

the product of months of cooperative study on the part of archaeologists from the University Museum, faculty members in the University's departments of ancient languages and fine arts, and experienced architects.

Drawn uniformly to a scale of three-eighths of an inch to one foot, the models are complete and accurate in every detail of architecture, decoration and furniture, according to Mr. Jayne. Wall thickness alone has been ignored, as all the models, with the exception of the Babylonian house, are of cardboard.

The walls and furnishings are printed on water color paper, mounted on cardboard, and are prepared in large sheets ready for cutting out, coloring and assembling. Complete descriptions of each model, color sheets and directions for assembling, and costume figures to scale are included.

The Roman house, of the First Century A. D., is based on Mau's "typical plan" of a Pompeiian house. The model illustrates the four types of Pompeiian wall painting and the four main types of Roman pavement, and demonstrates the development of Roman architecture from the Third Century, B. C., to 79 A. D.

It includes the famous mosaics from the House of the Faun, wall paintings from the House of Sallust, the House of the Tragic Poet, and the cubiculum from Boscoreale now in the Metropolitan Museum of New York.

The Egyptian house is of 1400 B. C., and is a restoration of the "Weinachtshaus" at Tell-el-amarna excavated recently by British and German archaeologists. It represents the main dwelling on the estate of an Egyptian nobleman at about the time of Tutankhamen.

Reconstructed from Viollet le Duc's studies in Medieval architecture and from Fifteenth Century miniatures, the Medieval house represents the home of a cloth merchant of Rouen at the beginning of the Fifteenth Century.

The Babylonian house project involves cut-out patterns for constructing in celotex a model of a town house in Ur of the Chaldees at about the time of Abraham. The walls of the Babylonian model are undecorated, and, according to University Museum authorities, the chief value of this model is to students of architecture and ancient history, rather than to students of art.

Of the various models, which are being distributed through the educational department of the University Museum in Philadelphia, the Roman is the largest when completed, measuring four feet by two feet by ten inches, and the smallest is the Medieval which is eighteen inches long, eight inches wide and fifteen inches high.

THE READING TABLE

ADMINISTRATION OF HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION. By Jesse Feiring Williams and Clifford Lee Brownell. Philadelphia: W. B. Saunders Company. 1934. Pp. 596. $3.00.

Health and physical education are presented as a single administrative unit; legal aspects of health service and instruction, organization, curriculum, and equipment are discussed, as well as budget and finance, and maintenance of public interest in, and support of, the health program. Although the book is designed as a textbook for students of physical education, it will be of value to superintendents and principals, as well as to physical education directors.

There are questions for study and discussion with each chapter, valuable illustrative material, and an appendix with diagrams for playing areas.

NEWS OF THE COLLEGE

New faculty appointments for the current session include Mrs. Bernice Reaney Varner as professor of home economics, Dr. G. A. Williams as professor of chemistry and physics, Miss Ferne Hoover as assistant librarian in place of Miss Anne Newton, resigned, and Miss Grace Ellington as first grade supervisor in the training school.

Mrs. Varner is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan and George Peabody College for Teachers, and has studied at the University of Chicago, Teachers College, Columbia University, the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and the Illinois State Normal University. She has been head of the home economics department at the State Normal School, Trenton, N. J., and at the State Teachers College, Murfreesboro, Tenn., and associate professor of home economics at the University of Tennessee and at George Peabody College for Teachers.

Dr. Williams is an A. B. of Lebanon Valley College, an A. M. of Iowa State University, a Ph. D. of Yale University. He has been connected with the science departments of Bethany College, Atlantic Christian College, Jefferson Medical College, Yale University, Radford (Va.) State Teachers College, and Atlantic University. He has recently headed the Virginia division of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. A sudden illness and surgical operation has delayed his arrival in Harrisonburg, and his work is being temporarily cared for by Dr. Amos M. Showalter, of Bridgewater, Va.

Miss Hoover holds the bachelor of arts degree from Bridgewater College and the master of arts degree from the George Peabody College for Teachers, and has studied at the college here and at the University of Virginia. Miss Hoover was teacher-librarian in Carroll-District High School, Hamlin, W. Va., assistant librarian at Central Senior-Junior High School, Parkersburg, W. Va., and instructor in library science at New River State College, Montgomery, W. Va.

