COMMONWEALTH.

HARRISONBURG, VA.
THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 1, 1883.

During the taking of testimony in the contested election case of Massey vs. Wise, last week in Richmond, Capt. John S. Wise struck Mr. Massey twice in the face, for which a police magistrate fined Capt. Wise $5. This assault of Capt. Wise, is a matter for deep regret, and we doubt not he regrets his hasty and passionate conduct more than any one else possibly can. This is upon the assumption that the chivalric blood of the Wise's courses in the veins of Capt. Wise; a family that has become historic for many attributes and patriotism. Mr. Massey's calling as a clergyman, together with his advanced age, should have shielded him from assault upon any provocation. We do not particularly admire Mr. Massey, for a preacher of the gospel has no right to be a politician, thus degrading the higher calling, but the profession of a clergyman should be respected, and under all the circumstances, Capt. Wise no doubt condemns his own act severely. The harm done does not however stop here. It affords the Northern press another opportunity to ridicule and deride our whole people, which they seized upon with avidity. Hence the regret is heightened. We hope that there shall be no more such ill-tempered and passionate outbursts.

The following from the Staunton Telegram of Saturday shows something of the depth of the indignation prevailing in that city at the verdict of the jury in the recent Amist trial. We learn that the announcement of the verdict of the jury created intense excitement, and such was the state of public feeling that the prisoner was hastily sentenced and speedily conveyed to Richmond, even before the Clerk could make out the necessary papers to commit him to the Penitentiary, the law officers fearing an outburst of popular indignation and possibly lynching. The Telegram says:—

The verdict in the Amist murder case, which has been awaited with interest as determining how far the surroundings of a deed of homicide may affect the degree of guilt of the criminal, has at last been rendered. That the lightness of the punishment has astonished every one, it is unnecessary to state, and the customary reflections on the weakness of the jury system as at all times a fitting tribunal for cases of this kind is heard on all sides. The social evil problem, essentially interwoven with this case is one that has perplexed philanthropists and reformers for too many centuries to require any new theories to be developed here. Nor has it anything to do with the gravity of the offense. Each of the men at the gallows, in the eyes of the law, was equally guilty, but that should not have in any degree removed the protection which the law of the land throws around the life of every citizen. The jury in this case evidently regarded the locality of the deed as beyond the pale of the law, and exempt from its penalties, or else they have groveled down to the theory that the life of a prostitute is so sacred and inviolate a shrine that one habitue, by reason of his longer intimacy with her was entitled to the life of his rival, as though he had invaded the sacred precincts of the home and forever defiled the honor of his name and the chastity of his bed. That any jury of enlightened men—with the evidence presented to them in the eminently fair but zealous and impressive prosecution—could arrive at the conclusion they did, is a matter of regretful astonishment to many who observe the growing tendency to cheapen human life. Harbors and its patrons will not be diminished by such a verdict, but men going on their sensual rounds will, as a result, arm themselves for any contingency that may arise, and sanguinary conflicts will be added to the native products of these ulcers of society. Unsat isfactory verdicts have likewise the effect of engendering mob violence, and the tedious delay of law, followed by excessive leniency, creates the lynching spirit that hung round the carcasses of this city not many years ago, and at a later day escorted the brutal murderer Rhodes, in the presence of the State's Attorney, in Albemarle county.

This is the second time, within the last decade, that juries empaneled from distant counties have rendered verdicts utterly in conflict with the general sense of the community, and hereafter it may be well to exhaust every effort to obtain a jury at home, before the State is subjected to the increased cost of importing one whose labors seem at the conclusion to have been mainly instrumental in diverting the aims of justice.

During the present week, besides disposing of the prop and new rule and the river and harbor bill, the House will have to act upon the general deficiency bill, upon conference committee reports concerning various other appropriation bills still pending, and finally upon the so-called Senate tariff bill, if the last-mentioned measure be sent to a committee of conference and be reported back in some altered shape for acceptance or rejection as a whole.

A number of important public bills will probably be brought before the House this week on motion to suspend the rules, among which are prominently mentioned the Senate bill to create a Court of Appeals (for the relief of the Supreme Court); the joint resolution for the abrogation of the fisheries outside of the treaty of Washington; the bill to create an agricultural commission; the bonded whiskey bill; the Senate bill to provide for the adjudication of the French spoliation claims; and (in the event of failure to obtain final action on the House internal revenue bill and its Senate tariff amendments) a bill to reduce internal revenue taxation as proposed by the pending bill, together with a reduction of the customs duties on steel rails and sugars.

The unfinished business to be laid before the Senate to-morrow is the House bill to provide for the payment of claims originating in the Federal States for quartermaster and commissary supplies (known as the "bush of July claims"), and as soon as this bill shall have been passed the Senate will resume its consideration of the Utah anti bigamy bill, reported from the Judiciary committee, and partly discussed last week.

