In these final years of formal education.
We find there is so much to learn . . .
So Many Facets of Life . . .
A Search For Peace Of Mind,

A Searching For Who We Are.

And, it's almost over. Almost over? Well, anyway, school will soon be over and we will face whatever it is that college seniors face when they get out. After years of school, we will be finished except for those of us who have chosen to go on to a higher degree. In the year of being a senior, we relive our whole school life again — waiting for recess; hating the kid that sat behind you and kicked the books out of your desk, or pulled at your sweater until it looked liked it belonged to your older brother; the bully in the class, who always had to make you trip in front of all the girls; the teacher who picked on you; the failed test that was all because she snuck a tricky question in; sitting in the movies, one seat apart from the person you liked, and being so interested in the movie, and then not being able to even remember the name of the movie; or having such a good time at the dance, laughing and talking to all of your friends and wishing all the time he or she would come over and just say hello; the football games where you screamed so much you lost your voice, or got so cold you thought you'd never get warm; or the "dirty dealings" with the competition school, painting their sidewalk your school colors, or stealing their mascot; the crying, hair pulling, and absolute indecision about where to go to college and what to take when you get there; the scary feeling you got when your parents drove off and left you alone at Madison; the new friends, good friends, new experiences, and new ideas. Somehow, we all made it through the lonely weekends, all night study sessions, acceptance of lower grades and learning to work harder; the En-thoozes; the Thursday nights at the student union; the coffee houses; Homecomings; concerts; being treated as an equal by your professors and obtaining the status of Mr., Miss, or Mrs.; being involved with the college and learning about people. Life is a learning experience and for us, the Senior class, our education has ended and begun at the same time. We do not have the answers, but then, who does? We experience life as we live it.

Panellenic Council

Panellenic Council consists of representatives from each of the eight national sororities on campus. These representatives strive to promote inter-sorority relations, to coordinate common interests, and to work with the administration in maintaining standards. Each year Panellenic Council sponsors many projects, such as a scholarship to a qualifying Greek junior, a cancer drive, a blood drive, and numerous Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter Salvation Army projects.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega is an organization that provides service activities for national, community, college, and fraternal benefit. It is based on the Greek system, having the traditional pledge period and membership, and is open only to males with a willingness to work. Each year they have at least four projects, one of these being of major importance each semester. They have sponsored the Bike-a-Thon for the American Cancer Society, worked with the local Salvation Army at Christmas, and provided services such as library book-lifts for the students. They also got involved with other Greek organizations in order to achieve better working relations between the different groups.
Delta Sigma Theta Sorority is a national greek service sorority. As part of Delta's service endeavors, Iota Alpha Chapter emphasizes educational, economic, and housing and urban development; community and international involvement; and mental health awareness. Activities in which Delta has participated include the Sickle Cell Anemia Awareness Program and the Health Fair Program. Also, Delta contributed a food box to a needy family. As far as educational development is concerned, Delta conducted their annual Teen-Lift Program to help promote motivation among high school students.

Kappa Sigma is one of the oldest and largest fraternities. Founded at the University of Virginia in 1869, it has more than 175 chapters and colonies. National Headquarters in Charlottesville is only an hour’s drive away. Lambda Sigma chapter, an outgrowth of the old KEG local fraternity, celebrated its first birthday on February 28th. The Brothers have won first prize in the Homecoming Parade twice in the past three years, are strong in athletics, and stand second in grade point average. They and The Stardusters are a friendly, outgoing group; they went out into the cold to have this picture taken.

WMRA

On November 12, 1975, WMRA changed from a 10-watt campus radio station to a professional 50,000-watt radio station serving the Shenandoah Valley. Then, as now, WMRA's primary purpose has been to provide extensive hands-on, practical radio experience for students in the Communication Arts department, whose concentrations are in the area of radio, television, and film. There, students can learn about all phases of radiowork, in a well-supervised environment run by five full-time professional staff members. From writing copy, to reporting news, to hosting a live music program, students can find their niche in the world of radio, and receive valuable training for the future.

