may be omitted without seriously interfering with the effectiveness of the whole. The units cover practically every phase of home economics except clothing and foods.

The subject matter is grouped under the following heads—Family Relationship and Home Management; Health and Home Care of the Sick; and Child Care and Development.

This book fills a real need, and should prove a great help to both experienced and inexperienced high school teachers of home economics.

THE FOLK COSTUME BOOK. By Frances H. Haire. New York: A. S. Barnes and Company. 1927. Pp. 150. $6.00.

This is a book of real value to the director of the dance, festival, pageant, or play, when information on folk costume is desired.

The author has selected as typical of each country not the elaborate festival or wedding costume of that country nor the work-a-day dress but has struck a happy medium in the choice of the usual attire seen at county fairs, at church, or neighborhood dances. The costumes selected are simple, pretty, and inexpensive to reproduce. In cases where single and married women wear different type dresses both are shown.

The description of the costumes and directions

The description of the costumes and directions for making are greatly simplified by the use of richly colored illustrations. From these, general effects are easily gotten, which facilitate the task of accurate reproduction.

The volume includes, in addition to folk costumes of twenty-two European countries, the costume of the American Indian, and the three typical American period costumes most frequently sought, the colonial, the western front, and the style of 1850-1870. Unfortunately, illustrations are omitted in the descriptions of the American costumes.

- A CHARACTER BOOK FOR THE FOURTH GRADE. By Curtis Gentry. Boston: D. C. Heath and Co. 1929. Pp. 71. 36 cents.
- A CHARACTER BOOK FOR THE FIFTH GRADE. By Curtis Gentry. Boston: D. C. Heath and Co. 1929. Pp. 79. 36 cents.
- A CHARACTER BOOK FOR THE SIXTH GRADE. By Curtis Gentry. Boston: D. C. Heath and Co. 1929. Pp. 79. 36 cents.

At this time, when much of research relative to Character Education has been and is still being done by some of our foremost educators, it is interesting to find material which can be put directly into the hands of the pupil. Such are the above-named books, in which the author has brought together definite material leading towards character-making.

As already indicated, this has been graded to fit the needs of the intermediate-grades children, and, as Mr. Gentry points out, the books may be used as supplementary reading once each week, or may alternate with minor subjects, thereby making no interference with the regular curriculum. The type of lessons, most of which relate to heroic persons or deeds of both historic and modern times, is particularly appealing to boys and girls of this period of school life, and, in order to help these lessons more definitely to become a part of the child—to help him to do right because it is right, provision is made for specific work, including self-measurement tests, besides the mere reading of each selection, and suggestions are made to the teacher that opportunity be furnished for the child to put into practice these different desirable traits.

Since character education is, today, pre-eminently the school's job, these books should find a ready welcome from the teacher.

A LETTER TO THE ALUMNAE

H. T. C., Saturday

Dearest Home Economics Alumnæ:

We certainly don't want the home economics issue of the VIRGINIA TEACHER to go out without a word of greeting to you!

Lots of things have happened since you left, but the campus looks about the same as last year except that of course you would miss one of the old barns, and you would see the stakes which mark the new administration building. You know this building will be between Maury and Walter Reed.

This is Sophomore week and the white and green are in evidence everywhere. The lobby in Harrison looks most attractive and the Sophs. look their best in white and green. The class held chapel Friday. Mr. Duke gave us a look into the future of a new age even more wonderful than our own.