We should not suffer from a Cough, when a few drops of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will cure. Time, money, comfort, health, all are saved by it.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DALE ENTERPRISE, VA.,
February 24, 1883.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week, a gang of Gypsies of the genuine Bohemian type, most unexpectedly appeared in this community, coming from the direction of Harrisonburg along the Rawley Springs pike. The very sight of such an ill-starred set of human beings, together with the bears, apes and monkeys, that they had along the highway, served to fill our school children and timid people with the greatest consternation. At the blacksmith shop of Daniel J. Good, the party halted long enough to have a mule shod, during which time the bears by way of improving the hour, set up a regular dance, at the conclusion of which one of them was given a fan. With this he approached the hardy son of Vulcan not seeming to understand what Bruin meant, backed out of his way, but presently getting him into a corner and his bearship beginning to show some disposition to "hug," he was forced to drop some money in the fan before he could get rid of him.

Their next halt was made at the store of J. W. Minnick, who after having been made the victim to a series of annoyances by their persistent demand for "money to see the bears dance," peremptorily ordered the whole troop of them off the premises. By night-fall they had stretched their tents in the woods near Pine Grove School-house, and not more than a few hundred yards from the residence of your correspondent. The gang when in camp, numbered about 25 persons, including women and children. Dirt, squalor and wretchedness, seemed to pervade the entire party. They all showed a remarkable proficiency in the art of begging. The women as they trudged from house to house, carried their children in old fertilizer sacks strapped on to their back.

When last heard from, the entire company had moved on as far as the front yard of Mr. Samuel J. Dundore, on War Branch. The terrified inmates of his household, not having seen their approach, must have imagined that a part of Barnum's menagerie had suddenly dropped from the skies.

A few days ago, a teacher in one of our public schools wishing to illustrate to his pupils the necessity of absolute precision in making correct statements to others, selected seven of the most capable boys for a trial of their skill in that direction. The plan was to show boy No. 1 a sentence written on a piece of paper, which he was to memorize and then whisper the same to boy No. 2, when, in turn, was to communicate it to the next, and so on, until the last boy who received it, should write it upon the blackboard. The following sentence was given to the first boy, Prov. 25, 28:—"The north wind driveth away rain, so doth an angry countenance a backbiting tongue." After each boy had communicated the sentence to his neighbor, the last one wrote upon the blackboard this extraordinary version: "The 23 and 25 raise up the rain, and last the backbiter and tongue-lasher."

Quite a number of weddings have occurred in this and surrounding sections within the past month. The latest was that of Mr. Charles Brady, of Spring Creek, to Miss Mary E. Coakley, which took place on the 29th, at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. Martin Miller. The bride is a daughter of R. J. Coakley, Esq., of the Coakleytown section.

Solomon Custer, a resident of this community, will with the opening of the season, go into the brick making business, and he expects to proceed on rather an extensive scale. Samuel Shrum & Son, of Dayton have been contracted with to superintend the business.

Mr. CRAWFORD, Va., Feb. 28, 1883.
John Foley, Esq., post-master at this place, on last Saturday, went over to North River and took possession of the effects belonging to that office, it having been discontinued by the authorities at Washington. A great deal of comment is heard concerning the matter, and we are informed that the office is in mourning, and a placard greets you at the door, bearing the following inscription: "This office is moved to Mr. Crawford by Billy Mahone. Parties heretofore receiving their mail at this office will be put to great inconvenience."

D. M. Switzer, Esq., of Harrisonburg, has been several days visiting his brother, Mr. S. C. Switzer, who has been confined to his room for several weeks. We are pleased to learn that he is improving and is in hopes of seeing him on our streets again in a short time.

The high price of bacon and the scarcity of pork has caused some members of the "light-fingered" crew to invade the precincts of Capt. Wise's smoke house, and steal a portion of his supply of meat.

Mrs. Emanuel Pence died last night about 12 o'clock with consumption, and will be buried to-morrow. Mr. Pence and one of his children are reported quite sick, but have not been able to learn the particulars.

COUNTY COURT PROCEEDINGS.—February Term, 1883.—Judge Johnston, Presiding. The following fiduciaries qualified: Milton Taylor, adm'r of Isaac Riddle; John M. Sautley, adm'r of Wm. Ruebush; Harvey J. Rosenberger, adm'r of Edmund J. Rosenberger, and Daniel S. Kyger, committee for Peter Kyger.

Joseph S. Loose and Chas. P. McQuaide qualified as notaries public.

Will of James A. Hume admitted to probate and ordered to be recorded.

Wm. D. Maiden, J. of P., paid into court $5 fine on a judgment for misdemeanor. Estate of Samuel Funkhouser committed to the sheriff for administration.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Rev. A. E. Wallis, of Houck & Wallis, has rented the Kisting property, on South Main street.