As an open organization for all those interested in library science, Alpha Beta Alpha, provides the opportunity for those interested in the library science field to expand their career goals. The Madison chapter, Alpha Alpha, provided programs by which this could be achieved. Included in their activities were reading programs centered around children's literature and best-selling novels. In addition, the club has sponsored speakers to provide the club members with information on opportunities in the library science field. During the spring semester, a district meeting of Alpha Beta Alpha was sponsored by the Madison chapter to provide the members a chance to exchange ideas with other members.

Alpha Epsilon Rho, the honorary broadcasting society, is open to anyone active in broadcasting with a 3.0 average in their broadcasting courses as well as a 2.0 over-all average. The society provides the opportunity for its members to get together and meet others in broadcasting — both fellow students and professionals. This year they sponsored movies and dances to raise money to bring in various speakers. In addition, they hosted the annual regional convention which was attended by three regional chapters.

To Articulate the problems of black students at Madison College, to establish communication with the black community and to foster black awareness among themselves and the community as a whole are among the goals stated in the constitution of the Black Student Alliance. To attain these goals the organization sponsored various programs throughout the year. Among these were, Black History Week in recognition of the many achievements of black individuals, and a choral group which gave medley performances in the Harrisonburg area. Perhaps best known was the radio show, “Ebony in Perspective” on WMRA as a weekly broadcasted spot, providing current and historical black cultural information. A useful, concerned group, the Black Student Alliance worked on promoting interest and involvement in campus activities.

1977 Bluestone Staff

The purpose of the Bluestone is that of any yearbook; except that this one is for Madison College — hopefully James Madison University soon. The Bluestone tries to change and grow with the school. Sometimes we succeed, sometimes we fail. We all have different preferences and perhaps this is why the book doesn’t appeal to everyone and perhaps why programs offered here at school vary so. We hope you find something you like and some things you don’t like. I hope you find something to remember Madison College for.

Twenty-five years ago The Breeze published a two-page paper announcing that there would be no news because students and administrators would not cooperate. "Almost every club has a reporter," the front page editorial stated, "but many of them aren't doing their jobs." In subsequent years, a regular newspaper evolved. This year The Breeze underwent a year of expansion as a concentrated effort by the staff met fruition in numerous innovations. The size of the paper nearly doubled over the previous year, and The Breeze successfully published twice a week. A hard core staff, most of whom were or would be actively involved in professional journalism, turned an award-winning newspaper into what many regarded as "the best college newspaper in Virginia." In addition to the staff, The Breeze relied on many practicum students and volunteers who not only helped report the news, but who also aided in the behind the scenes tasks that made the paper work. The work of staff and students is finally realized by the students, when the paper hits the stands. And what faculty and students read is the only collegiate newspaper in Virginia published twice a week, the Virginia collegiate newspaper with the most comprehensive coverage, and a nationally recognized newspaper, winner of the Columbia Journalism School medalist award for excellence.

Exactly what the name implies, the Biological Interest Organization consists of any individual interested in the study of biology, and does not require the members to be biology majors. Its major concern being to promote an interest in biology, the club has sponsored such activities as speakers on biological and cultural science topics, plant sales, and field trips.

CCM offers an opportunity for Catholic students to express and share their faith with one another and with the surrounding community. Through CCM, students offered opportunities of worship, prayer, and social ministries to a nursing home, a prison road camp, and a home for the physically handicapped, plus social activities.
The Campus Program Board is responsible for programming the majority of the entertainment here at Madison. It is formed of voluntary student committees—movies, travel, publicity, house, tickets, special events, and coffeehouses—that jointly plan and execute the events. It is governed by the executive board, which is made up of the chairmen of the committees. They constantly strive to program as much variety as possible that appeals to the majority of the students. This year they presented AWB, Tommy, The Exorcist, Dave Brubeck, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, and student coffeehouses. One of the CPB's most noted contributions of the year was the addition of the large TV in the Warren Campus Center.
As one of Madison's most active organizations, Circle K sponsored a variety of events throughout the year which greatly benefited Madison College and the Harrisonburg community. Club members assisted the staff at the Harrisonburg SPCA, sponsored a Halloween Haunted House to benefit M.S., worked with patients at local nursing homes, and collected food baskets for local needy families. Circle K worked with children through the Salvation Army and junior high school Builders club — a group organized by Circle K. Other activities included registering people for body-organ donor programs and sponsoring student health screening clinics. Through its various projects, Circle K prepares its members for a lifetime commitment to community involvement.
The Chemical Society, affiliated with the American Chemical Society, affords students of chemistry and other related disciplines an opportunity to become better acquainted, to obtain experience in preparing and presenting seminars of technical matter, to provide association with professional organizations, industries, academia, and to create an awareness of the responsibilities and challenges of today's chemist.

