

high school itself in the public school system must in the final analysis be determined. It is my hope, which I see increasingly fulfilled, that in each junior high school building the most beautiful quarters will be assigned to the library, that each junior high school faculty will contain a trained librarian, and that each school administrator's budget will include an annual appropriation for library growth.

FIRST PRIZE TO VIRGINIA HIGH SCHOOL MAGAZINE

A Virginia high school magazine was awarded first prize in the Columbia University Press Association meet, held in New York March 13 and 14, when The Critic, literary magazine published by the students of the E. C. Glass High School, Lynchburg, won on the basis of its superiority over all other magazines entered in the contest by high schools of more than 1,000 enrollment.

Attending the meet from Lynchburg were three high school students, Lewis Matton, editor-elect of The Critic for the coming year, and two members of the staff of the school newspaper, The High Times, which was also entered in a similar contest arranged for high school newspapers. The three Lynchburg boys were sent to New York with all expenses paid by three local civic clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions.

Since the establishment of the newspaper at Lynchburg a year ago, The Critic has been developed into a purely literary magazine. English teachers who have assisted in advising the staff are Miss Eveline O. Wiggins, Miss Elsie V. Talbot, and Mrs. H. T. Nicholas.

ORGANIZATION STRENGTHENED

H. Augustus Miller, Jr., president of the English Section of the State Teachers Association, is much gratified at the progress made in organizing the English teachers by districts. In every district except "I" time has been provided on the program for the English teachers to meet.

Miss Gertrude Bowler, of Lawrenceville, is chairman of the District D organization, which is scheduled to meet in Petersburg early in April. Miss Eva Branch, of John Marshall High School, undertook to organize the teachers of District C, which met at Richmond on March 28. Miss Anna S. Johnston, of Portsmouth, is president of the organization in District B. District E, meeting at Martinsville March 21, was to be organized by Miss Mary L. Goode. The teachers of District K, meeting at Lebanon March 20 and 21, were to be called together by President McConnell of the Radford State Teachers College.

It is hoped that before the next annual educational conference the English teachers in each of the eleven districts will have local organizations.

CHIEF OBJECTIVE IN ENGLISH WORK

Members of the English department at the E. C. Glass High School, Lynchburg, have felt for some time that the greatest weakness in their teaching lay in the written work. This condition is not peculiar to our school, perhaps, as complaints come from all the colleges to the effect that freshmen do not recognize a sentence, have no conception of punctuation, and spell poorly. Recognizing this fact, the English teachers have taken as their objective "More and Better Written Work." They have determined that students shall write and speak correctly their mother tongue. To this end more practice and drill is being given and substantial co-operation from other departments is being given by their demanding papers correct not only in content, but in expression, sentence structure, punctuation, and spelling.