Why don't somebody buy the S. M. Bowman property and start a public garden, nursery and floral culture. It can be bought cheap.

The first ten days of the May term of the Circuit Court Judge Newman proposes to devote exclusively to chancery business. Then the jury cases tried as they are called—unless continued for good cause shown.

A doctor at Richmond says that if people will take a bath in hot whiskey and rock salt twice a year they will never catch a cold. Until somebody has tried this new remedy, we would say—stick to the old and reliable Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Rev. Dr. Armstrong preached a powerful temperance sermon at the West Market St. M.E. church Sunday night. Dr. A. is a most excellent preacher and his large congregation are much pleased with his labors in this place. He is a hard worker in the Master's service.

Colds yield to onions like magic, but Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a still better and by far more agreeable means of curing a cold or cough. You can buy a bottle for 25 cents at any drug store, and we are sure it will do the work every time.

In reply to our excellent correspondent at Elkton, we would say, that we have no very late news from the branch connection scheme with the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, the whole matter being in the hands of the railroad officials, but will at least express the hope that "things are working."

A very fine school is in operation at Elk Run church, in this county. The people are greatly pleased with it, and hence it is good when satisfactory to an excellent public. Our old friend, Mr. John C. Walker (the right man in the right place), is in charge, with Prof. M. G. Coffman as assistant. There are upwards of 70 pupils in the school.

Dr. W. J. Points has been appointed one of the Commissioners in chancery for the Circuit Court of this county and commissioner for the settlement of accounts of fiduciaries. There are several things about this appointment that strikes our notice. First, the appointment is a good and proper one, for the new incumbent is in every way well qualified for the business; he has always been a subscriber to this paper and a patron of this office, although a Republican, whilst the late incumbent has been neither, although claiming to be a Democrat. Quite strange, and we have no tears to shed.

To poison a well is one of the worst of crimes. It is worse to poison the fountain of life for one's self and for posterity, or to carelessly, or maliciously, or for avarice, to poison the life of others. Ayer's Sarsaparilla goes back of the symptoms, picks up these impure seeds from the blood, the vital stream, and restores appetite, strength and health.

At a meeting of the ladies of Harrisonburg, held at the Methodist church on the 25th of Feb'y, after the organization of a chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. Heineberger, of the Presbyterian church.
Vice Presidents—Mrs. A. C. Wallis, of the Methodist church, South; Mrs. Handy, of the Episcopal church; Miss Emma Ward, of the Presbyterian church; Miss Devier, of the Baptist church; Miss Buchanan, of the Lutheran church; Miss McQuaide, of the Roman Catholic church.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. M. Paul.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Dr. Doid.
Treasurer—Mrs. Sheffield Lewis.
Chairman of Committee on Literature—Mrs. Crawford Strayer.

WHAT IS DIPHTHERIA?—The name is comparatively new, but the disease is as old as sin itself. It is a condition of the throat something like croup, only worse, because it attacks the sufferer with such rapidity and in such a way as to stop the air passages. The throat is violently inflamed, and tough membrane, like leather, is very rapidly formed. BURNETT JAMES'S PATENT has cured thousands of cases of diphtheria. It acts so promptly, and so efficiently, that no family can afford to be without it.

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias in session at Hampton elected and installed the following officers for the ensuing year: Grand Chancellor, J. H. Alexander, Leesburg; Grand Vice Chancellor, David C. Richardson, Richmond; Grand Master of Exchequer, W. P. Greiter, Richmond; Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, Leroy S. Edwards, Richmond; Grand Master at Arms, E. A. Perry, Charlottesville; Inner Guard, J. A. Cosby, Richmond; Supreme Representative, D. J. Turner, of Portsmouth. The next meeting will be held in Petersburg on the third Tuesday in February, 1884.

A ROMANTIC RAAGED $2,000 BILL.—Many different stories are told about the prize which Underwood Fisher, of the Three Rivers House, drew in the Louisiana State Lottery. He stated the facts thus: Dec. 12th he sent $2, and received in return two tickets No. 31,401. He put the tickets away, and thought no more of it until three days after the drawing, when he received a dispatch saying that his ticket had drawn $20,000, his share of which was $4,000. From M. A. Dauphin, Pres't of the L.S. Co., New Orleans, through the First National Bank, he received his $4,000. Little things make quite a difference. He had a $2 bill ragged, and he sent it for a ticket. The moral is, that you send for lottery tickets when you get a ragged dollar bill.—From the Three Rivers (Mich.) Herald of January 15.

The ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Harrisonburg will hold a meeting in the lecture-room of the Methodist church on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and cordially invite all who wish to give their names and influence to the society to be present.

Temperance Lecture by a Lady in M. E. Church South.