The Council for Exceptional Children is a national organization, whose primary purpose is to promote the welfare and education of exceptional children — both gifted and handicapped. Providing as much practical experience as is possible, each year the CEC sponsors activities such as Halloween parties, the Special Olympics; as well as an Annual Mini Convention with work-shops and panel discussions for the members. This year they also sponsored an Exceptional Child Week.

Madison Dance Theatre

Madison Dance Theatre is primarily an undergraduate company of students who perform in either the Folk or Modern Ensembles or work with technical dance theatre. Each Ensemble produces a campus concert and accepts several engagements each semester in communities, schools, and colleges throughout Virginia. This year Madison Dance Theatre was asked to perform in the Richmond Invitaitional Dance Concert, give a folk dance concert in Roanoke, and dance in the Page County Historical Association's Pageant, Oh Shenandoah. Both Ensembles participated in the Williamsburg Bicentennial Costume Ball, the Madison Fine Arts Festival, and went to schools to give assembly programs and classes. As a result of the Israeli Dance Festival Concert this fall, members of the Folk Ensemble were invited to be guests of the Israeli Embassy while they were in Washington, D.C. to perform in the Fifth Annual Israeli Folk Dance Festival. MDT helps to host dance companies who come to the Madison College campus. The Ririe-Woodbury Dance Company from Salt Lake City and the 5 by 2 Dance Company were highlights of the total campus dance calendar this year. Folk dance specialists Shirley Waxman, Israeli dance, and Juan Manuel Lozano, Mexican dance, came to campus to help the Folk Ensemble research and produce dances and costumes authentic to Israel and Mexico.

Delta Sigma Pi is a professional fraternity organized to foster the study of business in universities, and to encourage scholarship and the association of students for their mutual advancement. In addition, they strive to further a higher standard of commercial ethics for the civic and commercial welfare of the community. To uphold these ideals the fraternity participated in the College Business Symposium which was sponsored by the Harrisonburg-Rockingham County Chamber of Commerce, toured a C.P.A. firm, and offered a resume service for seniors on campus. This year the members received the honor of appearing on the cover of their national magazine for their participation in National Pitch-In Week. They spent an entire day cleaning the streets of Harrisonburg.

The Madison Collegiate DECA — Distributive Education Clubs of America — chapter and its programs are an integral part of the total Distributive Education curriculum. The club's business, professional, and social activities are designed to allow practical application of DE, knowledge, and skills. By developing a respect for education in marketing and distribution, and encouraging civic responsibility and competent leadership, DECA contributes to the job competencies necessary for successful careers as educators and in individuals in the field of distribution in our free enterprise system. All these ideals were met through activities with the local community. The club sponsored officer training programs for local high school DECA clubs and provided its members with personal contacts in the fields of marketing and distributing. Additional knowledge was gained by cooperation with the local Chamber of Commerce.

The Madison College Debate and Forensics Teams compete in over 30 intercollegiate tournaments, against over 100 other colleges and universities, each season. A recent addition to Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, the intercollegiate forensics honorary, Madison's team is rapidly developing a reputation as a strong, highly competitive contender for national honors.