Initial enrolment figures for the fall quarter showed 770 students, but extension classes for county and city teachers on Saturday morning and Monday night have brought the total to the 800 mark. New students (freshmen and "transfers") from Virginia, Florida, North Carolina, Georgia, California, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, and Pennsylvania total 290.

At the twenty-sixth college convocation held Wednesday morning, October 3, Dr. Tipton R. Snavely, professor of economics at the University of Virginia, spoke on "The Problems of School Finance," stressing the trend toward state control of the public school system.

Officers of the upper classes were elected during the last week of September, as follows:

Senior Class: Marian Smith, Norwood, Penn., president; Florence Holland, Eastville, vice-president; Mary Van Landingham, Petersburg, secretary; Virginia Bean, Cumberland, Md., treasurer; Joyce Rieley, Troutville, business manager; Alma Fultz, Butterworth, sergeant-at-arms.

Junior Class: Evelyn Pugh, Edom, president; Margaret Newcomb, Formosa, vice-president; Annie Cox, Baywood, secretary; Mary Moore Davis, Charlottesville, treasurer; Marguerite Holder, Winston-Salem, N. C., business manager; Helen Madjeski, Elizabeth, N. J., sergeant-at-arms.

Sophomore Class: Nancy Turner, Norfolk, president; Marion Sullivan, Charleston, W. Va., vice-president; Margaret Shank, Harrisonburg, secretary; A. Glenn Darden, Holland, treasurer; Louise Faulconer, Unionville, business manager; Lois Sloop, Harrisonburg, sergeant-at-arms.

Eighty-five scholarships were made possible by the Federal Relief Administration for the 1934-35 session. Over 50% of the loans were granted to new students who could not have come to school without financial aid.

Green Pastures, Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize-winning comedy-drama, has been secured as a feature of the lyceum course this year. The play, with its original cast, including Benjamin Harrison as "De Lawd," will appear here the middle of February, according to a recent announcement.

Symbolizing the union of the old and new girls in one student body, the new girl-old girl wedding was solemnized in Wilson Hall auditorium Wednesday afternoon, October 10. Helen Willis, of Clarks-ville, representing the new girls as the bride, and Marian Smith, Norwood, Pa., as president of the Senior class, were the parties joined by Henrietta Manson, president of the Student Government Association. The bride had as her maid of honor Doris Parker, of Norfolk; and as bridesmaids, Genevieve Stone, Long Beach, N. Y.; Millicent Leggett, Christiansburg; Helen Irby, Blackstone; Alice West, Salem; Margaret Dixon, Winston-Salem, N. C.; and Elizabeth Gilley, Axton.

Eugenia Trainum and Dorothy Lipscomb, editor and business manager, respectively, of The Breeze, attended a joint convention of the Associated Collegiate Press and The National College Press Association in Chicago from October 11-13. The programs presented noted speakers from the fields of journalism and advertising, and allowed for a tour of The Century of Progress exposition and several social features.

Ruth Shular, editor, and Mary Blankenship, business manager of The Schoolma'am have signed with Andre Studios, of Staunton, for photographs for the 1934-35 year-book. Engraving will be done by the Lynchburg Engraving Co., while the printing of the annual has been awarded to the Bell Printing Co., also of Lynchburg.

Misses Shular and Blankenship, as delegates of The Schoolma'am, attended the annual convention of the Virginia Inter-collegiate Press Association at V. P. I. October 26-27. At this meeting cups and certificates were awarded for the best Virginia student publications.

In the annual basket ball clash between the new and old girls Friday evening, October 12, the old girls were victorious by a score of 40-18. Emily Pittman, captain of varsity, was individual high scorer.

Eight varsity hockey players and a large group of raw recruits reported for practice at the beginning of the season. The Virginia Hockey Tournament will be held November 2 at Lynchburg with Randolph-Macon Woman's College and Lynchburg College acting as joint hosts. Captain Todd states that no schedule can be announced until after the meet.

Fifteen Cotillion goats this fall are Marjorie Adkins, Lynchburg; Marjorie Fulton, Gate City; "Babe" Simmerman, Roanoke; Mary Blankenship, Clifton Forge; Julia Courter, Amelia; Hattie Courter, Amelia; Sophia Rogers, Portsmouth; Grace Mayo, Portsmouth; Ann Gunter, Greensboro, N. C.; Alyce Geiger, Los Angeles, Calif.; "Pokey" Cramer, Crewe; Dorothy Beach, Norfolk; Catherine Beale, Norfolk; Frances Pigg, Washington; Nancy Turner, Norfolk.