There is, unquestionably, a general prejudice in the South against women as public speakers. They have to commence, striving against public sentiment. This was somewhat removed by the newspaper and current reports in the instance of Miss Mary Wadsworth, the representative of the Woman's Christian Temperance Association, who visited our town last week. But we were not prepared for so marvelous an exhibition of eloquence, erudition and logical argument, as manifested by Miss Wadsworth. The hall had not been told. Miss W. came Thursday evening; lectured in the Lecture-room of West Market St. church, to a very good audience. Sunday evening, at 8.30, in the auditorium of the same church, she lectured to one of the largest and most attentive audiences that has attended a temperance lecture in this town for many a day, and by special request at the colored Methodist church on German street, at 7 p. m.

Miss W., in her lecture Sunday afternoon, spoke of this temperance movement having the same elements and peculiarities of all great moral revolutions, beginning among the commoner people and receiving the encouragement and support of the higher classes. It had passed through the first stage and was now in the second stage, and moving on grandly, triumphantly.

She spoke of the effect in Ohio and Tennessee, insisting that, instead of protecting the liquor traffic, the government should prohibit it, showing by statistics that the costs of crime, &c., resulting from drunkenness, was much greater than all the revenue received from it.

This movement was undertaken and is being pushed under the direction and co-operation of Christian people, and the prayers of God's people were going up daily for its success. It could not fail.

Miss W. happily illustrated her points by illustrations from history and quotations from prominent thinkers of this and other days.

We have perhaps never heard the subject more powerfully presented, and hope that there may be great fruits reaped from her lecturing in our midst.

She should be welcomed anywhere, as a lady of intelligence, refinement, education and religion; a magnetic and eloquent speaker, who knows what she is talking about, and how to talk it. We say to our friends at other points she may visit, don't miss any opportunity you may have to hear this most excellent lady for the great cause of temperance.

Death of an Aged Lady.

It will be remembered that Dr. Wm. J. Points and daughter, attended the centennial birthday reception of Mrs. Prudence Lamb Glover, (nee Prudence Lamb), a great aunt of Dr. Points, at Carthage, Hamilton Co., Ohio.

On the 5th of February, Dr. Points received intelligence of the death of his aged relative, which occurred from the effect of a severe cold, on Wednesday, January 31st, 1883. Mrs. Glover was born in Howard Co., Maryland, on the 21st of June, 1780, and died at the age of 102 years, 7 months and 10 days. She retained all her faculties to the last moment, and but for the accident of contracting a cold, would have most probably lived several years longer.

She was a woman of most remarkable intelligence, and vigor of mind; and even at her extreme old age, took the most lively interest in the current events of the day, reading the daily papers, every morning, and exhibiting the greatest anxiety for their arrival. She was a member of the Christian Church, and a strong Republican in sentiment. She evinced the greatest satisfaction upon, and interest in the nomination and election of James A. Garfield to the Presidency in 1880, both on account of his church and political relations.

She was peculiarly free from the physical infirmities of old age. As an evidence, during the summer succeeding her 100th birthday she made, without assistance, a netted tidy and a pin cushion for each one of her grandchildren and other younger relations. A specimen of this handiwork is in the possession of Miss M. Ruth Points, of this place, a great-great niece of this venerable lady.

Miss Prudence Lamb removed with her parents to Kentucky at the age of 10 years, and at 20 married Mr. John Glover, of "Limestone," now Mayesville, Ky., where her husband led an active life as a surveyor and civil engineer. She became a widow soon after middle life, and was always the life and joy of her family circle. Her family was noted for its longevity, her elder sister Ruth, the mother of the late Capt. J. L. Stevenson and Mrs. Eliza Stevenson Points, of Staunton, having lived to the age of 87 years, and several other sisters and brothers to past 80 years.

Personal.

Col. Martz is at work in his office again. Samuel R. Sterling and wife reached home from their trip South on Tuesday evening.

Capt. P. A. Daingerfield is quite sick with pneumonia.

J. H. Shue is quite ill and confined to his bed at the Revere House.

Col. Wm. Simms, and Nat. Early, Esq., of Green county, were in town Monday and Tuesday.

Turner and Miller, Punkschouer, of Mt. Jackson, students last year in the Shenandoah Seminary, have gone to Paquaur to work their father's farm recently purchased there.

Cards are out for the wedding of Rev. Geo. P. Hott, of Dayton, O. B. Station, to Miss Carrie Robinson, of Frederick Co., to take place March 1st.

"Middle measures are often but 'mildlings' about Kidney-Wort. It is the most thoroughly refined 'flower' of medicine. It knows no half-way measures, but radically uproots all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels. It overthrows piles, abolishes constipation and treats the system so gently and soothingly as to prove its true kinship to nature in all its forms. It is prepared in both liquid and dry form."