The Madison College Dukettes are a duel purpose group of girls serving the college and students. One of their main functions is to serve as campus hostesses in events such as receptions, banquets, athletic events, prospective student recruitment and other similar activities. Another function is to serve as a performing pep group for the basketball season. In addition to acting as game hostesses, they perform pre-game and halftime pep routine and activities to help add to the spirit of the game.
The purpose of the English Club is to stimulate an interest in writing and an appreciation of literature among the students at Madison. Club activities this year have included: a picnic for English faculty and students, a speech by Dr. David Hallman entitled “1922: The Annus Mirabilis,” a library book discussion of “One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest” — the novel, play, and film in comparison, a personal poetry explication by Mr. Geoffrey Morley-Mower, a speech by Dr. Mark Hawthorne on Irish literature, and a forum with a panel of professional businessmen on “What Can You Do With an English Major Besides Teach?”

Eta Sigma Gamma is a professional Health Science Honorary established at Madison College in 1974. Their goal being to promote Health Education at every opportunity. The club has aided in health fairs and sponsored community related projects.

The Frances Sale Home Economics Club provides professional development for future home economists. Members attend the state Home Economics convention and various workshops and retreats held throughout the year.

On campus, the group annually conducts a product safety seminar. In addition this year, in conjunction with the Breeze, they began a weekly Consumer News column.

The Home Economics Student-Faculty Relations Council is a non-monetary organization for both faculty and students. It is designed to give students a chance to discuss curriculum, classroom problems, and other departmental activities. It is broken into three groups:

Dietetics, General, and Education. Their main social function was a Christmas party. This year they also sponsored a trip to the American Home Economics Headquarters in Washington, D.C.
Geological Association

The Geological Association of Madison College is for all persons interested in Geology, whether majors or non-majors. The G.A.M.C., in association with the Geology faculty or on its own, sponsors seminars throughout the academic year on many topics relating to the field of Geology. Fund raising projects include the selling of U.S.G.S. maps, and rock and map sales held throughout the year. The G.A.M.C. also sponsors field and caving trips for all interested persons.

Also, in the near future, the club will be sponsoring exchange programs with Geology Departments of other major colleges in order to give the members a greater degree of variety in the different disciplines of the geology field. All of the above activities are directed toward broadening the academic and social aspects of the geology field for the purpose of producing a higher degree of professionalism in the geology majors at Madison College.

As an honorary educational fraternity, Kappa Delta Pi encourages high professional, intellectual, and personal standards among its members. Leading educators in the United States and abroad aid the advancement of the fraternity through their contributions to The Educational Forum, the society’s official magazine. Projects this year were for the community. During American Education Week twenty-one posters were made for Keister Elementary School to be displayed in area business firms. Financial aid, in the form of fifty dollars from the fraternity’s treasury, was donated to the Riverdale Home for Boys. At Christmas time the organization filled twenty stockings with toys and candy. These were then distributed by the Salvation Army. Members also participated with the Youth Association for Retarded Citizens in a formal dance for the community’s retarded citizens.
Kappa Pi is an international fraternity for both men and women. With the goal of promoting an interest among students, they strive to bring art departments of different colleges together through various activities.

Service projects for this year were done for the art department and the college. Activities included a faculty art show, day trips, and workshops.

The Madisonians Jazz Choir is open by audition to anyone enrolled at Madison College. About half the group are music majors and half in other areas at the college. The members are encouraged to develop their jazz and pop music style through solo, as well as ensemble singing. Both at the college and on tour, the group has performed a number of outstanding concerts.

The half-time shows at football games, the Veterans Day Parade, the Homecoming Parade, and the Christmas Parade are just a few of the events at which the Marching Band performed. Directed by Mr. Kenneth Moulton, the band performed a wide variety of music ranging from “When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again” to “The Hustle”. Numbering 115 members, they are certainly one of Madison’s most entertaining groups.

DRUM MAJORS: Debra Sawyers, Gary Hoffman.
The Math Club of Madison College meets twice monthly to present and discuss math problems on such topics as statistics, number theory, and numerical analysis. The club's activities this year included speakers from Madison and other schools, picnics in the spring and fall at Hillandale Park, and an annual Christmas party.