New members admitted to the Glee Club recently are Frances Sifford, Norfolk; Audrey Slaughter, Charleston, W. Va.; Adelaide Howser, Clarendon; Alice West, Salem; Lottie Thornton, Callands; Millicent Leggett, Christiansburg; Marian White, Washington; Alice Thompson, Charleston, W. Va.

Stratford Dramatic Club initiates for the fall quarter number seven: Frances Wells, Suffolk; Nancy Turner, Norfolk; Ellen Eastham, Harrisonburg; Florence Holland, Eastville; Catherine Beale, Holland; Elizabeth Gilley, Axton; and Margaret Aldhizer, Roanoke.

Construction on the new dormitory is making rapid headway, according to the contractors. If finished by December 31, according to schedule, this building will be occupied by the seniors immediately after Christmas.

The Harrisonburg campus was visited by a geography caravan from Clark University, at Worcester, Mass., on October 5, on its itinerary of the Shenandoah Valley. Eighteen advanced students accompanied by professors in geography are making the field study. They plan to cover fifteen states and a distance of more than 10,000 miles on this progressive geography tour.

Approximately 220 students, accompanied by Dr. Duke and Mr. Raus Hanson, climbed Massanutten Peak last Saturday. This is a yearly trip which many enjoy.

In a recent class meeting the Seniors elected Peg Regan, Montclair, N. J., representative to the athletic council. Ruth Early, Good Hope, and Geraldine Potts, Roundhill, were elected as representatives to the Student Council. Edith Todd, Richmond, and Margaret Hopkins, Michaels, Md., were named to the Impaneling Board. Louise Allred, Winston-Salem, N. C., was chosen hockey sports leader.

Lucy Clarke, Catalpa, was recently elected president of the Debating Club. She succeeds Joyce Reiley who resigned.

At the first meeting of the Garden Club the following new officers were elected: Elizabeth Thrasher, president; Mary T. Gannaway, vice-president; Florence Heins, secretary-treasurer; Miss Grace Palmer, sponsor.

A number of students are availing themselves of the opportunity to study shorthand and typewriting in a class organized by Mary Frances Brown, a senior, who has had extensive study and experience in these fields.

Summer graduates of Harrisonburg numbered 69, of whom 39 were completing the two-year professional course. Four received the B. S. in home economics and 26 in high school teaching and administration and elementary teaching and supervision.

Clyde Hellen Schular, of Broadway, was elected chief scribe of Scribblers at the last meeting of the club held in the studio, Monday, October 8. The new chief scribe is a member of the Senior class and an active member of The Breeze staff.

Annie Cox, Baywood; Martha Jane Snead, Etna Mills, and Mildred Johnson, Lexington, were elected representatives of the Junior class to the Student Council at a recent meeting of the class.

Marguerite Holder, Winston-Salem, N. C., was chosen as class hockey sports leader.

ALUMNAE NOTES

The Alumnae luncheon during the Educational Conference will be held at the Hotel Richmond Thanksgiving day at noon. The luncheon will be over in time for football games and various meetings. It is hoped that all Harrisonburg alumnae in Richmond for the meeting will be present.

Mary Jo Walters, for many years a teacher in the Waterman public school, of Harrisonburg, and an active worker in the Presbyterian church, was instantaneously killed on September 12, the opening day of school, when her car went over an embankment at Mt. Crawford. Miss Walters had graduated in the professional course in 1924.

Elva Mason, '34, of Mineral, is teaching Home Economics in the Prince George High School. Last year Elva assisted in the nursery school organized on the college campus as a Federal project.

Bridgewater Bennett is living in Miami, Florida. After doing substitute work in the public schools in 1930, she took a stenographic course, and is now secretary to the president of Burdine's, one of Miami's large department stores.

Lelia Kearney, whose address is 1436 Longfellow St., N. W., Washington, D. C., has a class of thirty-nine children in an accelerated sixth grade and finds the work very pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis (Laura Henley, '18) and their two young daughters spent a few hours on campus in July. Laura and her family were much interested in seeing the many changes that have taken place on the campus. Laura's home is still in Hollywood, Fla.

Among the Home Economics Committee here from Aug. 12 to Aug. 25 working on the Curriculum Production Program were the following alumnae: Olivia Malmgren, Norfolk County; Beth Jordan, Nettie Yowell, Boyce; and Evelyn Glick, Mt. Sidney.