The Men's Volleyball Club was formed to provide students and faculty with opportunity to play and compete in power volleyball. The club is a registered member of the United States Volleyball Association and participates in sanctified tournaments in Virginia and surrounding states on the east coast.
The Mercury Club strives for active involvement by all members, faculty members, and graduate students to help promote and strengthen the Physical Education and Health Departments. Their activities during the year includes a faculty-student picnic; projects by the elementary, secondary, recreation, health, and dance vice-presidents; and service projects with muscular dystrophy. Other events were the Master Cult Day, honoring P.E. and Health majors; spring banquet; covered dish suppers; luncheons for faculty and students; state and national conventions; and two yearly publications of Major Matters.

Percy H. Warren Honor Society is an association of seniors selected for distinguished ability and achievement in scholarship, leadership, and service to the college and community. Members are qualified as student academic advisors. Percy Warren supported the Visiting Scholars Program, Career Day, swine flu innoculations, and the Harrisonburg Salvation Army.
Phi Beta Lambda is the National coeducational organization for students interested in business. One of the major objectives of Phi Beta Lambda is to develop self-confidence and strong, aggressive leadership so that these future businessmen and businesswomen may participate more effectively in the business and community life of which they are soon to be an integral part.
The Men's professional music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, encourages and promotes the highest standards of creativity, performance, education and research in music in all their fraternity members. These goals are combined with their wish to develop the most true fraternal spirit among the members and to instill in all people an awareness of music's important role in the enrichment of the human spirit. This year, Phi Mu Alpha sponsored many concerts and helped with many of the different ensembles that existed both on and off campus. The members worked together to develop the musical ability of each and every member.
Phi Chi Theta is a national professional fraternity for the promotion of women in the fields of business and economics. The Delta Sigma Chapter of Madison College, was chartered in March of 1976. It is the first chapter in the state of Virginia. The projects Phi Chi Theta engages in include having speakers and movies dealing with women in business, taking trips to establishments to watch the business processes in use, and doing service projects. The fraternity also engages in social functions which include informal groups and a formal winter banquet and dance.

Phi Omicron Tau is an honorary home economics sorority which encourages interest in Home Economics and promotes a closer relationship between the Home Economics department and the club. The major project for this year was working with centers for the aged.

Sigma Alpha Eta is a speech and hearing service society made up of students majoring in speech pathology, audiology, or education of the hearing impaired. It performed such services and activities as speech and hearing screening of freshmen majoring in education, sponsoring wheelchair races to raise money for COHOPE, and promoting May as Better Hearing Month. They also had guest speakers from related professions and fields, and sponsored a sign language Song Fest in December.

Lisa O'Reilly, Tricia Brogan, Robin Conner, Marlee Ort, Christine Mey, Carol McIndoe, Karen Ross, Jackie LaFever, Nancy Lengyel, Patrice Bowles, Cathy Ramer, Brenda Martin, Pres.; Martha Smalling, Vice-Pres.; Charles Runyan, Faculty Advisor; Debbie Chisholm, Treas.; Michelle Cadman, Hist.; Mary Farrell, Margaret Keck, Jan Carter, Kathy Loudennilk, Cindy Lawhorn, Andy Brumnett, David Miller, Pan Pereira, Susie Graham, Melanie Hill, Kyler Bass.
The Rugby-Football Team started as an interest group by a few players from Langley High School in January of 1975. The group consists of frustrated football players whose main objective is to have fun through physical exertion. The club is open to any interested men who can maintain an academic average of 0.0 or above. The Madison club has played teams from the University of North Carolina, the University of Virginia, and the Virginia Military Institute. The Team has a fall and spring season. There are three parts to rugby: the rugby songs, the game itself, and the party afterwards.

The honor society consisting of all those individuals able to maintain at least a 3.25 overall G.P.A., Sigma Phi Lambda's members are of all different majors. Their aim is to bring together people from all different majors and share by exchanging ideas. Speakers, mainly from the faculty, are chosen to address the group about a subject in their own field. Among this year's speakers were Dr. Roberts of the Geology department and Dr. Christianson from the Home Economics department. Each year a scholarship is given to the sophomore with the highest grade point average. And, as no club is complete without its own personal social activities, Sigma Phi Lambda had several dances and small parties.
The international music fraternity for women, Sigma Alpha Iota, is an international fraternity for women dedicated to the advancement and support of high ideals and standards in music. Among the projects for this year were fund raising for UNICEF, support of a music scholarship to Bernard Sumner Music Camp, a Bridal Fashion Show and Musicale, support for the endowment fund for Pan's Cottage (a "Hideaway" for composers and artists to work), and a benefit concert to support the Wolf Trap Farm Park for the Performing Arts. The community service projects was weekly entertainment for the residents of Camelot Home.

The society was organized to provide opportunities for intellectual discussion and social interaction among the majors and minors in the Philosophy and Religion department. Voting membership is restricted to those majoring or minoring in the department, while non-voting honorary membership is extended to anyone. The society sponsored guest lecturers on a number of topics.
The Student Education Association is the student counterpart of the Virginia Education Association and the National Education Association. Students receive the same benefits of the two professional organizations previously mentioned. The SEA strives to give students a pre-professional look into the parent organizations, also striving to help achieve a degree of quality education. The local organization holds meeting that inform and complement the educational curriculum of the college, allow for interaction of education majors in all fields, not to mention the interaction between local communities. The organization engages in community services which aid the college student in training to be a future teacher. This includes tutoring, helping faculty, and creating junk shops. They are involved in the political arena through supporting a local, state, or national candidate for election who favor positive education reform movements. The members have an opportunity to run for offices on the regional and state level, then further on to national offices. The members of the local organization attend leader meets, conventions, and play an important part in the role of education. The organization gives students an insight into other areas of the career of teaching besides the view of the classroom. SEA is a preparatory step in entering the field of education and the career of teaching in the public arena. Many of the members are not pictured, but the organization is fairly large and is guided under the advise of Dr. Lawrence Roller (Secondary Education) and officers: Gloria Sims, President; Kathy Newhouse, Vice-President; Meg Slattery, Secretary; and Kim Spalding, Treasurer.
Stratford Players, the oldest student-run organization on Madison College campus, is dedicated to providing opportunities for experience in the theatre and to provide excellence in the Dramatic Arts through theatrical productions. Stratford Players in conjunction with the Communication Arts Department form Madison College Theatre which this year presented: The Importance of Being Earnest, Woyzeck, Cinderella, A Delicate Balance, and Twelfth Night on the Mainstage; and Endgame, And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little, Menaechmi, and Happy Birthday, Wanda Jane in the Experimental Theatre.
Bill Molyneux came to Madison College Theatre by way of the Broadway stage, network television, and the motion picture industry. Bearing the title of “guest scene designer,” Molyneux came to MCT to work side by side with theatre students on the season’s first production: The Importance of Being Earnest. Throughout a two week construction period, aspiring scenic artists were treated to many professional insights from a man who has served as art director and scenic designer for the N.B.C. Opera Series, Your Hit Parade, and the Heritage Theatre at the University of Virginia.

The Importance Of Being Earnest

This famous turn-of-the-century farce represents a pinnacle of Victorian comedy because it mocks so outrageously the very society that spawned it. The cast brought Wilde’s hilarious epigrams and double-dealing characters to life within a set designed by guest artist Bill Molyneux.
Woyzek

CAST:
Woyzeck — Richard Travis
Marie — Stephanie Harper
Captain — John Wells
Doctor — Phoe Named Suttson
Drum Major — Curtis Hansen
Andres — Warner T. Crocker, Jr.
— Steve Shively
Director — Allen W. Lyndrup

Georg Buchner’s “Woyzeck,” written two months before his death in 1837, was left unfinished. The manuscript contained inducations for twenty-seven scenes, but no order was noted and each scene seems to stand apart, a unit by itself. Madison College Theatre attempted to deal with the story of Woyzeck rather than Buchner’s script since only third hand translations of his works and ideas are available. The actors and director, Allen Lyndrup, took freedom with the scenes to make them fit their concept of the story. Buchner suggested songs in many scenes; they took his fragments of lyrics, extended them, and set them to music. Through discussion, improvisation, and acting exercises the cast derived a unique production for themselves and their audiences.

Cinderella

Using a combination of people, puppets, song, and dance, the classic fairy tale was presented in a sparkling new version full of farcical twists.

CAST:

Their biggest responsibility is Homecoming; the theme, the parade, the Ms. Madison contest, the halftime show, dorm displays, and all the advertising behind it. Everything, but the scheduling of the concert, is handled by the Student Alumni Association. And when it is all over, they are still not done because during the rest of the year the SAA gives daily tours of the campus to perspective students, arranges senior seminars, compiles a Senior information booklet, and assists the Placement Office in running Career Day. As a service organization dedicated to assistance of the student body, projects are developed continuously around this ideal.
As stated by President Michael Anestos, the keynote of this year's Student Government Association was "to rock the boat within the system." Learning from our militant predecessors of the early seventies that all out radicalism is not worthwhile, yet fully realizing the student government is too often just a rubber stamp for the administration, the S.G.A. seized its power actively to renovate the current system of student services rather than overthrow it. The S.G.A. conducted its business under the creed of providing for the students what they deserve for their money, as a corporation provides for its stockholders. One project championed this year was a course by course evaluation published for student use. Some mistakes were made, but a strong and public advocate tradition was born, and it is the hope of this year's Student Government Association that this tradition will continue in years to come.
The Judicial Life Style Board consists of eight students, one representative from each life style option and the Student Judicial Coordinator. The purpose of the Life Style Board is to act as the original hearing body for cases in which a student is charged with violation of a college or residence hall policy classified as "minor" under the college Judicial procedures.
Inter-hall council is a standing committee of the SGA and is composed of each individual hall council president. The primary goal of the IHC is to focus attention on more specific matters relating to residence halls and life on campus. Within that capacity, it has the power to individually sponsor fund-raising drives, social events, student activities, etc., along with the prerogative to introduce resolutions before Senate.

Organized to advocate student rights, their main duties include advising students on judicial violations concerning the Honor Council and, if necessary, defending students at hearings. The Student Advocate Corps consists mainly of pre-law majors, but is open to all campus students. The organization wishes to inform students that they do exist for their use and are willing to help.
The Wesley Foundation is the campus ministry of the United Methodist Church. Its Student Center is located at 690 South Mason Street and is open from 9:00 a.m. — 11:00 p.m. daily. The Foundation provides fellowship groups and a base for personal Christian ministry. This year's activities included co-sponsorship of the "Lamb" concert, retreats, after-game coffeehouses, Bible studies, prayer groups, Advent Celebration, Covenant Players, folk group, social concerns activities, recreation activities such as square-dances, Dust and Ashes Concert.

The Bluestone staff would like to express their deep appreciation to all its patrons for their contributions and for making the 1977 Bluestone a success.
It's been a strange year... maybe some of you are saying to yourself that it's a strange book, but we like it. It took a lot of hard work, lots of tears, screaming fits and a lot of support. When it's all over and I have time to sit back and relax — I think it wasn't so bad, I actually think I've lost my mind in the process. There are certain people who helped make this book a success and helped me get through the year with half my wits. Teresa and Maureen were of greatest help and have great patience. Anne listened to a lot of gripes — thank you all so much. Mr. Logan, you relieved many a desire to walk out. Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Harmon were essential to the production of the book. I would like to thank Mr. Jim Ellis, Hunter Publishing Company representative, for helping me so much and for being so patient with me. Hunter Publishing Company has been fantastic to work with, thank you for everything, especially for being so understanding. I attribute what is left of my dwindling strength to my family's support.

I hope that in two, five, or even ten years that some of you will be able to look at the 1977 Bluestone and say, "That's what I remember about Madison College. I hope you enjoy the book... Melanie Gardner, Editor.
